RUBBISH ABOUNDS IN BERLIN AS THE STREETS GO UNSWEPT

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press)—Time was when the streets of Berlin were kept spotlessly clean; that was before the war when the municipality maintained a street cleaning force of 2,400 men. Now this group of street cleaners numbers under 300, and the result is visible on all sides. Litter and rubbish abound.

During the war, when most of the able-bodied men were at the front, civic pride continued among the citizens and seeveral of the principal streets were kept clean by volunteers, many of them women. But under present circumstances, with the mark jumping about and housewives compelled to stand in line every day for hours for the mere necessities of the table, civic pride has disappeared. There have been no volunteers for street cleaning for many months, even though thousands of men loaf about Berlin.

SENT WIFE INTO STORM NOW FACES A JAIL TERM

SHERBROOKE, Jan. 9.— Mrs. Edmond Boutin, 32, wife of a farmer living five miles from the village of Scotstown, near Sherbrooke, Que., and mother of three children, is in a Sherbrooke Hospital in danger of losing both legs, and certain to lose all her toes, and her husband is held by the Provincial police on a charge of ill-treating her by forcing her to flee into the woods on New Years' Eve, and remain there, shoeless and half-clothed for hours, until both her feet were frozen.

Owen Sound Building Permits Were Larger.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 10.—The Owen Sound building permits for 1923 showed a big increase over the permits issued in 1922. The increase, however, did not indicate any general disease, as figures for 1923 include the $150,000 Technical school building. The figures were $309,640 for 1923, and $186,450 for 1922.

Council Bought Wood People Don't Want It.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 9. — Thinking there would be a fuel shortage this year, the city council of last year invested about $4,000 in wood. The warm weather and the fact that the local coal dealers have a large amount of coal, it is thought that the investment has been a poor one. Up to the present time there has been practically no sale for it and it will be put up to the 1924 council to dispose of it.

SLEEPY SICKNESS.

OLDHAM, Eng.—Oldham medical authorities are troubled about a form of sleepy sickness which has appeared in the town and which has been fatal in many cases. The medical officer says he does not know a case where permanent recovery has been made.

PRESS COMMENT ON LABOR TALK IN ALBERT HALL

Speech Might Have Been Delivered By "Any Liberal," Says Star — Old-Age Pensions.

LONDON, January 10. — "Except for a few oratorical fanciful flights towards socialistic ideals Ramsay Macdonald's speech might have been delivered by any Liberal," is the daily Star's conclusion as to how the Liberals regard the Labor leader's effort at the Albert Hall meeting on Tuesday night.

Mr. Macdonald's anounced intention to endeavor to re-establish European peace gives real fiesh and bloow to the league of nations and his determination to frustrate the machinations of the building rings and develop an ameliorate policy towards the unemployed constitute sound Liberal doctrine that should command the support of that party, according to the Mail. It is also noted that the Labor leader seems to be coming to Mr. Asquith's view concerning theer peing no necessity for another election immediately.

It was stated to-day that the Liberals would be prepared to give the Labor government a free hand "so long as their legislative efforts should be confined to practical politics," the Mail says.

The Mail, which for weeks now has consistenely devoted its main editorials to beseeching Mr. Asquith to keep the Socialists out of power, brigs up a resolution passed at a Socialist conference last year, affirming that the time had arrived when the state "should provide all persons genuinely out of work through incapacity arising out of sickness, accident, old age, blindness or failure to secure employment with an adequate income to sustain life."

This, accordiing to the Mail, would constitute pensions for all and would cost not merely millions but tens of millions or even hundreds of millions of pounds.

Ramsay Macdonald, in his speech, in referring to pensions, however simply mentioned old age pensions, and he did not elaborate his party's intentions regarding them. Whatever he might eventually do it is almost certain that his initial effort would be confined merely to the abolition of the injustices existing in connection with its old age pensions under the provisions of which aged people are docked a portion of their pensions if they earn a few shillings a week by such poor labor as needlework or chopping wood. Every member of Parliament genuinely sympathises with this aspiration.

NOTORIOUS GANG OF ROBBERS WIPED OUT

WEST PALM BEACH, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— The notorious Ashley-Mobley gang of bank robbers, which has made the Everglades its rendezvous for years, was wiped out this morning by the Palm Beach county sheriffs and posses. Deputy Sheriff Fred Baker and five members of the gang were killed.

The battle was fought near the gang's camp at Fruita in the Everglades. The fight started at 2 a.m., the officers using a machine gun.

The Story of 1923

The results achieved by The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1923 as indicated by the figures given below will be very gratifying to policyholders and others interested in the Company's progress:

Assurances in force	$42,632,377	$72,741,582	$156,230,862
Assurances Issued	8,003,210	14,680,080	28,976,156
Total Assets	9,111,395	15,448,031	28,024,643
Policy & Annuity Reserves	7,256,110	12,247,529	23,369,223
Premium & Interest Income	2,071,288	3,522,388	6,765,484
Payment to Policyholders	451,343	1,760,662	2,192,299

The millions of dollars of Reserves held by The Imperial Life are calculated on so strong a basis that interest earnings of only 3% are sufficient to maintain them. The difference between this 3% rate and the 6.14% actually earned gives an exceptionally wide margin for policyholders' profits and security.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9—The amount of milk, according to the annual report of Instructor J. A. Murray delivered to the Seymour cheese factories,14 in number, during the past year was 17,290,275 pounds. The number of pounds of cheese manufactured in the township was 1,492,179.

The milk received at the factories shipping cheese from Campbellford amounted to 23,791,461 pounds. The number of pounds of cheese produced by these factories was 2,043,226 pounds. There were 334,957 pounds of cheese shipped from Hoard's Station. The average price received for cheese was 19 cents plus on an average five cents per hundred weight of milk for whey fat.

The value of the cheese sold from the Seymour failures was 25 per cent of the assessed value of the township so that the patrons, provided they continued to do as well, would in four years be in a position to buy Seymour at the assessor's figures.

Temperance Union

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union had its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hall, Ranney street south. The president Mrs. Ballantyne was in chair. Mrs. R. Moore had charges of the Devotional part. Literature for Traveller's Aid work has been received and will be distributed among the young people's societies of the different churches. The W.C.T.U. are sorry they will lose their president in March, as she with her family will move to Toronto. The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Richard Weston's, Rear street, on the second Tuesday in February. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Hall served the ladies refreshments and a vote of thanks was tendered her. The meeting closed by all repeating the Mizpah benediction.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Mission Circle of the Baptist Church was held at Mrs. R. Westons on Tueday night. The following officer were elected: President, Mrs. H. Shore; vice-president, Mrs. R. Weston; Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Hall; Treasurer Mrs. David Mason. Mission Band Superintendent, Mrs. (Rev.) Bennett. They planned to study for this year, the new study book "The Enterprise."

A short program was then given, Miss Helen Dunn gave a reading and Verna Shore a vocal solo.

Rebekah Lodge

On Thursday night the Rebekah Lodge Loch Lomand, No. 248 will meet in their rooms, and will install the new officers. Mrs. Johnston, District Deputy and others of Trenton will be present.

Young People Meet

The meeting of the young people's society of th Methodist Church was held on Monday night. Mr. T. Craighead, president took charge of the whole meeting as the first vice was absent. A good program was given, after the opening and business Miss Myrtle Ford gave a reading Miss Helen Thomas a piano solo, Mr H. Boyd a reading and Mr. S. J. Abernethy then gave a short address.

Married—On December 29th, 1923, at the Methodist Parsonage, by Rev. W. Elliott, Walter E. Scott, teller accountant of the Union Bank, to Jean C. Kenyon, niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bateson, Albert Street.

Miss Hattie Redden, Queen Street, received word from Trenton that her brother, Harry, who had just gone there last Friday, was hurt. As he was getting into a rig, the horse started up quickly, turning the sleigh over and throwing him under, bruising his hip badly. His nose was also cut and had to have several stitches. Mr. Redden had secured a position in Trenton, and he and his wife had just moved there.

Mission Circle.

The Mission Circle of the Methodist Church met on Tuesday at the home of Miss Reddon, for the January meeting. President Miss S. Keir was in the chair. After the regular business, the following programme was given:

Devotional leaflet on Hosea, 14th chapter (which was thre Scripture lesson given by Miss Burleigh), read by Mrs. Searl Chessell.

Solo—Mrs. Turner.

Reading—"My best gift which is Martha," by Miss Verna Sanders.

The next meeting, which will be a tea, to be at the home of the treasurer, Miss G. Plumpton, on the first Tuesday night in February.

The regular January meeting of the St. Andrew's W. M. S. was held in the Sunday School-room on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. R. Bell, presided. After the regular business, the annual report of the secretary, Mrs. F. B. Nelson, was received. The treasurer, Mrs. D. Douglas, reported the total amount raised for the year to be four hundred and thirty-one dollars. Of this, three hundred and thirty-two dollars were sent to the Presbyterial Treasurer. A letter received by Mrs. Bell from Miss Haig, a missionary in Taikoku, North Formosa, was read to the Auxiliary, telling of the women's work there. This letter was written specially for the W.M.S. in the Presbyterian Church in Campbellford.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia). 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

DYSPEPSIA WAS SO BAD

Could Hardly Eat Anything

Mrs. C. Stone, Nanticoke, Ont., writes:—"Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia, and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicine, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better. I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone troubled as I was."

Expecting Defeat

The fact that Premier Baldwin has not taken the trouble to replace those of his ministers who were unseated at the general elections seems fairly good evidence that the premier expects to be defeated at an early date. He has been awaiting the return of Lord Derby from Paris to call a cabinet council and draft the royal speech, and it is expected that the council will be held to-day.

This council will examine the report made by Lord Miner's committee, which was appointed to advise the government on the tariff question just before the elections, and the cabinet will then decide whether the Conservative Party shall or shall not drop its advocacy of protection as the only remedy for unemployment. This decision will govern the tenor of the King's speech.

Seventeen members of the House of Commons who suffered imprisonment for political or religious reasons were entertained, at a complimentary dinner at the House of Commons last night. They included some of the men and women who will undoubtedly figure in the last of Labor Government.

FREE PORT FOR CHILE.

SANTIAGO, Jan. 10.—(United Press).—Unofficial negotiations are now going on between Portugal and Chile by which Chile would be granted a free port in the Atlantic to use as a distributing centre for nitrates. In return Chile would be asked to admit Portuguese wines and preserved foods free. According to the plan under consideration, Portugal would grant to Chile the right to use a port in Madeira, the Cape Verde Islands, or some other similarly located possession of Portugal.

Miss Allen's TESTED RECIPES No. 64

Cornflake Puffs from Ontario

2 tablespoonfuls melted Crisco
2 egg whites
½ cupful cocoanut or chopped nuts
1 cupful granulated sugar
½ teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful vanilla
4 cupfuls cornflakes

Beat egg whites stiff and dry, add the sugar, salt and vanilla; then cocoanut or chopped nuts and the cornflakes. Mix together thoroughly, then add the melted Crisco. Stir this in well. Take about one teaspoonful and form into clusters, lay on Criscoed baking pan about two inches apart and bake in a moderate oven about 15 to 20 minutes.

Warsaw News Budget

WARSAW, Jan. 9.—Miss Ella M. Dewart returned to Stamford last Wednesday.

Mrs. Wm. C. Lloyd, Kathleen and Billy, returned to Warsaw Saturday evening.

Rev. Atkinson returned on Saturday evening.

Miss "Pat" Hill, Warsaw, and Miss "Billie" Boyce, Young's Point, spent the Christmas holidays visiting friends in Peterborough, Toronto and other points. They attended the Normal School reunion, and several other social functions, given in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crowe, Burleigh Falls, spent the week-end with relatives at Warsaw.

Roland McCauly and family have moved into part of Levi Payne's house. Mr. McCauly is carrying on the butcher business lately carried on by George Lonsberry.

It is expected that there will be weekly services, conducted by Rev. Cox, of Lakefield, on Sunday afternoons, in the Anglican Church. There was the regular services in the Baptist Church. Owing to the storm Sunday evening, there were very few at the union services. The union service in December came on an evening when there was a heavy rain storm.

The usual monthly missionary programme in the Methodist S. S. was postponed until next Sunday, to allow those who could to attend the union service in the Presbyterian Church.

At the close of the Methodist S. S. service the superintendent, Mr. R. Somers, gave the diploma and seals for faithful attendance at Sunday school as follows: Mrs. Wasson's class, Russel Greystock, 5th year seal; Mrs. Greystock's class, Lyall Miller, 1st year diploma; Gerald Payne, Ivan Drain, Valetta Drain, Cora Drain, each 2nd year seal; Harold Payne, 3rd year seal; Elsie Moore, Allan Moore, each 4th year seal; Jean Bowen, 5th year seal; Mr. Hawthorne's class, Mrs. Everett Moore, Hiram Anderson, each 5th year seal; Mrs. Geo. A WORD TO THE WISE

SPEECH.

(By Helen Granville Butler)

"By their speech shall ye know them," is probably one of the truest phrases that was ever written. A beautiful woman can in a moment dispel her charm if her language is not carefully chosen and in keeping with the ideals of what a lady should be.

I do not mean to advocate affectation in your speech. Nothing is worse than that, but take thought in the choice and use of your words. We live at such high speed in this country that we are prone to slight the niceties of speech and say things in the shortest possible manner.

This desire for brevity has led to the repetition of the same word in order to save the time used in looking for the right word by which to express our thoughts. Try and avoid the constant use of the same word. There is a proper word to express each idea and it is not difficult to find it if you will take a little time. Listen to a conversation and see how often the same word crops up. This is true in particular of adjectives— marvelous, adorable and terrible have been so much over-worked that they have practically no significance.

Statistics show that the vocabulary of the average person is limited to between two hunderd and fifty to three hundred words! A pitifully small number. Try to learn a new word and use it properly every day. If you use a word three times it is your own. In developing your vocabulary don't try to pick out all the longest words in the dictionary. The best language is the simplest and most direct. Over use of long words makes your conversation sound stilted and affected.

Do not try to interlard your conversation with foreign phrases. Your hearer may not understand the language, or, worse still, may speak it better than you do. In either case you will be uncomfortable and wish you had left well enough alone.

Slang is a bad time-saving habit that does much to destroy the vocabulary of the user, and sounds out of place coming from a lady. Of course, slang gives a certain color to speech but constant use makes the person seem ignorant and uncultivated. Try dropping a penny in the bank every time you catch yourself using a slang phrase and you will be horrified, I am sure.

Besides the choice of words, be careful about their pronunciation. We are apt as a race to run our words together or drop an occasional syllable. Try listening to your own conversations and take a little time in the pronunciation of your words.

Of equal importance is the tone and modulation of your voice. It is very easy to let your voice rise higher and higher, louder and louder. Yet you will be quick to remark the power and beauty of a low cultivated voice. Try to keep your voice down and if you are in a crowd and find it rising try talking under the noise. You will be pleased to see how much better you are heard, and with no strain on your vocal chords.

Don't try to cultivate a manner of speech unnatural to you. Be true to yourself but watch your words and the tone of your voice.

Will Take Off All Excess Fat

Do you know that there is a simple, harmless, effective remedy for overfatness that may be used safely and secretly by any man or woman who is losing the slimness of youth? There is; and it is none other than the tablet form of the now famous Mamola Prescription, known as the Marmola Prescription Tablets. You can well expect to reduce steadily and easily without going through long seiges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar a box or you can secure them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit Mich., on receipt of price.

LIP STICK AND ROUGE IN RUINS OF CARTHAGE

My Lady's Boudoir of 23 Centuries Ago Reveals High Stage of Civilization.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—Lipsticks and rouge as well as delicately perfumed face lotions and powders more than twenty-three centuries in age have been unearthed in the ruins of Carthage, according to Count Byron Khun De prorok, archaeologist and artist in a lecture delivered here.

The young scientist has been in charge of the excavation work at the ancient city for the last three years and is considered one of the world's foremost authorities on the subject of archaeology. He said the excavators also found thick-lens spectacles, terra-cotta pipe organ, perfume vaporizers, the tomb of Hannibal and his family, his elephant stable, the boudoir of a lady of high rank containing many cosmestics and articles of milady's toilet, considered new and modern, a temple of Tanit, of 1500 B.C., with an alter of Baalmoloch and urns filled with the ashes of children offered in sacrifice to the god and numerous pieces of pottery and glassware.

He declared that excavators will eventually find the fabulous wealth of the Gothic conquerors buried in Cathage as well as the vaults of the great library of that ancient metropolis of culture, art and learning.

Hen Hides Eggs and Hatches Early Brood.

GALT, Ont., Jan. 10.—One of the most remarkable features of this unusual winter is reported from the neighboring countryside, Martin Nichol, a farmer of the ninth concession of Beverly, being the owner of an old hen which hid away nine eggs in the cow stable, hatching out five chickens on January 2, which shatters all records for early broods. The little birds are doing well.

LINGERED FOR YEAR WITH A BROKEN BACK

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 9.—After lingering for nearly a year, helpless with a broken back, and paralyzed from the waist down Harry Flavelle died at the General and Marine Hospital yesterday at noon.

The injuries to which Mr. Flavelle succumbed were received on January 11, 1923, while he was engaged in felling trees.

PLANNING THE BOSS IS A GREAT SPORT.

The greatest international sport is the popular pastime, "panning the boss." You will find it in all occupations — trades, professions, politics, the army—wherever people of any sort of activity involving leadership and its accompanying authority.

"Panning the boss" begins with the toddling child, pouting its resentment at "Must do this!" and "Must not do that!" It continues all through life, right up to the door of the graveyard, with the old man grumbling at the passing of old-time forms of authority and their replacement by the changed boss system of the new generation.

Go where you will, you cannot escape hearing people pan their bosses. Forever there is grumbling at existing authority—on the farm, in factory, in office, in the home, all the way from the complicated organization of metroploitan life to the Eskimo mumbling about the Hudson Bay agent who buys his furs, or the tropical jungle native grumbling because he doesn't get more glass beads from his boss, the trading post buyer.

People have such an instinctive hatred of authority, it's a wonder they are able to co-operate in any form of government, even democracy. Man at heart is a philosophical anarchist, hating leaders. Occasionally men are hypnotized by a leader like Napoleon into flinging their personal freedom to the winds and rallying in emotional ecstasy to the leader. That's as rare as it's brief.

The only reason people stand for a boss at all is because they are jealous of the boss—have a secret hope that, if they support the boss system, they have a chance of becoming boss themselves. The grumbling and the panning continue, nevertheless.

Forever there is a boss. The foreman has his boss, the shop superintendent. He, in turn, answers to the general manager whose boss is the board of directors. The board has its boss, the bankers and stockholders and tax collectors. So on and on, an endless chain, always to a Higher Power.

PLEADED GUILTY

A degree of moral turpitude never equalled in the police court annals of Peterborough was uncovered this morning in a trial for incest. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton prosecuted before Magistrate O. A. Langley, and the prisoner was undefended.

The accused pleaded guilty, without excuse, and will be sentenced on Saturday.

The offences, it is alleged, took place over a number of years, the victim, who is the prisoner's daughter, being now sixteen. A child was born in Oshawa a few weeks ago.

For the offense of incest the maximuh punishment is fourteen years' imprisonment and whipping.

The Perils of Neglect

Digestive ailments are frequently neglected. People say "It's only a touch of indigestion—it will go away." What begins as simple discomfort is allowed to become a serious—chronic ailment. Never neglect the treatment of digestive derangement. To relieve disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, Beecham's Pills act promptly and usually overcome the difficulty. Take DWELLING 1,200 YEARS OLD, STILL SHELTERS TENANTS.

BINGEN-ON-THE-RHINE, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press).—The oldest dwelling in Germany, and one of the oldest in all Europe, is attracting almost as much attention just now as do the reports from Egypt of the excavations of the tomb of Tutenkhamun.

This house is located in the little hamlet of Winkel, in the valley of the Rhine, and is known to have been built more than 1,200 years ago. Archaeologists are endeavoring to secure more exact data. The first owner, so far as records show, was the Archbishop of Mainz, Rhabanus Maurus, who died in 856. The present owner, Count Martuschke Grieffenkalu, of a curious turn of mind, believes there are many secrets and possibly much gold hidden away between the walls and under the basement floors, and he has sought the aid of scientists to determine the house's age and to assist him in his search for hidden treasure.

QUAKE DISTORTED OCEAN'S FLOOR.

TOKIO, Jan. 10.— (Associated Press)—The repairing of deep sea cables, severed by the earthquake of Sept. 1, has disclosed that at one point off Oshima Island the bed of the ocean has subsided 200 feet for a distance of eight miles. To the east of Oshima the damaged cable had to be fished up from a newly created abyss more than 4,000 feet deep.

U.S. NURSES TRAIN BRAZILIANS.

TRENT RIVER NEWS

Dr. A. Michell left yesterday for Toronto.

The Ladies' Aid held a social last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Longmuir. There was a good attendance notwithstanding counter attractions. Games and music was the entertainment for the evening. A dainty lunch was served at the close.

AUSTRALIAN BAND.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Thirty bandsmen representing all states of the Commonwealth have been selected to form a brass band to play at the Empire exhibition in London. The initial cost of organizing the band will be £5,000 and afterwards the band is expected to become self-supporting.

LOSS WAS LIGHT.

CHATHAM, January 9. — Thieves during the night entered the home of Thomas Watson, 183 Thomas St., and extracted a sum of ten dollars from the pocket of a coat hung in the dining room. No articles of value were missing.

HIS PRICE TOO CHEAP.

CHATHAM, January 9. — A 12-year old boy admitted in the police court that he hired a horse and rig in Chatham and attempted to sell it in Thamesville for two dollars. He will be placed in charge of the Kent Children's Aid Society.

DIXMUDE'S LOSS ONE OF MANY AIR TRAGEDIES

Science Baffled By Mysterious Storm Forces—Fate of Numerous Aircraft Recalled — Thrilling Adventures of Others Who Narrowly Escaped.

The loss of the French airship Dixmude adds another tragedy to the conquest of the air, which has been marked by numerous instances of flying machines not returning from the unknown waste. Once at the mercy of the mysterious forces which dominate space, there is no telling what may happen to the aerial voyager. Science has been unable to provide much warning in advance of storms which pull flying machines far off their courses. Several have sailed into these lost ports of the skies, and the narrow escapes are many. These are really more thrilling than those which remain mysteries, for they permit an account of the adventures. Then, too, they convey an inkling of what must have been encountered by the ones which have been encountered by the ones which have not come back.

The Dixmude originally was the Zeppelin L-72, completed as a raider at the end of the war. She had not been turned over to the German government, however, and the Zeppelin company was planning to outfit her for a round trip flight to the United States when ordered to deliver her to France. She was the largest airship ever operated, though not intended for the extensive duration flights contemplated by the French, who were informed by the Zeppelin officials that she was of wartime construction, built to remain up only some thirty hours, fly straight over the enemy, drop her bombs and make her way back to her base. Her parallel centre sections did not give her the structural strength possessed by the streamlined hulls, the diameter of which is largest in the middle and therefore strongest.

Reported Unsafe For Long Trip

It was this element of weakness that caused the loss of the ZR-2, which broke in halves on her trial flight over Hull, England, in August, 1921, killing forty-three American and British members of her temporary crew. The first quick wrench on her rudder sprained her back, and she collapsed; this caused the explosion of the hydrogen gas with which she was inflated. The Dixmude was similar in construction, and was filled with the dangerous hydrogen. She may have collapsed like the ZR-2, or lightning may have struck her.

No one familiar with the operation of aircraft will blame her young commander. Last September Lieutenant le Grenedan made a world's record flight in her, traveling 4,500 miles in 118 hours. After that flight he reported that the Dixmude was unsafe for such strenuous tests. When ordered to take her out on her last trip, it is reported that he waived responsibility for what might befall her. Among the fifty men aboard when she left her hangar near Marseilles on Dec. 18 were several airship captains, all experts. They might have aided the commander, had there been warning of impending danger. The giant rigid was last heard from on Dec. 21, flying ninety miles south of Briskra in North Africa.

She was advised not to return to France immediately, as there was a gale blowing over the Mediterranean. The captain of an Italian ship reported on Dec. 23 that he had picked up a wireless from an airship stating that she was being driven before a violent storm. That was the last bit of authentic information, until fishermen six miles off the coast of Sicily on Dec. 27, pulled in their nets and found the body of Lieutenant de Grenedan.

Among the entries in the London-Australian flight contest four years ago were Captain Howells and Henry Fraser in their Martinsyde plane. They left Taranto, Italy, on Dec. 9, with the North African coast as their objective. Several days later Italian fishermen off St. George's Bay found a mass of wreckage, which proved to be their plane. The aviators were not found.

Two Struck by Lightning

There are two instances where American airships have been struck by lightning; one several months after the war when a blimp was struck and the crew jumped to safety with their parachutes. Last June the army TC-1 was struck over Wilbur Wright Field, at Dayton, Ohio, though the only ones hurt were two civilians who jumped out. The crew went down with their ship and escaped uninjured.

The Dixmude is not the first airship lost by the French through inadequate advance knowledge of weather conditions. In November, 1907, the Patrie, a non-rigid military blimp, with a crew of four, flew from Paris to Verdun, where she was to be stationed with the troops. There she was anchored with iron stakes, while 200 soldiers stood guard. After she was made fast a terrific gust of wind caught her, pulled out the stakes and dragged the soldiers over the ground until they were ordered to release their hold. The Patrie then drifted away, across France and the Channel, over England, Wales and Ireland, where she paused long enough to touch the ground and leave a propeller. Then she continued on to her unknown port out in the North Atlantic.

The Republique, a sister ship somewhat larger than the Patrie, in September, 1909, was ripped wide open by a broken propeller and fell 500 feet, killing her entire crew. This disaster had its parallel in the loss of the semi-rigid Roma, which the Army Air Service purchased from Italy. On Feb. 21, 1922, the Roma was destroyed with thirty-three of her crew at Langley Field, Va.

Of nearly a hundred Zeppelins operated during the war, there is no record where they were lost because of weather conditions. The L-49 was compelled to come down in France when one of her engines froze. Another Zeppelin was destroyed by a sudden storm while her commander was in a barracks sleeping. The ship was moored outside; but so strict was the discipline during the war that none of his crew dared awaken him, so no orders were given before the ship had been battered about the ground and wrecked.

There was the American Navy blimp, C-5, scheduled to attempt the transatlantic flight in 1919. After a remarkable hop from Montauk Point, Long Island, to St. John's, Newfoundland, she was moored in an open field while the crew went aboard a supply ship to rest. A ship's officer went on the C-5 as a guard. He had just made himself comfortable when he felt a gentle tug and looking out of the car saw the earth dropping away. The blimp had been caught up in a squall and was running free. The officer jumped out, his forty-foot fall causing only a broken ankle. The C-5 has not been found.

Wellman Balloon Adventure

On a foggy morning in October, 1910, Walter Wellman and his crew of five left Atlantic City bound for Europe in their motor balloon America. It was 228 feet long and 52 feet in diameter. Below the car swung a lifeboat. At the end of their drag rope was a two-ton equilibrator designed to remain trailing in the water and steady the craft. The first day out they made only eighty miles due to the bad performance of the main engine. Finally only the small auxiliary motor remained.

That night as they were making their way rather hopeless past Nantucket a dark shape seemed to rise up in front of the craft, which was floating close to the waves. Wellman barely had time enough to swing the balloon sidewise when a four-masted schooner appeared, almost upon them. They were so close they could see the startled expressions on the faces of the crew. Next they were caught in adverse winds and unsettled weather, which drove them off their course toward Bermuda. For another day and a night they kept a lookout for steamers. One morning, after seventy hours over the sea, during which they had traveled 1,000 miles, they sighted the steamer Trent. Her Captain understood their signal to stand by, and Wellman and his party took to their lifeboat, casting off from the America and rowing to the Trent. As they climbed aboard the steamer, the huge gas bag floated out of sight in the mist, a derelict of the skies.

Nearly two years later Melvin Vaniman, who had been chief engineer in the Wellman party, undertook another transocean flight in a motor balloon, the Akron, built by an enthusiast in the Ohio city. When all was ready for the venture Vaniman and his crew of four set out on a trial flight from Atlantic City. They had gone but a short distance when spectators saw the craft explode and fall into the ocean, a blazing mass from nose to tail. There was no way of fixing a cause for the explosion, for Vaniman and his companions perished.

One of the most remarkable adventures was that of Harry Hawker and Commander Grieve in their attempt to fly the Atlantic in May, 1919. They flew out of St. Johns at night after dropping their landing gear. By daylight they had made 1,200 miles, more than half-way to Ireland. Then the engine played out, and Hawker was forced to come down out of the clouds and seek a means of rescue. There ahead of them was a tramp steamer. They flew around her, discharging signal pistols, and then dropped on the waves, which were so high that they broke over the small craft repeatedly. It was nearly two hours before a boat could be launched and they were taken aboard. The steamer carried no wireless; and for days they were believed lost. A week later they were put ashore in Scotland.

Commander Tower's Feat

When the navy's transatlantic division set out on its memorable flight from Newfoundland that same month and year, the crews of the three seaplanes had planned to keep closely in touch with each other by wireless and lights. Soon after the start the lights on the NC-3, the flagship, failed to work, and the planes became separated. Commander John Towers and his four companions flew for five hours through squalls and fogs before reaching the vicinity of the Azores.

Unable to determine their exact location, they came down on the surface and found the waves twelve feet high. They broke against the hull and lashed the wings until they commenced to give way under the strain. Unable to again take off in such water, the NC-3 was kept tossing about like a piece of driftwood while her crew took turns steering. After twenty-two hours one of the wings commenced breaking up, and to balance the craft one of the men got out on the other wing. The wireless could receive but could not send, and they learned that ships were seeking them west of the Island of Flores instead of near their position to the southward.

Rescue seemed improbable and they faced the almost impossible task of bringing the damaged craft through hundreds of miles of seas which sometimes rose as high as thirty feet. They were drenched and cold. One of them was kept alive only by strychnia. Their only water was the rusty stuff drained from the radiators. Their food was a scant supply of chocolate and a few salty sandwiches. For the next twenty-five hours they continued on their course, often compelled to swing the ship around and coast backward over the high waves.

Finally, beaten by rain, sleepless, hungry and worn, they sighted the harbor of Ponta Delgada, their original objective. By coming in under their own power they performed one of the greatest feats in the annals of the navy.

During the last British attempt to fly around the world, Major Blake, the commander, was compelled by illness to abandon the trip. Captain MacMullen and Malins, his mechanician, continued on. Between Calcutta and Chittagong, India, they were forced down in the sea, their plane was broken to bits and sinking. The two men managed to grasp the pontoons, and to these they clung for more than a day and a night. A passing vessel saw them and took them aboard.

Air Adventures in America

In December, 1922, Colonel Francis C. Marshall and Lieutaennt C. L. Weber left San Diego, Cal., in an army plane bound for an Arizona post. They did not arrive. Their route was searched for months. Squadrons flew into Mexico and through Lower California, where Lieutenants Connelly and Waterhouse once had been lost for weeks. Finally the War Department abandoned the search. Six months later a cattleman exploring the highest peak in the Cuyamaca Mountains, only a few miles from San Diego, came upon the charred bodies and the remnants of their plane. They evidently had crashed in the fog and their plane had caught fire and burned before they could save themselves.

Lieutanant Alexander Pearson, flying the Mexican border several months ago, had a forced landing after he had lost his way. He came down in a canyon across the Rio Grande, and for eleven days his whereabouts was a mystery. Then he came riding into a Texas town on the back of a mule. He had floated on rafts, slept out in the open, climbed trees and forded small streams on his way back to the States. A rancher had lent him a mule.

In June, 1922, Cadet Raymond White in an army plane disappeared over the Florida everglades. For days the scouting machines tried to find trace of him and failed. White had lost his way two hours out of Okeechobee. Recent rains had obliterated the landmarks and he was compelled to fly by compass. Without warning his engine stopped and he was forced down in a wilderness of cypress and swamps. As he went into the trees they tore the wings. The nose of his plane struck a palm tree, bending it to the ground. He got out and found himself knee-deep in water, with mosquitoes swarming over his face and hands.

Smearing himself with oil and grease from the broken motor, he set out in a westerly direction, though his compass had been broken in the crash. That night as he sat under a tree he was confronted by an animal he thought was a panther. Without waiting to see he climbed the tree and clung there all night. Next day was a repetition of the previous twenty-four hours—dodging snakes and deep swamps and fighting bugs and mosquitoes. His face was swollen badly and he could barely open his eyes. After several hours he fainted from exhaustion. An Indian boy found him and helped him to a Seminole camp. The next day they passed him on to another camp, and so on until he reached the homestead of a white planter who took him out of the Everglades in a buckboard.

Drifted From New York to Canada.

In December, 1920, Lieutenants Kloor, Hinton and Farrell went up from the Naval Air Station at Rockaway, L. I., using a free balloon for a practice flight. Drifting lazily with the wind, they came over New York and started northward only a few hundred feet over Fifth Avenue. They were reported at various points north of the city, and then all trace was lost. Searching parties throughout the East and in Canada were compelled to give up hope. One day a message came out of the frozen North. The aviators had been prevented from landing by storms and darkness. They had drifted for twenty-five hours and finally when daylight came they found themselves over the trackless wilderness in Northern Ontario. Later on they sighted the trading post of Moose Factory, on James Bay. By hard work they brought their craft to earth before it was swept too far out of human reach. As it was, they struggled for days after landing before they could make their way to the settlement.

Lawrence Sperry, one of the most noted American aviators and inventors, disappeared while flying over the English Channel the other day. His plane was found intact and floating in quiet water; but the mystery of his disappearance never may be solved.

A few weeks before the outbreak of the war in 1914, Gustave Hamel, England's best-known pilot at that time, disappeared while returning from France. It was months before a trawler picked up his goggles and a bit of bicycle tire which he carried as a life preserver. That was all they ever found to prove where Hamel had gone.

A fleet of war planes disappeared in the Irish Sea shortly after the armistice. A half dozen or more planes never were reported as having reached their objectives after setting out for France during the war. Balloonists and aviators went over the enemy lines and disappeared, post-war investigations failing to find any trace of them. Since the French occupied the Ruhr, nearly a score of French planes have been brought down on German soil, giving rise to rumors that the Germans had perfected a mysterious force which pulled the planes off their course. This is scouted by Germans and French officials alike, but the pilots cannot account for the ill-luck that has caused so many forced landings in territory where once down their machines are confiscated by the German Government.

Claire Vance, an air mail pilot, was lost, a few weeks ago, after he had made a forced landing somewhere in the Sierra Nevadas. He came down in the mist of a snowstorm and for days wandered through the mountains until he happed upon a pack train which he accompanied back to civilization.

No Trace of These Ever Found.

Mansell R. James, British ace, flying from Boston to Atlantic City in May, 1919, disappeared after leaving Lee, Mass. Nothing was found of him or his machine.

Three years ago a naval balloon with a full complement of officers and men drifted out of Pensacola, Fla., and all the efforts of the Navy Department failed to divulge the secret of their disappearance.

Free balloon flights have become notoriously dangerous. During the international races in Belgium last September, of the seventeen bags entered six were destroyed by fire, lightning and accidents, and five pilots were killed. Two of them were members of the United States Army team.

The navy lost a crew in the national races starting from Indianapolis last July 4. Lieutenants L. J. Roth and T. B. Null in the navy balloon drifted northward and disappeared. Search availed nothing until July 9, when the fishing boat Onajag picked up the balloon basket in Lake Erie. Inside was Roth's body. A part of the log was found. Its final entry, dated at 5 o'clock on the morning of July 7, read: "All over."

Back in 1862 Glaisher and Coxwell went up in a free balloon from Wolverhampton, England, and narrowly escaped losing themselves nearly six miles over the Atlantic. Inside of an hour they had climbed five miles, the thermometer had dropped from moderate temperature to below zero. The balloon was covered with frost and the occupants were gasping for breath. Glaisher tried to signal to Coxwell before he lost consciousness, but Coxwell found his hands frozen and helpless. After an agonizing effort he managed to climb up and grip the valve cord between his teeth and by jerking his head several times release enough gas to permit a descent. By chance they were blown inland and to safety.

An epic of Polar exploration is the lost Andree expedition. Professor S. A. Andree, the Swedish scientist; Knut Fraenkel and Nils Strindberg set out in their especially equipped free balloon, leaving Spitzenberg on a July afternoon in 1897. They were equipped for a long voyage, had food for thirty days, a lifeboat, dog sled and other paraphernalia. A carrier pigeon released two days after the start reported all was well. That was the last ever heard of the party.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A TRIP TO TAFFY'S HOUSE

Soon the two boys were running as hard as they could go.

Jack and Jill were giving a party in the house that Jack built and all the people in Daddy Gander Land were having a fine time.

But suddenly Missez John, Jack's mother, discovered that all the refreshments were missing. Someone had run off with all the pies and cakes and ice cream. And Missez John declared that although she didn't like to say it, Taffy Welchman must be the culprit, because she had invited Taffy and for some mysterious reason Taffy said he couldn't come.

"And I'll go with you," said Nick.

"Good!" said Missez John, and soon the two boys were running as hard as they could go to Taffy's house, and rang his front-door bell.

But nobody came.

Then they knocked as loudly as they could and I'm afraid they even used their toes some. At any rate, they made a perfectly dreadful noise. And pretty soon a window went up and a head in a nightcap stuck itself out. "Wh—what do you want?" asked the person in the nightcap, yawning so he could hardly talk. "Is the town on fire or has Mother Goose come back or what?"

"We want to know where the pies and cakes and ice cream are," demanded Nick. "Somebody took them from Jack and Jill's party."

"My goodness! What are you asking me for?" exclaimed Taffy in surprise. "I don't know anything about it. But wait! I'll come down and let you in. It's certainly too bad!"

"Why didn't you come to my party?" asked Jack.

"I was too tired to go," yawned Taffy. "I was out chopping wood all day and I just didn't see how I could dance. I went to bed right after supper. I'm sure it was a nice party and I'm sorry to have missed it."

"I'm sorry, too," said Jack kindly, "and we are sorry we woke you up."

"Don't mention it," said Taffy as he closed the door after them.

So Nick and Jack went back to the party.

"Taffy was in bed and doesn't know anything about it," announced Nick.

"Then where do you s'pose those pies are!" cried Missez John. And you can't blame her, poor soul, for without anything to eat, she felt that their first party in their brand-new house was a failure.

Suddenly Nancy thought of something. "I haven't seen Jack Heart for half an hour," she exclaimed. "Maybe he knows something!"

"That's right!" exclaimed Daddy Gander. "I have an idea. I'll get my magic dust-pan and you and Nick shall ride on it with me until we find him."

TOO MANY GIRLS BAD FOR WOOER

Max Jilts Lena After Getting Money and She Has Him Flung Into Jail.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Max Chumsky, "the sleek sheik of Second avenue," made too many promises to too many black-eyed beauties on the East Side.

Max made the grievous error of mixing his promises, which is as disastrous as mixing your drinks. So say the police, who threw Max in the hoosgow yesterday.

Max, who is twenty-four, began his promising career—so far as constabulary records indicate—about a year ago. He met Lena Kessner, a dressmaker, who believed in dreams, and thought it was Lochinvar himself who came out of the subway in the person of Max.

Lena listened to Max's suave words, murmured while the pianist in the corner movie played "Hearts and Flowers." All Lena had to do to obtain happiness, and a husband, was to invest $205 in Max. With that he would establish a business, buy a home and marry Lena—so Lena says she told her.

Forgot to Return

Max got Lena's dowry in advance, and then forgot to return for the marriage ceremony, which after all was a minor detail, which slipped his mind in the rush of business affairs. But Lena had better memory. And Lena searched for Max.

Last week she found him, after a year's hunt. He was escorting another beauty down the street, whispering soft words. Lena then found a detective, who tossed Max into the jug. Charge? Grand larceny.

Grand larceny of the money, that is; Lena wanted to make it grand larceny of the heart also, but the police told her they did not deal in frivolous matters.

"A word with Lena let me speak."

Won Her Forgiveness

So pleaded Max, after getting bail. He got Lena off in a corner and buzz-buzz-buzz went his tongue, soft and honey-like. A bit of star dust came into Lena's eyes, and they departed together. When Chumsky was arraigned in Essex Market Court Lena suddenly withdrew the charge, saying:

Max said: "I knew all the time I forgot something—and it was to marry."

So they drifted out, looking for dreamland.

That was Thursday.

A newspaper published the tidings of their wedding. That paper was read by Mollie Seeta, No. 705 Sixth street, also a dressmaker, also black-eyed, and also one who had harkened to Max's promises.

Mollie told her troubles to a detective. She charged that Max got $60 from her in September and $600 in the year preceding that.

So Max faced Magistrate Sweetser again yesterday. He was voluble with explanations and protestations, but the magistrate held him in $1,000 for a hearing Thursday.

Then Lena and Mollie faced each other.

Curtain!

DRUG SMUGGLERS WERE ARRESTED IN GERMANY

HAMBURG, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press).—The chief of a band of drug smugglers and 60 of his confederates were arrested here recently and officials estimate that in the last year or so drugs, chemicals and other pharmaceutical products worth $12,900,000 have been taken out of Germany illegally.

The smugglers, posing as fishermen, had their own sail boats as well as motor launches, and plied about the coasts. Most of the drugs in this way were landed in Holland, later being "retailed," and shipped to America, England, France, or wherever the prices appeared to be the highest.

Customs officials asserted that several go-betweens who have turned state evidence claim that they were able to get 20 to 30 per cent. more for their contrabrand goods whenever representatives of American customers were in the market, whether in Antwerp, Amsterdam or Hamburg.

A CORRECT DECISION.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

GAS ON STOMACH MAY CAUSE APPENDICITIS

Constant gas causes inflammation which may involve the appendix. Simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc as mixed in Adlerika helps any case gas on the stomach in Ten minutes. Most medicine act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes all gas and poisons. Excellent for obstinate constipation and to guard against appendicitis. MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Experience shows that on readily marketable securities from 1 to 1½ per cent above the rate for pure interest may be considered a fair return for the cautious investor.

Pure interest represents the return on one's money when absolute safety and ready marketability are assured to the investor. At present it is represented by the yield on Liberty bonds, or a little over 4 per cent.

Experience shows that a fair return on high grade bonds with a ready market will net the investor from 1 to 1½ per cent higher than this. The extra yield represents the price which the investor receives for a moderate risk. At present a fair return on high grade readily marketable bonds is between 5 and 6 per cent. High grade bonds with a narrow market might yield as high as 7 per cent.

Of course a fair return will not be the same every year, because the return for pure interest varies with the fluctuations of the money market.

Remember then, if you are receiving more than 6 per cent on readily marketable securities or 7 per cent on unmarketable securities, part of that return is for risk, which the cautious investor cannot usually afford to take.

At 80 Years of Age Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath Palpitation of the Heart And Fainting Spells

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since.

I am 80 years of age and always keep them in the house, and when I feel any symptoms of my old trouble coming on all I have to do is to take a few doses. With the help of your Pills I expect to see many years yet. I always recommend them to any one who is suffering from heart trouble."

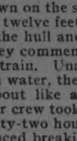
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WAS FOUND DEAD.

CHATHAM, January 9. — Harris William Moon, aged 44, was found dead at the rear of his home, 35 Willomac avenue, early this morning. It was at first thought he had fainted, but life was extinct when a physician examined him after responding to a hurried call. Heart failure was the cause of death.

ECZEMA IN RASH FOR 9 YEARS

On Scalp, Arms and Limbs. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.



"Eczema broke out in a rash on my scalp, arms and limbs. The itching and burning were terrific. My hair became lifeless and dry and fell out in handfuls. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I could not rest at night on account of the irritation.

"The trouble lasted about nine years. My mother tried many different remedies but they did no good. We began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment which completely healed me." (Signed) Miss Beatrice M. Closson, No. Sedgwick, Maine, Feb. 20, 1922.

"I can't get away for at least two months—possibly not then. Ask Judge Trent. And a honeymoon in New York would be too flat—not?"

"Better than nothing . . . however—here's an idea. I'll get to work on my play at once and maybe I can finish it before I leave. If it went over big I could stay longer. Besides, it'll be something to boil over into; I don't suppose I shall see any too much of you. What's your idea? To set all the young men off their heads and imagine you are Mary Ogden once more? It would be a triumph. I've an idea that's what you are up to."

"Certainly not," she said angrily. "How trivial you must think me. I've not the least intention of going to dancing parties. I should be bored to death. I hardly knew what young Vane was talking about today. He seems to speak a different language from the men of my time. But it is only decent that I bore myself at luncheons and dinners, for my old friends have behaved with the utmost loyalty and generosity. Jane Oglethorpe would have been quite justified in never speaking to me again, and I have violated the most sacred traditions of the others. But it has not made the least difference. Besides, I must keep them up to the mark. I have their promise to form a committee for the children of Austria."

"Well, that's that. We'll marry two months from today. I can finish my play in that time, and I won't wait a day longer."

"Very well. . . . I met Marian Lawrence the other day. I'm told you were expected to marry her at one time. She is very beautiful and has more subtlety than most American women. Why didn't you?"

"Because she wasn't you, I suppose. Did she stick a little bejeweled gold pin into you?"

"Only with her eyes. She made me feel quite the age I had left behind me in Vienna." And then she asked irresistibly, "Do you think you would have fallen in love with me, after a much longer and better opportunity to know me, if you—if we had met in Vienna before that time?"

"'Do you imagine that when we return to New York I'm going to let Society take possession of you again?'"

"No, I should not. What a question! I should have loved you in one way as I do now—with that part of me that worships you. But men are men, and never will be demi-gods."

This time she did laugh, and until tears were in her eyes. "Oh, Lee! No wonder I fell in love with you. Any other man—well, I couldn't have loved you. My soul was too old." And then her eyes widened as she stared before here. "Perhaps——"

He sprnag to his feet and pulled her up from her chair. "None of that. None of that. And now I do want to kiss you."

And as Mary Zattiany never did anything by halves she was completely happy, and completely young.

XXXVI

He left her at ten o'clock, and the next morning rose at seven and went to work at once on his play. He chose the one that had the greatest emotional possibilities, Gora Dwight had told him that he must learn to "externalize his emotions," and he felt that here was the supreme opportunity. Never would he have more turgid, pent-up, tearing emotions to get rid of than now. He wrote until one o'clock, then, after lunch and two hours on his column, went out and took a long walk; but lighter of heart than since he had met Mary Zattiany. He also reflected with no little satisfaction that when writing on the play he had barely thought of her. All the fire in him had flown to his head and transported him to another plane; he wondered if any woman, save in brief moments, could rival the ecstasy of mental creation. That rotten spot in the brain, dislocation of particles, whatever it was that enabled a few men to do what the countless millions never dreamed of attempting, or attempt only to fail, was, through its very abnormality, productive of a higher and more sustained delight, a more complete annihilation of prosaic life, than any mere function bestowed on all men alike. It might bring suffering, disappointment, mortification, even despair in its train, but the agitation of that uncharted tract in the brain compensated for any revenge that nature, through her by-product, human nature, might visit on those who departed from her beloved formulae.

Nevertheless, and before his walk was finished and he had returned home to dress for dinner with her, the play was on one plane and he on another, visioning himself alone with her in the Austrian agapemone. And its happiness and its excitements sufficed her.

Moreover, she was having one novel experience that afforded her much diversion. The newspapers were full of her. It took exactly five days after Mrs. Oglethorpe's luncheon for the story she had told there to filter down to Park Row, and although she would not consent to be interviewed, there were double-page stories in the Sunday issues, embellished with snapshots and a photograph of the Mary Ogden of the eighties; a photographer who had had the honor to "take" her was still in existence and exhumed the plates.

Wet feet – sickness
Dry feet – health

WET or damp feet are the cause of most winter ills. Frequently through wet and damp feet health is undermined and the disease is developed which will cause years of suffering.

School nurses and other health authorities say that warm, dry feet are necessary to robust health as well as comfort, and that rubbers are the best protection in snow and slush.

Active, scuffling, heedless little feet of boys and girls give rubber footwear its hardest test. All DOMINION brand rubber footwear is made with the wear quality and durability to withstand the hardest kind of wear and tear—to protect the feet and health of children and grownups.

Because of their splendid wearing quality DOMINION brand rubbers are the most economical to buy.

New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 10.—Senator Smith's election to the chairmanship of the Senate Inter-State Commerce Committee through the aid of the Lafollette insurgents and the determination of the Democrats to report out a bill sharply reducing freight rates for the benefit of the farmers, failed to check the heavy turnover in rail stocks in the earnings. Rock Island assumed the leadership of the low priced group, mounting to a new high on the current recovery at 26 3-8 on large dealings. New Haven also continued extraordinarily active around the best levels of the movement. Industrials were irregular. Postum Cereal this morning declared a $1 quarterly dividend on the common and the regular $2.00 on the preferred. Industrials continued under the depressing influence of profit taking through the first hour. Cast Iron Pipe broke practically four points to 79 1-4 and setbacks of a point and more took place in various other features of the recent advances. Rails, however, maintained a strong tone, the volume of dealings, in stocks of this class continuing extraordinarily heavy. Wabash preferred "A" sold at 39 1-8, the highest price reached since 1918. This rise reflected excellent 1923 earnings, which will be equal to at least $3 a share on the common stock, after allowing for full five per cent. on both classes of preferred, it is generally expected that directors will resume dividends on the "A" stocks some time during the current year, possibly in the first six months. An initial quarterly dividend of one per cent. was paid on the pereferred "A" on January 20, 1917 and this rate was maintained quarterly to April 30, 1918. Rock Island joined the ranks of the sudden risers, reaching 27 3-8 within one hour of the opening. Unless the December report has given indication of remarkably improved earnings, the rise can hardly be attributed to the road's performance. Eleven months' surplus was $3,504,554 against $2,389,237 in 1922, although net operating income for the same period was less. The management believes last year's surplus will about equal the 1922 surplus, showing around $1 a share on the common stock.

The United States' Steel Corporation unfilled tonnage statement, issued to-day for December showed an increase of 76,755. The unfilled tonnage December 31 was 4,445,339 against 4,368,884 on November 30, 4,072,825 October 31, 5,035,750, September 30 1923 and 6,745,703 December 31, 1922.

PREMIER KING TO HEAR FROM PETERBOROUGH

Utilities Commission and Alderman Turner Are Delegates to Discuss St. Lawrence Waterway.

UTILITIES MEETING

That the Utilities Commission, or as many members as can, and Mr. S. R. Armstrong, will go to Ottawa to-day to take part in an interview with the Prime Minister regarding the St. Lawrence Development project, was decided at a meeting yesterday evening. Robert Hicks, chairman of last year's board, and E. F. Mason were present. W. H. Braburn, M. P. P., the third member, was in Toronto.

The resolve to attend with the delegation was taken following the receipt of a letter from the Ontario Municipal Election Association, in which the secretary said he had been instructed by ex-Mayor Maguire of Toronto, to communicate with the commissions and councils of Ontario municipalities. The Prime Minister will receive the deputation at 11 o'clock on Friday.

The subject to be discussed is the St. Lawrence Power Development, and the diversion of boundary waters by the Chicago drainage canal.

"These matters are of vital importance to every municipality in Ontario," the communication says.

"On December 10 a resolution was introduced in the United States Senate providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the proposition of a nine-foot channel in the waterway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

"About the same time the newspapers reported certain public men in Quebec as being absolutely opposed to the St. Lawrence development as designed to build up Ontario at the expense of Quebec.

"Interests not in sympathy with Ontario's views are active, and your action may have a marked effect on Ontario's future supply of electric energy."

Mr. Hicks remarked the issue appeared to be of paramount importance considering the way power is being eaten up as soon as developed. Mr. Mason agreed that the question of the future is important.

Opening of Sub-Station.

The date for the opening of the new distributing station on Aylmer street could not be definitely stated, but tentative plans were discussed.

It was suggested and generally approved that the building be opened for public inspection on two or three days before the power is turned through it. After the current is switched into the pulding no visitors will be allowed inside.

Rubber matting the commission decided, on recommendation of H. O. Fiske, will be laid on the concrete floor for protection to the men while handling the highly dangerous apparatus.

Move Meter Department.

Mr. Fiske was instructed to move the meter department into the rooms in rear of 137 Simcoe street. This deparment has been housed in the cellar of the Utilities office, and has outgrown its quarters. The continuous work underground is the cause of bad health among the employees.

A matter which will probably be discussed more exhaustively at future meetings of the Utilities Commission is the trimming of trees on city streets. This was introduced yesterday by Mr. Fisk who said the Utilities Commission should not be responsible for this work, nor should it be saddled with the expense.

Comment showed that the majority of the commission and its advisors think a Parks Comittee should be formed to have sole charge of the pruning of the trees. A better appearance and more light would result from the trimming of the trees higher than is done now, beautifing the city in summer, helping the growth of the trees, and allowing the dissemination of more light.

Alderman E. Melville Turner will represent the City Council in Ottawa.

SUBMARINE SUNK IN A COLLISION

LONDON, Jan. 10.— (United Press.) —"The submarine L-24 has been sunk in a collision off Portland," a statement of the Admiralty said to-day.

"It is feared all hands have been lost."

The L-24 had a crew of approximately 38 aboard, the statement said.

The L-24 sank after a collision with the Dreadnought Resolution off Portland-bill, a rocky promontory on the Isle of Portland, extending into the English channel. It is unofficially reported that the submarine was rammed by the dreadnought.

DRUNKEN LUMBER JACK AMUCK IN NORTH BAY

NORTH BAY, January 10. — A murderous assault was made upon Constable Grassick by a drunken lumberjack on Oak Street yesterday afternoon.

When the officer attempted to arrest the man, he drew a large pocketknife and made a lunge for the policeman's neck.

However, a well-directed blow to the chin sent the man to the mat, but it required the aid of two citizens before the drink-crazed man was subdued and handcuffed.

The lumberjack, a powerful fellow, will appear in the Police Court to day.

ST. JOHN'S BOYS' CHOIR WERE TENDERED SUPPER

After the rehearsal of the Boys' Choir at St. John's Church last evening, the members were entertained at a supper provided by members of the congregation, under the direction of the Choir Refreshment Committee, of which Mrs. A. Amys is convenor. The boys were all present, with the exception of one, Keith Wightman, who was indisposed. A sumptuous repast was served, the table cheerfully decorated for the occasion, and centred with a large red cluster to which crackers were attached by means of strings, the end of each string holding a present.

Mr. Frederick G. Mann presided and addressed the boys on the meaning of loyalty and happiness. Rev. Dr. Blagrave, on behalf of the choir, presented a first and second prize to boys whose behaviour and attendance was best during the last three months. Master Fred. Ford and Master Scott Medd were the winners. It is proposed that similar prizes be given every six months to the best boys in the choir.

A supplementary choir is being arranged to accommodate a waiting list and to cultivate their voices, and otherwise prepare them for service when there is room in the choir.

Amusement was furnished by impromptu stories told by the boys. Rev. M. Kingsford was present and contributed to the entertainment.

Those serving at the supper were Mrs. A. L. Amys, Mrs. S. T. Medd, Mrs. R. C. Blagrave, Mrs. Geo. Coleman, Mrs. G. Evans and Mrs. F. G. Mann.

CANNOT TOLERATE CLASS GOVERMENT

Says British Paper of Politics in Canada--Industrialists Nervous.

LONDON, Jan. 10 — (Canadian Press).—Commenting on the state of the political parties in Canada, the Times says: "Government by farmers, as such, is no more to be tolerated than government by doctors, butchers or plumbers. One of the contributory causes to the Conservative victories in the Eastern provinces undoubtedly has been the nervousness of the great industrial centres at the prospect of a possible surrender by the Government to the somewhat importunate demands of the man from the West.

"In this putting East against West of class against class, lies a very real danger not only to Premier Mackenzie King and his Government but to Canada itself it is a danger that can be surmounted only by bridging the geographical map which divides the two communities by a living bridge of population.

Safeguard Future.

"If Premier King is successful in coming to a more definite understanding with the representatives of the very men who turned the rolling prairies into rich wheat fields and who ought to be the first to welcome new settlers, there is no reason why he should not continue in office for some time to come. If his Government directs its energies a trifle more vigorously towards the question of population it certainly will help both to strengthen its own position and to safeguard the future of the Dominion."

TOWNSHIPS OBJECT TO PART EDUCATION ACT

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—The statutory regulation which compels a township to pay for the education of children from within its borders who attend High school in another township was strongly argued against yesterday at the Parliament Buildings by the members of a deputation from the County of Brant. The attitude which the deputation members took was that the regulation worked a serious hardship in the fact that ,while a township might itself maintain a High school, it was yet forced to pay additionally for the education of such children as might prefer to attend another institution in an adjoining township. Consideration to the representations made to him was promised by Premier Ferguson.

PROVIDE WORK BUT NO DOLES

Government Offers Farm Work and Transportation to British Harvesters.

OTTAWA, January 10 (Canadian Press). — The Government is prepared to offer 160 British harvesters stranded in Toronto work on the farm, and will pay their transportation to the place of employment.

On the other hand, the Government has no intention of supporting men who will not accept work when it is offered to them.

The above is a summing up of the answer given by the Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Immigration, to Albert Chamberlain, of the British Welcome League, who conferred with Mr. Robb, the Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labour, and W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration, in regard to the stranded harvesters.

Mr. Robb made it clear that the Government had no money to spend on keeping men who were not willing to do farm work. It was proposed, however, to help men ho were willing to work, to find it.

FEW APPRENTICES BEING TAKEN ON

The monthly report of the School Attendance Officer, J. Abraham, for December, shows that there were 163 applications made for home permits and working certificates. Of these 94 were granted, viz., 11 home permits, and 83 working permits, each application being thoroughly investigated before being approved. He also reported there were no adolescents who are unemployed, and there has been very little changing employment.

"I would beg to call your attention to the small percentage who have been granted apprenticeship," says Mr. Abraham, "the total being 10, the majority of the boys passing straight from school to the lower grades of industry. A great deal we know depends upon the attitude of the boy himself. What becomes a "blind alley" to one boy is by no means a "blind alley" to the boy who takes an interest in his work and performs his duties reliably and well.

Unfortunately the nature of the work makes little demand upon the boy's intelligence, consequently the best that is in him is not brought out and used. But some of those who enter these by reason of financial conditions in their homes, and the boys are often forced to accept the immediately higher wages offered by certain occupations.

It would be a splendid idea if the different industries who require skilled artizans, would give a larger percentage of these adolescents the better chance of apprenticeship, and thus add a valuable asset to our country."

A copy of this letter, approved by the Board of Education, is being sent to each factory in the city.

Report of adolescents, etc., for the month ending December 31st, 1923:

Orders Surrender of Shares of Bank Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The Montreal City and District Savings Bank has been ordered by Mr. Justice Mercier in the Superior Court to hand over within two weeks, 143 shares of its capital stock to J. S. Ibbotson according to judgment delivered here to-day.

Ibbotson claimed possession of the stock valued at $24,310 in virtue of his wife's will which stipulated that he was to become heir to her estate.

"Greatest Medicine In the World"

So says Mr. Pearson after terrible digestive sufferings relieved by Dreco. Mr. Pearson declares he spent hundreds of dollars vainly trying to get the help two bottle of Dreco brought him.

"For over four months I haven't been able to walk down town," says Mr. William Pearson, of 65 Bethune St., Peterboro, Ont., "and it has been over two years since I did a days' work. My digestive system was a wreck.

"I would get such severe pains through my stomach and sides that I couldn't move and I also had awful bilious and vomiting spells, followed by headaches that would last for days. Every particle of food I ate disagreed with me and my entire system became run down for lack of proper nourishment.

"My kidneys were in bad shape and I would get severe pains across my back and I had to keep continually taking laxatives to move my bowels. I guess during those two years of misery I must have spent hundreds of dollars on medicines, but got no relief till I tried Dreco.

"Dreco is the great medicine in the world. I am now able to get around fine and every pain has left me. My appetite is better than for years and my food agrees with me perfectly. My bowels are regular every day and I feel like I am living in a new world. I praise Dreco wherever I go, as in my mind it is the greatest medicine that ever came to town."

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is a reliable tonic and corrective for digestive disorders made from the juices of twelve medicinal herbs, roots, bark and leaves.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you.

Dreco is also sold in other cities as follows:
Lakefield—E. M. Northey.
Campbellford—J. E. Birks.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

The service last evening was held in Trinity Church, and was well attended. The special subject for consideration and prayer was, "All the World and Its Peoples." The meeting was in charge of Rev. J. D. Richardson of St. James' Church and the address was given by Rev. Dr. Rose, of Murray Street Baptist Church. Special music was furnished by the quartette of Trinity Church.

A very earnest spirit of devotion marked the meeting, and earnest prayers were offered and a high missionary note sounded, and the whole tone of the meeting throughout in hymns, prayers and address centred about the central theme, "All the World and Its Peoples."

The meeting to-night will be held in George Street Methodist Church, and the general theme is "The Rule of Love and Justice in All Human Relationships." Five special subjects of prayer are given:

1. That Christ's love may increasingly control our social, industrial and political relations. Acts xvii., 26, 27.
2. That the members of our churches may recognize their personal responsibility for promoting social and national righteousness. Matt. v., 22-25; Lev. xix., 33-34.
3. That the makers and administrators of our laws may ever be guided by righteousness and the fear of God. 1st Tim. ii., 1.
4. That at this critical time in world affairs the nations and their rulers may be so guided by God that the day may be hastened when there shall be peace on earth and good-will among men, and that to this end the divine blessing may rest upon the League of Nations. Isa. ix., 6, 7; Psa. xlvi., 9, 10.
5. That wisdom and direction may be granted to all boards and councils of social service. Micah vi., 8.

MAN SHOT AND KILLED A 17 YEAR OLD GIRL

ELIZABETH, N.J., January 10 (Canadian Press). — Miss Ellen Alber, aged 17, was shot three times and mortally wounded by Felix Salazar, aged 25, a Filipina, at her home here to-day.

The shooting took place about eight o'clock in the hallway of the girl's home, where Salazar awaited her. She died in the General Hospital shortly after.

SAY BULRUSHES CONTAIN SUGAR.

MUNICH, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press)—German and Austrian scientists have come forward with the statement that bulrushes, and certain other kinds of water grasses and reeds, contain sugar, and possibly in sufficient quantity for commercial use. A content in some cases as high as 25 percent is mentioned. Plans are in hand to start a factory

INSTALLATION BY TWO LOCAL LODGES

Court Stanley and Court White Lily Participate.

On Tuesday, Jan. 8th, Court Stanley, No. 7680, and Court "White Lily" Juvenile Branch, held a joint installation. A very large attendance of members of both branches was present. The installation was carried through by Bro. T. Hendry, P. D. C. R., assisted by Bro. Harry Banwell, a former C. R. of Court Stanley, now a resident of Port Arthur, who received a hearty welcome from his old friends and new. The following officers were installed for Court Stanley for 1924:

C. R.—Bro. S. Whittaker.
S.C.R.—Bro. E. Parks.
S.W.—Bro. W. Dawson.
J.W.—Bro. B. Walker.
S.B.—Bro. S. Rathwell.
J.B.—Bro. L. Moore.
Chaplain—Bro. D. Hamilton.
Treasurer—Bro. H. McWha.
Secretary—Bro. A. Day.

With the innovation of the Hospital branch of the Order, big progress is looked for. After the installation of the adult branch, Bro. T. Hendry installed the juvenile officers as follows:

C.R.—Bro. A. Bacon.
S.W.—Bro. D. Lee.
J.W.—Bro. W. Outram.
S.B.—Bro. E. Armitage.
J.B.—Jro. J. Smith.
Chaplain—Bro. C. Stevens.
Secretary—Bro. Godfrey Matthews
Treasurer—Bro. H. McWha.
Pianist—Bro. H. McFarlane.

After the installation ceremony Bro. Hendry gave a talk to the newly elected officers, on their duties and obligations. Refreshments were served, after which the juvenile members gave a short programme. Bro. McFarlane, who gave a piano solo, was heartily applauded. Recitations by Bros. J. Smith and C. Barton and a boy's chorus were greatly enjoyed by all. The evening closed by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King." This juvenile branch is making rapid strides, any boy from five years to 14 years of age being eligible to membership.

ALL SAINTS 'BRANCH HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Retiring President Eulogized—The New Officers Installed.

The 31st annual meeting of All Saints' branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held in the church parlors on Tuesday evening, with a large attendance. The Evening Branch organization joined in the meeting. Election of officers took place and reports were given by various officers of the year's work, showing the society to be in a prosperous condition, both from a financial and membership total standpoint.

Regret was expressed by the president at the impending departure of the rector, Rev .R. B. Grobb. The retiring president, Mrs. S. Harris, thanked the officers and members for their hearty support to her work and asked for the same encouraging support of the efforts of the new president, Mrs. E. Tucker. The retiring president, Mrs. S. Harris, has been a member of the W.A. for thirty years, was secretary for seven years and president for the last six years .Her earnest and enthusiastic work was eulogized by the members, as was that of another faithful worker, the retiring secretary, Mrs. E. Brown, who held that position during six years of her nine year membership.

The new officers being installed, the president, Mrs. E. Tucker, thanked the officers and members for electing her and asked for their co-operation in the furtherance of the interests of the W.A. The rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, was present at the meeting, and congratulated the society on the splendid results of their efforts. He spoke of Mrs. Harris' faithful work, and expressed his belief that Mrs .Tucker would make a worthy successor, as she had always been a very earnest Mission worker. He asked the organization to not become discouraged by a small membership, and to proceed with its faithful and energetic work.

After the business session, a social hour was enjoyed, when refreshments were served. The officers for 1924 are as follows: President, Mrs. E. Tucker; Vice-President, Mrs. S. Harris; Secretary, Mrs. Wm. McWilliams; Treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Beatty; Dorcas Secretary, Mrs. M. Latimer; Literature Secretary, Mrs. H. F. Connolly; Living Messenger Secretary, Mrs. J. Runnett; Prayer Partner, Mrs. H. Fuller; Superintendent of Juniors, Mrs. H. E. Connolly; Organist, Mrs. J. Scott; Extra Cent a Day Secretary, Mrs. M. Latimer; Little Helpers' Secretary, Mrs. J. Lundy; Visiting Committee, Mrs. E. Brown, Mrs. Wm. Thorne, Mrs. Thos. Hooper and Mrs. E. A. Beatty.

PYRAMID OF KEUFU WEIGHS ABOUT SIX MILLION TONS

NEW YORK, January 10.—Originally the great pyramid of Keufu near Cairo was smooth faced. The exterior casing of smooth limestone was removed long ago and used in building streets and mosques in Cairo.

It is estimated that this pyramid contains 2,300,000 blocks. The average weight of these blocks is two and a half tons. This would make the weight of the pyramid 5,750,000 tons or 11,500,000,000 pounds, says Dwight L. Elmendorf in The Mentor for January.

WORLD'S SULPHUR SUPPLY COMES FROM SICILY

NEW YORK, January 10.—Sicily is the chief source of the world's sulphur supply. Over three million tons were mined in last year says a writer in The Mentor for January.

THE J. M. GREENE MUSIC CO. Ltd.

ANNOUNCE THEIR

JANUARY PIANO CLUB

Limited to 20 Members. Every Member Receives Special Club Prices, Terms and Privileges. Club Opens Friday, January 11th, at 8.00 a.m. Closes Positively with 20 Members.

It is fitting in a community like Peterborough to have such an extraordinary piano selling event as the Greene Piano Club. It enables parents to give the children whose birthright it is to know and enjoy the inexhaustible beauties and delights of music, the opportunity to purchase a piano—so conveniently now—when the child should be taking lessons, and not have to miss the golden age period through waiting for a more convenient time.

The Greene Piano Club gives every parent the opportunity to have the music study begin now. The earlier the better, but, start right, with a good piano, having a good action and good tone, the proper foundation for the child's musical ear and an instrument that all in all, it will be a pleasure to own.

THE CLUB PIANO

On Friday, January 11th, we will inaugurate our sixth club, one of the biggest events that have ever taken place in the piano trade. Incidentally, we will have reached our Nineteenth Anniversary in the music business in this city, the business having been established in 1905. In other words, the big Greene Piano Club—with its 20 members participating in the big purchase—is intended to really celebrate our Nineteenth Anniversary in a business way; to impress the importance and significance of 19 years of continuous business upon the public mind, and, most important, to make if possible for 20 families who really need pianos to secure them under ideal conditions.

The Greatest Piano Offer in Canada

We have conducted this tremendous Piano event on five occasions. It has grown in volume and popularity because it is undoubtedly the most attractive Piano offer made in Canada. A great many families are owners of instruments secured through this Club. And they are pleased. Its low price offer, easy terms, no interest and special privileges are the magnet that draws them. You cannot equal elsewhere the value offered here.

An evidence of the public confidence in the old established firm of Greene Music Co. and their Piano Club is the fact that many people telephone or write in, to join, without ever seeing the Piano.

The Value of Each of These Pianos is $450

The Club Price is

$337.00

NO INTEREST

$6.00 Cash $2.00 Weekly

ARE THE CLUB TERMS—NO INTEREST

Many of These Same Instruments

have been sold right here in Peterborough at $450.00. Hundreds more are being sold every month all over the Dominion of Canada at $450.00. They are worth $450.00. They are worth it on our floors or on the floors of any reputable dealer in the country. The Greene Club price is $337.00. The price includes everything. There are no extras of any kind. No interest to be added. Nothing to be added for cartage, freight or stool—absolutely no extras. Three hundred and thirty-seven dollars is the price and the price includes everything.

The saving to each Club member is $113.00—will pay for the musical education for one child for more than three years at 75c a lesson per week.

The Deal and the Instrument

The deal is a straight-out offer of 20 Pianos. The instruments are of a most reliable, trustworthy character—The Ennis (Colonial Style), in which the real value is put on the inside rather than in fancy cases, although the cases are of genuine walnut or mahogany. We have known the instruments for years. We know them to be as reliable a Piano as was ever put in a home. They are made by good Canadian workmen, in one of the best factories in the world.

Exclusive Club Advantages of the Greene Piano Club

CASH SAVING—Every member selecting a Piano saves $113.00 cash and pays no interest.

CLUB PAYMENTS—The special Club Price is payable in reduced weekly terms of $2.00.

NO INTEREST—Club members pay no interest on Club plans. The Club price includes everything. There are no extras of any kind. This is a great saving also.

PROTECTIVE INSURANCE—If a Club member dies with all payments made as due, the heirs receive instrument without any further charge.

RELIEF INSURANCE—If a member is taken sick, or becomes unemployed, the privilege of making half-payments is granted for as long a period as he has previously paid in full.

REBATE FEATURE—A Club member can lessen the special Club price still more by paying faster than the Club terms call for.

EXCHANGE PRIVILEGE—Club members have the privilege of exchanging their Piano anytime within one year, without loss, for any other new Piano or Player-Piano of equal or greater value.

GUARANTEED—Every Club Piano is guaranteed for five years in writing.

20 Ennis Pianos

These 20 Pianos will be sold $6.00 cash, then $2.00 a week. The $6.00 just about covers the cartage and delivering—yet the $6.00 payment made when you join the Club is credited to your account. The instrument is delivered immediately. You do not have to wait until the Club is filled. You get your Piano when you join. The remainder is payable every week. Club members do not have to pay more than the regular terms unless they wish. This gives them 165 weeks in which to pay, and still get the Club price.

Club Books Open on Friday

The Club books open at 8.00 a.m. Friday. In other words, Friday will be the first day you can join the Club. The Pianos, however, are now on display in our warerooms, where you can see and hear them. You are cordially invited. The Piano will be delivered immediately upon your becoming a member and making the initial payment of $6.00. During the first few days of the Club's life we hope to give everyone their choice of two woods—mahogany and walnut.

The Club Price Can Be Lessened

The Club members' agreement includes 165 payments, each payment represents one week. One hundred and sixty-five payments represents 165 weeks, or the life of the agreement. Every time a payment is made you are credited with that payment in your Club Book. For payments made in excess—that is, in addition to the regular payments—a rebate of 20 cents is handed over to the Club member in cash. You can, therefore, see that the price can be reduced just as many times twenty cents as you make weekly payments in excess of the regular payment.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Science Now Says That Laziness Is a Disease

WHEN any one eats well and sleeps well and still is not only not interested in work, but may actually shun it, or have a fear of it, there is something radically wrong with him. According to the latest diagnosis of medical science, he is a victim of "ergophobia," the lazy man's disease, which makes him an "ergophobiac."

In a recent number of the New York Medical Times, Dr. I. L. Nascher, the well-known specialist on old age, who has also had wide experience in studying human derelicts as they pass before his professional eye in the New York Municipal Lodging House, which is the largest refuge for the homeless in the world, sets forth the results of the 100,000 examinations he made.

"There is such a thing, a morbid fear of work, which is technically called ergophobia, or ergasiophobia," says Dr. Nascher. "The latter term is applied more specifically to a morbid fear of operating surgically, while ergophobia deals with the fear of work generally. While the fear of work is quite common among the class called derelicts, it is generally looked upon as a vice, rarely ever as a disease.

"As physician of the New York Municipal Lodging House, the largest refuge for the homeless in the world, I made nearly 100,000 examinations of about 22,000 individuals in the year 1922.

"The ergophobiac has no apparent or discoverable cause for the dread of work and his reluctance to make any physical exertion except what is required for self-preservation. Even such exertion is performed only under the stimulus of the greater fear of death. One of these individuals, when asked if he had no ambition, no aim in life, said: 'Yes, to keep alive with the least effort.'

"Those who study the non-criminal derelicts and social outcasts divide them into three classes: hobo or tramp, bum or drunkard, and panhandler or beggar. From a scientific standpoint the tramp is a person suffering from a morbid impulse to get away from the place in which he happens to be. This impulse comes on suddenly and at regular intervals, and the tramp starts off without any selected route or destination. He is not afraid of work, but he does not remain long enough in any one place to learn a remunerative vocation, and for the same reason he does not save enough to keep him in food and clothing when on the road. The drunkard is suffering from dipsomania, as real a disease condition as is drug addiction. The beggar is not the victim of a disease but of a vice akin to gambling and speculating, appealing to the sympathy instead of the cupidity of the public for funds. All three classes are economic burdens, the value of their production being less than the value of their consumption.

"There is, however, another type of derelict and economic burden which has never been separated and classified, namely, the ergophobiac. This individual does not suffer from 'wanderlust,' may be a drinker but is not a bum, and he seldom makes street begging a regular vocation, although he is sometimes forced to beg to get a meal. He has an extreme aversion to labor and is afraid to do anything that would require muscular effort. In the eyes of the public he is lazy, shiftless, good-for-nothing. Yet that laziness is really due to an abnormal mental condition, an unnatural fear of something unknown, an undefinable anxiety and an intense aversion to physical activity. Occasionally there is a fear that has a more or less rational basis, as the fear of injury or impairment of health, of debasement, of failure or some other factor that would cause a natural fear, but in the case of the ergophobiac it is impossible to convince him that the fear is groundless. In some cases this fear comes on suddenly, in others it develops gradually, while some individuals exhibit at times extraordinary energy and at other times a determined opposition to any form of labor or an apathy from which they cannot be roused.

"There are many who will not work because they fear the result of work, a fear of physical distress or harm, the fear of failure, a fear that work will detract from their social standing in the low stratum of society in which they live. Some feel a sense of humiliation or degradation in working for another, in being a servant to a master. In these cases there is no fear of work itself, as in the second case described, or a fear of all kinds of work through fear of physical harm, as in the first case. Those who fear physical harm are afraid of certain kinds of work that might cause some particular harm or distress. Those who fear failure are almost without exception, individuals who had tried various kinds of work for which they were unfitted. Frequent failure had destroyed their ambition and they are now afraid that they will never succeed, although they are not afraid of the work itself. Those who are afraid that they will lose caste if they work and those who won't work under orders belong to the 'I Won't Work' branch of society, and are either weak-willed individuals who follow strong leaders or else persons possessing a morbid egotism which they call a spirit of independence. These are not cases of real ergophobia, although there are mental abnormalities in most cases.

"A dislike of certain kinds of work or even work generally is not an infrequent phenomenon among normal minded persons, but such persons do work because they have ambitions, have energy which must find expression, and they realize a sense of obligation to society which must be paid in work. But we find many persons among the lodgers of the Municipal Lodging House who have no ambition, lack energy, do not recognize a sense of obligation to society, and have become apathetic so that they will not exert themselves further than to do those things necessary to keep themselves alive.

"I have endeavored to bring out only one, perhaps the least frequent, of many defects which underlie the apparent laziness of the social outcasts who come to the Municipal Lodging House. Incidentally I have mentioned a few of the defects, unrecognized or unappreciated by this class and apparently not known to those who seek the cause and try to find a remedy for this form of social evil and economic burden, the derelict. There are many other defects and diseases, such as pyorrhoea, with the constant absorption of pus and the mental and physical depression that pus intoxication causes; chronic constipation due to inactivity and improper food; apathy due to several causes, among which may be mentioned mental retardation owing to the early age at which many of these individuals were obliged to leave school, loss of moral tone and indifference following years of taunts and contempt, lack of opportunity and stimulus to improve the mind, and the forced association with similarly situated unfortunates."

Victims of "Ergophobia," the Lazy Man's Malady, Which Is Said to Produce a Real Fear of Work.

Why Clocks Run Faster at Night

CLOCKS run faster at night than in the daytime, according to a report of Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory of the University of California.

"At the time of preparing last year's report," says Dr. Campbell, "Dr. R. H. Tucker, astronomer in the Lick Observatory, had shown that meridian transit observations of stars made at and near sunrise and similar observations made at and near sunset led to values of the clock correction that were inconsistent with the well determined average daily rate of the clock. Meridian transits were recorded 0.06 second of time too early in the sunset period as compared with the transits in the sunrise period. Further extensive study of the subject has led Dr. Tucker to conclude that the explanation lies in the interesting and unexpected fact that the clocks run more slowly in the daytime than at night.

"To test this important hypothesis an extensive observing programme was entered upon. It embraces a large list of stars whose positions are already known with high precision. Each night's observations extend from about 9 p. m. to 3 a. m., in order to determine as well as possible the hourly clock rates during the night. The observing programme is not yet complete, but the results thus far reached confirm the earlier hypothetical conclusion that the clocks run faster at night than the twenty-four-hour rates observed here from the year 1905 up to the present time would lead one to conclude. This means, concurrently, that the clocks run more slowly in the daytime.

"The ultimate cause of the phenomenon is obscure. The clocks are apparently not subject to a diurnal range of temperature large enough to account for more than 5 per cent of the observed anomalies. The very extensive meridian observations made here in the past twenty-eight years, on the differential system, are essentially free from deleterious effects from this unforeseen source, as they depend upon clock corrections obtained at or near the mid-period of each night's program. The maximum error introduced in the observed right ascensions of the stars on this account would never exceed 0.01 second."

How TREES Make SOIL FERTILE

IT is one of the unfortunate results of civilization that while it enables men to live in much larger numbers on the ground, they can only do so by annihilating other forms of life. In this way, man has ruthlessly destroyed trees to make his house and to make way for his flocks, without considering what effect their destruction may have on the climate and resources of the region he lives in. This point never was considered until the increasing ill-effects forced themselves on man's notice by curtailing his means of livelihood. Why the denuding of mountains and uplands of the forests which naturally clothed them has resulted in destructive floods in the rainy season and shrivelled-up rivers in the dry, is explained by a contributor to Discovery.

Most people have noticed that on the hottest day a growing leaf is always cold, the reason being that the plant has discovered exactly what amount of moisture it is necessary to evaporate from its pores to keep its temperature down. Humanity does exactly the same thing when it is properly acclimatized. In the hottest climates, the natives' skin are normally as cold as a snake's while the visitor is streaming with useless perspiration, too profuse to evaporate. The plant has to absorb water through its roots from the ground, so that if it cannot penetrate deep enough to get sufficient moisture, it dies. The leaves of a tree are always cool and evaporating moisture, and it follows that every breeze that blows over them is cooled and moistened, which means that the dew-point has been lowered. If the wind now encounters a hill-slope, on blowing up it, the dew-point is still further lowered by the chill caused, and rain is all the more likely to result. The ground also under the tree is shaded from the sun, and is therefore cooler and more moist than if it were exposed. In addition, when rain falls, it is easily conducted down the holes made by the roots into the soil, and there is not so much left on the surface to run off or be lost in evaporation.

In the other case, when there are no trees, the soil gets very hot and dry, and the herbage, having roots that do not penetrate so deeply, gets parched. Since the ground surface is caked, any rain runs off freely, and as the earth has been baked hot by the sun, there is much loss in evaporation. More than this, since the quantity of water running off is so much larger, its scoring and carrying powers are much greater. The result is that a great quantity of stones, earth, humus and detritus is always swept off slopes that have been deforested, filling up and choking the river-beds, wherever the slopes are too flat to enable the current to carry it farther.

Just Why High Foreheads Do Not Always Indicate Great Brain Power

HIGH foreheads do not always mean large brains. The man with the dome-shaped head may after all be merely an ordinary individual of no particular intelligence. Dr. Bernard Hollander, the famous medical psychologist, disclosed some of the secrets of brain-power in his presidential address to the London Ethnological Society.

"The frontal lobes—that part of the brain behind the forehead—are the chief centre of intelligence and capacity, and they are of greater complexity and of finer architecture than any other part of the brain," he says.

"Large frontal lobes, however, do not necessarily signify superior intelligence, for there are other factors which have to be taken into account. The quality of the brain structure, the state of its blood supply and nutrition, the condition of the bodily organs may all influence mental energy.

"The size of the body has also some relation to the size of the brain, though not to the extent frequently assumed, for the body varies in size and weight at different periods of life, whereas the brain undergoes no corresponding change."

The destruction of the frontal lobes in man, through accident, produces curious effects. People so injured forget all they have learned, and cannot learn anything new. Dr. Hollander cited instances of patients who, after an injury to the forehead, lost all memory of five years past, and others who, while remaining normal in other ways, forgot all the special knowledge relating to their occupation. Another characteristic of such injury is cheerfulness and undue hilarity.

Cause of TICKLING and ITCHING

PROFESSOR M. v. FREY, of Wurzburg, has published some new and interesting observations on the physiology of tickling and itching and the relation between the sensations of tickling and those of contact and pressure. These experiments show that the sensation of superficial tickling, that form which is discharged from the skin, is determined by the nerves of the pressure sense, while that of itching is due to the superficially placed nerves which administer to painful sensations.

An appropriate method whereby the sensation of tickling may be induced by cutaneous stimuli is to draw a pig's bristle, 5 cm. in length, along the skin of the forearm at the rate of 1 cm. per second and exercising a pressure of about half a gramme in so doing. To excite the sensation of itching press a pointed bristle on the skin and maintain the pressure on one and the same spot, using a pressure of about half a gramme.

The two sensations, explains a writer in Lancet, are quite distinct, as shown by the fact that the effective stimuli so far as they are of a mechanical nature have a different liminal intensity or threshold value. The mechanical stimulus exciting the sensation of itching cannot be diminished much under half a gramme, if it is to be effective, while sensation of tickling can be induced when the pressure is reduced even to one-twentieth of a gramme. The tickling sensation, such as is produced by the bending of a hair or deformation in the region of a pressure spot, rapidly fades or subsides, a phenomenon characteristic of the terminations of pressure nerves. To maintain the sensation of tickling, the stimulus must be carried along the skin.

For itching, however, the stimulus must be maintained at one and the same spot and the sensation once induced remains for a long time at the affected spot. Moreover, the reaction time for tickling is very constant and is about 0.15 second, while the corresponding time for itching varies with the spot stimulated and is relatively long, being seldom less than one second, and may be even seven times longer than that for tickling.

Different also are the after duration and the reflexes associated with the two sensations. The itching sensation in general outlasts the duration of the stimulus, which can hardly be said of tickling excited by weak stimuli. The reflex associated with itching is the scratch inflex, that with tickling is shuddering or even shivering, and not laughter as is so generally assumed. The correspondence between the threshold stimulus for tickling and contact, the difference in the threshold between surfaces provided with hairs or hairless parts, and the marked increase of the threshold value after removal of the hairs—the increase may be tenfold—also serve to strengthen the contrast.

In spite of the distinctive characters of the two sensations, confusion and admixture are not infrequent, and long-continued titillation may give rise to results which are very complex and may be associated with the sensation of itching. There is a close relation between the sensation of tickling and that of contact, and both are readily elicited by touching the hairs; both are very fugitive when the stimulus remains applied. Both sensations tend to extend beyond the spot stimulated, and both lead to reflex vascular effects. The physiological effects in both processes are not essentially different, and the psychological effect is chiefly dependent on the direction of the attention of the phenomena. If this is directed to the external stimulus, the sensation of contact arises, but if to the part tickled, the sensation of tickling arises.

Does This PREHISTORIC MONSTER Still SURVIVE?

ZOOLOGISTS are all agog over the recent discovery in Central Africa of a fragment of a very large claw of a gigantic chalicothere believed to be extinct. This discovery, however, leads Professor W. P. Pycraft to discuss the fascinating possibility that this mysterious monster may still lurk in the forest of Central Africa. "For some long time past," he writes in the Illustrated London News, "stories of a strange beast, a veritable bogey, have been current among the Nandi people—a beast that walks by night, seeking whom he may devour . . . having the shape of a hyena and the size of a rhinoceros. Now the Nandi are redoubtable lion-killers, and hence are no cowards. But so great is their dread of this unknown creature that they cannot be induced to enter cover which seems to them likely to harbor a 'Gereit'—a name which denotes intense savagery—for they say the beast is addicted to man-killing, sitting up on its hindquarters and seizing its victim with its forelegs."

The announcement of the finding of the remains of this prehistoric animal at Bunyoro, east of Albert Nyanza, Central Africa, was made at a recent meeting in London of the Zoological Society by Dr. C. W. Andrews, who says the remains of this bizarre creature were found by D. J. S. Wayland, director of the Geological Survey of Uganda.

As to the possibility that this African monster of mystery may to-day still be roaming through tropical jungles, Professor Pycraft says:

"Hitherto, sportsmen and naturalists alike have been inclined to regard these dread stories as due to an over-lively imagination and a love of the mythical. At the same time, so circumstantial have these accounts often been that there could be no escape from the possibility that the rumors might have some foundation. It would now seem that they rest on a very solid foundation, for the claw just found is quite certainly that of an animal believed to have become extinct tens of thousands of years ago, and answers well to the creature which has so long disturbed the peace of mind of the Nandi.

"If the creature is, as they say, nocturnal, there is nothing surprising in the fact that no clear view has yet been obtained of it. How many people, even in a densely populated country like England, have ever seen a badger at large? It is still common, even so near London as Kent and Sussex, yet how many people ever watched one at his hunting while the world sleeps? It is only the other day, so to speak, that we discovered the okapi—another African survivor from the prehistoric past."

The accompanying illustration shows what this elusive creature will probably be like when at last it is seen "in the flesh." Professor Pycraft says that it is founded on what is actually known of a most remarkable group of animals which, during successive geological periods, ranged from America to the Old World, finding congenial conditions of existence in China, India, Greece, and various parts of Europe, taking probably somewhere round about two million years to accomplish their wanderings.

"Of the habits of these grotesque animals we know nothing," Professor Pycraft goes on to say, "but in speculating on this theme one naturally strives to derive some information from the feet and their huge claws. These, during life, must have been very much larger than would appear in the skeleton, for here the horny sheaths have vanished. But the supporting bony core, it will be noticed, was deeply cleft, after the fashion seen in the similar cores of the mole, the ant-eater and the bandicoot. In all these creatures the claws in the living animal are of great size, and used for digging—sometimes for tearing down the nests of termites and ants, or for digging up roots. They may on occasion, it is worth noting, be used for defensive purposes, after the fashion of the existing American ant-bear, which can inflict terrible wounds.

"It is suggested that the Uganda 'Gereit,' when at last discovered, will be found to be a 'digger' like the ant-bear, and quite as dangerous when cornered. From the form of the teeth, which were very low-crowned, it is clear that soft vegetable substances formed the staple diet. Moropus, from its general shape, would seem to have lived by browsing upon leaves of trees and bushes. But if these deductions are correct, then the poor 'Gereit' has probably been much maligned, and it will prove, when captured, to be one of the mildest mannered beasts that ever bit a head off."

The Best Way to DARN Silk STOCKINGS

PERHAPS the reason so many women throw away silk stockings that are but slightly worn is because they think it an impossible task to mend them. How this can be done with a little care is explained by a writer in the Illustrated World. It is admitted that it is difficult to darn runs in them so that the darning will scarcely show, but that can be done, too. As it is so different in quality from the silk used in silk stockings, darning wool shows plainly when used to darn them. For the very same reason silk thread will not do.

The best things to use are hair and ravelings drawn from an old silk stocking. The longest raveling that can be drawn from the woof of a stocking is only eight or nine inches long; so if there is much work to be done you will probably have to rethread the needle a good many times.

Suppose the run is on the leg of the stocking. Place it over a piece of glazed paper or over thin cardboard. While you darn, hold the section in place without stretching or pulling, or tack it in place with a few stitches. If the run is in the foot, use a darning egg while the repair is being made.

To darn a narrow run, turn the stocking wrong side out, thread a fine long needle with a suitable raveling, moisten your fingers, pass them along the raveling to straighten it and then catch up all the several loops before they can further ravel. Put in the number of warp threads that are missing; if necessary, use one or two extra ones so as to cover the space well. Make the rows straight and keep the spaces even.

When you have put in all the warp threads, turn the stocking right side out and thread the needle again with a hair, passing the root end through the eye of the needle. Darn in the woof threads and run the woof darning half an inch above and half an inch below the edges of the run. Since the hair will break if it is drawn too tightly, and the raveling will shrink, anyway, leave both of them loose at the turnings, but draw them smooth everywhere else.

When one missing warp thread has formed a run, turn the stocking wrong side out, place the edges of the run together and join them with a row of machine stitching. That will take up the broken part. Then turn the stocking right side out and with a raveling sew to it the extra material turned in, so only a flat seam remains.

AY JUNIORS OPEN ES FRIDAY NIGHT BROCK STREET RINK

Yl

say and Peterboro will clash at Brock Street Rink Friday when the two teams com- ng the local junior group start r double schedule. Both man- ments have new material plug- ng the gaps by graduations from st season's squads. Brennan, dgar and McPherson are missing rom the team that cleaned up astern Ontario last winter, and hile Walter Jackson has a promis- ng string of candidates for their positions he and Lou LeBarr, sen- or, will postpone their selections until Friday evening.

The juniors have been handicapped by lack of ice but they are all in good condition and stand the pace of the opening game. Lindsay generally manages to turn out a fast bunch of youngsters, and with hard ice this opening encounter should provide interesting hockey. The fans are urged to get behind the team and a big crowd should be out tomorrow night. It is from the ranks of the younger group that material for the intermediates is developed and public support goes a long way to encourage them in their effort to keep Peterboro on the sporting map.

AGAINST CHANGE IN STYMIE RULE

United States Golf Association's Attitude Revealed By Chairman of Rules Committee.

NEW YORK, January 10 (Canadian Press). — The United States Golf Association is definitely opposed to any change in the present rule which compels all stymies to be played.

The attitude of the governing links body was revealed yesterday by Howard F. Whitney, chairman of the Rules Committee, in a letter rejecting a proposal by E. Ellsworth Giles, editor of The Pittsburgh Golfer, that the stymie be abolished and the medal play rule substituted.

Under the proposed change, the stymied player would have the privilege of asking his opponent to remove his ball, the opponent having the option of lifting or putting. If the stymied player did not ask for the removal of his opponent's ball, and struck it, he would be penalised a stroke.

This plan is undesirable, according to Mr. Whitney, because it would eliminate "what many believe to be the finest shot in golf, the short pitch into the hole."

He points out that many experiments in stymie rules have been made, addin the U.S.G.A. decided to go back to the old form of playing the stymie, as no change that has been submitted up to the present time, in their opinion, is an improvement over the old play.

Jack Henry Williams In Vaudeville Stunt.

Widely known curve-ball southpaw, who has been the mainstay for Belleville Grand Trunks in the hurling department for the past two seasons, and whose future now is as uncertain as income tax is certain. Next year Jack may be a pro. Then again he may still be an amateur. He is reported to be going to St. Thomas to replace Danny McFee, who made the jump. He is reported to be going to Ottawa, Port Dalhousie, Toronto Leafs, Baltimore Orioles. On the other hand it is faintly reported that he may still receive his letters at Belleville next summer. To-day Jack was to have definitely decided where he would hang his hat, but he is being given additional time until the end of the week to make his final decision. Jack is in Belleville to-day, which is situated on the Bay of Quinte (between the devil and the deep sea). The gods of Allah do not even know the ultimate outcome, because Jack does not know himself.

HAMILTON CLIMBS FROM THE CELLAR

Scored 5 to 3 in Brilliant Play Against St. Pats of Toronto- Treat for Fans

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—By defeating St. Patricks of Toronto by 5 to 3 last night, the Hamilton team moved from the cellar position to a tie with Canadiens and St. Pats for second place. The marked improvement of the Hamilton team set the record crowd dizzy. Their combination play was a treat and only the good work of Roach held them to five goals.

"Red" Green, Billy Burch and Manager Randall were the stars for the locals. Randall played the entire sixty minutes and his rushing was one of the bright features. Twice he scored and was instrumental in scoring another goal when he passed to Prodgers in the dying moments of the game to make the count read 5 to 3.

The work of "Red" Green was a pleasing surprise of the night. His checking was good and he started Hamilton on the road to success by getting the first counter. In the second period he was in on Roach repeatedly.

WHIRLWIND FINISH WON FOR SENATORS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— Staging a whirlwind finish that had the audience on their feet for the last ten minutes, Ottawa Senators literally snatched victory from defeat here last night, defeating Montreal Canadiens 2 to 1. With the score tied at one goal each and both teams extending themselves to the limit to snatch victory, time wore on until only a few seconds remained to play. Blocking W. Boucher's rush, brother George carried the puck to the Canadien end, where Coutu ran him into the corner. As a result his shot circled the end of the rink. Broadbent, who had followed in on the right wing, snatched the rubber and winged it through a maze of legs, past Vezina for the winning goal.

The score just about indicates the play. Careful substitution by both managements kept the teams at full strength and top speed all the way.

HOME-RUN BAKER GIVEN RELEASE

Yankees Let Out Famous Slugger — Was One of Connie Mack's Star Infield.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — The name of J. Franklin ("Home Run") Baker, famous for more than a decade as a slugger and third baseman, was scratched to-day from the American League rolls when the New York Yankees issued his unconditional release.

Baker has not played regularly for several seasons. His last active service with the Yankees was in 1922. He was on the voluntary retired list last season. His formal release was given him so that he may play independent ball, possibly as manager of a team near his home at Trappe, Md.

Baker rose to fame as one of the stars of Connie Mack's $100,000 Athletic infield. He first entered the diamond limelight in 1906 and was bought from the minors by Mack in 1908. When Mack broke up his great machine after its disastrous world's series defeat in 1914 by the Braves, Baker was the last star to go. He was sold to the Yankees in 1916.

Baker estaplished his reputation as a batsman by driving in more runs than any other American League player for five successive years, but gained his greatest fame when his home hitting made him the hero of two world's series victories of the Athletics over the Giants. His feat of winning two games for the Mackmen, one in 1911, and another in 1913, with homers, was unrivalled until last Fall when Casey Stengel's circuit clouts were the deciding factors in the only two victories gained by the Giants over the Yanks.

Baker's record of three world's series home runs also stood as the high total for ten years, going into the discard last year when Babe Ruth collected four circuit drives.

CANOE CLUB WON EASY-GOING GAME

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Parkdale Canoe Club won an O. H. A. Junior game at the Arena last evening, defeating Aura Lee by a 2 to 0 margin. The play was rather slow and uninteresting, with only a few flashes of fast and clever hockey. The players of neither team exerted themselves to the limit at any time, and both tired before the six minutes had expired. The game was clean, however, only two penalties being imposed, these going to McIlwain and Catto, who engaged in an argument. The scoring was done in the first and second periods, although the goals were often threatened in the last session.

LONDON PLAYERS TO MAKE A TOUR

Australia Will Be Objective of Rugby League.

LONDON, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press Cable)—With the object of seelcting a team to tour Australia the Rugby League, (Northern Union) yesterday afternoon engaged in a trial game played at Headingly Yorkshire between the "whites" and the "stripes." The former won by 26 points to 18.

Twenty-six men will undertake the trip to the antipodes. One more trial will be held on February 20 at Wigan. At a rugby league council meeting today following the game it was resolved that South African players of whom there are a large number with the English Professional rugby clubs, were not eligible for the tour. They will not be considered for inclusion in the team.

The trip will be a repetition of that undertaken by the rugby league in 1921. During their contests in Australia, the league at that time set up a record for rugby attendances when 75,000 spectators saw the game and paid nearly $30,000 in admissions at Sydney, New South Wales.

The date for the draw for the rugby league cup has been set for Jan. 23 and will take place at Leeds.

Entry of Australia Is Officially Filed.

NEW YORK, January 10 (Canadian Press). — Australia, regarded as United States' most formidable challenger, yesterday filed its official entry in the 1924 Davis Cup tennis contest.

The Antipodeans, who captured American zone competition and defeated France for the right to challenge this country last year, expects to send another strong team into the lists.

Recent rports have indicated that it may be captained by Norman E. Brookes, veteran internationalist, with the playing burden assigned to Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, members of the 1922 challenging team.

Australia again will empete in the American zone, and has requested that there be a longer interval between the final inter-zone match and th challenging period.

DOWNFALL OF COBOURG.

OSHAWA, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Capt. Rooney and his Cobourg boys opened the junior series of the O. H. A. last night and found the going very much against his squad, who were touted to win the group at the beginning of the season. The game in spots brought out some good hockey, but overskating the puck was the downfall of Cobourg, the local winning 5 to 1.

FAILING IN MAJOR LEAGUE DEBUT RAUL STRAND IS BACK FROM MINORS

PAUL STRAND

PAUL STRAND

BY BILLY EVANS.

For two months last season Connie Mack's Athletics startled the baseball world. His team was pressing the New York Yankees for the league leadership.

Connie Mack enthused perhaps less than any other individual over the success of his team. Naturally Connie was pleased, but he had a feeling that his team was stepping a little faster than its normal gait.

"I am not satisfied with my outfield. It lacks batting strength and doesn't cover as much ground as it should. It is a weakness that I fear will become apparent before the close of the season."

Connie Mack so expressed himself to me one day on the bench as we were discussing the sensational work of his team. At that time his club was about three games back of New York, which was leading the race.

Then the Athletics Blew

Then the Athletics blew. Two weeks after Mack had expressed fears for his outfield things began to happen, and the Athletics started to slide from a position of honor in the select four to a lowly spot in the second division.

Since the last baseball season Mack has made the two biggest deals of the year, the purchase of the two most talked about minor league outfielders, Paul Strand of Salt Lake and Simmons of Milwaukee. Mack in securing these two stars of the minors feels that he has plugged up the one weak spot in the makeup of his team.

The career of Paul Strand reads almost like fiction. It is a story of the fighting spirit prevailing over odds that would have discouraged most athletes. Nine years in the bushes after a brief trial in the majors failed to break his courage and determination to reach the top.

Like Babe Ruth, Paul Strand broke into the majors as a pitcher. Like Ruth Strand seems destined to achieve his greatest fame as an outfielder noted for his batting ability.

Paul Strand came to the Boston Nationals at 17 years of age. George Stallings was manager of the Braves. Strand seemed to have plenty of stuff but control was unknown to him. At that time Rudolph, Tyler and James were carrying the burden for the Braves. Stallings wasted little time with Strand. He was sent back to the bushes for more seasoning.

Nine Years in Minors.

Always a good batsman, Strand took to the outfield when an injury to his arm cut down his pitching effectiveness. He met with such success as an outfielder that, like Ruth, he passed up the twirling game for all time.

For nine years he has toiled in the bushes since his brief trial with the Boston Braves. Now he comes back to the American League heralded as the best outfield propect in the country.

Mack feels that the addition of Strand and Simmons, regarded as the cream of the minor league crop of outfielders will positively make his club a first division aggregation. So do a lot of other managers.

HASTINGS TEAM REARING TO GO

Dad Clapper Expects to Win tbe League in Easy Fashion.

HASTINGS, Jan. 10.—Dad Clapper has so many aspirants for positions on his team that he is sorry now that he did not enter two teams instead of one in the league.

Goal, N. Scriver.
Defence, I. Doonan, Z. Clapper.

And on the firing line he had Lynn Hill, late of one of the Peterborough City League teams, with Burkholder and Clapper.

Campbellford will play here Friday night and from the look of Tuesday night's practice Charlie Davidson and his clan will have to play real hockey to win.

Most of Hastings boys have always played in a covered rink and it seems a handicap for them to play on an open-air rink. The Hastings fans are looking for a good game on Friday night.

Mr. Brown, of the Bank of Toronto, Milton, has been transferred to the local branch.

Mr. W. Mullins of Oshawa, spent Thursday in town.

Mr. J. Hefferman of Kingston, spent Wednesday in town on business.

Miss Annie Shaw spent Wednesday in Belleville.

Mr. De Wolfe inspector of the Bank of Toronto, is spending a few days in town.

BIG PRIZE FOR TENNIS PLAYER

For Making Journey From France to States in Small Boat.

PARIS, Jan 10—(Canadian Press) The Academy of Sports has awarded its annual grand prize of 10,000 francs, (about $1,980 when the franc is par Montreal) to Allain J. Gerbault, the tennis player. Among previous recipients of the prize was the late Captain George Guynemyer one of France's famous flying aces; Rene Fronk, another aviation ace; Georges Carpentier, the pugilist, and Lucient Gaudin, the fencer.

Gerbault last year made a hazardous journey from France to New York alone in a 30-foot boat. He was mad, a member of the Legion of Honor for his feat.

CAME FROM JAIL.

BRANDON, Man., January 9. — Amby Mran, a member of the Regina team in the Western Canada Hockey League, who was sentenced some time ago to three months' imprisonment for assaulting a policeman, was slated for release yesterday afternoon, and will immediately join the Regina team to line up against Calgary.

Giants Have Announced Waivers on John Scott.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The New York Giants to-day announced they had obtained waivers on Jack Scott, pitching hero of the 1922 world's series, and probably would dispose of him in a deal sending him to the minors.

The National League champions offered Scott to Louisville in part payment for Pitcher Wayland Dean, $50,000 star purchased last Saturday, but the American Association Club refused to accept the veteran righthander.

Despite injuries that kept him out of the game for several weeks, Scott had a good season in 1923, winning 16 and losing seven games, but several lapses in discipline were said to have influenced Manager John McGraw to part with him.

CARPENTIER MAY ESSAY COMEBACK

Manager Cables Proposal to Meet McTigue or Gene Tunney.

NEW YORK, January 10 (Canadian Press). — Georges Carpentier, colourful French boxer, probably will essay an American comeback attempt before the close of the indoor ring season. His manager, Francois Descamps, yesterday cabled Tex Rickard that Carpentier was anxious to come here in February or March to fight Mike McTigue or Gene Tunney, holders of the world's and American light heavyweight titles, respectively.

The cable from Descamps was simultaneous with the arrival in New York of Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, who probably will confer with Rickard to-day on a Carpentier match as well as a possible return engagement next summer with Jack Dempsey.

Rickard did not indicate what reply he would make to Carpentier's proposals, but he probably will offer the French terms for at least two fights here.

Descamps informed Rickard that he had rejected offers for Carpentier to fight Jack Bloomfield, British boxer, and Erminio Spalla, Italiah holder of the European heavyweight title, abroad.

He also turned down an offer of American promoters for a bout with Gibbons at Minneapolis next summer.

AWARDED DECISION.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Jack Renault, heavyweight champion boxer of Canada, was awarded a decision on points at St. Dennis Theatre here last night over Joe White, of Alabama, Georgia, in a ten-round feature bout of the card. White was only saved from a knockout in the seventh round by the bell, taking the count of seven.

Rosky Smith, of Denver, Colorado, welterweight, knocked out Young Brady, of Syracuse, N.Y., in the first round of a scheduled ten-round semi-final bout.

BOWLING

STILL LEADS FOR PRIZE.

There were lots of ladies bowling last night at Solomon's Alleys for the lamp prize which is being given for the highest single. No one has yet bowled a higher score than Mrs. E. McNeeley, who leads with a high single of 149.

EXAMINER INTERSHOP LEAGUE.

In the Examiner Intershop Five Pin League last evening at Solomon's Alleys, eight teams were in action. Some nice scores were turned in by the different teams. The Linos took two out of three from the Inters in the first game. In the second the Proofers took two out of three from the Casters. The Operators and Jobbers were next and the former won two out of three. In the last game the Directors took two out of three from the Comps, winning the last game by three pins. George Cairns was high man of the evening for three games rolling 571. He also had the high single rolling 235 and beating out Allan Whyte who rolled 231. Following the the scores:

OSGOODE HALL WAS BEATEN BY MILTON

Heavy Ice Made the Going Hard and Stopped Combination:ion -- Score 5 to 4.

MILTON, Ont., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Nearly one thousand enthusiastic hockey fans saw the Milton intermediate sextette defeat Osgoode Hall in the opening game of the O.H.A. last night by 5 to 4. The Milton team in their new uniforms of red and white, never played a better game in their lives, considering the heavy ice due to the mild weather, which also prevented the tams from using much combination.

Wesleyan Chapel in Mawnan, Cornwall, England, opened in 1815, had its first marriage ceremony only recently.

BELLEVILLE TEAM WON AT BROCKVILLE

Poor Brand of Hockey on Soft Ice—Looked Like Came of Golf.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—In a game that resembled old-fashioned shinny, and at times bore a strong resemblance to golf, the Belleville team defeated Brockville by two goals to one in the opening game of the Intermediate O.H.A. here last night. The brand of hockey played was due to the very soft and poor ice, through which cinders protruded in spots. Combination playing was out of the question, and the scoring was done largely on individual effort.

The pigmy camel belongs to a species found only in western Persia. It is only five feet high and snow white.

AN OUTSTANDING EVENT FOR HOME CULTURE AND MUSICAL REFINEMENT

Club Gives 20 People Opportunity to Secure Splendid Instruments On Very Easy Terms.

Club Will Mark the 19th Anniversary of the Green Music Co.

Incidentally the Club will celebrate the company's nineteenth anniversary in a business way, and will serve to impress the significance of 19 years of continuous business upon the public mind.

It is fitting in a community like Peterboro to have such an extraordinary selling event as the Green Piano Club. It will enable many parents whose children should know the benefit and delights of music to purchase a piano now—when a child should be taking lessons, and not have to miss the golden-age period through waiting for a more convenient time.

Under the club plan anyone can purchase a new and fully guaranteed piano on payment of $6.00—with weekly payments of only $2.00. This includes a one-year exchange privilege, a relief insurance clause, and a stool to match. The regular value of the instrument is $450. The club price is $337. Thus it can be seen that in addition to the remarkably easy terms there has been a generous reduction in price, which in view of the special privileges and features, makes this club a truly extraordinary opportunity.

A whole carload of pianos—numbering 200—have been purchased. During the first few days the management hopes to be able to give all purchasers a choice between mahogany and walnut finishes, but cannot guarantee this after the first few days.

The club books open for membership Saturday, January 12, at 8 a.m. The Greene Company announce that for the convenience of the public they will keep their show rooms open Saturday evenings, during the continuance of this club.

GEDDES IN STATES TO SAY FAREWELL

Although He Has Recovered, He Will Only Remain Long Enough to Greet Successor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Sir Auckland Geddes, retiring Ambassador from Great Britain, returned on the Majestic today, saying that, although he had quite recovered from the eye trouble that prompted his resignation, he would remain in Washington only long enough to greet his successor, Sir Esme Howard and bid farewell to the United States.

"Look at me," he commanded the newspapermen, "Don't I look fit as a fiddle? Well, thats' how I feel."

He was greeted by several members of his Washington staff, who informed him of the stir created in that city by the recent announcement that an undertaking establishment was to be opened opposite the British embassy.

"I hadn't heard of it," said Sir Auckland. "That would be terrible wouldn't it? Funeral hearses parked in front of the embassy and the place thronged with misguided mourners."

OPTIMISTIC NOTE FROM SIR H. HOLT

President of Royal Bank Says Period of Depression Reached Final Adjustment Last Year.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—The past year marked, he hoped, final adjustments of the period of depression, Sir Herbert Holt, President of the Royal Bank, told the shareholders at the annual meeting of this institution to-day.

Sir Herbert said that the situation in Canada had been a varied one. In the west a record wheat crop of about 450 million bushels was harvested .In spite of defects and continued low prices, the gross receipts from the crop would be very large. The net return would not by any means suffice to place the farmers on their feet again, but it would assist in reducing their obligations and was bound to result in larger purchases after years of restriction in this respect.

Sir Herbert said that the situation of farmers in the west clearly showed that they must adopt mixed and more scientific farming and not depend wholly on grain, principally wheat, which was so subject to rust and climatic conditions. However, until a change could be made it was to the wheat crop that they must look for prosperity.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store It is used like cold cream.

Police Armed With Axes Make All-Night Raids--Bandits Also Busy.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—At dawn of the fourth day of Brigadier General Butler's camapign to clean up Philadelphia, the police reports indicated that "business as usual" is still the slogan of the "underworld."

Police records showed that three holdups and 33 robberies were committed in the city yesterday, netting the thieves a total of $50,000.

No intimation came from the police department early to-day as to how many, if any, lieutenants of police would be demoted or dismissed.

Armed with short handled axes, squads of policemen and detectives under the leadership of their lieutenants were busy throughout the night conducting a series of raids. In the tenderloin and central sections they confined their efforts to cider saloons, gambling establishments and disorderly houses, while in the outlying districts chief attention was paid to illicit stills and saloons. When they returned to their station houses early to-day they had confiscated and smashed enough gambling paraphernalia and stills to fill two dozen patrol wagons.

THE FIRST HIKE OF SEASON HERE

Evening Wound Up With Community Singing and Coffee.

The first hike of the new Peterboro Ski and Snowshoe Club, held last evening, turned out to be a very successful affair in every way. There was a large turnout of ski-ing and snowshoeing enthusiasts, with 18 young ladies and 21 young men in the party. Meeting at the Y.W.C.A., the group proceeded to Jackson Park and vicinity, returning about two hours later to the "Y" for very acceptable and abundant refreshments, in the form of hot coffee, sandwiches and cake. A brief period of community singing in the green-room and the passing of a hearty vote of thanks to Miss C. Littlefield and the "Y" ladies, ended a very jolly evening. Arrangements for looking after amateurs and for keeping everything going smoothly were in the capable hands of the executive, headed by President J. Kennealley.

POWERFUL DRAMA IN JACKIE COOGAN'S LATEST

"Daddy," a First National picture starring Jackie Coogan, contains an episode that critics have declared to be the most powerful and gripping they have ever beheld on the screen. It gives Jackie an opportunity to register the deepest of grief with a sincerity and naturalness that are uncanny.

In this particular sequence appears Cesare Gravini, an Italian actor and musician, celebrated on the European stage. He plays the part of Gallo, a broken-down musician, forced to earn his livelihood by playing for heedless pedestrians on street corners. The forlorn and wandering Jackie, without home or parents, comes under the notice of the old man, whose interest in the lad is increased by the fact that the boy himself is a violin genius.

He takes the boy to his humble home and out of his meagre store provides for his wants and gives him priceless lessons. But age, disappointment, and poverty do their work only too well, and the time of parting comes for Jackie and his benefactor. This is the scene wherein Jackie rises to dramatic heights and a poignant appeal not equaled on the American stage.

"Daddy", which was produced by Sol Lesser and directed by E. Mason Hopper, comes to the Capitol Theater today, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE GRAND.

SENSATIONAL DRAMA AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

A theatrical attraction of exceptional interest is promised at the Grand Opera House next Friday when the brilliant English character actor, Bransby Williams, and his equally gifted company return here with the romantic French drama, "Vidocq." The eminent position Bransby Williams holds on the English stage today, his remarkable record of successes scored, and his wide popularity as an artist, constitutes sufficient guarantee of the quality of the performance.

"Vidocq" deals with the early life of the famous detective of the same name, who lived in the time of Napoleon. We are first introduced to him as a young naval captain in love with the daughter of the Vicomte de Bernai, he is innocently arrested on a murder charge and sent to prison. Believing him to be a member of the "Screech Owls" society, the police allow him to escape, with the idea that he will lead them to the society's headquarters. But Vidocq is not a member of this criminal soceity, so he is rearrested and allowed two weeks to trace the real murderer—a member of the "Screech Owls." In order to do this he adopts various disguises—a magpicker, an aristocrat, an old hag, a drunken sailor, a dumb man, and finally as the leader of the gang himself. Mr. Williams, as Vidocq, plays six different characters, and has fifteen changes of costume during the play. The drama is full of surprises, thrills and excitement and should have a strong appeal to playgoers who like sensational plays. "Vidocq" will be repeated at the Saturday matinee and an entirely different type of play presented Saturday night. This is a domestic play with a delightful love story running through it.

AT THE REGENT.

DUSTIN FARNUM STARS IN NEW FOX WESTERN.

An excellent story, exquisite outdoor scenes, and fine acting mark "The Buster," the late William Fox production starring Dustin Farnum, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre, beginning to-day.

A melodramatic vehicle of unusual power is here given the famous Fox star, and his work attests the suitableness of his histrionic characteristics to comply with the demands of the role assigned him. Farnum is called upon to be the patronizing, yet stern, tamer of a New York society belle. Doris Pawn, in the feminine lead, as the girl to be shaken from her wilfulness and temperament, acquits herself creditably. Together they form a team of excellent performers in a picture of romance, action and thrills.

The story is from the prolific pen of William Patterson White, the noted writer, and was adapted for screening by Jack Strumwasser. Colin Campbell directed.

The photograph beauty of the Fox feature is due to the care practiced in the selection of "location" in the Californian Rocky Mountains and in a still larger measure to the cameraman, David Able.

AT THE ROYAL.

MINIATURE MUSICAL COMEDY

Cal Dean and His Sonority Girls at Royal, Commencing To-Day, Matinee and Evening.

The first of the bigger vaudeville acts booked by the Royal management will make its bow to Peterboro audiences to-day and twice daily for the balance of this week. Cal Dean, musical comedy comedian, and his five Sonority Girls. His offering this season is a miniature musical comedy with a real plot, plenty of classy costumes and new songs and dances.

The picture programme is unusually interesting, owing to the fact that it introduces a new star, Douglas Fairbanks, Junior, in a Richard Harding story, "Stephen Steps Out," a comedy filled with exciting moments. Theodore Roberts is also in the cast.

NO GIRLS FOR DOUG., JR.

No girls, no love-making. This, an altogether unconventional idea in picture-making, has the unqualified endorsement of the silver-sheet's newest star.

"You said it," declared Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in reply to a hint that he was not displeased to find girls and love-making absent in "Stephen Steps Out," his first Paramount picture adapted from "The Grand Cross of the Crescent," by Richard Harding Davis, which comes to the Royal Theatre to-day.

The prediction is freely made that boys everywhere, old and young, will acclaim the picture "a pippin," because it is brimming over with action. And girls of all ages are going to find in the young hero a type approaching their ideal.

When Doug., Jr., is questioned about girls a slow smile lights up his face. He doesn't say that he dislikes girls, neither will he admit that they give him the slightest concern. He will talk entertainingly about anything else, sports, for instance,—but girls just make him smile.

CRITICS PRAISE FILM.

All Comment Favorably on "To the Ladies."

As a three-act domestic comedy, "To the Ladies," by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman, received unusually favorable mention from newspaper critics, and even greater possibilities are afforded the screen version of the story, a James Cruze Paramount production which comes to the Royal Theatre for a three days' run next Monday.

It is predicted that "To the Ladies" will more than measure up to the high quality standard set for Paramount pictures under the policy of limiting productions to fifty-two a year.

Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser are featured players in the cast which also includes Z. Wall Covington, Arthur Hoyt and Jack Gardner.

RADIO NEWS

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press)—The Department of Marine and Fisheries, which is charged with the control of radio, including broadcasting, throughout the Dominion, has instructed Director C. P. Edwards of the Radio Branch to attend a conference to be held in New York to-day, under the auspices of the United States Government, to discuss the question of radiotelegraph interference with broadcasting.

The Marine and Fisheries Department, it is said, has already taken all possible steps in Canada to eliminate such interference by Canadian ships and stations, and the band of wave-lengths 300 to 550 metres is now reserved for broadcasting. Some United States ships and stations and foreign ships, however, continue to use the wave-length of 450 metres for regular telegraph working, to the annoyance of the broadcast listener. Canada considers that broadcasting is now of sufficient importance to warrant the international reservation of a band for broadcasting, and is lending its full support to this end.

It was stated at the Radio Branch today that the universal substitution of a continuous wave transmitter for the existing interfering spark transmitters at ship and shore stations cannot take place for some time, owing to the very large amount of capital invested in spark sets. It is hoped, however, to have them all operate on waves above the broadcast band at least during the evening.

The Canadian Government has already installed continuous wave transmitters at many of its shore stations, and will proceed with the installation of further sets at other station during the coming year. The effort is to have the Canadian broadcast listener completely relieved from the annoyance of radiotelegraph interruptions.

SHOULD JUDGE'S SON PLEAD BEFORE FATHER?

LONDON, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—The Council of the Bar of New South Wales recently sought the opinion of the Council of the English Law Society as to the propriety of the sons of Judges appearing as barristers in court when their fathers are presidng. The reply to the query has just been made.

It is that, broadly speaking, there is no objection to the son of a Judge acting as barrister in a court where his father is presiding, but that the application of the principle is a question of good taste, and the Council of the English Bar feels unable to lay down rules for the courts in Australia.

CONFER TODAY WITH PREMIER

Premier Dunning and Hon. T. A. Crerar to Hold Conference With Premier King.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan 10—(Canadian Press).—Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan and Hon. T. A. Crerar arrived here this morning and during the day they will be in conference with Premier King at Laurier House. They spent the morning in their rooms at the Chateau Laurier, where there were many inquiries for them. It is understood that the two western politicans will confer with political friends before the meeting with Mr. King. Among the callers at the Chateau this morning was Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior and former Premier of Alberta, who with Hon. W. R. Motherwell and Hon. E. J. McMurray, now represents the west in the cabinet.

The capital is buzzing with speculation as to the outcome of the conference between Messrs. Dunning and Crerar and Premier King, and there were a number of groups about the hotel rotunda busily discussing the possibilities of the situation. There are quite a number of members of parliament from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces here at the present time, and the bearing of the present negotiations on the representation of those provinces in the cabinet is attracting much attention.

Much Discussion

There was a great variety of views heard in the discussions on the possibilities of the situation. One view expressed by a western progressive, was that the conference was not likely to lead to cooperation between Mr. Crerar and the Government. Mr. King, it was stated, would ask the former Progressive leader to go into the cabinet as a Liberal and to this Mr. Crerar, it was added must give a definite negative. Whether Mr. Crerar's advice would be asked on the conditions necessary to obtain western support, no opinion was expressed by the westerner, but other views current are to the effect that this is one of the main objects of the conference.

Premier Dunning on the other hand is a Liberal and it would therefore mean no change of political allegiance for him to join the administration of Mackenzie King. It is pointed out, however, in some quarters that Mr. Dunning is now well night indispensable to the Liberal party in his own province and this would make it very difficult for him to come to te help of the federal premier at the present time. Moreover, it is added, there is no Liberal seat in Saskatchewan available for him, the only Liberal member from that Province being Hon. W. R. Motherwell Minister of Agriculture.

The advice that would be given to Premier King by Messrs. Dunning and Crerar was a subject upon which there was much speculation in the hotel lobbies and on parliament hill to-day. There was a great variety of opinion as to how far it would be practicable for the government to change its policy, but the view was strongly expressed in some circles that it would be necessary for a definite tep to be taken in the direction of tariff reduction, if much support was to be forthcoming from the prairies.

NEW GOVERNOR WAS SWORN IN

Hon. Narcisse Perodeau Took Oath of Office and is Now Lieutenant Governor of Quebec.

QUEBEC, January 10. — Hon. Narcisse Perodeau was sworn in at noon to-day as the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec.

The Federal Government was represented by Hon. A. T. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. Senator Dandurand, Government Senate leader.

A. M. JUDD IS ATTORNEY FOR MIDDLESEX COUNTY

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 10 —(Canadian Press).—A. M. Judd was appointed crown attorney for the county of Middlesex by order in council passed at noon to-day. A stipulation made by the order in council is that Mr. Judd shall devote his full time to the position. Previous appointees were permitted to engage in private practice, but according to Premier George H. Ferguson today the population of London and other sections of the county is such that the office will necessitate the full attention of the crown attorney.

CHILD ESCAPED DEATH BY FEET

Sleighing Across Railway Tracks at Lake Street--Engineer's Quick Action Averted Tragedy.

When passing over Lake Street this afternoon, Canadian National west-bound extra train 656 narrowly escaped running over a small boy who was sleighing across the track.

But for the promptitude with which the engineer realised the boy's danger and applied the brakes, the boy would undoubtedly have been whisked into eternity by the heavy freight.

Inquiry at the Canadian National Station this afternoon elicited the information that constant danger is apprehended at this crossing, there being a slight grade on the roadway, which is used for the children to coast. They become interested in their play and give no attention to the approach of trains, with the result that engineers are on the look-out for similar occurrences to that which is reported to-day.

Special Officer W. H. Howard said the railway company is anxious to avoid any accident, but he thinks the only way the children may be kept off the crossing is by the authority of their parents.

OTTAWA POLICEMEN ELIMINATE WALKING

Motor Cars to be Provided For All But Down-Town Beats.

OTTAWA, January 10. — An important innovation in the Ottawa Police Department will commence early this year whereby the foot patrolman may eventually be practically eliminated, to be replaced by a policeman who will guard his beat in an automobile.

The scheme has not yet been perfected, according to a contemporary, but it is expected that shortly after the Police Commission's estimates are passed the automobile patrolman will be introduced.

The main thoroughfares and business streets of the city will be protected by walking policemen, as usual, so that doors of shops and large buildings may be guarded.

NIAGARA ALDERMAN IS ARRESTED IN BUFFALO

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 10. —Ald John Parker of this city, who has been arrested in Buffalo with three other members of the Carmen's Union, charged with being connected with the dynamiting of the street car tracks of the International Railway, near Tonawanda, N.Y., on Aug. 11, 1922, following a strike, has been a resident here all his life. He is president of the local Street Carmen's Union, and District Vice-President of the National Organization.

He was employed as a conductor on the Canadian Division of the International Railway for 15 years previous to his appointment as president of the Union.

"SOB STUFF" MUSIC

LONDON—Composers today are manufacturing a lot of musical drugs, declares Dr. R. Vaughan Thomas, former music master at Harrow.

"They are musical anesthetics, full of sentimentality and sob stuff," he says. "At the end of some of these songs you find yourself a lump of sheer insanity."

HEARD LAST NIGHT ON A NORTHERN ELECTRIC SET,

This station has seldom been picked up in Peterboro. Experiments between there and Toronto, have only lately established a 360 metre wave length as best to use, and last night the Montreal programme came in quite clearly, although Pittsburgh was caught at almost the same spot on the detector. Baritone solos and a good orchestra were featured.

SUBMARINE IS BURIED UNDER STORMY WATER

Attempts to Reach Sunken Vessel Frustrated by Heavy Seas—Some of Crew May Survive.

A PREMONITION

PORTLAND, Eng., Jan. 11. —(United Press).—Heavy seas breaking over the spot where the British L-24 sank yesterday, after a collision, carrying forty-three men to probable death, prevented divers from descending to-day to grapple for the lost craft.

Mine-sweepers located a heavy object on the ocean bottom near the place where the submarine went down, rammed by the warship Resolution, but as though the sea were jealous of the victims it had claimed, the storm swept waters raged in defiance of all efforts to send down rescuers.

The accident occurred in connection with the departure of a British cruiser squadron on a world tour.

A similar one marred the start of such a tour two years ago, at almost the same spot where the K-5 was lost.

The Resolution rammed the L-24 as the submarine came to the surface, nearly cutting the undersea craft in half.

Into fathoms (165) of water the submarine sank like a plummet. She carried nine live torpedoes, and it is possible that some of her crew may remain alive imprisoned in the water-tight compartments, depending on the nature of the ocean

LOWER RATE ON CANADA'S FLOUR

Hon. T. A. Lowe Instrumental in Securing the Temporary Reduction on Ocean Shipments to Great Britain.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).— Discriminatory rates on shipment of Canadian flour to the United Kingdom have been removed temporarily and efforts are being put forth to make the change permanent, it was announced yesterday at the Department of Trade and Commerce.

For several years a discriminatory rate averaging about five cents per hundred pounds or ten cent per barrel has been charged upon all ocean shipments of Canadian flour to the United Kingdom in excess of the rate applied to similar shipments from the United States. For several years the quantity of Canadian flour shipped to the United Kingdom has been in the increase while United States shipments have declined. Removal of the surcharge will, it is believed, still further strengthen the Canadian trade.

Hon. T. A. Lowe, Minister of Trade and Commerce, gave consideration to this matter shortly after assuming office. As a result of representations made by the Canadian flour trade, Canadian representatives at the Imperial Economic Conference brought up the question and it was referred to the Imperial Shipping Committee for action. As a result the extra charge has been suspended and the Imperial Shipping Committee is considering the advisability of making the suspension permanent. The Dominion's interest in the matter are being pressed by Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner who is being kept informed through the Department of Trade and Commerce of Canadian developments.

Levelling of the rates on Canadian flour shipments, it is claimed by departmental officials will not act as a tonic to the trade and will benefit western grain growers, the railways and Canadian Atlantic ports. Suspension of the surcharge, it is estimated, will mean an approximate reduction of two cents a bushel on the wheat cost basis.

THE WEATHER.

This morning the temperature was just above the freezing point, or 33 degrees. If it had been one or two degrees lower walking would have been more difficult than it was, as the falling rain would have formed a glare of ice. This morning a year ago we had it 16 degrees below zero. It was the occasion of the S.A. Temple fire.—W. P.

Italian Steamer Seen Foundering

BREST, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press) —The Italian steamer Tasmania is reported to have been seen foundering in the heavy seas off the French coast during the storm. One of her small boats, with a number of the crew, was picked up, but another boat, containing the captain and remainder of the crew, is said to have drifted away. The Tasmania is a vessel of 2,496 tons.

No news has been received of the British steamer City of Durham, to the aid of which the tug Puissant left here, Wednesday.

Altogether seven vessels have been reported in distress off Ushant since Thursday. Several tugs have gone to their assistance.

STINNES FINDS UNITED STATES CREDIT IS COLD

Won't Lend Money to Be Wasted on Another War Between Germany and France—Striving For An Argument.

SUGGESTS TERMS.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Herr Stinnes, the industrial magnate, has discussed the question of reparations with a special correspondent of the Journal Des Debats, who visited him at his home in Mulheim, on the Ruhr, with particular reference to the attitude of the United States.

"I am persuaded," said Herr Stinnes, in the course of the interview, "that the mere fact that the Germans and French present themselves before the United States in complete accord as to the reparation settlement would open up considerable perspective. Americans will not lend us money to waste in making war between ourselves, but I am convinced that when we reach an agreement money will be forthcoming at conditions which will surprise us. The money is there waiting to be put into good use.

"My son is at present in America. He is perfectly aware of the situation. We, (probably meaning his firm) who formerly enjoyed unlimited credit in the United States, no longer find lenders because we have now taken the place of the Reich for a settlement of its debts. The only difficulties between America and France and America and Germany are the difficulties existing between France and Germany."

Shifted Debt Burden.

The agreements between the Ruhr industrialists and the Inter-Allied Mission of Control, Herr Stinnes pointed out, were the first step towards a reparation settlement, but the effect of this was to throw upon the Ruhr industrialists the burden of Germany's debt.

"We agreed to pay for the Reich until April 15," he continued, "but this is the extreme limit, and a sound and honest settlement based on the facts must be found in the meantime."

Outlining his idea of such a settlement, he said Germany was unable to pay huge lump sums; the only possible method consisted in deliveries in kind. The Governments should fix in gold amounts such payments, the delivery of which should be assured by long term contracts between Allied and German industrialists.

The German Government would pay German mines and factories for deliveries to be handed over to the Allied industrialists, who would pay their own Governments the sums thus paid to be credited to the reparations account. He insisted that the long term contracts must be between the industrialists, and not the Governments.

Exchange of Shares.

Asked about the plan proposed by Dr. Arnold Rechberg, the German industrialist, which provided for acceptance by France of shares in German industries, Herr Stinnes declared that if contracts between the industrialists were concluded, then an exchange of shares between the different industrial concerns might be contemplated.

"But," he added, "it is nonsensical to talk of compelling the industrialists to grant participation in their business to the Governments."

"Time presses," he concluded. "There is need of honest efforts to find an immediate basis of settlement. Advantage should be taken of all the possibilities opened up by the agreements signed at Duesseldorf. There are two alternatives —another war between Germany and France, or a sound Franco-German agreement. All my efforts are for an agreement."

ASKS DELAY IN DELORME TRIAL

Defence Not Ready When Court Opens—Two Supplementary Juries Are Being Summoned.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press)—Alban Germain, K.C., counsel for Rev. Adelard Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother has notified the Crown Prosecutor R. L. Calder, K.C., that the defence in the case will not be ready when the third trial is scheduled to commence in the court of King's Bench here February 6th and asks that a delay be granted.

It is accordingly probable that the Delorme trial will be held over for at least six days after the date originally set, owing to the number of cases on the roll of the King's Bench for the February term. In view of this heavy list and considering the importance of the trial two supplementary juries are being arranged for by R. L. Calder. It was previously decided to have only one jury and already sixty potential jurors have received notifications to be on hand when the King's Bench court opens.

The question of the legality of having more than one body of jurors has been thoroughly threshed out by Crown Attorneys and has resulted in orders being given for the summoning of 120 jurors to the court. This work was commenced yesterday by the office of Sheriff Lemieux.

It is rumored that Gustave Monette, counsel for the Delorme curator will present another insanity petition before Mr. Justic Martineau, Mr. Monette, in a non-commital statement regarding this matter here said: "I have my duty to do."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET DEPRESSED

New York, Jan. 10.—Weakness of demand Sterling, French francs and Japanese yen were the outstanding features of to-day's local foreign exchange market. The yen sold at 44.60 cents, the lowest price in ten years. Traders attributed this heaviness to the large amount of Japanese imports necessitated by the damage wrought in the recent earthquake and fire.

Demand Sterling closed at $4.28 1-4, after touching $4.27 7-8, a drop of 1 1-2 cents from yesterday's final figure.

France fell eight points to 4.83 1-2 cents, a new low for all time, but rallied slightly at the close. Bankers said that some of the recent declines in the francs is directly traceable to fear that the English Labor Ministry will recognize Soviet Russia, ths impairing French chances of forcing the Soviet to validate prewar investments by the French.

Homestead Land Will Be Open Immediately.

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 10.—In addition to the party of thirty Danes who will eventually take up land, 169 new settlers went on the land in the various townships of Thunder Bay District during 1923, Sid. Wilson, Crown Land Agent, stated this morning. Mr .Wilson received word yesterday that the Crown Lands in McTavish Township, will be open for homesteading immediately. This township was surveyed years ago but was never opened for settlement. The new highway to Nipigon passes through the centre of it and it consists of an area of excellent soil.

Farmer Was Shot Dead Taking Gun From Wall.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Jan. 10 —William Starmer, pioneer farmer of the Colleston district near Prince Albert, was shot dead this morning while taking his gun from the wall to clean it. He had been a resident of this district for 42 years, coming here from Ottawa.

Don't Want Sons To Be Soldiers

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Disapproval of any training or influence upon boys and girls in Manitoba savouring of militarism was expressed by members of the United Farm Women at the final session of their convention here yesterday.

Two resolutions, one endorsing the Boy Scout movement and disapproving of the Cadet movement, "or any movement which savours of militarism," and another protesting against the hanging of war pictures in school rooms, and urging substitution of "peace pictures' were adopted unanimously.

One delegate declared: "The Cadet movement is nothing but a militaristic one," and another asked: "How can we foster ideals of peace when all around our school rooms are pictures of war?"

A resolution was endorsed urging that legislation be enacted making it necessary for parties contracting marriages to have a clean bill of health.

QUEBEC TOURIST TRAFFIC RECORD

American Cars to the Number of 132,905 Entered the Province Last Season — Exceeded the Estimate.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Approximately 8,000 more than predicted early last year by local tourist association officials, the grand total of automobiles from the United States entering the Province of Quebec during 1923 was 132,905. This was the feature of the presidential report submitted at the annual meeting of the Tourists' Bureau of Montreal held here yesterday. John F. Pierce, vice-president of the bureau in submitting the report, said that the tourist season of last year was the largest and longest in duration in the history of touring in this province, despite the fact that the season started somewhat late.

Visitors from every state in the Union were recorded at the office of the bureau with the exception of Utah and Nevada. Cars from every province in Canada except Prince Edward Island came to the province and it is estimated that the number of tourists in this connection totalled over half a million people. It is estimated that at least 200,000 cars will visit the province during 1924 bringing three-quarters of a million tourists.

Chief Ross of Ottawa In Line For President.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—A. W. Ross, chief of police in Ottawa, may be the next president of the Dominion Police Chiefs' Association. Chief Constable Chris Newton, of Winnipeg, who is now holding the office, points out that, owing to the resignation of Chief Anderson from the head of the Vancouver force, who is vice-president, Mr. Ross will likely move up and will therefore be in line for the presidency.

Chief Ross is a former resident of Winnipeg, having conducted a business here in the early days.

House Adjourned Until Next Week

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The work of swearing in the members of the new parliament was completed yesterday without further incident and the House adjourned until next Tuesday when the ceremony of the opening in state will occur.

A cabinet council was in session for more than two hours and the speech from the throne to be delivered at the State opening was drafted. Its terms were kept secret but it is understood to have been decided that the speech will only refer to the policy of tariff protection as having been rejected by the electorate. It will propose, however, to go on with the preference duties promised to the British dominions.

KEPT SEPARATE APARTMENT AND HIRED MANAGER

Now Wife of Her Business Manager Threatens Action For Alienation—Independence of Novelist Brings Flock of Troubles.

HER NERVES BROKEN.

NEW YORK, January 11. —"Wives and husbands should live happily apart in separate homes of their own, for romance hasn't a chance in the world as long as marriage implies that woman is dependent on her husband for support."

So said Nina Wilcox Putnam, the author, three years ago, shortly after her marriage to Robert J. Sanderson, district manager of the Southern New England Telephone Company, whom she now is endeavouring, amid complications, to divorce.

Since then she has lived alone at her beautiful home, "Christmas Trees," at Madison, Conn., which she bought with the money she earned as a writer, and he has lived quite as solitary a life in his bachelor apartments at Bridgeport, Conn.

In New York, the couple kept a joint apartment, where they kept their dress clothes for parties, and where they met occasionally for the week-ends.

Led Sparate Lives.

The rest of the time they led their own lives in their own ways, each paying his and her own bills. This of course, at Nina's insistence.

Now in her divorce petition she alleges for cause—"failure to provide!"

In the words of her famous fictional character, Marie La Tour: "Now, ain't that the berries?"

Throughout the proceedings, her husband has kept silent, seemingly as acquiescent as he was to her "economic plan" during their marriage. It was another woman, not he, who plumped the fly in Nina's ointment.

She is Mrs. Ellsworth Bassett, the wife of Mrs. Sanderson's handsome business manager, who charges that Miss Putnam openly argued with her for possession of the handsome six-foot Bassett, a former clam digger and house painter. Being old-fashioned and the mother of a baby, Mrs. Bassett couldn't countenance the plan to take away her husband, and that is what started the author's present troubles.

Bassett Resigns.

Yesterday Bassett formally resigned as business representative for Mrs. Putnam, and immediately left New York for his home in Madison, Conn.

There he will seek a conference with Mrs. Bassett, who has charged that her husband "went away" with Mrs. Putnam after they had proposed to her that she divorce Bassett in order that he might marry the writer.

Bassett delared his action was taken out of deference to Mrs. Putnam, who had suffered through having employed him. While he declared he did not know what had caused his wife to make the charges, now denied both by himself and Mrs. Putnam, he felt his resignation should remove any doubts in her mind.

Bassett arrived in New York yesterday morning from Florida, where he said he was looking after Mrs. Putnam's orange grove. It was there he first heard news of the charges made by his wife in Madison. Upon reaching here he went to the Hotel Netherland, where Mrs. Putnam is

USE PLANES FOR FOREST PATROL

Provincial Control of Air Service Suggested at Conference — Federal Assistance.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Utility of aeroplanes in forest fire patrol work was dicussed at yesterday afternoon's session of the federal-provincial forestry conference.

Representatives of the Canadian Air Service were present and presented their views upon the subject. High cost of operation was the chief disadvantage urged against the use of the flying machine in patrolling forest areas. It was conceded that the aeroplane as an agent for discovering fires, rushing men to the scene and making surveys was invaluable.

Some difference of opinion developed as to the best type of machine for forestry work. It was pointed out that small single-seaters could be operated more cheaply and were just as effective in patrol work but that they were useless for transporting fire-fighters. It was suggested that medium sized planes which could be used for both purposes might be the solution of the problem.

Col. Gordon of the Canadian Air Service suggested that it might be possible in the near future to purchase one-man planes as low as $1,000. He assured the delegates that the Federal Air Service was anxious to co-operate with them.

Hon. T. D. Patullo, Minister of Lands and Mines for British Columbia felt that the Dominion Air Service should be encouraged to proceed with its investigations and he intimated that this was one of the lines of endeavor which might be assisted by the federal Government in accordance with the suggestion of Hon. Charles Stewart. Hon. James Lyons Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario said he favored an air service under provincial control so far as forestry work was concerned.

HEAVY SALES INCREASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. — Louis F. Swift, president of Swift and Company, meat packers, reported to-day at the annual meeting of the company's stockholders that during 1923 sales had increased to about $750,000,000, a gain of about $100,000,000 over 1922 and that the company is now on a normal basis of operations as judged by a pre-war basis.

PACIFIC PORTS FEAR SMALLPOX

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Because of the scourge of black smallpox reported to be sweeping over Hong Kong and its immediate vicinity on the Atlantic coast, stricter enforcement of health regulations pertaining to inspection of incoming oriental liners is being made by the medical staff at William Head Quarantine Station. Shipping lines announce they have received notification from the Federal Department of Health of the intention to enforce the regulations providing for vaccination of crews and passengers on ships coming from a country where smallpox is epidemic. Vaccination of passengers will not be insisted upon at present but a general admonition will be issued that it is in their best interest to submit themselves for innoculation.

According to medical officers at Quarantine, black small-pox is more virulent than the variety which occasionally manifests itself upon this continent.

Latest advices received here indicate that the disease is on the increase in Kowloon, while in Hong Kong its spread seems to be diminishing.

MEETING HELD OF NEW BOARD OF EDUCATION

J. M. Greene Appointed Chairman--Committees Struck and Chairmen Elected.

COLLEGIATE GRANT

The inaugural meeting of the 1924 Board of Education was held last night, when Dr. Herbert M. Yelland and Dr. J. J. Craig, newly elected members were welcomed to the Board.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. F. C. Neal, and E. B. Fowler were congratulated on their re-election.

J. M. Greene was elected chairman. The secretary, G. H. Thompson, remarked on the absence of the tenth member of the Board—a representative from the Separate School Board. There has been none for two years.

Mr. Greene said, in thanking the Board for his election, that he believes there is greater honor attached to being chairman of the Board of Education than Mayor of the city. "We have the molding and shaping of the lives and characters and intellects of the boys and girls who have been entrusted to us."

The chairman said the re-election of the old members indicates the confidence of the people.

The main issue before the board has been the question of extending the accommodation in connection with the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Greene recapitulated in detail the history of the two plans under consideration. "You must consider," he said, "whether the present is a proper time to branch out into a large building programme."

The chairman quoted the following figures:

In 15 years the population of Peterboro' has increased 31 per cent, the assessment has increased approximately 150 per cent; the debenture debt has increased approximately 240 per cent; school attendance at the public schools has increased approximately 47 per cent, and the public school debt increased approximately 300 per cent. In view of the fact that attendance at the schools has increased only 47 per cent the cost of operating the schools

SUBMARINE

Disaster Feared.

A remarkable story of premonition of the disaster on the part of one of the L-24's engine-room artificers, Chas. Mathews, was told the United Press to-day by Mathews' young wife and his landlady.

Mrs. Mathews said that before leaving home her husband told her he knew he would not return.

"He predicted that the submarine would come up to take distance," she said, "and that it would submerge and then rise and collide with something."

This is precisely what happened to the L-24.

Mathews' landlady said that the young wife at 4 p.m. yesterday thought she heard her husband calling to her. So realistic was the call that Mrs. Mathews cried out, "Is that you, Charley?"

The landlady herself then heard the voice talking to herself. "Take care of her," the voice said, and died away.

Although the seas continued to hiss over the submarine grave the wrecking ship Moordale stood by, for the Admiralty considered that the crew of the L-24 might remain alive forty-eight hours, if safe in a compartment which the water had not entered.

A heavy sea was running this morning, so that it was impossible for divers to descend to investigate. However, if bad weather continues, efforts will be made to drag the submarine into shallow water with grappling hooks.

There is nothing to indicate that the crew of 43 men have not perished.

It is reported, but not confirmed, that submarine K-12, badly damaged in collision with K-2, near the scene of the L-24's disaster, has sunk in shallow water.

DIVERS RISK LIVES.

At 30 fathoms the presure is so great that a diver can only remain under a maximum of seven minutes, after which he needs a hour's rest.

Divers made several descents at great risk of their lives, but at two o'clock had not been able to sight the submarine, although it is known to be within a certain prescribed area.

The authorities entertain little hope of any of the crew being rescued alive and believe that it is probable that they have alerady succumbed.

Boats with receiving aparatus are at the scene but no signals have been received from the sunken craft, although she is filled with special apparatus whereby she could signal under water.

GIRL MAY DRIVE IN DOG CONTEST

Miss Hutchinson on Her Way to Quebec for This Purpose.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. —(Canadian Press.) — "Whistlin" Lyd Hutchison of Ashton, Idaho, is en route to Quebec for the dog derby on February 22 next. Sophisticated New Yorkers investigating the barbaric noises from an uptown hotel parlor yesterday, found a handsome young woman directing an imaginary dog team for the edification of reporters.

Miss Hutchinson is on her way to take over a dog team from some Canadians who are interested in the derby, she said.

Whistlin' Lyd refused to smoke a cigarette to-day. "You don't have to smoke cigarettes to drive dogs," she said. You just use plain English, but a race is no place for a minister or a minister's son."

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Annual Concert Given by Sunday School of St. Thomas Church.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11. — The annual concert given by the Sunday school of St. Thomas church, was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, a good sized audience gathering for the occasion. The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, acted as chairman, and the entertainment was one of the best ever given by the scholars, the excellent manner in which the different characters were taken reflecting credit upon those who had responsibility of training for the various numbers.

The children marched in to a duet played by Mrs. Allen and Miss Ada Attwool. The first part of the programme was entitled "The Fairies' Christmas Tree,' and showed the decorating of a tree py the little folk who, as the different groups came in placed gay colored streamers, fairy snow, gifts, etc., upon the green branches as they danced about the attractive centre from the "Fairy Woods."

The "Queen of the Fairies," Miss Pearl Lamb, first called up the gnomes, in apropriate green costumes, Geoffrey White, Cameron Vance, Grant Henry, Linden Sanders and George Gray. Next came the smallest fairies, all in white, with garlands of silver in their hair, Henrietta Grassett, Mary Vance, Marjorie Vance and Lena Weeks. These small folk won the hearts of the audience by their daintiness of appearance and their quaint dance. The "Snow Fairies" then danced in at the Queen's summons, looking very lovely in their pretty frocks, Nancy White, Eloise Lamb, Kate Donnelly and Margaret Russell belonging to this group. The "Frost Kings," Henry Gray, Teddy Budd, Kenneth Donnelly, Vincent Sanders and Burton Russell, were the next to respond to the Queen's command, and they sang a jolly song. Last of all the waving of "Her Majesty's" magic wand, brought the "Holly Berries," Nancy White, Eloise Lamb, Kate Donnelly, Lily Pearce, Winnifred Hardwick and Kathleen White. The mother's part was well taken by Miss Gertrude Gray.

The Christmas Tree was then lowered from the stage and the gifts distributed by Canon Allen. Geo. Gray received a special prize for being present every Sunday but one during the year, and Henry Gray for the most perfect recitation of the Ten Comamndments. Each child in the primary department received a gift.

During the intermission Miss Francis Turner played a piano solo, and five girls, Elizabeth Russell, Kathleen Fowler, Vera Weeks, Marguerite Lang and Louise Stemp, gave a beautiful drill entitled "A Cherry Blossom Dance," which called forth well-merited applause.Other musical selections were contributed while the stage setting was being changed, and were piano duets by Misses Martha and Marguerite Lang and by Mrs. Allen and Kathleen Fowler.

The comedy, "Whiskers," was the final, and in some respects the most important number on the programme —the cast of characters being:

Bride—Miss Luella Shaw.

Maid of Honor—Miss Muriel Lang

Bridesmaids—Misses Frances Turner, May Atwool and Elsie Weeks.

Groom—Mr. Allen Pitt.

Groomsman—Mr. David Fowler.

The Millionaire's Uncle—Mr. R. Stone.

The Bride's Aunt—Mis Gertrude Gray.

The superstitious colored maid — Miss Vera Weeks.

The plot centred around the distracted bridegroom trying to evade a supposed sheriff who turned out to be his uncle. Many amusing situations developed, which were cleverly carried out by the actors before the wedding party finally marched happily away to the strains of Lohengrins' wedding march, "Anna," the darkey maid, dancing in her joy, as she unnoticed by the others, brought up the rear.

GOVERNMENT OR BANKERS LIABLE

Manitoba Farmers Declare Either of Them Should Pay the Home Bank Depositors in Full.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Discussion of Home Bank affairs by the United Farmers of Manitoba yesterday opened on a resolution which declared that "in view of statements of our Finance Minister made in the House of Commons and corroborated by a committee of the Canadian Bankers' Association, to the effect that there was no possibility of a failure of a Canadian bank or of a depositor losing a dollar by reason of any such possible failure, owing to the protection of our present Bank Act," the convention was of the opinion that "all the depositors of the Home Bank should be paid, either by the Canadian Government or by the Canadian Bankers' Association, one hundred cents on the dollar."

Robert Forke, M.P., who was in the audience, raised the question of the statement credited to Hon. W. S. Fielding, that bank depositors could not lose. He had never heard Mr. Fielding make such a statement. W. J. Ward, M.P. for Dauphin, replied that he had heard Mr. Fielding make such a statement in a committee.

Mr. Forke declined to say whether or not he would support in Parliament a proposal to reimburse Home Bank depositors, and President Burnell told the convention that members of Parliament should not be expected to commit themselves in advance on such matters.

An amendment then was proposed eliminating the reference to the Minister of Finance, and proposing that "in view of the common belief that there was no possibility of bank depositors losing money," Home Bank depositors should be reimbursed by the Bankers' Association or by the Canadian Government. A second amendment declared that the reimbursing should be done by the Bankers' Association and not by the Government. One delegate said he would not be surprised to see the association voluntarily take such action.

The objection was made to the resolutions that for the Government to reimburse depositors would create a precedent and meant practically a guarantee of all bank deposits. This, it was suggested, might lead to reckless speculation by the banks. One delegate declared that if the Banks' Assqciation would not reimburse depositors in the present case the banks should be "nationalized."

Finally, the series of resolutions was sent to the committee in an effort to arrive at something which would be mutually satisfactory.

Most of the afternoon was taken up with resolutions. With little debate the Legislature was urged to enact the single transferrable vote at this session. Federal farm loans and rural credits system was approved, providing for long and intermediate credits.

A resolution which censured "Progressive members of the Manitoba Legislature who voted against the proposed wheat board" at the last session of the Legislature was voted down by a big majority.

A proposal that the Government be invited to make an experiment with sending chilled meat to British markets was rejected.

KEPT SEPARATE

still confined to her bed, and under the care of a trained nurse. He talked with Mrs. Putnam for a short time, in the presence of the nurse, tendering his resignation, and expressing regret that his association with the author should have gotten her into such difficulties.

"Since I have been handling Mrs. Putnam's financial affairs it has been necessary that I see her," said Bassett, "in order to turn over some things to her."

"I am going back to Madison immediately," he said. "Possibly the charges attributed to Mrs. Bassett result from gossip that had come to her. If that is the case, I hope to set such rumours at rest. My only immediate plans are those involved in going to Madison. So far as I know, I shall remain there."

Her Code.

But to get back to Miss Putnam's code for the economic independence of wives. She explained it all in an interview shortly after her marriage to Sanderson three years ago:

"We live apart, but we manage to see eah other ocasionally," she said. "He calls me up on the telephone every evening. When a woman is leading a professional life she and her husband should live on a fifty-fifty basis, financially.

"If my husband had to get away to business from this house every morning, he would create a disturbing element. It would take me a long time to get settled down for the day. If he were here, he would fill up the whole house, so far as I am concerned. If he didn't disturb me that way, it would be all off—our love affair, I mean.

"I hope he will get to be such a habit that he will seem like a familiar and unobtrusive piece of furniture that is always in its place. I love Jack Sanderson more than anything else in the world, but believe me, I couldn't live with him every day, and do good work.

"Married for Love."

"I didn't marry Jack Sanderson for a home. I married him because I loved him. We are great pals. He gives me lots of ideas, and he does not charge anything for them. He is witty and genial, and I find in him an intellectual tonic.

"Sometimes I take a day off, and visit him at his bachelor apartment. That is a great lark. It has the charm of unconventionality.

"Sometimes he takes a couple of days off and comes here to see me, and, no matter what the hour may be, I call it the noon whistle, and put my work away until he leaves. We have a joint apartment in New York, and we often go there for the week-end. We keep our dress clothes there, and we play with our friends, uptown and downtown, and then we come back to the country ready for work."

Without a "Mrs."

Not only did the bride go back alone to her own home immediately after the wedding, but she went back to her old name. She announced that she would be known as "Miss" Nina Wilcox Putnam. Which left the tall Mr. Sanderson—he stands 6 feet 3 inches—without a Mrs. Sanderson to call his own except in a very intimate circle of friends. And these called her Nina.

"I maintain," once said Nina, "that a woman is a better wife and is saner, and healthier, and happier, and a better comrade if she sticks to her job—whatever that may be. Everybod- knows that boredom is the death knell of love."

The daughter of a family in moderate if not poor circumstances, Mrs. Sanderson started out in life as a milliner's apprentice. Her genius and wit soon became evident to the publishers, and by the time she was 18, she was well known as a leading American humorists, and in comfortable circumstances financially.

At that age she was married to Robert F. Putnam, a member of the publishing house of that name, who died in 1918. She has a five-year-old son, John Francis Putnam, who lives with her.

YOUNG GIRL FORCED TO TAKE AUTOMOBILE RIDE

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press)—Queenie Kent, a 17-year-old girl residing at 245 Chippewa Street, was forced to accompany a foreigner in a sedan at the point of a revolver late Wednesday night, according to the story her father related at the police station yesterday. The girl, it was said, found opportunity to jump from the sedan on the Errol Road and subsequently fainted. She was found by a garage keeper at 1 a.m. when she screamed on recovering consciousness.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND WHEN TEN DAYS DEAD

WINDSOR, Jan. 11. — Canadian Press. — Lying upon a bed in an unventilated room in which stood a gas stove, every one of its six burners lighted, and pouring an intense heat into the small apartment, the body of a woman, about 50 years old, was found late last night in what is known as the old Record building on Sandwich street west.

The woman, known to the other tenants in the building as 'Mrs. Read' had been dead at least ten days, the police believe.

IN REVOLT AGAINST OBREGON.

LAREDO, Texas, January 11. — Ramiro Temez and the three Lopez-Zuazua brothers, self-styled generals, accompanied by one soldier, have declared themselves in revolt against the Obregon Government, and have taken to the hills.

BUNKERS TO HANDLE COAL.

VANCOUVER, B.C., January 11. —Coal bunkers will be erected here this year by the Board of Harbour Commissioners, at a cost of $300,000, to handle coal from the interior of British Columbia, and the coal fields of Alberta.

REDUCE COST OF HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Public Works Minister in Ferguson Government Will Cut Force in Half

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press). — A reorganization of the system of highway administration, whereby over one-half of the $225,000 which this service annually costs the province will be saved, is being effected by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Works in the Ferguson Government.

The initial step in Hon. Mr. Henry's programme was taken yesterday and consisted in asking sixty-five of the engineers in the Government employ for their resignations.

The plan which Hon. Mr. Henry is putting into effect consists fundamentally in reducing the number of units into which the province is divided for the purposes of road administration.

At present there is a chief engineer, an assistant to him, and three divisional engineers in charge of the whole of Ontario's highways.

Each divisional engineer, however, has the district under his jurisdiction subdivided in subordinate units known as "residences," each residency has its own local office, an engineer in charge, and two or three juniors.

This type of organization has been regarded by Hon. Mr. Henry as unduly extravagant.

At present they are 25 in number, and a careful survey has shown to him that, under an efficient staff, the province can be adequately covered by twelve.

A REVIEW THE NEXT COUNCIL CAMPBELLFORD

Six New Faces Will Greet Mayor Meyers on Monday Next at Inaugural Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11. — When Mayor A. J. Meyers calls the new council to order next Monday at 11 a.m., to organize for the year, six of the familiar faces will be missing. All of the four who sat on the mayor's left and two of those on the opposite side are no longer in public life. The only two with whom the presiding officer has had experience are Deputy-Reeve Dorie and Councillor Cole. Still the place of those who served last year have been filled by men who have the confidence of their fellow citizens who are satisfied that they will soon learn the intricacies of municipal legislation, and that they will give the town the best service of which they are capable. There have been in Campbellford in the past isues so venerable that they had acquired grey hairs and accumulated moss but it is now hoped that all these have been laid laid by the heels by the last election, and that the new council with a fresh mandate from the people have fair sailing ahead of them and every prospect of a prosperous voyage in sight.

The men who retired of their own accord at the election on Tuesday or who in fair fight fell by the wayside, retire to private life with the assurance that they did the best for the town according to their points of view. If they make what people regard as mistakes they have paid the penalty; but every one who has even a superficial knowledge of public life knows that it is often impossible to explain why when two men are grinding together in the municipal mill, both apparently equally intent upon giving faithful service, one is taken and the other left.

Ex-Reeve Anderson for instance. Who is there, for example, who can assume to account for the defeat of ex-Reeve Anderson? He was elected a year ago on an issue and stood with both feet firmly planted on his platform throughout the year. Once he had made up his mind—and he was never slow in this process, either—it was a case of "this rock shall fly from its firm base as soon as I." The finest sarcasm of ex-Deputy Reeve Wilkinson or the polished persuasiveness of Mayor Meyers, who is all the time in for harmony, failed to move last year's Reeve.

It was only natural then, perhaps, that the reeve became the storm centre of the election and that every element of the opposition was concentrated upon him. Perhaps outspokeness on all occasions, however, commendable in the abstract, is not the best things for a man if he is ambitious to rise in public life.

But one important factor in the defeat of the ex-Reeve must not be overlooked.

The candidat, who opposes him is a man who counts his friends by the score and who has, besides, a long and honorable record behind him. However, ex-Reeve Anderson may be forgiven if he wonders occasion how it is voters will elect a man to do a certain work and then take his head on the first opportunity after his task has been performed according to schedule.

Ex-Deputy Reeve Wilkinson

No member of last years council had a higher estimate of his office or took his duties more seriously than did ex-Deputy Reeve Wilkinson. No man discharged his responsibilities more conscientiously according as light was given him. He failed to qualify in time owing to a misunderstanding and but for this oversight the personal of this year's council might have been different. But Mr. Wilkinson has in the past rested for a space from his municipal labors and managed to return strong er than ever.

A Victim of Ambition

Ex-Councillor Burke, who was an unsuccessful candidat, for the deputy-reeveship, was, it is now admitted, the victim of the ambition of his friends to see him advance. It is conceded that if he had been a candidate for the council, he would have gone back with all his colors flying. But after on year's service in the ranks, his friends prevailed upon him to step up higher. When Caesar of old developed inordinate ambition the populac made of him a subject for a funeral oration and history has a habit of repeating itself. Ex-Councillor Burke was a man from whom valuable suggestions could always be looked for. One of his most progressive ideas was the formation of an industrial commission composed of members of the council, to endeavor to secure new factories for the town.

Ex-Councillor Meiklejohn.

Level-headed and business-like at all times, ex-Councillor Meiklejohn enjoyed the respect of every one of his colleagues. If he was occasionally slow he was at least always safe and dependable, and as last year's chairman of the Finance Committee, he watched the interests of the town as carefully as he would work out the details of his own business. He never made a personal canvass, and this fact accounts in a large measure for his reverse.

After One Year.

Councillor Carter, after one year in harness, dropped out of his own accord, as he intends to remove to Toronto. He was a hard-working and conscientious representative, with a faculty for digging up matters intended for the public welfare, that had been brought up in previous years, and then allowed to lapse.

Ex-Councillor Allan, Reformer.

Ex-Councillor Allan was a man of vision. He had in mind the working out of at least two outstanding reforms, designed, as he hoped, for the moral advancement of the people. Perhaps he was in advance of the age. Anyway, he met with the usual fate of the altruist who would save the masses from their sins. All along the roadway are strewn the cadavers of men whose aims were the same and who met a similar fate.

Having disposed of my business it is imperative that all accounts due me be paid by February first, otherwise they pass from my hands for collection. J. I. Adams.

CRERAR, KING AND HON. C. A. DUNNING HELD CONFERENCE

It is Expected That Further Conferences Will Likely Be Held.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).— Premier King yesterday conferred at Laurier House with Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressive party and Hon. C. A. Dunning, Liberal Premier of Saskatchewan. Subsequently, Mr King met his colleagues in Cabinet council to whom, it is presumed he conveyed the nature of the conference.

As to what results, if any, were reached at the conference, there is as yet no official indication. Premier King states that the conference has no particular significance, that all he is doing is to confer with people from various parts of the Dominion on the political and economic situation. It is assumed, although there is no official intimation to this effect that there is no present likelihood of the two western men entering the federal cabinet. Both Mr. Crerar and Mr. Dunning decline to make any statement either way. They remained over till to-day, however, and it is expected that further conferences will be held. An interesting feature of the situation is that the two men conferred with Mr. King not altogether, but separately.

"RED" RYAN'S WARNING.

The message given by Norman "Red" Ryan as a warning to those who might be tempted to embark upon a life of crime should be remembered when other incidents of his notorious career have long since been forgotten.

"Tell them for me," said the bandit, "to keep on the straight and narrow path. This criminal life does not pay. I realize it now too late. I wish I could live the last twenty-eight years over again and I would not be in this fix. The person who thinks he can beat this bank robbing game has another think coming his way. One day he will be floored."

Ryan, as successful for a long time in his raids upon banks as the most ambitious crook could hope to be, has found out as the gates of the penitentiary close behind him for life that he was playing a losing game from the start.

A year or two of hectic excitement, easy money that goes as easily as it comes, constant vigilance, distrust of every stranger, the menace of the penitentiary always in one's mind, then one day the officers of the law close in, a speedy trial—and then prison walls and the strap or lash.

"This criminal life does not pay," says Ryan.

Nobody knows better than he that the poorest paid labourer is infinitely more happy than the gunman who tries to beat the world by violence.

If there are young men for whom the career of a bandit seems to have an alluring element they should remember the warning of "Red" Ryan.

He has tried it—and he knows just what is in it.

A GOOD ROADS PROGRAMME.

The Canadian Good Roads Association has decided to ask the Federal Government for a grant of twenty millions towards the construction of new roads in the Provinces, says the Montreal Star. The request will undoubtedly be given the earnest consideration it deserves by the Government, which five years ago set aside a similar sum to assist in road improvement. The amount in question is almost exhausted and a renewal of the twenty million grant is now to be sought.

Facts before the Goods Roads Association show conclusively that the interest shown in the building of model roads, by the Federal authorities, has resulted in Provincial Legislatures, as well as municipal bodies, setting aside larger grants for road improvement.

During the past nine years, considerably over thirty-five millions have been voted for road improvements by the Quebec Legislature. Fine roads improve land values. Model roads, among other things, reduce the isolation of country life and facilitate the delivery of urban products to the farm, while farm products reach the market in better condition. Wear and tear of all kinds of vehicles is materially lessened when well built roads are used. If the tourist traffic, which brings so much money into this country, is to be augmented, as is desired, it will be through the medium of increased mileage of really good roads.

THE CASE OF THE HARVESTERS.

The Dominion Government has taken the position in regard to the workless British harvesters in Toronto that no financial doles will be made, but that jobs on farms will be provided for those who are willing to take them, the Government providing the necessary transportation.

It will be interesting as a line upon future immigration work to follow the development of this offer.

There are 160 harvesters stranded in Toronto.

How many of them will prefer a job on the farm to remaining in the city and taking a chance on "something turning up?"

It has been the experience in the past that many unemployed in the large centres have persistently refused to accept work on the farm, and critics of the Government's immigration policy declare that if farm labourers are brought out on a large scale they will eventually drift into the cities and remain there.

Unless the greater part of them accept the Government's offer of farm jobs and free transportation, it must be admitted that a strong argument is furnished for those who object to more farmer workers being brought to Canada, or until there is some assurance they will stay on "the land."

MUNICIPAL RIGHTS.

One of the changes suggested by the Ontario Municipal Association to the Provincial Government is that the municipalties should be relieved of the expenses of preparing voters' lists for Provincial elections.

It was suggested that the cost of this work should be paid by the Province, and there seems no sound reason why it should not so be paid.

In recent years the Provincial Government has in one way or another made serious inroads upon municipal rights, and the municipalities are justified in protesting against such invasions and to ask that they be relieved in some measure of the extra expense that has piled upon them as a result.

The preparation of voters' lists for Provincial elections is an example of this practice inasmuch as municipalities are put to expense to do something that should be done by the Province—or at least paid for by the Province.

The new Government should be well advised in seriously considering not only this particular matter, but the whole subject of the relations between municipal and Provincial administrations, with a view to ascertaining whether or not some of this continual tredding upon municipal corns should not be stopped. Ontario municipalities have perhaps themselves to blame for not more vigorously protesting when their rights were being interfered with, but it is not too late even yet to suggest changes that might ameliorate the conditions.

A JUSTIFIABLE INVASION.

The Ontario Government has been asked to amend the Act by which a medical officer of health is allowed to appeal to the county judge in the event of a dispute with the municipal council over his salary.

The principle involved in this request is, of course, that as the council provides the money for the health officer's salary it should have the power to say how much salary shall be paid.

That, of course, will appeal to many ratepayers as nothing but reasonable, and yet the indifference displayed by many municipalities to the most vital question of the health of the community furnishes a very convincing reason why an appeal to the county judge should be open to the medical officer of health who feels that he is not being adequately rewarded for his services.

It is a fact that in many places the health department is the last department considered.

It is hampered by insufficient appropriations, and its usefulness practically starved.

The average council is prepared to think of anything else before giving serious thought to what should be the first concern of the civic administration, the health of the people, and the conditions under which they live.

It was because the Legislature realized that this condition existed that it provided for a means by which a health officer could assure himself of fair treatment.

To some extent that action was an invasion of municipal rights against the general principle of which the Examiner protests in another article today, but in this particular matter such an invasion seems to be justified.

THE TROUBLED MARITIMES.

A formidable host of Maritime politicians are in the Capital talking Maritime rights. They are entitled to be heard with respect. Upper Canadians, engrossed with their own problems, and too often basing political and commercial calculations solely upon the whims of the West, are inclined to forget the Maritimes. They either regard them, in Sir Richard Cartwright's phrase, as the "shreds and patches of Confederation," or as mere devotees of patronage, or as of little consequence in the progress and prosperity of Canada. And that is a very wrong, a very foolish attitude. The people of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island came into Confederation with very definite understandings. One of these—perhaps the most important—was that in return for the sacrifice of their rich and near New England markets, the Maritimes should be linked to Upper Canada by a transportation system whose basis should not be the ordinary one of profit, but simply service; the enabling of Maritime people to overcome the geographical difficulties which Confederation imposed.

Rightly or wrongly, the Maritime Provinces are convinced that that understanding has been violated. They hold that the administration of the Intercolonial (now a part of the Canadian National System) violates the letter and spirit of Confederation; that they are being discriminated against in respect of rates; that they are being consistently sacrificed to the clamor and interests of the West; that their ports remain idle while Canadian grain and manufactured products build up the seaports of the States.

We are not here concerned with the historical correctness of their contention. There are two sides to every story; and it may well be that Maritime claims in this respect are measurably exaggerated. But what we should like to emphasize is that whatever the foundation of Maritime unrest, it will not do to dismiss it as unworthy of serious inquiry.

Quite clearly something is wrong. The people of the Maritimes are cut off by a tariff barrier from their natural markets in the States. They are prohibited by a long rail haul from competition with Upper Canadians in the markets of Ontario and the West. And the smallness of their own population—diminishing, it is to be feared—deprives them of a home market of their own.

For years, in consequence of such conditions, the chief exports of the Maritimes have been brains. They sent Canada a Tupper, a Howe, a Tilley, a Blair, a Thompson, a Borden and a Fielding but they likewise sent thousands and tens of thousands of their best brain and brawn to rear higher the prosperity of a foreign land. Today, it is safe to say, Boston has more Nova Scotians than Halifax, Lynn and surrounding districts more New Brunswickers than the city of St John.

And the exodus goes on. Today, more than ever, Maritimers, men and women of good English and Scotch and Irish ancestry—the very class of citizens we are striving to get—are streaming across the border. It is a situation to challenge thought.

The Journal has no dogmatic creed for Maritime unrest. But it is convinced that that unrest is a national problem of sufficient magnitude to demand sympathetic national attention. The stability and continued success of Confederation depends and will continue to depend upon the contentment of each of its units, and the achievement of that contentment must not be allowed to be outweighed by the greater number of votes which some other Provinces command in the Parliament of Canada. As times goes on the balance of political power in the Dominion will swing steadily toward the West. But that will afford no just reason—although it will involve a danger—for the claims and demands of the plains being permitted to completely transcend the just grievances of the people of the Maritimes.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The announcement that less fiction was read in Peterborough last year had no reference to election propaganda.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, declares that "the Progressive Party is going to keep the banner flying." Not much sign of an alliance with the Government in that statement.

It is a lucky thing for Great Britain that the strength of the Labour Party is not to be judged by the actions of such members as Jack Jones.

ASSASSINS AT WORK AGAIN

Two Men Killed in a Prussian Hotel—Troops Called Out.

SPEYER, Rhenish Prussia, Jan. 10.—(United Press).—Feeling between the Germans loyal to the Reich Government and Separatists is high here to-day as troops patrol the streets to prevent possible outbreaks following the assassination of Herr Heintz, so-called "President of the autonomous State of the Palatinate."

Heintz was shot down while in the dining-room of the Hotel Wittlesbacher here last night. A man who sat at the table with him, also was killed and another man wounded. The assassins were a group of young men who shouted their loyalty to the Reich.

A fusilade of shots rang out and Heintz and the other two men fell.

Then the lights were turned out and the other diners threatened with death if they moved. The assassins fled.

BERLIN, Jan. 10. — (United Press.) Separatists clashed with the populace in Speyer to-day, after the assassination of Herr Heintz, President of the autonomous state of the Palatinate, a dispatch said to-day.

Five persons were killed in a fight in the same restaurant where Heintz was shot, the dispatch said.

TEN KILLED BY UNSEEN HAND IN THE RHINELAND

FRENCH INVOLVED.

BERLIN, Jan. 11—(Canadian Press).—Not less than ten Separatist leaders have already fallen victim to lynch law in the Palatinate, according to reports received here, although official quarters have not yet been apprised of the extent to which the populace is meting out summary justice to the secessionists.

Authentic details of the killings at Speyer, including the assassination of Herr Heintz, President of the Autonomous Government, were unobtainable in Berlin up to a late hour, but the Cabinet discussed the general situation in the region which is reported to be extremely grave, with the possibility of further putsches by the Separatists.

An apparently inspired bulletin issued here blames "the brutal provocations of the Separatists, who are openly terrorizing the populace with the connivance of the French authorities" for the sanguinary clash at Speyer, and expresses fear that the desperation to which the nationalists have been driven will lead to further outbreaks.

INCITEMENT ALLEGED.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Palatinate question has been much to the fore in negotiations between the British and French Governments in the past ten days. In the exchange of views between M. De Peretti De La Rocca, Director of Political Affairs of the French Foreign Office, and Sir Eric Phipps, the British Charge D'Affaires, in the absence of Lord Crewe, it appears that the British Government complained that the French occupation authorities in the Palatinate had been encouraging the Separatists, instead of maintaining absolute neutrality.

The French reply was that the French authorities had merely insured the maintenance of law and order. Secret organizations for the purpose of spreading anti-French propaganda among German civilians and anti-militarist ideas in French and the occupation troops, had arrested the leaders. Documents were found showing that the headquarters were in Heidelberg and giving definite instructions to "rid the Palatinate of the French occupants."

Nationalist Threats.

It was contended in behalf of France that the measures enforced in the Palatinate were necessary because of open threats by the Nationalists, including a campaign to incite the population to violence against the occupying forces.

The British have proposed an inquiry on this subject, and the French are understood to have agreed, provided the inquiry be undertaken by the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission.

It was said at the British Embassy here this evening that no definite agreement had yet been reached regarding this inquiry, but that conversations were continuing.

Commission To Investigate.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The delegates of the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission are going to the Bavarian Palatinate to make an investigation on the spot, of the activities, attributed to secret organizations, which culminated Wednesday night in the assassination of Herr Heintz, President of the Autonomous Government.

It was announced yesterday in official quarters here that the British Government was in accord with the other Allies as to this investigation.

MARMORA'S RINK SET BACK AGAIN

Promises at Beginning of the Week Upset By a January Thaw—Church League Contest.

MARMORA, Jan. 11.—The warm weather of this week has again delayed the ice for the rink. The first of the week all the young people were looking for ice by the end of the week but no one can tell now how long it will be before the rink will be in use.

Mr. L. Bowen returned to University on Monday of this week.

Mr. McLaren Bleeker returned on Tuesday fro two week's holiday in the states.

League Contest.

At this week's meeting of the Young People's Society of the Methodist Church the result of the contest which has lasted for three months was announced.

The blues led by Miss Bessie Sweet won second place.

The "grand finale" to the contest will be next Wednesday when the whites will be entertained. The blues provide the programme and the greens and reds provide the eatables.

This method of dividing the league into different groups every three months has proved very satisfactory. A new contest begins on the Wednesday after the entertainment next week.

Mr. Cottrel spoke this week to the leaguers on Home Missions and his personal experiences with regards them.

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. C. S. Bungay, 19 Chatham Av., Halifax, N. S. and Mrs. W. F. Hunter, Biggar, Sask., seldom have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

WHITE MEN THRIVE IN TROPICAL LAND.

Health Department Reports on Conditions in North Australia--British Hold Their Own.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Dec. 9.—(Associated Press).—Medical opinion has done something toward settling the controversy that has raged around the question of whether the northern portions of the Australian Continent are suitable for settlement by the white race. The discussion was apropos of the Australian "white policy," under which all colored races are excluded except persons who were domiciled here prior to the legislation, and a few admitted under special trade agreements.

Advocates of the introduction of cheap colored labor on an indenture system, or contracts for periods of years ,have contended that northern Australia, being tropical, afforded a climate for which white men were constitutionally unfitted. To exclude races able to develop this territory was, they argued, a dog-in-the-manger policy. But medical opinion now says white people not only can live in the tropical north, but thrive there.

A recent pamphlet issued by the Commonwealth Health Department stated that after a generation's trial it fairly could be said that white men could work in the tropical areas of Australia without the labor of colored races.

In this tropical life, it was added, the British were holding their own with the other white races.

"As workers in the sugar belt," stated the pamphlet, "the British have proved that in speed and endurance they are the equal of any other race."

In the centres of population as far north as Townsville, men of British nationality predominate overwhelmingly. In the tropical sugar districts northward, there are numbers of Italians and smaller numbers of Greeks, Spaniards, Russian, Maltese and other nationalities. The Eastern races are represented chiefly by Chinese, once present in considerable numbers, and in lesser degree by Japanese and by natives of India.

short time after these seaside resorts have come into existence they have been confronted with the necessity of finding some means of checking this encroachment of the sea upon their improved properties.

"To this struggle they have devoted themselves with an earnestness born of the realization that their continued existence depends upon a successful outcome of the fight.

"Yet, in these fights the sea, in a deplorable number of cases, has been the victor. Some communities have succeeded in at least temporarily protecting themselves. Others, however, have fought a losing fight. One can scarcely visit any long-improved section of these coasts without hearing stories of beautiful properties undermined and swept away, along with the structures that have been erected in their defense; or of communities that have almost bankrupted themselves in the fight only to see the result of their efforts destroyed in some gale of unusual severity.

Fought Under Water.

"The decisive part of nature's battle between sea and land is fought beneath the surface of the water, where it is invisible to the observer. Only the final result can be directly seen, and this result does not indicate the vicissitudes of the struggle of which it is the outcome."

This, Jones declared, is one of the outstanding reasons for the indifferent success of efforts at protection—lack of knowledge of the precise nature and methods of attacking forces or of the degree of resistence to attack offered by the various physiographic forms which characterize the shores.

He urged completer inshore surveys to afford bases of observation of the evolution of these attacks and the consequent development of means of more effective protection.

There's Nothing to Equal "Dr. Wood's" Norway Pine Syrup For Coughs and Colds

Mrs. David Thompson, West River St., Paris, Ont., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For myself and children I use nothing else.

My little girl, five years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and, now, whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is to give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Also for myself, and the other children, I can find nothing to equal it, in fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my ten months old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

REAL LOVE WILL MAKE THE HOME

Feminist Sees Transition From Chaotic Divorce Era to Harmonious Equality Between Sexes

By A. H. FREDERICK.

BERKELEY, Calif., Jan. 9.—Out of the present chaotic conditions in American home life there is hope for a renascence of sex relationship, better than the world has yet known.

This is the cheery word from Miss Mary M. Messer, feminist and student of home problems, who is conducting a course on "The Home" at the University of California here.

"It is a period of transition, things thought immovable now in a state of flux—no wonder superficial observers are alarmed," she says. "But those who study deeper into the causes and effects are more hopeful and more certain of a happier future.

"Laws made by men to fit conditions centuries back are still in effect. But women have progressed, while these laws have stood still. They are the bridle against which the modern woman strains, resentful even of its presence.

Cause for Divorce.

"A finer home relationship is demanded by the new woman and, being refused, she wrecks the home altogether by divorce court suit. Or maybe it is the man, incapable of understanding the cause of unhappiness, who finds himself forced to file suit.

Men will be glad to see women assume leadership in the construction of a new, stable home life, declares Miss Messer. They are weary of present unsatisfactory, insecure domestic conditions, realize the failure they have made in their attempts to construct and are quite willing to give women their opportunity.

"The world today searches, perhaps unconsciously, for a more spiritual love," says Miss Messer. "When this is found everything else—including laws—will shape themselves to conform.

"The cause of the present unrest—'rebellion' might be a better term—goes deeper than laws. Love, expressed in terms satisfactory to both parties, is the only indissoluble bond and the only sure foundation for permanancy in domestic partnership."

Sign of Progress.

Increasing ratio of divorce to marriage is no more than a protest being translated into terms of action, says Miss Messer, and considered thus is a most encouraging symptom of a determination toward upward progression—not by any means to end in total destruction of the home.

"Love, marriage and the home are permanent, fundamental realities which cannot be destroyed," she states.

"The present rebellion is not indicative of a resolve to attempt their destruction but, taken collectively, shows only a fixed determination that these fundamental truths shall be given a more firm foundation for continuance, and a less rickety superstructure.

"Neither community life nor any other substitution for home life of the family will ever be successful. The individuality, the charm and repose of the home is essential to happiness.

"But a community life outside the home is needed, together with labor-saving devices, which will prevent the home being a place of drudgery for anyone."

Sex Equality Ahead.

Realization of the ideal love will bring with it a complete equality between the sexes, believes Miss Messer. There will be an interchange of achievement, encouragement, helpful aid, upon an equal partnership footing.

Woman's life will be balanced between home and career.

Before marriage she will have her career, gathering experience. From this she will pass to the home, where will be performed her chief work, the giving to the world of two or three healthy children of good character and mentality.

But when the children have passed adolescence, she will revert to her career.

"For," concludes Miss Messer, "the idea that a woman's intellectual power begins to ebb as she reaches middle age is pure myth."

TRAIN ROBBERIES OCCUR IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press). — Wild west days in the United States are having their Russian prototypes in certain thinly populated districts of the Ukraine and the Caucasus.

Within a fortnight were reported three train hold-ups by large groups of bandits. Near Rostov-on-Don between the stations of Jernevo and Stansinkaya, a group of bandits robbed every passenger on one express train and killed one of them who resisted. Near Kharkov, where bandits stopped a train, armed guards opened fire and kept the bandits at bay until support arrived from the nearest station, but several passengers were wounded.

Near Vladikavkas an armed group of 50 mounted bandits attacked the station, Soldatskaya, with the intent of robbing the rapidly approaching mail train. The engineer saw them, however, and passed the station at great speed.

IN THE OLD DAYS

"The good old days" not seem quite so good after a study of accounts 135 years old recently unearthed near here. The accounts give the prices of groceries, tobacco, liquor and labor which prevailed over a century ago and during the 22 years immediately following settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists.

The accounts, which are all in pounds, shillings and pence, show that tea cost 6s—or $1.45 a pound, compared with an average in Canada today of 69 cents. Tobacco was only 6t cents in 1789, compared with $1.80 a pound today.

Other prices were: calico, $1.37 a yard; pork 16 cents a pound; gin 25 cents a gallon; whiskey $1.21 a gallon; butter 40 cents a pound.

In comparison with these, the present day average in Canada, according to Government figures, are butter 48 cents; pork 25 cents; and gin and whiskey have passed out of reach, "open quotations no longer being given."

While 25 cents a gallon for gin in 1790 may seem cheap, it must be considered in connection with the amount then paid for wages.

A shilling then represented nearly a day's pay for a man. Clearing an acre of land was done for 12/6, or $3.21. Two and a quarters days' work with a man and horses was charged for at $2.67. Another item in these old accounts gives the rate for a man at 50 cents a day. Making a pair of shoes brought only 6t cents.

Considering these prices it is apparent that in the "good old days" it required nearly a day's wages to buy a pound of sugar; over two days 'wages to get a yard of calico; and nearly four days' wages to get a pound of tea.

MAN AND OCEAN FIGHT BATTLES.

Shore Lines Are Being Torn Down Says Director of Geodetic Survey.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(United Press.)—The ceaseless pounding of the sea on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts of the United States is inexorably tearing down these shore lines of the nation, Colonel E. Lester Jones, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, said today.

Winds, waves and currents have joined in an endless battle against the redoubts of the coasts and irresistibly are eating the beaches landward, topping earth, trees and even towns, into the booming surf, Jones declared.

"In time of storm, the zone of shallow water adjacent to the shore is like some huge mill in which the materials subject to wave action are torn from their resting places, seized upon by the whirling waters and borne away to find an eventual resting place in the sheltered bays and lagoons, or in offshore depths so great that wave attack can have no appreciable effect on the bottom," the veteran chief of the charting division of the Government said.

"Until comparatively recent years these beaches were, as a rule, desolate, uninhabited stretches of sand dunes and undergrowth, of no economic importance," Jones continued. "Recently, however, the development of better transportation facilities, as exemplified by the motorboat, the automobile and trolley, has made them accessible to the great centres of population adjacent to the coast, with the result that millions of people now visit them annually in search of relief from the more rigorous climate conditions of the neighboring cities.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—Butcher's cows were strong yesterday, and three choice fat ones sold at 6 cents a pound, and other good cows at $5 to $5.20 a cwt. Medium cows brought 4½ cents, and common cows up to $3.75 a cwt. Choice butchers' steers of medium weight made up to $7.50 a cwt. and good handy weight butchers' sold at 6½ cents. Everything on offer will be cleared up this week at firm prices.

The run of hogs for the week was over 12,000 head, and sufficient in itself to account for the drop of 50 cents a cwt. Yesterday's market was $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b., but the price sent out over the week-end is $7.25 f.o.b.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—The tone of the cash grain market was firm. A stronger feeling developed in flour and prices were up ten cents per barrel. Prices for millfeed were generally up $1 a ton owing to limited supply and increased demand. Rolled oats were also advanced ten cents per bag. There was nothing new in the baled hay market. A fair business is passing in storage eggs. Trade in potatoes was not active. A firm feeling prevailed in butter. The cheese market was quiet with an easy undertone. Egg quotations were: Extras 40; first 35; seconds 28 to 30.

Butter—No. 1 pasteurized 43. No. 1 creamery 42. No other grades quoted.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. — Wheat, corn and oats all took an upward swing in value to-day, with corn again over-topping the high price record for the season. Realizing of profits, however, eliminated much of the advance which was more or less due to predictions of a cold wave. Wheat closed unsettled, 1-8c. to 3-4c and 7-8c. net higher, May $1.08 7-8 to $1.08 7-8 and $1.09, and July $1.07 1-4. In corn there was 1-4c. to 3-4c. gain, with oats 1-8c. to 3-8 and 1-2c. up, and provisions ranging from a shade decline to a rise of two cents.

TELLS PECULIAR PRANKS OF 'QUAKE.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—(United Press).—G. S. Clark, automobile salesman in Peru, visiting here tells a story of pranks played by a recent quake upon one Estaban Alvarez.

"Estaban went to bed after completing the harvesting of his corn field. Looking out the window next morning, instead of seeing a bare, well harvested field, rows of waving corn stalks met his astonished gaze. An earthquake had moved a neighboring corn field upon his premises.

"Not questioning the workings of Providence, Estaban went out and harvested again. With his accumulated wealth, he decided to run for the Legislature. On the day of election, Estaban was disqualified. During the night another earthquake had moved his residence into the next district."

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 10.—Claiming that when doctors sewed her up after an operation they left a silver tube in her stomach, which was only discovered by an X-ray months later Jean Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pierce, of Longwood has entered action for unstated damages against the Strathroy Hospital Dr. Alexander Thompson and Isabella McCurdy, a nurse. Miss Pierce also claims return of $206 hospital fees.

BANK MERGING ACT WILL BE DELAYED

Quebec Government Will Hold Caucus For the Consideration of Loan Terms.

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 10.— The Act providing for the issue of $15,000,000 worth of bonds by the Province to be placed at the disposal of the Banque Nationale and the Banque d'Hochelaga as part of the agreement made to allow the merging of the two banks will not be presented before two weeks, as it has been decided by the Government to call a caucus of its supporters first, to submit the terms of the loan.

The caucus will likely be held on January 17. In connection with the redeeming of the bonds of the Machine Agricole with accrued interest since the first of September, 1921, it was learned that the bondholders of the organization would likely be called to meet here in the first week of February. At present the Societe d'Administration Generale, which is trustee, is bound to call such a meeting, acting on instructions issued the last time the protective committee met.

Australia Considers Farm Training Depots.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—A conference on immigration has resulted in a recommendation to commonwealth and state governments, in cases where the number of immigrants warrants such action, to establish farm training depots, the cost of which would be borne equally by the federal government and the state government concerned.

REDUCES FRENCH SENATE'S POWER

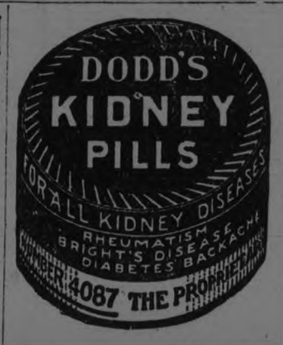
PARIS, Jan. 11.— In the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday, M. Bonnet introduced a bill for a revision of the constitution. The bill would withdraw from the Senate attributes now belonging to the highest tribunal in the country, which would be turned over to a special high court. It also would limit the budgetary and legislative powers of the Upper House.

The proposed new law would enlarge the system under which the president of the republic is elected by admitting the votes of the general counsellors of the departments and other intellectuals and industrials. It would provide for the president having the right to act without the counter-signature of a responsible cabinet minister to his proposals.

The bill calls for the appointment of ministers without portfolios, the formation of homogenous cabinets, not necessarily recruited from among members of the chambers, and would give the president greater powers in the negotiations of treaties.

The bill was referred to the committee on universal suffrage for report.



BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN NORTHERN ONTARIO ARE MOST GRATIFYING

OTTAWA, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press). — The business conditions and the general outlook in Northern Ontario are most gratifying, according to Lieut.-Colonel L. T. Martin, Commissioner of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, who has just returned from another periodical tour of the system. The T. and N. O. has completed the best year in its history, Col. Martin reports, and Haileybury and other places swept by the disastrous fire of 1922 are being rebuilt rapidly. He predicts that this year will again see the T. and N. O. with a satisfactory operating revenue.

HORSE KILLED BY A FREIGHT

CAVAN, Jan. 11.—Albert Byers had the misfortune to loose one of his horses on Saturday evening last. Mr. Byers had came down to the station and left his horse tied at the rear. It became frightened, broke the halter and ran away, and instead of keeping on the road it ran up the track. A freight train going east struck it, killing the horse and smashing the cutter.

Death Took Place.

The death occurred in Peterboro on Friday evening last of Mrs. Margaret Howden, wife of the late Wm. Howden. Mrs. Howden before her marriage was Miss Thompson of Monaghan. The marriage took place nearly seventy years ago and she has lived in Cavan all those years with the exception of the last five which she spent in Peterboro with her daughters. She leaves a family of eight, three sons and five daughters. The sons are Gusty, Robert and George all of Cavan, the daughters are Mrs. Wright, Hattie, Margaret, Addie and Daisy of Peterboro. The funeral took place on Monday in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

Personals.

Fred Byers has returned to Detroit after a few weeks visit with his parents here.

Wesley Howson attended the funeral of his cousin, the late Mr. Kindred of Keene on Tuesday.

Miss Myrtle Swain has been engaged to teach school at Beechwood ,and entered on her duties on Monday last.

Among those from here who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Howden in Peterboro were: Wm. J. Swain, Wesley and George Howson and Miss Winona Cathcart and Audrey Cathcart.

Mr. J. Swain received a telegram on Tuesday stating that his sister, Mrs. John Sanderson, had passed away that morning at her home in Treherne, Manitoba.

L. B. BOYD HAS GOOD JOB IN THE STATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—The appointment of L. B. Boyd, formerly of the Soldiers' Settlement Board of Canada, as superintendent of land and colonization in the United States is announced by W. D. Robb, vice-president in charge of lands, colonization and development of the Canadian National Railways. The appointment of Mr. Boyd follows closely the announcement of the principles of policy to be adhered to by the National system in the field of immigration and colonization during the year, and is made for the purpose of introducing more direct and aggressive methods in this important work in the republic.

HOME MISSION'S MAJOR TOPIC AT CAVAN MEETING

Women's Auxiliary of the Millbrook Methodist Church Enjoyed Hospitality of Mrs. H. A. Earle for Annual Meeting.

Citizenship Problem.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 10.—Mrs. H. A. Earle hospitably opened her home on the 4th Line, Cavan, on Wednesday afternoon and entertained the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church at their first meeting of the New Year, over forty being in attendance. The president, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, conducted the opening devotional period and business items. Group "C". Miss Stella Hetherington leader, was responsible for the programme, the convenor, Mrs. C. Garside, taking charge. There was an unusually interesting response to the "Watch Tower," many items from the foreign and home fields being given.

The Bible topic, "Our Treatment of the Stranger," with various selected passages bearing on the subject, was responded to by Mrs. Ross Edmunds and Miss Mary Widdiss gave a reading, "The Stewardship of Waysid, Service," in an effective manner. The chapter on "Immigrants from Asia" in the study book, was taken up by Miss Stella Hetherington, the possibility of race fusion, which is the basis of nation building, being discussed. Since only one in seven is white in the population of the British Empire, and in British Columbia the proportion is one in ten, the question of overcoming race prejudice and dealing wisely and in a Christian manner, with these people, becomes a religious political and industrial problem. The solution suggested is that citizenship be made a prize to be won, rather than a mere gift to be conferred or withdrawn at the voice of a caprice "then it will be possible to allow all non-British peoples within the broad Dominion to enter unstrammelled into the race"

An unexpected but most interesting item on the programme was a talk by Miss Agnes Johnston, a deaconness of the Presbyterian church, on her work at the "Cottage School for Girls," at Switzberg, Quebec. Over thirty girls are in the school, gathered from the police court, the streets, and from poor homes. These girls who have wandered in the by-paths of sin are being recalimed and taught housekeeping, sewing, etc in the mornings, with lessons in the afternoon. May can neither read or write, and lack of education is partly responsible for their going astray. Some are grateful for the help and new start, and some are not. Through the kindness of friends a bountiful dinner and Christmas Tree was provided this season which were greatly enjoyed. Obedience is insisted upon often at the cost of a strenuous struggle for the lesson has never been learned previously. Miss Johnston closed with an earnest appeal for the prayers of all present for the girlhood of Canada'

The meeting was closed with the W.M.S. watchword, after which Mrs. Earle, assisted by her sister, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, and members of the group served a delicious tea, and with music and social intercourse a pleasant hour was spent. A vote of thanks to the hostess, the speaker, and also to the men, Messrs. A. J. Brown, O. Williamson who had kindly given the use of their sleighs to convey the members to Mrs. Earle's, was moved by Mrs. R. Edmunds, seconded by Miss Hethering ton, and responded to by a hearty clap of the hands by all present.

Mrs. Earle's guests included: Rev. S. T. and Mrs. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mr. A. and Mrs. F. Johnston, Mrs. J. Rowland, Mrs. T. Luxon, Mrs C. Garside, Mrs. D. Robinson Miss M. Widdiss, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. H. Muspratt, Mrs. T. Douglas Mrs. J. W. Dawson, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. J. Hatherly, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. W. Larmer, Mrs. H. A. Elson, Mrs. R. Lunn, Miss M. Lunn Miss Needham, Mrs. J. Pritchard Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, Mrs. B. R. Raper, Miss L. Crocker, Mrs. J. and Miss A. Johnston, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, Miss E. Kreiger. Mrs. W. Tremaine, Mrs. W. Mullen, Miss L. Kennedy, Miss A. Hampton, Miss M. E. and Miss Stella Hetherington.

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the ministerial association which should have been held on Monday morning, was postponed until next Monday, January 14th at 9.30 a.m. on account of the drifted state of the roads after the storm on Sunday. As a election of officers takes place this month it is important that all members from the country are able to attend. Rev. S. T. Tucker will deliver the address.

Bay of Quinte School

The annual Bay of Quinte Winter School will be held at Cobourg, January 14th to 21st the sessions to convene in the Methodist church. Rev. J. I. Wilson, B. A., B.D., pastor. Rev Ernest Harstone Woodville, is president and leaders of the group Bible study periods include: Revs. Roy Rickard Northport, S. T. Tucker, Millbrook, J. W. Baird, Port Hope, Manson Doyle, Taylor Statten Toronto, and others. Miss Mary Allison, of the National Girls' Work Board, will head the C.G.I.T. work, and Rev. W. Harold Young, Peterboro, Rev. Frank Langford, Toronto will be among the speakers the musical director being Rev. F. J. Horwood, Music Bac. Recreation periods are arranged for each day, with entertainments either impromptu or given by professional talent every evening. Delegates will probably attend from the Sunday school, Young Peoples' League or C.G.I.T. group here.

Personal Items

Miss Margaret Luxon has taken school this term at Fournier, a few miles from Ottawa. Miss Lottie Luxon has returned to her school at Sutton West.

MAKE CITIZENS OF IMMIGRANTS CHURCH'S TASK

Problem of Canadianizing Foreigners Within Our Gates Dealt With in Address By Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, of Norwood.

LAKEFIELD MEETING.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10.—The open meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church held on Tuesday afternoon was attended by about seventy-five women, among whom were representatives of the W.A. of St. John's church, the Mission Circle of the Baptist church and the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. C .S. Reddick occupied the chair and after the opening exercises, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor of Norwood, one of the branch officers, gave an address on the immigration problem.

When the General Board of Missions came into being ninety years ago there was no immigration problem and missionaries were sent to China and Japan. When these people came to our country, our Oriental problem became a local one. Until then the Indian had been the sole object of the Canadian missionary effort. We are drawing immigrants now from Southern Europe, from Russia, Austria, Poland and Italy. These people come here with no knowledge of our language or living conditions and we can't afford to leave them alone if for no other reason than that the safety of our civilization depends on how we deal with the foreigner

From the standpoint of patriotism it is our duty to help these people for there is much in them to admire. We respect the plodding industry of the Slav and the Italian and the appreciation of the fine arts one finds in the Pole. It is our part to develop their good points and subdue those things which are a menance .Many of these people come to Canada for political and religious freedom and the church (speaking in the broadest sense of the word, is the only organization which is trying to help them. In Western Canada there are immense tracts where there are no churches, no schools, no doctors or nurses or teachers and for them the cry goes out for more workers and more money.

This is a great opportunity for the Woman's Missionary Society, which has for its object spreading the gospel. If we teach English to these new Canadians they will more readily absorb our ideals. Following the example of the apostles we will look after the welfare of their bodies as well as their souls. They are God's creatures and are anxious to learn and are susceptible to love and sympathy. These people will vote and indirectly help to make the sons of our country and it is our duty to bestir ourselves and make sacrifices of time and money that they may be guided in the right way. Prayer and a careful study of conditions are invaluable aids and we should endeavour to interest our young people in this great work. Any church which is not a missionary church is not doing its proper work.

Mesdames McMillan and S. Sutton contributed much appreciated solos, Mrs. McConkey acting as accompanist.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Lawlor in a graceful little speech and Mrs. W. Sherin seconded it, the ladies rising to express their acquiescence.

Mrs. P. L. Jull spoke a few words of appreciation on behalf of the Presbyterian ladies present, urging an acceptance of the responsibilities so clearly outlined by Mrs. Lawlor.

The Methodist ladies served afternoon tea and the remainder of the afternoon was spent socially. This was one of the most inspiring meeting of local ladies held for some time and its effects will no doubt be seen in increased interest and contributions.

C.W.L. At Home.

The At Home given under the auspices of the Catholic Woman's League in the rotunda of the Lakefield House on Tuesday evening was very successful in spite of bad roads and rather inclement weather. Hendren's orchestra supplied music for the round dances, and Messrs. Sullivan for the square dances. The crowd which consisted largely of young people spent a delightful evening tripping the light fantastic in the prettily decorated rotunda. A dainty supper was served about midnight after which the dancing was resumed and continued till the wee sma' hours. The social spirit and kindly feeling always demonstrated at these gatherings, was not lacking, for everyone was made welcome as usual and the evening passed all too quickly.

Ladies' Curling.

A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Moore on Tuesday night to re-organize the Ladies' Curling Club for the season of 1923. There was a good deal of enthusiasm shown in the club and it is expected that the season will be both pleasant and profitable. The officers were elected for the season as follows:

Hon. President — Mrs. N. E. Moore.

President—Mrs. G. G. Connell.

Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

Ex. Com.— Mrs. McConkey and Miss Braden.

The rinks were drawn after the election of the skips:

Mrs. W. H. Stabler, Mrs. R. C. Chittick, Mrs. Chas. Lake, Mrs. G. G .Connell, skip.

Mrs. A Windsor, Mrs. W. Sherin, Mrs. C. O. Northey, Mrs. H. E. Moore, skip.

Miss Millar, Mrs. P. Spence, Mrs. W W. Leonard, Mrs. H. J. Sutton, skip.

Mrs. W. A. Moore, Miss E. Blewett, Mrs. McConkey, Miss Braden, skip.

Rovers—Miss Garvey, Miss Graham and any new members.

After the business had been disposed of the president gave a short speech, emphasizing the importance of faithfulness and promptitude at the games. One person failing to appear without giving due notice to the skip spoils seven peoples pleasure. The fees this season will be $3 each and the ladies will provide their own brooms. Wednesday and Friday afternoons have been allotted to the ladies' club. The executive of the ladies' club will meet the executive of the men's club very soon and arrange the minor details. The ladies will insist on pebbled ice this season.

Lakefield Personals.

Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Miss Cora are in Toronto this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawless of Prince Albert are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lawless.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Elmsley and family are visiting friends in Toronto.

LOTTERY MAY SAVE CATHEDRAL.

COLOGNE, Jan. 11.—(Associated Press.)—Cologne's great cathedral is being neglected because of the impoverishment of the Cathedral Building Society and the inability of its members to raise sufficient funds in the Rhineland to keep the historic building in repair.

Consequently an appeal has been made to the Prussian Ministry to grant permission for the establishment of a lottery from which money may be raised to keep a few workmen employed on the building. The sandstone is extremely fragile and needs constant attention.

Stops Falling Hair!

7 Sutherland Sisters' Complete Treatment

The 7 Sutherland Sisters' Complete Treatment stops falling hair, restores dry and brittle hair to lustrous healthy life and promotes a growth of new hair.

This Complete Treatment includes a new discovery—Hair Fertilizer, which acts on the scalp as fertilizer acts on the soil. At the same time, it works admirably with the Hair Grower, which kills the germ of baldness and keeps the scalp free from dandruff. The Shampoo, which is also included in the Complete Treatment, is an excellent cleanser. It comes in powdered form, dissolves quickly in warm water, and keeps the hair soft and glossy.

Complete Treatment Includes -Fertilizer -Hair grower -Shampoo

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir:—With reference to Mr. Leader and his write-up on the garbage collection. He doesn't want to start carving the city Council over the garbage contract. He knows nothing of the amount of work to be done whatever.

His letter estimating two teams is simply absurd, it is laughable. There is at present five teams gathering garbage, and they are busy.

Let Mr. Leader get out and follow one team for a day and he will have a little more knowledge to write on.

It is easy to sit in the house and watch some one else out in all kinds of weather and through snow-banks gathering garbage and ashes from house to house. The present system seems to be as economical a way as it can be done.. New men on the route each day won't do, as they are bound to miss a certain amount, then the people are calling on the Council with complaints.

There are men on the job who have forgotten more about collecting garbage than Mr. Leader will ever know.

Start some place else to economize on your taxes and let the poor garbage man alone. Stop knocking the Council, Mr. Leader.

Your estimate is well figured out but you are short of help to do the job. When you rate five teams you will then have overrun the present tender. Therefore, Mr. Leader, your question of economy is laughable extravagance.

One outfit, $2,791.

Now the first year's expenditures and wages rate the city $13,955; wages and horse feed, $8,000. Leaving the city's investments then at $5,955. Depreciation of 20%—$1,191

Next year's salary, horse-feed and depreciation, $8,000, plus $1,191, totals $9,191, saying nothing of the interest on money invested in outfits.

Now, Mr. Leader, who will be saving the city the most money, you or the City Council?

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT WITHERS

A CONSERVATIVE EX-M.P. FOR RECIPROCITY

To The Editor:

When amongst others I was elected in 1911 as an opponent of reciprocity it was because electors, like myself, were hoping for the arrival of an inter-imperial understanding which would place Canada, Australia, South Africa, etc., and Great Britain in the same relation to each other as exists between the States of the United States or the parts and Provinces of any other organically united country. This was the reciprocity we wanted. The British elector, however, at the first opportunity to test the question of Empire has turned it down. Many of us had hoped that after a long period of development and waiting the different parts of the Empire were at last ready to establish an inter-imperial Zollverein or some other economic system of mutual understanding or agreement which would make the British Empire in reality what it has been hitherto only in name. Till recently the different parts were really not in a position to be welded together with the Mother Country as the States of the American Union are, but the time has arrived when they are in such a position. We all felt that ultimately the requirements of trade would suggest a union of such a kind as to stimulate inter-imperial trade to such a degree that trade within the Empire, like trade between the States of the United States, would give us a home (Imperial) market sufficient to absorb our energies and output for some time to come. But that hope has been blasted by the British elector. He wants to be let alone, and has notified the different parts of the Empire that he wishes to form such free reciprocal relations as he sees fit.

If that is his attitude, then ours must be similar. We must look for some method of opening up trade relations now virtually closed to us, but which would be of immense value to us. Canada, both west and east, must find an outlet or go to pieces. That is plain, and our Western and Eastern electors are making it plainer every day. Like the rest of us, they had tied themselves down by the bonds of Empire, but since that Empire is not materializing and by choice of the British elector is not to be developed farther than it is today, the West and the East are calling for better foreign trade relations; in fact, we must have them or go under. While the idea of protection is the development of the home market the Canadian elector demands a foreign market as well. He is only half a protectionist and will not rest content with the development of his home market only. This being the case, even the protectionists are calling for foreign trade, and it is obvious that the first step in that direction must be with our great neighbor. That means reciprocity, and I am convinced that no party need appeal for the suffrages of the electors at the next election which has not such an object in view.

GIVE HUNGARY BREATHING SPELL.

BUDAPEST, January 11. — Parliamentary opposition to the League of Nations reconstruction plan for Hungary is growing, and it now is considered doubtful whether Premier Bethlen will be able to put through the necessary legislation. Count Apponyi in the National Assembly said: "Hungary cannot be grateful to the League for a plan which only gives her a breathing spell."

THE CHILDREN'S COUGH REMEDY

MINTINE

YOUNG'S POINT

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 10. — On Monday, Jan. 7th, little Miss Aileen Young entertained a number of her small friends at her home on Trent street, it being her ninth birthday. A pleasant evening was spent by the children in games and music.

Mr. Robert Duff of Lakefield passed through the village on Wednesday.

Mrs. George Matthews of Haultain was in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Reid of Burleigh Falls were in the village on Wednesday.

Among those from the village who attended the Catholic Women's League dance in the Lakefield House at Lakefield, on Tuesday evening, were Misses Mary O'Toole, Margaret Young and Messrs. Victor Young, Tom Dugan and Leonard Wilson.

Miss Alice Wilson, Hall's Bridge, passed through here on Wednesday en route to Lakefield, where she is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Blewett.

Mr. George Donaldson has returned to the village from Lindsay.

ADVOCATES ONE HOUR OF MUSIC IN HOME EACH DAY

"Parents can read interesting musical events, stories of operas and other stories of musical intelligence to their children as they develop musical understanding," says the Post. "The advancement of music is certain to create a universal desire for it. Libraries, where music is presented, will also be a great help to parents in conducting the music hour in the home, especially when the children are studying music themselves. The music pages of the newspapers will also be one of the big factors in making the music hour a fixed institution in the home.

"The children of future generations will talk about opera and concerts of the highest order as they now do about movies and baseball. They may even form opera companies in their own communities.

"Canadian parents should find time for more music in the home, as this is the only way we can ever hope to advance the cause of music in Canada."

ARCTIC AIR CRASH.

CHRISTIANIA— Captain Oscar Wisting, of Ronald Amundsen's ship Maud, which is locked in the polar ice, states that on July 10 an airplane trip was attempted, but on account of engine trouble the machine had to descend and crashed on the ice. Dr. Sverdrup, the scientist accompanying the expedition, is of opinion that no great land areas exist northeast of east Siberia.

Roman architects placed earthen jars in the theater walls to increase the resonance.

BANK TORONTO HELD MEETING

Standing of Bank Never Better Than It Is Today

Not only through the medium of the financial statement which was submitted at the sixty-eighth annual meeting of the Bank of Toronto, but from the addresses of the principal officials on that occasion, the shareholders were fully assured that the standing of the bank was never better than it was to-day. Its business during the past year has been steady and practically undisturbed. The net profits for the fiscal period ending November 30th, 1923, amounted to $984,669, as against $878,762 in the previous year, an increase of $105,907, which must be considered entirely satisfactory in view of the adverse conditions which have prevailed in banking circles.

The bank has continued its policy of building up a large Rest account out of surplus profits, thus giving the advantages of increased resources with increased earning power. Circulation has been increased by about $500,000, which shows that the activity of the bank's business has been fully maintained. The deposits of the Bank were increased by slightly over a million dollars. A larger number of saving accounts than usual was opened during the year, but the average balances were smaller, this being chiefly due, in the estimation of bank officials, to the competition for money by Governments and municipalities.

The quick assets of the Bank, including cash, notes and cheques of other banks, securities and call loans, stand at over $47,000,000, an increase of over $6,000,000, and represent 53.58 per cent. of the liabilities of the institution to the public. This is the strongest position in this respect that has even been reflected in the history of the Bank. The increase was chiefly in securities. These, although represented up to 94.15 per cent. by Dominion, Provincial and Municipal securities of a high class, are understood to have been taken into the statement well below market values.

While current loans of all banks in Canada have shown a decrease for twelve months of about 4 per cent., those of the Toronto were practically stationary. At the close of the year the bank had not a single advance on its books in excess of $500,000, except advances secured by grain, and not a single dollar has been lost by it in this line of business. As the Bank's connection is large, credits in excess of this amount are, of course, extended, and many accounts are carried which at times run higher but the condition mentioned existed at the time the books were closed, and the fact is referred to as an indication of the quality and diversity of the Bank's business. There were no large loans against inactive assets.

"You will note," said Mr. John R. Lamb, the general manager, in his address to the shareholders, "that our profits are a little better than a year ago, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to make satisfactory profits in banking. Bank services are constantly increasing without producing a correspondingly increased revenue. Taxation of various kinds is very heavy and competition very keen. In our own case, however, our earning power is assisted by relatively large reserves. It is necessary for us to earn only 5 per cent., even less, on the shareholders' funds in the business—Capital and Reserves—in order to preserve our present dividends."

The General Manager also pointed out that the value behind the bank's shares was increasing year by year. Capital, Rest and Profit and Loss accounts now amount to $12,170,000, or a value for each share of over $242. These figures take no account of contingent funds.

Directors were elected as follows: William G. Gooderham, Col. William I. Gear, William Stone, Paul J. Myler, John Macdonald, Archibald H. Campbell, Lieut.-Col. A. E. Gooderham, William R. Bawlf, Joseph Henderson, John I. McFarland, Brig.-Gen. F. S. Meighen, James D. Chaplin, M.P., Thomas F. How.

At a subsequent meeting of the new Board, Mr. W. G. Gooderham was re-elected President, and Mr. Joseph Henderson, Vice-president.

MOTHER'S LOVE REFORMED A SON

Prisons Couldn't Hold Him and He Was Known as a Bad Man, Train Robber and Desperate Jail Breaker.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 11.—Society's ponderous machinery of law, its walled prisons and grated cells have gone down to defeat under the subtle influence of mother love.

Affection of a little white-haired woman here has done more for the genuine regeneration of Bill La Trasse —"her boy"—than all the combined attempts at an artificially imposed morality which shuttled him from one penal institution to another as a reputed bad man, train robber and desperate jail-breaker.

The story does not bear the puling brand of sympathetic pathos.

Instead, it centers about a spontaneous element as quick and earnest as the wellsprings of devotion in the mother's heart.

In Again, Out Again

Jails, seemingly, were never made for La Trasse. With astounding impunity he scaled their walls and went abroad with a gun.

In Kansas they tried and convicted him but he fled the penitentiary barriers and in his dash, led several others to freedom.

The same episode was a repetition of similar breaks from bondage, among them being his successful self-liberation from a lockup at Kansas City, Kas., where he was temporarily being detained following a single-handed robbery of a fast express in which 20 passengers were politely relieved of their effects and valuables.

Bold and daring, La Trasse, by authorities, was regarded as indurated —"with a hide which neither fear nor God could touch."

Such was the status when local authorities brought him back from the Illinois state penitentiary, where he had been serving a sentence for robbery under a different name.

The folks back in Illinois, through some unknown manner, had been able to keep "Bill" successfully locked up.

But once back in Kansas following his trial and conviction for an offense which started him to the "pen," once more with 10 long years ahead, he broke from custody and once more "hit the wide and open spaces with a gun."

Subsequently he was captured.

Jail doors yawned.

Love Makes Him Whole

But the "big thing" as he calls it, was yet to happen.

One day his aged mother, 73, came to see him.

She took him in her arms. Here was one person who believed in him—who loved him despite it all.

Would Bill respond? That was the question prison authorities asked.

And to prove that the state believes in him and had confidence that he will keep his word, Gov. Jonathan M. Davis has accepted the ex-bandit's pledge to go straight.

Unguarded except by the little white-haired woman—the same one who "brought him back," Bill is out of the Kansas penitentiary enjoying a 10-day leave of absence.

This vacation away from the walls and grated cells is being spent with the white-haired one—his mother—who loved him so much that she made a man out of Bill.

Made a man out of him to such extent that as he twines his arms about her neck, conscience, or whatever the inner man is that affection stirred to life within him, prompted the ex-bandit to say:

"If reckless young fellows knew the other end of the lane, as I do, they would go home to their mothers, stay at nome nights and stick to a job."

"HEARING" BY FLAME.

LONDON.—"Hearing" by fire! Quite a new wrinkle, to be sure. But it is possible, says a woman teacher at a school for the deaf. She has invented a special gas burner, in front of which a deaf person may stand while speaking. If he enunciates correctly, the flame bobs up and down. The device teaches deaf children to speak clearly, the instructor declares, for the flame responds only to perfect diction.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WOMEN FIND WORK IN RADIO STATION

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 11. —When it comes to a discussion of women who have ventured into men's lines and made good, consider Mrs. Eleanor Poehler of this city, perhaps the only woman in the United States who is managing director of a powerful radio station.

WLAG, the Twin Cities Station, is known to millions of radio fans. Mrs. Poehler is the genius who has made it one of the best known stations in America.

Caracas, Venezuela, Cuyamel, Honduras, and a ship 535 miles southeast of Honolulu have listened in on WLAG concerts and every part of the United States, Canada and Mexico hears the concert' almost daily.

Mrs. Poehler is not only an executive but she knows the technical end of broadcasting and can sing a number or play a violin solo whenever it is necessary. In fact, her singing has become so popular with the radio fans that she has been unable to give it up, despite her other duties, and she takes her regular turn on the vocal programs.

She Started It

Mrs. Poehler studied abroad for years and on returning to her home town took up teaching. When it was proposed that a broadcasting station be put up here, Mrs. Poehler was selected to sell the idea to the business men. She succeeded in interesting 10 firms, who backed the enterprise, and she was engaged as program director because of her acquaintance with artists and entertainers. Within a few weeks she was put in complete charge.

Under her regime the station has been amplified until it is one of the most powerful in the United States.

Mrs. Poehler has been frequently complimented for the clearance with which she announces artists and reads bed-time stories to the kiddies.

"The secret of my success in that line," she says, "is that I am a singer. Singers 'bite' their words. If you want to talk so you can be heard by a large audience and still not speak loudly or harshly, try 'biting' your words and watch the result.

Helps Weak Voices

"Radio is opening up an avenue to singers who could never have an audience," she goes on. "There are many sweet voices that are so small they couldn't possibly get over the footlights. We can have those singers do their stuff' before the microphone and, by proper amplifying, make the songs go over as well as those of big-voiced artists. For broadcasting purposes, the small voice is just as good as the big one."

Mrs. Poehler spends all of her spare time listening to programs from other cities, getting pointers on the game.

One of WLAG's innovations are recipes and household hints given by Miss Mildred Simons, assistant managing director—for Mrs. Poehler insisted upon having a woman as her assistant. Miss Simons is kept busy during the midday period, so that housewives may get their tips on meals while they are at luncheon.

REAL ESTATERS WILL TALK BETTER LIVING

Conference Planned to Further Real Estate Education—Discuss Taxation

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 10.—(United Press.)—Better living conditions will be a major subject considered by the national committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which opens a three-day session here Jan. 17.

Representatives of 450 real estate board of the United States and Canada will attend the meeting to discuss clarification of real estate values; rental conditions, real estate utilization, city building and rebuilding, and real estate and general taxation.

The session will be the principal gathering of real estate men of the country to be held this year for the formulation of policies.

L. F. Eppich of Denver, President of the association, will present to the meeting the program for the association as recommended by the directors. This program includes gathering a comprehensive body of real estate data and principles, developing real estate education and advancing real estate development through State and national legislation.

Directors and officers of the association, forming the advisory board, will hold sessions Jan. 16 and Jan. 20, preceding the following the sessions of the national committee.

The subject of taxation will be presented to the meeting by Charles T. Moffett of Minneapolis, chairman of the taxation committee, which has made an extensive study of the question. He is expected to recommend support of the Mellon tax plan in Congress.

A series of advertisements for use in newspapers has been worked out by a committee headed by Ogden A. Confer of Minneapolis and will be submitted.

MONSTER WAVE STRUCK FRENCH LINER SUFFREN

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. Canadian Press. — Tales of a wave 40 feet high which dashed against their ship with a report like that of a cannon, were told by officers of the French liner Suffren which docked yesterday, two days late, because of rough weather encountered on crossing. The ship left Havre on December 29. On the night of Jan. 2 the big wave struck the starboard side of the ship. The report to those within the vessel was deafening. The 123 passengers who were mostly from the Latin countries were reduced to a frenzy of excitement. They were certain that the ship was about to sink. Many of them rushed to the decks, lightly clad and carryin glife preservers.

NEED TOWN PLANNING TO PRESERVE BEAUTY OF GROWING CENTRES

Horace Seymour Tells Engineers' Institute of Some Inexpensive Improvements Which ight Be Made Here.

VACANT LOTS

Peterboro' Engineers last night heard an instructive address on "The Commercial Urge for Town Planning," delivered by Horace L. Seymour, M.E.I.C., Town Planning Engineer of Toronto. The meeting, which drew a good attendance, was presided over by James McIntosh.

"Town Planning may be briefly defined as the scientific and orderly disposition of land and buildings with the object of securing economic and social efficiency," Mr. Seymour said.

"In the art, in the science, in the philosophy of town planning, there are principles that with the full approval of the public should guide the engineer, in particular the municipal engineer, if unity in construction is to be attained in the physical development of communities, if, in other words, complexities of private and community interests are to be harmonized.

"In particular, I wish to speak of the economic efficiency to be secured by town planning methods and of the growing realization among commercial organizations of the real value of town planning provisions secured by adequate legislation.

"Before the Equitable Life Building was erected in New York to some forty storeys in height, the adjacent owners inquired what compensation would be necessary to restrict the building to ten storeys only. The figure named was two and a half million dollars ($2,500,000). Only two and a quarter million ($2,250,000) was subscribed and up the building went skyward 493 feet, cutting off light and air and casting a shadow at noon on a winter's day over 1,000 feet long, a shadow that covered an area of nearly eight acres. Commercial interests were willing to pay two and a quarter million dollars to prevent this. Now the New York zoning regulations, first enforced in 1916, would preserve to some extent at least and without cost to the adjoining business men their right to light and air.

"In 1911 a city block in New York, 200 feet by 800 feet, was assessed for $17,000,000; in 1916 it was assessed for $7,000,000. This depreciation of $10,000,000 is attributed largely to the fact of the intrusion of factories into this heretofore retail area; such intrusion is now prevented by the zoning ordinance adopted in 1916. In New York city the urge for zoning which, as will be explained, is a very important part of any town planning scheme, came largely from commercial organizations, such as the prevent unnecesary depreciation of valnes.

In St. Louis it has been estimated that from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 might have been saved in the construction of the sewer system if it had been known what the developments in various districts were to be as they are now known since the zoning ordinance of 1918.

Examples might be multiplied, but coming to Canada we find Mayor-elect Hiltz, of Toronto, pointing out in a pre-election speech the amount of money that has been wasted by the lack of town planning in Ontario's capital. As a matter of fact in both the cities of Montreal and Toronto, millions of dollars have been spent in the past few years for street extensions and improvements—millions of dollars that might have been saved by proper foresight.

In the United States, in many cities, and Chicato might be particularly mentioned in this connection, commercial organizations have spent thousands of dollars in propaganda and education to bring to the citizens a realization of the importance of city planning. In New York city, I understand, the Russell Sage Foundation is spending in the next few years $500,000 on the Plan of New York Environs. Of smaller cities more comparable in size to the city of Peterborough, I noted some time ago in my reading that the industrial and commercial interest of the city of East St. Louis, with a population of some 65,000, have contributed over $185,000 for three years city planning and civic work.

"A recent bulletin of the United States Department of Commerce shows that more than 22,000,000 people, or 40 per cent of the urban population of the States, live in zoned cities, towns and villages, including a community of only 420 persons up to cities with millions of population. Probably some 200 cities in our neighbouring country are active or interested in phases of city planning work.

What are we doing in Canada? Unfortunately, we cannot point to the progress that is being made in the United States. This evening, I want to tell you something of what is being done in the city of Kitchener and the adjoining town of Waterloo, where I am at present engaged in consulting planning work. From the report on the manufactures of Canada, 1920, as compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, it will be found that the city of Kitchener and the city of Peterborough both have a population in the 20,000, have a capital invested in manufactures of some $27,000,000, with a value of products in Peterborough of over $38,000,000 and in Kitchener of a few million more. Both cities are in the centre of good farming districts. So the example of Kitchener should be of considerable interest to Peterborough.

"In the city of Kitchener, while the development has been sound in many respects and numerous varied light industries have been successfully established, yet no foresight has been shown in some instances in the location of factories and in the general development of the city. In some instances factories have been located with no access to railways and on land that should have had a considerable value for residential purposes. Such location has meant a depreciation in land values without any counterbalancing advantage.

"The business men of Kitchener, at least some of them, were brought to realization some time ago of the fact that there was no place in Kitchener where one could build a home and feel that he was free from the possible intrusion of factories or business. This has been a large factor in making possible the work of town planning seriously undertaken nearly a year ago. There is every indication that the business men of Kitchener, those interested in factories as well as retail trade, are becoming more and more favourable to the town planning work now being carried out. They realize that it means true economy.

"For several years the town planning commission of the city of Kitchener was under the chairmanship of W. H. Breithaupt, M.E.I.C. Undoubtedly the energy and interest in town planning he displayed are now bearing fruit. Thomas Adams, who for several years was the Federal Town Planning Adviser, was engaged by the city of Kitchener as consultant. The speaker is associated with Mr. Adams in the Kitchener work and has also been retained as consultant by the adjoining town of Waterloo.

"What have we done and what are we doing in the city of Kitchener that the citizens of Peteborough as well as the engineers should know?

Our object is with as little expense as possible to so plan that any mistakes that have been made in Kitchener in the past will not be repeated in the future and we are trying to plan so that any new development will tend, if not entirely to correct the mistakes of the past, at least to obviate to some estent those mistakes.

"For several months information obtained from the City Engineer and Assessment Commissioner was plotted and mapped and studied. A contour survey of the city and surrounding area is being carried out. All buildings in the city have been located on the map. On various prints of the base map there have been shown in suitable colour the assessed value of land, the lots served with sewer and water or water only, the streets that are paved, the various types of pavement indicated, the location of sidewalks, etc. and the use to which buildings are put, distinguishing between factories, warehouses, retail stores, garages, schools, churches, public buildings, etc. From an analysis of such information many interesting deductions can be drawn, and an intimate knowledge of the city obtained. The location and relation of existing parks, were also studied.

"With the facts so determined before us, proposals for future development have been made. The city of Kitchener is generally speaking amply provided with radiating highways which are being developed by the Ontario Department of Highways, but at present all traffic leads to one congested centre where unfortunately the main street is only 60 feet in width. We are endeavouring to link up by circular roads these radiating highways so that a great deal of the traffic can find its logical outlet without going through the congested centre, and we are thus helping to relieve the condition caused by poor planning, in the first instance. Provision is being made for the carrying through of streets that at present parallel the main street, the object again being to relieve congestion on the main street, to widen which would be very expensive. By comparatively short extension there is also being provided through cross-town streets hitherto unprovided. The provision of further park and recreational areas is being made and the whole park and parkway system considered.

"In all this work it must be apparent that it is a very great advantage to be able to plan the adjoining municipalities of Kitchener and Waterloo at the one time. In unsubdivided territory the carrying out of the plan proposed entails practically no expense, because the subdivider must meet the wishes of the town planning commission. In our experience in Kitchener he has always been very pleased to do so as he found that the plan proposed was better for himself, than that which he had in mind. Streets now opened but where there has been no subdivision are being widened by having the owners dedicate part of the land for street purposes when they subdivide. Again this is done without cost. The only cost at present involved is in the few cases where some streets have to be extended, but as a rule such extensions are through cheap land.

"Of most interest to the citizens, I believe, are the zoning provisions controlling new building development as to the use to which buildings may be put, the height to which they may be erected, the area of the lot which they may occupy, and the distance they may be set back from the street. As proposed, the city is to be divided into five districts, heavy industrial, light industrial business, residential, and detached private residential.

"We feel that in Kitchener we have the Council and the citizens behind us. This, I believe, has been accomplished by giving the fullest publicity to all our work. The local press has been very generous with space, organizations of all kinds have been addressed by the Chairman of the Town Planning Commission and myself,—such organizations as the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Board of Trade, the Young Men's Club, and representatives of the Horticultural Society, the Board of Education, the Park Board, etc. Our proposals were recently given in two full pages in the local press, one showing a plan and the other showing our proposed zoning provisions. Under the auspices of the Town Planning Commission meetings were held for a week in various wards of the city. Suggestions were asked for and an opportunity for constructive criticism was given. Some very helpful suggestions were received and will be incorporated in our plans. To my mind this represents the democratic way of town planning and goes far to ensure that any scheme proposed will be effective, because it has public support. The autocratic way of town planning, as has sometimes been indulged in in the past, probably results in prettier pictures but does not get much farther. In the city of Ottawa some years ago there was prepared a plan at a cost, I am told, of some $30,000. It has been almost entirely ineffective, and in many instances its proposals have been flagrantly unobserved. This, I believe, is because there was no real public interest. When there is a real public interest no council can stand against it, and it hastens to carry out the wishes of the people.

"I am more and more convinced from my experience that while our Canadian cities and towns are not prepared to carry out town planning on a monumental scale, such as, for example, that indulged in by Paris under that greatest of town planners, Baron Hausamn, yet if the matter can only be properly presented to them there will be an urge for planning such as that I have described in the city of Kitchener. We have been appealed to from the aesthetic side; we have been appealed to from the sociological side, and while I am firmly convinced of the advantages that will be obtained through proper planning in better home life, I now make my appeal on economic and commercial grounds. The answer to the question: why is a city? is, in Canada, I think, an industrial or commercial one. We must so plan and zone our cities that industries are given every opportunity, that business is given every opportunity. The logical way to prevent intrusion of residential sites by factory and business buildings is to provide proper factory and business sites. But to the wise business man the protection of the home is as important as protection of business sites and rights. A prominent manufacturer in the States, asked as to what was the first requisite for a new factory town, said. "Proper housing conditions for the workers," placing it before transportation, before power requirements, etc. The question of housing is one which every manufacturer must consider, even if he decide that the best thing to do is to settle in a city like Peterborough, where the housing problem has probably to a large extent been already solved for him.

"I admire and envy the small city. There is no doubt in my mind that cities of 20,000, such as Kitchener and Peterborough, if properly organized, can furnish all the amenities that the average citizen can take advantage of. To preserve the advantages of the small city if it is to grow to a large city requires careful planning."

Some Particular Planning Needs of Peterboro

I have made a brief study of your city from Government statistics as to growth and density of population, growth of industry, building development, tax levy and debenture debt per capita and from information kindly supplied by your city officials I believe here exists a present need for:

"1. A better map of the environs of the city of Peterboro so that there can be prepared a plan of development of main roads in the present unbuilt areas in the vicinity of the city and within the five-mile urban zone.

"The casual approval of even one or two sub-divisions may result in the blocking or hampering of desirable future development.

"2. Adequate steps being taken to develop vacant properties now served with sewer and water, sidewalks, electric lights and in some instances I understand permanent pavements before new areas unserved with local improvements are thrown open for settlement.

"You would probably be surprised to know just how many miles of vacan lot frontage there are in Peterboro already served with utilities. In the city of Kitchener where there seems to be few lots undeveloped we were surprised to fine twelve and one-half miles of such frontage.

"In the city of Calgary a few years ago there was found twenty-six thousand vacant lots, adequately served with local improvements, or enough if built on to provide for more than the existing population of Calgary. Yet further water and sewer extensions were being made.

"In our proposed building zone by-laws for the city of Kitchener sub-section five, section two, read:

"Except as hereinafter provided for Residential Districts, no building shall be erected on any street before the street grade is established and before the passage of by-laws providing for sewer and water mains.

"The exception in the case of Residential Districts reads:

In the case of any area, which in the opinion of the City Engineer cannot be economically provided with local improvements, owing to the levels of the land or condition of the soil, or which not being provided with local improvements is suitable for farming, truck gardening, nurseries or greenhouses, dwellings may be erected thereon, but not in excess of two to each acre, and proper provision shall be made on the site of each such dwelling for adequate sewerage disposal.

In Haileybury after the fire of over a year ago an endeavor was made to have those lots served with sewer and water but vacant before the fire built on before outlying properties were developed. This is true economy.

"To those councillors, to those citizens, who wish to keep down the tax rate I earnestly submit a consideration of the restriction of new building development to areas already prepared for such development. Do not curtail the use and development of recreational areas as was recently suggested in one of our Canadian cities. This is false economy.

"3. The development of a park ways system to link up your delightful parks.

"4. And last but not least the preparation and enforcement of a building zone by-law, which if anything is more important than your ordinary building by-law dealing with structural requirements only—a building zone bylaw that will stimulate industrial and business development by allocating suitable areas for such development and discouraging residential development therein; that will stabilize land values by preventing the unnecessary enclusion of undesirable buildings in an area devoted to a preferred class such as for example, a private detached residence.

"In the preparation of a building zone by-law, it is, of course, necessary to thoroughly study existing conditions as has been done in Kitchener and to make the zoning fit in with other phases of town planning.

"In conclusion I hope you will note that I have said nothing this evening of a Union station, of street widening, of a civic centre. I have tried to confine my remarks to those things which can be done with little or no expense and which will form a stable foundation for further constructive town planning work. Let me again stress the point that to preserve the advantages of the small city if or when it grows to a large city requires careful planning. The town or city that can function as a small unit may find that doubling in size will be a very expensive business if proper foresight is not exercised. This is the history of our large cities.

"One immediate step that might be taken in the city of Peterboro is the appointment of a town-planning commission under the provisions of the planning and development act of Ontario. I think it can be taken as true that only in those municipalities in which town planning commissions has been appointed has there been any real results."

A WORD TO THE WISE

FEET.

(By Helen Granville Butler)

Strange as it may seem to many, people's feet are largely to blame for the lines in their faces. No woman can keep her face fresh and untroubled is she is bitterly conscious of her feet.

Troublesome and tedious treatment of the feet can all be avoided if you will expend the proper amount of time and thought on their care.

First and foremost bathe the feet daily in warm water and pure soap. Be sure to dry them carefully and then dust them with a good foot powder. At least twice a week give them a thorough treatment. Soak them for ten or fifteen minutes in hot water, then dry them carefully and massage gently in order to give all the muscles a certain amount of exercise and stimulation. Vinegar or alcohol is excellent for this massaing but not necessary. Rub with a firm upward stroke and mould the foot with the palm of the hand and the fingers. Next exercise the toes as a baby does; stretch and work them in all directions. Rotate the foot to bring into play the muscles of the ankle; this helps to keep the foot and ankle supple. Now stand up and roll the feet out, curling the toes under as you do so. Do this exercise twelve times. It strengthens the arches. Now powder the foot freely. You will be surprised to find how your feet will be strengthened and refreshed by these simple methods.

Great care is necessary in trimming the nails. Take strong nail scissors, or clippers, and cut the nail down close to the end of the toe. Be sure to cut the nail straight across. Do not shape the corners. Ingrowing toe nails are a result of such shaping. Trim off any rough places with the file or emery board. If a nail shows a tendency to grow in, take a small piece of cotton and push it gently under the corner. Keep it there until the nail is pushed back into place.

If you have callouses or corns on the soles or sides of your feet soak them in as hot water as you can bear, then take a pumice stone and rub the place smooth. In cases where a corn has been allowed to develop and become painful, a chiropodist should be consulted. Home treatment with a razor too often results in a serious infection.

Some people are troubled by excessive perspiration of the feet. The feet should be washed carefully and dried without rubbing, then covered with a lotion of alum and water, or boracic acid and water. Powder carefully with a foot powder or boracic acid. Never use a deodrant on the feet.

Make it a habit to change into lighter shoes in the evening. It rests the feet.

This simple treatment if followed faithfully will be invaluable in keeping your feet in good condition and conserving your youth and energy.

ADMIRAL CACOULIDIS RETURNED FROM MOSCOW

ATHENS, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—Admiral Cacoulidis has returned from a special mission to Moscow. He declared that the resumption of Russo-Greek diplomatic relations was imminent.

HOCKEY GAMES ARE CALLED OFF

The mild weather has played havoc with the O.H.A. fixture scheduled for to-night, and the two games in which the Peterborough teams were billed to play, the Intermediates at Lakefield and the Juniors against Lindsay at Brock Street Rink have both been indefinitely postponed.

So far this season the Intermediates have been able to work in just two practices, while the Juniors have had but one.

The next scheduled games are on Tuesday night—an Intermediate fixture here with Lakefield, while the Juniors will go to Lindsay for their first game of the season.

PROHIBITION TO BE REMOVED IN NORWAY

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—It is reported that Norwegian cabinet has unanimously decided to remove the prohibition on the sale of spirits at the earliest possible moment.

The decision it is understood, will be announced in King Haakon's speech Saturday.

THE J.C. Turnbull CO. LTD

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 11. — The Cobourg Primary Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire held a euchre and tea at the Cobourg club room on Tuesday afternoon from three o'clock until six that was very much enjoyed.

Council Meets on Monday.

The first meeting of Cobourgs' new town council will be held on Monday morning next, when Mayor and Councillors assemble to go through with the necessary formalities consequent upon their appointment. There is only one new member, Mr. Delis Batton. All of the others have had municipal experience.

Only About Half a Vote.

Country roads have been so badly blocked that returns were late in coming in. It is estimated that the vote cast on Monday at several of the rural polling places was only about half of what it would have been had not Sunday's storm so completely blocked the roads.

The Election in Haldimand.

Again On Route.

The car ferry, Ontario No. 1, which had such a rough experience with wind and storm and wave on Sunday, left again yesterday from Cobourg on her customary route between this port and Genessee dock.

Death of Mrs. John N. Gresjean.

The funeral took place the first of the week from her late home in Haldimand township to St. Michaels' church and cemetery of Mrs. Gresjean, wife of Mr. John N. Gresjean, who passed away from pneumonia after a short illness. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Coogan ,of Cobourg, and her death has removed three members of the family in less than two years. Mrs. Gresjean, in her girlhood days in Cobourg, was popular among the young people. After she had completed her High school education she taught for a short time before she became the wife of Mr. John N. Gresjean and went to live upon the farm in Haldimand township, which was her home for over twenty years. She is survived by her husband and by three daughters, Caroline, who has been attending school in Lindsay, but who had not yet returned at time of her mother's death, Louise and May. With them very deep sympathy is felt. She is survived also by one brother, Mr. P. J. Coogan, New York, and by two sisters, Sister Irene of Lindsay, and Mrs. Charles Carroll of Hamilton township.

Installed Officers.

D.D.G.M. Bolster and an installing team from Cobourg Lodge, No. 136, I.O.O.F., went to Port Hope on Tuesday night to install the officers of the Durham Lodge. Port Hope Lodge put on the second degree. After the installation a banquet was held, at which interesting brief addresses were made and a very pleasant time was spent. On Wednesday night the same installing team went to Bowmanville, where they installed the members of the Lodge there, and were afterwards enjoyably intertained Visited Oshawa Lodge.

On Tuesday evening R.W. Bro. E. J. Wormington, D.D.G.M. of Ontario District, A.F. and A.M., paid an official visit to Lebanon Lodge, Oshawa. He was accompanied by W. Bro. T. J. Stenhouse, District Secretary. A large number of members were present. Wor. Bro. Sinclair, M.P.P., proposed the toast of "... Lodge" to which Mr. Wormington made appropriate reply. Wor. Bro. Stenhouse replied to the toast of "Our Visitors."

Pleasant Literary Afternoon.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the residence of Mrs. C. C. Field last Thursday, when, under the auspices of the Cobourg Reading Club, Prof. Dale of Toronto University gave a very interesting lecture on "Authors: Old and New."

There were present, besides the Reading Club, a number of guests who enjoyed greatly the pleasure of hearing Prof. Dale.

Local and Personal.

Mr. Bert Sprung, a former Brighton citizen, is conducting a very successful business as a lumber merchant at St. Ola, it is stated.

COMPROMISE MAY DECIDE CABINET

OTTAWA, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier King's conference with Hon. T. A. Crerar and Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan, are continuing to-day, but there is no indication as yet of any definite result arising from them. Tht Cabinet situation continues the chief subject of discussion. Attention is now being turned in political circles here to the queston as to how an arrangement that will bring in western support can be reconciled with the wishes of the Liberals of Quebec and Eastern Canada generally.

There is evidence of considerable willingness on the part of the Eastern Liberals to go a certain distance in the direction of western desires. This phase of opinion was expressed by a Nova Soctia Liberal, who said he was in favor of an understanding with the Progressives and was quite willing to see additions to the representation of the west in the cabinet. He suggested that both Mr. Dunning and Mr. Crerar come in; it should be as a Liberal. Mr. Dunning ,of course, holds office at the present time as Liberal Premier of Saskatchewan.

The Nova Scotian was not disposed, however, to see the need of adding other westerners to the cabinet. On the matter of policy this maritime Liberal admitted that a definite agreement between the Government and Mr. Crerar was an indispensable condition to his entry into the cabinet. He was willing that such an agreement should be made and that public announcement of it should be made at the time and as a condition of the entry into the cabinet of the former Progressiv eleader.

No Result Expected.

There is a general report abroad here this afternoon that no definite result is expected to come out of the conferences.

No statement as to the present state of negotiations has been made by either of the western politicians nor by Mr. King.

The Federal Premier has again intimated, however, that the conferences are part of a series of consultations he is having with political friends with a view to securing the fullest information obtainable on the political situation in the Dominion.

Vienna is reported to have consumed 113,982,500 liters of beer the last year.

CANADA HAS THOUSANDS OF CRAVING SNOW BIRDS

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Canada has from ten to fifteen thousand drug addicts and traffickers who are carrying on an encouraging business and are more evil in their efforts than the worst of bootleggers. That was the statement of Dr. J. A. Amyott, Deputy Minister of Health for the Dominion, in an address at the Mining Building last night. One of the duties of the Department of Health, Dr. Amyott pointed out, was to keep as close a check as possible upon the drug traffickers in order that objectionable drugs may be kept out of Canada. He stated that the officials, through co-operation with the international police, were able to check up a large number of the traffickers.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

The last service in connection with the Week of Prayer will be held this evening in St. Paul's Church. The meetings have been held under the Ministerial Association, and members and ministers of all the denominations have attended. The service this evening will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Rose and the Rev. Mr. Grobb. Other brethren, representing all the churches, are expected to take some part in the evening service.

It is being borne home upon those who attend night after night, that the church's mightiest weapon to-day against her adversaries, of whom there are many, is prayer. A two-fold movement is seen in the world to-day, a movement away from God, and towards greater license to follow its own evil way without any regard to God or the restraints of religion; and a movement on the other hand, upon the part of many who have had no religion at all, or a very imperfect one, to seek God, and find satisfaction for their soul's longings in the religion of Christ. In the church itself a two-fold movement is seen, one away from the evangelical religion of our fathers, and the acceptance instead of an evolutionary philosophy, which leaves no room for either the fall of man or redemption through Christ, and the other a move ment towards a revival in the Body of Christ which is manifesting itself in the organization of prayer circles all over the world to pray especially for a revival in the true church, and the pouring out of God's Spirit on all flesh. This last movement is most encouraging. Only in prayer can victory be achieved. Before the last general revival which began in 1858, and swept around the world the lands the revival visited were those laying under a pall of reckless waste, and unparalleled fever for riches, deepening doubt, and alarming ungodliness. God in revival power saved the world then from these devastating evils. He can do the same today. His arm is not shortened that it cannot save. For all this He is waiting to be enquired of. Prayer is the secret key which unlocks the gates which hold bac', the power of God. Revival has been defined as a mighty uprush of God's power saving the world from its downgrade to perdition. Will church members give to God the key which unlocks this power—the key of united, believing, persistent prayer?

INSURANCE ADVERTISING ENDORSED

The Institutional Advertising Campaign will be continued during 1924, and the result to date received full endorsation at the annual meeting of the life officers association l-st month The same appropriation was unanimously approved and the A.B.C. daily newspapers will be us.l as formerly.

It is felt that a very favorable background has been created for the marketing of life insurance through institutional advertising. This molding of public sentiment in favor of the institution of life insurance has established a confidence in our business which might well be the envy of other financial institutions, such as banks, trust companies and loan corporations.

The institutional campaign has indeed been a great opportunity for selling people "in the mass" the ideas of life insurance, without reference to company names or particular forms of policy or practice.

Then again, the education and enlightenment of the press is shown by editors who wrote personal letters and published editorials from which it was evident that they had acquired a new light on the life insurance business. Press comments during 1923 are about the value of life insurance and the need for men to become insured.

The cultivation of good-will and co-operation among the various life insurance companies is another accomplishment. What has brought the companies together in the past has been the necessity for defensive campaigns, or at the most, a need for standardization of practice. No past co-operation of the companies can be likened to this joint campaign of publicity, and the gathering of the advertising men of the companies in separate meetings and their joint meetings with the Life Officers have produced a cordial understanding on this most important phase of the work. "Competitive" literature or pamphlets mentioning other companies by name in a disparaging way, have been almost entirely done away with by Home Office departments.

These noticeable results of the campaign, as briefly outlined above, are without doubt worth many times the effort and outlay, and the support and approval of the field men is no small factor in the success of the campaign.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

In many homes the cost of clothing for women is the item responsible for a deficit in the family's budget.

Styles change more frequently and more radically for women than for men. If a man buys a suit of good material, he can wear it till the cloth begins to show actual wear; a woman rarely wears her clothing out—she discards it because it is "out of style."

So the merchant who sells clothing to men knows that his stock will be salable for a relatively long time, but the merchant who sells to women knows that every month, or oftener, new styles will be taking the place of the perfectly good things he now sells. He must make a large margin of profit on today's sale lest he have to stand a big loss tomorrow. This is true for the maker of fabrics and clothing as well as for the retail merchant, so this margin is multiplied several times. Higher relative prices for women's clothing is the result.

The woman who buys conservative styles just after the height of the season can be well dressed on less than half the money needed by the woman who buys extreme modes the moment they appear.

QUITS TEACHING ENSNARE CROOKS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Pink teas may be sufficiently bracing for those who care for them.

But winsome Delphie Halversen here prefers her stimulants straight in the form of a bit of gun play coupled with pursuit of murderous gangsters into cloistered retreat of their underworld lairs.

In little more than three years this 22-year-old girl, who left drab monotony of the class-room behind to engage in spectacular career as a lady detective, has added untold laurels to her fame.

Likewise the transition has been productive of a kaleidoscopic series of thrills which continues to unfold as she puts fear of law into criminal hearts.

Bags 100 Bootleggers.

The latest and most spectacular coup of this petticoated Sherlock Holmes was the roundup and conviction of some 100 bootleggers, whom she arrested after much strategy in the town of Richmond, Calif.

Since changing from teaching to trailing, Miss Halversen has participated in all kinds of detective work, ranging from shoplifting cases to raids on opium joints.

Yet, despite her frequent contacts with the seamy side of life she retains a soft-spoken and truly feminine manner.

Nor has she the common faults of the traditional lady detective, her employer, V. D. Carli, chief of a prominent local agency, says.

Sex counts nothing with her.

Cultured and quiet, nevertheless, she can handle a gun with bullseye precision.

"I haven't yet been compelled to shoot anyone," she says.

"However, I would, if the occasion demanded."

Once she broke up an opium ring by simulating the nerve-wracked guise of a drug addict.

Acting Counts Too.

The Chinaman who conducted the place wanted to buy her for a slave girl and it was only by pretending willingness to the transaction that she gained entrance to the dive and secured evidence for the raiding party which followed.

"The game is thrilling and I like is," Miss Halversen says.

"There's only one drawback. I get too many proposals of marriage from the men I bring to jail.

"On my bootlegging raid recently, five of the gang wanted me as their wife.

"But all of that adds to the zest of things.

"Ever afraid? My, no!"

Hauling a loaded sled over 20 to 40 miles of snow and ice in a single day is nothing out of the ordinary for Eskimo dogs.

FAKES ENGAGEMENT TO FIND HIS WIFE

Peterborough Man Can't Find His Deserting Wife to Serve Divorce Papers --Original Method.

Peterborough has a divorce romance all its own. A city man who was tired of the bond of matrimony desired a release from his wife, who had left for parts unknown. Unable to locate her, his hopes for a divorce were fruitless, he not being able to serve the required notice.

Did he let it go at that?

Not he.

A printed notice on newspaper stock conveying the tidings that Mr. Peterborough was engaged to a wealthy Boston girl named Cora Zoner was prepared. To lend authenticity to its appearance part of an advertisement was set up on the reverse side. This apparent newspaper clipping was forwarded to the newspaper published in the city where the deserting wife was born and where she was married. It was printed in its issue of January 7, and the patient husband awaits the result. Either the wife or some of her relatives, he figures, will come into the open now to protest the marriage of an already married man. Then he has the papers ready to serve.

All of which indicates that Peterborough is getting more like New York every day.

EVERY MALE IS SAFE IN ITALY.

There Women Do Not Aspire to Public Office or Business Success.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—There's one country at least where men needn't worry over losing their jobs to women. That is Italy.

The lovely Princess Norina Marchiabelli, Italy's candidate for international beauty honors, is authority for this statement. Our particular pride, the business woman, secretly exists in Italy, she says, and she does not complicate the social or economic situation there at all.

"The recent war that drove the women of England into industry drove the Italian women back to their homes," she goes on. "The Fascisti movement has done much to rehabilitate and unify the home as it has the nation.

"The state recognizes man as the wage earner and gives him the preference in all state positions. The women are willing to be guided by their men."

This does not mean, she adds, that the Italian women are not cultivating themselves and excelling in art, poetry and music.

"All women are feeling the urge for expression and development," she says, "but our ideal is not to compete with men. It is to supplement their achievement. The Italian woman understands politics thoroughly, but her influence is felt through her husband."

The little international complication involving Lady Diana Manners and the Princess Marchiabelli, both of whom came to this country to play the part of the Madonna in "The Miracle," is being watched with interest, but at present no outsider has a key to the situation.

The two beauties are well matched, representing opposite types, one as typically Latin as the other is English. Both have the assurance of women who have always dominated.

CONVICTS REBEL IN ALDRICH COAL MINES

MONTEVALLO, Ala., Jan. 11. — Canadian Press. — One hundred and fifty state convicts are reported in rebellion at Thomas Weller Mining Company's coal mines at Aldrich, near here.

Reports reaching here are to the effect that the convicts yestreday caused considerable damage to machinery and tracks by the use of dynamite.

There are about 18,000 more persons of Welsh origin in the country than in 1910.

A.Y.P.A. MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

There Was a Small Attendance Owing to the Condition of the Weather.

The regular meeting of the District Council of the Anglican Young People's Association was held last evening in the Parish Hall of St. Luke's Church, with a poor attendance, owing to the inclement weather and the condition of the roads in the district.

St. Luke's Parish had a fair representation, two members were present from St. John's, four from All Saints', and St. George's was represented by the rector, Rev. W. R. Courage.

Three out of town members were present from Omemee.

In the absence of the president, the chair was taken by the second vice-president, Mr. Heber Rogers.

A brief business session was followed by an enjoyable social hour.

The schedule for debates was announced as follows:

29th January, St. George's vs. St. Luke's, at St. Luke's Parish Hall. Subject: "Resolved, That Government control of liquor would be better than the present system of Prohibition."

On the same evening, 29th January, Millbrook and All Saints' A. Y.P.A. will debate at All Saints' Hall on the subject: "Resolved, That manufacturing is more essential than farming."

On 30th January, St. John's and Lakefield societies will meet at St. John's Hall to debate on "Resolved, That travel is of more educational value than reading."

GIRL MANGLED BY PASSENGER TRAIN

KITCHENER, Ont., Jan. 11. Canadain Press. — Margie Macfie, aged 17, was struck and instantly killed this morning by the Toronto-Goderich train 697, about one-quarter of a mile east of Milton. The girl was on her way to school and was walking on the tracks at the time. It is believed that her attention was atracted by a freight train aproaching from the opposite direction, and she was unaware of the train bearing down upon her from the rear.

The engineer blew his whistle and applied the brakes but could not stop in time to avoid hitting the girl.

The body was removed from the front of the engine so badly mangled that it was impossible to place the remains in the baggage car.

INTEMPERANCE HOTELS WILL FORFEIT LICENSES

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Ontario's Board of License Commissioners is threatening the cancellation of licenses against the hotels which do not closely observe the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act. As a result of the Board's drastic action, three Toronto hotels have been suspended since the first of the year, two temporarily and one permanently, and the eyes of the Department are to be turned in the direction of others. The first three Toronto hotels to feel the iron hand of the Board are the Beverley, Queen Street West, which is closed permanently; the Royal Edward, Queen Street West, and the Gibson House, Jarvis and Queen, which have been temporarily refused license renewals, but may, upon the assurance of future good behavior, be allowed to open again February 1.

Thrace was seized by the Turks in 1361 and made their capital for about 100 years.

According to some authorities the surface of the human body is about 16 square feet.

Doctors, biologists, endocrinolo-gist were interviewed. Civil war threatened: the medical fraternity, upheld by a few doubting Thomases among the more abstract followers of the science, on one side of the field, by far the greater number of those who peer into the human mechanism with mere scientific acumen on the other. Doctors, notoriously as conservative as kings and as jealous as opera singers, found themselves threatened with the loss of elderly patients whose steady degeneration was a source of respectable income. When it was discovered that New York actually held a practicing physician who had studied with the great endocrinologists of Vienna, the street in front of his house looked as if some ambitious hostess were holding a continual reception.

Finally Madame Zattiany consented to give a brief statement to the press through her lawyers. It was as impersonal as water, but technical enough to satisfy the Medical Journal. At the theatre and opera people waited in solid phalanxes to see her pass. Her utter immobility on th these occasions but heightened the feverish interest.

Women of thirty, dreaming of becoming flappers overnight; and formidable rivals, with the subtelty of experience behind the mask of seventeen, were desolated to learn that they must submit to the claws and teeth of time until they had reached the last mile-post of their maturity. Beauty doctors gnashed their teeth, and plastic surgeons looked forward to the day when they must play upon some other form of human credulity. As a subject for the press it rivaled strikes, prohibition, German reparations, Lenin, prize-fights, censorship and scandalous divorces in high life.

"Why isn't your head turned?" Clavering asked her one day when the sensation was about a month old and was beginning to expire journalistically for want of fresh fuel. (Not a woman in New York could be induced to admit that she was taking the treatment.) "You are the most famous woman in America and the pioneer of a revolution that may have lasting and momentous consequences on which we can only speculate vaguely today. I don't believe you are as unmoved as you look. It's not in woman's nature—in human nature. Publicity goes to the head and then descends to the marrow of the bones."

"I'm not unmoved. I've been tremendously interested and excited. I find that newspaper notoriety is the author of a distinctly new sensation." And then she felt a disposition to play with fire. Clavering was in one of his rare detached moods, and had evidently come for an hour of agreeable companionship. "I am beginning to get a little bored and tired. If it were not for this Vienna Fund—and to the newspapers for their assistance I am eternally grateful—I believe I'd suggest that we leave for Austria tomorrow."

"And I wouldn't go." Clavering stood on the hearthrug smiling down at her with humorous defiance. "You switched me on to that play, and there I stick until it is finished. No chance for it in a honeymoon, and no chance for undiluted happiness with that crashing round inside my head."

She shrank and turned cold, but recovered herself sharply and dismissed the pang. It was her first experience, in her exhaustive knowledge of men, of the writing temperament; and after all it was part of the novelty of the man who had obliterated every other from her mind. Nor had she any intention of letting him see that he could hurt her. She smiled sweetly and asked:

"How is it coming on? Are you satisfied with it?"

"Yes, I am. And so is Gora Dwight. I've finished two acts and I read them to her last night."

"Ah? Your Egeria?"

"Not a bit of it. But she's wise cold-blooded critic. You can't blame me for not even talking about it to you. I see so little of you that I've no intention of wasting any of the precious time."

"But you might let me read it."

"I'd rather wait until it's finished and as polished and perfect as I can make it. I always want you to know me at my best."

"Oh, my dear! You forget that we are to be made one and remain twain. Do you really believe that we shall either of us always be at our best?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I don't care a hang whether we are or not. I'll have you, and all to myself. And I won't say 'for a while, at least.' Do you imagine that when we return to New York I'm going to let Society take possession of you again? Not only shall I work harder than I've ever worked before, but I'd see little more of you than I do now. And that I'll never submit to again. I'll write my next play inside this house, and you'll be here when I want you, not gadding about."

She felt a sudden pang of dismay, apprehension. New York? She realized that not for a moment had she given up her original purpose. But why disturb the serenity of the present? When she had him in the Dolomites . . . She answered him in the same light tone.

"I'm having my last fling at New York Society. When we return we'll give our spare time to the Sophisticates. I see far less of them now than I like."

Then, with a further desire to investigate the literary temperament even if she were stabbed again in the process, she looked at him with provocative eyes and said: "I've sometimes wondered why you haven't insisted upon a secret marriage. I'm told it can be done with a reasonable prospect of success in certain states."

"Don't imagine I didn't think of it . . . but—well—I think the play would go fluey . . . you see. . . ."

"I see! And what about your next?"

"The next will be a comedy. I'll never be able to write a tremendously emotional play again."

"And meanwhile you will not deny that the artist has submerged the lover."

"I admit nothing of the sort. But you yourself let the artist loose—and what in God's name should I be doing these cursed weeks if you hadn't? You know you never would have consented to a secret marriage. You've set your heart on the Dolomites. . . . How about that interval of travel, by the way? Liners and trains are not particularly conducive to illusions."

"I thought I'd told you. My plan is to be married there. I should go on a preceding steamer and see that the Lodge was in proper condition. I want everything to be quite perfect, and Heaven only knows what has happened to it."

"Oh! This is a new one you've sprung. But—yes—I like the idea. 'd rather dreaded the prelude." And then he made one of those abrupt vaultings out of one mood into another which had fascinated her from the first. "God! I wish we were there now. When I'm not writing——! How many men have you got in love with you already? But no. I don't care. When I'm here—like this, Mary, like this—I don't care a hang if I never write another line.

Committees Appointed

On motion of Mrs. W. R. Morris, a nominating committee, composed of A. A. Fowler, J. A. McKone, R. Denne, Dr. J. J. Craig and Mrs. Morris struck the standing committees for the year. As finally selected they are: Finance committee, E. B. Fowler, chairman; Dr. F. C. Neal, Dr. J. J. Craig and a separate school representative. Property committee, Mrs. W. R. Morris, chairman; R. Denne, Dr. H. M. Yelland and A. A. Fowler. Supervision committee: Dr. F. C. Neal, chairman; A. A. Fowler, Mrs. W. R. Morris and Dr. J. J. Craig. Committee on appointments: J. A. McKone, chairman; the whole Board. Advisory vocational committee: G. A. Gillespie, W. A. Richardson, E. G. Patterson, E. F. Reid, F. J. Gandy, W. H. Tedford, E. B. Fowler, J. A. McKone, J. M. Greene, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. H. M. Yelland and a seperate school representative. The chairman of this committee will be appointed at its first meeting.

On suggestion of Roland Denne the advisory commercial committee of other years was done away with, it never having functioned, it was said. The work of the advisory commercial and industrial committees is now combined in the advisory vocational committee, under powers granted in the amended School Act.

Collegiate Grant

On request of H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, grants were allocated as follows: Science, $300; library, $100; art, $50, and an unnamed sum for the purchase of an up-to-date dictionary.

An interim grant will be requested by the Board of Education from the City Council.

Representations by Mrs. Morris resulted in permission being given by the Board for the Home and School Association of Queen Alexandra School to take extra space for its nursing classes which have outgrown the kindergarten quarters.

OIL TANK EXPLODED.

LINDEN, N.J., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—A huge oil tank at the Bayway refinery of the Standard Oil Company in Linden near here exploded last night with a roar that was heard several miles. Police from Linden have been sent to the scene.

No one was injured. The fire company maintained by the corporation soon had the resulting fire under control.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE SANDMAN GETS A SURPRISE

The patch door was open and somebody was inside.

Away went Nancy and Nick and Daddy Gander on the magic dustpan to hunt for the pies and cakes and ice cream that had been stolen from Jack and Jill's party.

The magic dustpan had grown as big as a magic carpet and the three of them were quite comfortable.

"Oh, I do hope Mother Goose will stay away until it's all over!" said Daddy Gander. "Wouldn't I be in a pretty pickle if she'd come home now and find that I'd let everybody stay out of bed at this hour—and to go to a party at that!"

"Oh, look!" cried Nancy looking down through acres of darkness. "There's a light moving. Do you suppose that's Jack Heart?"

Daddy Gander peered over the edge of the queer airplane. "Yes, sir! It must be," he exclaimed. "Whoa, there, Sally!" And he said a charm in gibberish to the dustpan, which stopped immediately and began to descend.

So very cautiously the three of them peeped in, and who, my dears, do you s'pose was there? Mister Sandman! He was rushing about from crib to crib and cot to cot, pulling down covers and plumping up pillows as though he had lost his senses.

"Every last one of them!" he kept saying over and over. "Every one as gone as a rabbit's tail. What can the Old Woman be thinking of to keep her children up so late? And if she has lost her sense, where can Mother Goose be to allow such carrying on. And last of all—where can the children be? How am I ever to drop sand into their eyes?"

Now I don't know what made him do it, whether a bit of the Sandman's sand got out of his bag, or what it was. But something got up Nick's nose! "Achoo! Achoo!" he went.

And the Sandman was so taken by surprise that he dropped his bag, and the string dropped off and all the sand flew out right on the Old Woman's nice clean floor.

"Now, you've done it!" cried Daddy Gander, forgetting all about hiding, "a nice muss you've made!"

"Muss!" exclaimed the Sandman. "Fuss, you mean. Who did all that sneezing. It nearly scared me to death."

But instead of answering him, didn't all three of them start to sneeze again. It must have been the sleepy sand that got into their noses. And at every sneeze more sleepy sand flew out of the door. And it flew across the street and over the tops of three houses to the house that Jack built, where the party was. And every last one of the merrymakers fell asleep.

Oh, it was a dreadful state of affairs! And the pies still missing.

VESSEL ON FIRE AND ABANDONED

HALIFAX, N.S., January 11. — It is thought that the three-masted schooner J. W. Comeau, of La Have, N.S., which sailed from Lunenburg last Friday, bound for the Barbadoes, is the vessel reported on fire and abandoned, about 700 miles east of New York.

HON. HENRY MILES BEEN MADE A CONSUL-GENERAL

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. Henry Miles, member of the Legislative Council of the Province of Quebec, has been raised to the dignity of Consul General in Canada for the Republic of Paraguay. Mr. Miles received announcement of his appointment recently and to-day was the recipient of a cable from the Consul-General in London, stating His Majesty, the King, had approved of his appointment and endorsed it according to the practice in such matters.

Mr. Miles has been acting in the capacity of Consul for Paraguay in Montreal for the past 23 years, but this is the first occasion on which an appointment has been made to the office of Consul-General and indicates a growing importance in trade relations between the Dominion and Paraguay.

Coming Anniversaries

This year will mark the centenary of quite a number of interesting events in Canadian history, especially in that of Montreal.

March 9 will give two reasons for remembrance, for it was on that day in 1824 that the Legislature of Lower Canada passed the Fabrique Act which empowered the priest and churchwardens of every parish to provide a school for each hundred families; and on that day also the first patent in Canada was issued, the recipient being Noah Cushing, of Quebec, for a washing and fulling machine. The law bringing a system into effect had been passed by the Legislature a few months previously.

June 21 will be the centenary of the practical completion of the Lachine canal, because it was on that date in 1824 that water was let into this the first link in the chain of Canada's wonderful system of waterways, although the canal was not actually opened for traffic until the following year.

September 1 will be the hundredth anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone of Notre Dame Church, Montreal, and will afford an opportunity for historical retrospect and a comparison of the Montreal of that time with that of today.

Some time during the summer of 1824 the steamer "Hercules performed the "wonderful feat" (to quote the chroniclers of the time) of coming up St. Mary's current under her own steam being the first steam vessel to do so. She was thus the pioneer of the great vessels which now accomplish the same "feat" without any difficulty and which made Montreal the second greatest shipping port in America.

Other notable events of 1824 were the passage by the Parliament of Upper Canada of the Common School act, the basis of the present educational system of Ontario; the laying of the foundation stone of the monument to the memory of Sir Isaac Brock of Queenston; the formation of the first Methodist Conference in Canada at Hallowel (now Picton), Upper Canada; the turning of the first sod of the Welland canal; and the burning of the Parliament Buildings at York (now Toronto).

The year was notable for an election to the Legislature of Upper Canada which resulted in the return for the first time of a majority of "Reformers" and the practical birth of the "Liberal" party as it was until recent years. It was also noteworthy for the first appearance of the political birth of the "Liberal" party as it was until recent years. It is also noteworthy for the first appearance on the political stage of William Lyon Mackenzie, the later rebel, whom our present Premier is so fond of boasting about. History tells that at the laying of the foundation stone of the Brock monument, Mackenzie took a very prominent part in the proceedings, which were of a Masonic character. He managed to have a copy of his newspaper, the "Colonial Advocate," placed with the other records in the stone, but as soon as the news reached Sir Peregrine Maitland, the Lieutenant-Governor, at York, His Honor became very wrathy and sent posthaste to have the offending journal removed. The record merely states that Mackenzie withdrew it." The "Colonial Advocate" had been first published the month previous, but did not long remain at Queenston, being removed to York the following November. There it remained until its stormy career, including several raids by local citizens, was brought to a termination in 1834.

The rivalry between the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa routes to the sea was alive as early as 1824. In that year the Imperial Government offered to pay £17,000 towards the construction of the Rideau canal from Kingston to Bytown in order to secure a waterway which would be safe from American interference; but the Government of the day replied, with a prescience which the century has justified, that in their opinion "The improvement of the St. Lawrence was more important than the other project," so that they may be said to have been practical fathers of the present St. Lawrence route to the sea. Another interesting centenary in transportation is that in 1824 a number of citizens of York, headed by William Hamilton Merritt, founded a company for the construction of the Welland canal and the first sod for that undertaking was turned by Lord Dalhousie, then Governor-General, on November 30 with much ceremony. The enterprise was a costly one and swallowed up the money of the promoters several times over.

An illustration of the fact that history repeats itself is found in the circumstance that in 1824 there was much distress as a result of the failure of the Bank of Kingston, just as in 1924 there is the sad aftermath of the wreck of the Home Bank.

Some Semi-Centennials.

Fifty years ago the Dominion of Canada was still very young, but it was making history. In 1874, January 22 saw the general elections for the House of Commons in which the Liberals under Alexander Mackenzie secured a majority of 50 over Sir John A. Macdonald. On March 30, Louis Riel, who had been elected to the House of Commons for Provencher, appeared at Ottawa and demanded the right to take his seat, although he was a rebel against the Queens' Government; and on April 16 he was formally expelled from the House by a vote of 124 to 68. Later in the year on October 15, the Court of Queen's Bench of Manitoba issued a warrant of outlawry against Riel, who was not heard from again until he once more raised the standard of revolt in 1885, a crime for which he paid the penalty on the scaffold.

Probably the most important political event of 1874 was the passing of a law providing for voting by ballot, for the holding of all elections on the same day and the abolition of property qualification for candidates for the Commons.

The House of Commons Hansard was established in 1874 and has since submerged Canada under an ocean of twaddle talked in Parliament which might just as well never be reported.

The famous treaty with the Cree and Chippewa Indians was signed at Qu'Appelle by Hon. Alex. Morris and Hon. David Laird in September, 1874, and on November 17 Lord Carnarvon gave his decision against the Dominion in the reference of British Columbia for better terms.

C. B. de Boucherville was sworn as Premier of Quebec on September 22, 1874; T. W. Anglin was elected Speaker of the House of Commons on March 26, Rev. J. T. Duhamel was consecrated as second Bishop of Ottawa on October 25. The year is also the semi-centennial of the opening of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, on May 1, 1874.

A 150th Aniversary.

The coming year will also be the 150th anniversary of the passing of the Quebec Act, guaranteeing to the people of Quebec the free exercise of their religion, language and laws. This historic measure, by many regarded as the Magna Charta of the French Canadians, was passed by the British House of Commons on June 13, 1774, and received the royal assent on June 22, so that this year's celebrations of St. Jean Baptiste day will have added significance.

Forecast of Hats For Spring Wear

By HELEN ROSS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—Becoming things have a way of remaining in fashion long after the hour has struck for them to pass on.

Witness the cloche. The little head-fitting hats that smart women have been wearing since early fall are still the hats most in favor.

The only variation in sight for spring is a smaller cloche than ever—a cloche with the rim knocked off, so to speak, or disguised with a small rolling brim.

Small turbans, with dangling metal trimmings, and the tri-corn hat—which inevitably followed the trend toward directorire frocks—are making a strong bid to transplant the cloche, however.

Hideous fashions, likewise, seldom remain "in" for any length of time, any more. The style that is merely bizarre without being becoming is finding its tenure of life growing shorter and shorter.

One happy instance of this I witnessed on Fifth Avenue in the early fall Coat with broad horizontal stripes, in violent browns and yellows, filled the streets a short time ago. Every third woman in New York looked like a sack of meal, or an overfed "potato bug."

Now you hardly see one. The horrid things vanished as if by a conspiracy for their suppression, in which even the weather man, dealing out balmy summer days, joined.

• • •

For all that Fashion has been pointing back to the directoire, what with gored flounces and drapes and one thing and another, women just will not return to fussy, flouncy styles.

Paris' ruling for 1924 is severe simplicity. American women have already taken it up.

Simple, three-piece tailored suits made of summer fabrics, as painly cut as if for boarding school miss or a business girl, are being worn now at all the resorts in the South. Long, brilliant scarfs brighten the Vicissitudes besetting modern cat life robbed this Taby, property of Frank Jones, Birmingham, Ala., of all her kittens on the day they were born. The nut-trackers have been named "Ty Cobb' and "Cy Williams," and just now are very busy with their breakfast, as you can see.

VAN LOON FAMOUS AS HISTORY WRITER

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Hendrik Willem Van Loon took a very dry subject, history, and wrote about it so interestingly that in two years the people have paid one and a half million dollars to read his books.

Van Loon thinks his books are popular because they are to the point instead of cluttered up with a mess of words and dates. He learned to write briefly when he was a newspaper correspondent cabling news from Russia at a dollar a word. It cost so much that brevity was compulsory.

Van Loon, now 41, was born in Holland. He is highly educated, a college professor. But, due to his foreign birth and training, he doesn't handle English as easily as the average American. Says he: "I have to write very simply in order to make my meaning intelligible to myself."

Twenty years ago a man would have been called crazy if he had claimed that a book of routine history could be written so it would outsell the top-notchers of fiction. History, until a few years back, was not a popular subject. Obviously, the reason for this was that history had never been written simply and attractively.

People are no hungrier for knowledge than in the past.

They are reading history because it is being dished up so it can be grasped quickly and without puckering the forehead and reading sentences twice.

The same is being done with the great sciences, by such men as Prof. J. Arthur Thomson, whose "Outline of Science" is as fascinating as Jules Verne. Fabre, the Frenchman, started the epidemic of popularization of knowledge, by his books about insect life.

We'd like to see a hundred men like Van Loon, Thomson and Fabre turned loose on the job of rewriting most of the textbooks used in schools.

By No Means Allow Your Bowels To Get Constipated.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, sallow complexion, specks floating before the eyes, whites of the eyes dull and yellow, heartburn, water brash, etc.

CYCLONES AND TORNADOES

U. S. Weather Bureau Draws Distinction Between Them

A vast system of winds blowing around a centre of low atmospheric pressure is called by meteorologists a "cyclone," according to the United States Weather Bureau. Atmospheric disturbances of this character pass in endless procession across the United States, at intervals of a few days, in a general direction from West to East. They are usually several hundred thousand square miles in area, and they move, on an average, at a rate of 600 or 700 miles a day. They are by far the most important factor in controlling the weather of the country. As a cyclone approaches us, the temperature usually rises, clouds gather, and we are likely to have rain or snow. Stormy winds are not necessarily a feature of a cyclone. In short, a cyclone is an exceedingly commonplace event in the life of an American citizen.

There is no funnel-shaped cloud in a cyclone. Neither does the coming of one of these disturbances usually make it expedient to take refuge in a "cyclone cellar."

The most violent storms known anywhere occur in the interior of the North American Continent, especially in the Middle Western United States, and most frequently in late Spring and Summer. Their most conspicuous feature is a whirling black cloud, hanging from a mass of dark storm clouds. This cloud may be funnel shaped, or balloon shaped, or like the trunk of a huge elephant. It is really a waterspout on land, though larger than the marine waterspout. It sweeps over a path averaging a quarter of a mile in width and about twenty-five miles in length. Whenever it touches the earth it accomplishes surpassing feats of devastation. In comparison with the area covered by a cyclone, one of these storms is of insignificant size. It is, in fact, a purely local affair. Hence, at any given place in the United States, such a storm is an exceedingly rare event, though, throughout the country, several such storms occur every year. These storms are known to meteorologists as "tornadoes." In popular parlance they are almost universally but incorrectly described as "cyclones."

ARTHUR WEIGALL PREDICTED LORD CARNARVON'S DEATH

NEW YORK, January 11—Arthur Weigall, the eminent Egyptologist who has spent over twenty years discovering and describing Egyptian antiquities is now on a tour of the United States. In a recent interview published in The Mentor for January he describes his feelings when Lord Carnarvon entered the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen which had been sealed for thirty-three centuries.

He says that the uppermost feeling was that of pity and compassion for the Pharaoh who was about to be awakened and brought from his own world into one of electric lights, X-rays and movie cameras.

Exactly six weeks after breaking into the tomb, Lord Carnarvon died. On the day of his death one of Weigall's colleagues asked him if he remembered what he said when Carnarvon entered the tomb. Weigall had forgotten. His friend reminded him of his statement: "If he goes in there in that light-hearted frame of mind, I give him six weeks to live."

TIPS ON HOW TO DRESS YOUR DOG

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—Winter styles for the well-dressed dog in Paris are out. When J. Wellington Fido strolls down the Champs Elysees on the end of his leash, he should wear a camel's hair sweater of a fashionable cut and the same color as the gown of his mistress. In the pocket of the sweater or jacket should be a tiny handkerchief bearing the canine aristocrat's initials.

If the weather is wet, the Beau Brummels of dogdom should sport a quartet of fur-lined galoshes with a striped or dotted pattern to match the coat. A dog outfitting shop on the Faubourg St. Honore is having a special sale of these.

PEARLS OF DEAD EMPRESS IN SEA.

Necklace of Great Value Lies at Bottom of the Mediterranean.

GENEVA, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—Wanted: a pearl fisherman who can find a complete string of superb gems at one dive.

It has been revealed that a necklace of inestimable value, once the property of the assassinated Empress Elizabeth of Austria, lies at the bottom of the Mediterranean. It was submerged on the Empress' instruction in order to regain its lustre.

A few days before her assassination an expert advised Empress Elizabeth to bury the necklace under the sea. The expert said this was the only plan by which it could regain its brilliancy.

The necklace was a wedding gift of the Emperor to his bride, and among the most prized of all her possessions.

So she sent to a Corfu monk, with instructions to hide it in the deep blue waters of the Mediterranean.

Aided by an old fisherman, the monk carefully buried the pearls in sand in a deep excavation near the shore. He took every precaution that none but the old fisherman and himself should know the hiding place. This took place in June, 1898. At the end of that year both the monk and the old fisherman died. It was long believed that their secret had perished with them.

It is now reported that the fisherman told a comrade where the pearls were buried and eventually the necklace may be recovered from the sea.

FUEL IN MID-AIR.

PARIS—At Le Bourget flying ground an airplane was replenished with petrol in full flight at a height of 900 feet by another airplane. The second machine approached the frist to within 90 feet. A flexible pipe was thrown out, and the end was caught by the passenger of the first machine. The whole operation lasted five minutes.

WETS IN U. S. TO HOLD CONFERENCE.

A Nation-Wide Drive Against Dry Legislation Is Planned--Urge Revolt

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11. — (United Press).—A nation-wide drive against dry laws will be inaugurated in Washington on Jan. 21 at a national conference of the Association Against Prohibition Amendment, according to Charles W. Wood of Philadelphia, Executive Secretary of the association.

The conference will present to the Administration and to Congress the demand of the "best elements of American citizenship from all over the country that the Government 'face the facts' of the prohibition issue," Wood said.

Delegates from every State in the Union will attend the conference, according to Wood. Plans are now under way for the association to charter a special train to cross the country from coast to coast, picking up delegates.

"The aim of the association for 1924 is to obtain what immediate relief is possible from the dangerous situation in which the American people find themselves," Wood said. "The conference in Washington is being held with a view to throwing every possible influence behind a demand upon Congress for immediate legislation which will return to the people of the individual States much of the power which Congress usurped by the passages of the Volstead Act.

Hope, Says Wood.

"There is hope that the popular revolt against this iniquitous measure will swing sufficient of the doubtful Congressmen over to the side of sanity and that remedial legislation can be obtained in the life of the present Congress.

"Whether this hope proves well founded or not, the association will strain every effort to make certain beyond doubt the election next November of a Congress pledged to a liberal modification of the law, whether it be through the votes of the Republicans or Democrats, or both combined.

"When the Volstead Act is modified the efforts of the State divisions of the association will be directed toward securing thorough revisio of State laws in the subject which will bring them as nearly as local conditions permit into conformity with the system in operation in Quebec and in many other parts of Canada."

"Wet" Victories.

In reviewing 1923, Wood declared that the advocates of a reform in the prohibition laws have every reason to be encouraged. He touched upon the "wet" victories in Maryland and Kentucky and spoke of the big wet vote in the Republican primaries of Vermont.

In Pennsylvania, he declared, that Governor Pinchot has suffered a sharp decline in prestige because his "unpopular" stand on the matter of prohibition and "to popular indignation at his willingness to sacrifice the State police and to violate other vital portions of the constitution in his efforts to enforce the prohibition laws by the methods which savor of the time of King George the Third."

DELEGATES IN OTTAWA URGED QUICK ACTION

LOCAL SITUATION

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(Special).—The development of power on the St. Lawrence will be before the Dominion Cabinet for consideration to-morrow, Premier King announced to-day when a large delegation representing the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and various municipalities throughout the Province of Ontario.

The delegation strongly urged Ex-Mayor Maguire, of Toronto, who was the principal speaker for the delegation, stated that Chicago was taking 5,000 cubic feet of water power a second from Lake Michigan illegally, and was now asking for a bill to legalize the taking of ten thousand cubic feet.

He declared that Chicago was stealing power to light its parks on the pretext of treating sewage and was holding to an antiquated system of sewage treatment in order to divert water power for street lighting.

On this point, Premier King said the Dominion Government experts were looking into the matter.

It was essential, Premier King added, that the interests of Canada should be protected in every highway.

"The Hydro-Electric Commission had declared that the development of the St. Lawrence was absolutely necessary if Ontario was not to run out of power," said Mr. Maguire. "In some quarters it had been urged that two dams should be constructed, one at Morrisburg and the other at Cornwall, but he was not disposed to favor this.

"The construction of two dams would not only result in the flooding of a large area of land, but would mean the development of all the power at one stage.

"By adopting a double stage development scheme, the first stage of which would be the construction of the Morrisburg dam, 600,000 horse-power would be made available, and a like amount could be developed later at Cornwall."

The total cost of the Morrisburg dam Mr. Maguire placed at $80,000,000, but of this only $15,000,000 would be spent jointly by the Dominion and United States Governments.

The construction of the dam would prove beneficial to navigation, he declared, resulting in increased levels of Lake Ontario and also in the St. Lawrence at Montreal.

Power development would attract industrial plants to a section of Ontario which was suffering from business stagnancy because of the lack of such plants.

Power could be transported to Toronto and other points, and the Morrisburg plant linked up with the great Hydro-Electric system which now controlled 96 power plants.

The municipalities, in one great family, were now asking for the St. Lawrence development.

Turning to the diversion of water from the Great Lakes to Chicago, Mr. Maguire pressed upon the Government the importance of taking definite action in this regard.

Mr. G. N. Gordon introduced the delegation to the Prime Minister.

Robert Hicks and E. F. Mason, members of the Peterboro Utilities Commission, Alderman Melville Turner, and City Clerk Armstrong were also present as representatives of the City of Peterboro.

Local Representative

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11.—(Special)—During the hearing of the St. Lawrence power delegation which waited on the Dominion Government to-day, T. H. Stinson, K.C., of Lindsay, representing the Central Power District including Peterborough declared that under present conditions power development will be exhausted in a few years, and there will be an absolute shortage, which would affect fifty municipalities.

The only solution of the situation was St. Lawrence development.

BUDGET ADDRESS IN QUEBEC HOUSE

The Period of After-War Readjustment Had Been Longer Than Anticipated

QUEBEC, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, in delivering the annual Budget Speech in the Legislative Assembly yesterday took occasion, while expressing pride in the financial position of the province to say that the period of after-war readjustment had been longer than anticipated. He added, however, our province has, on the whole been more prosperous than any other province of the Dominion and when we take into consideration the financial conditions which obtain abroad, we take every reason to feel satisfied with the financial operations of the year 1922-23."

He then returned to the question of finances, showing that the estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1923 had anticipated an ordinary revenue of $15,531,738.38, and an ordinary expenditure of $12,329,284.92 showing an estimated surplus of $3,202,454.36.

MEGAN LLOYD GEORGE PLANS A NEW EFFORT

MEGAN LLO YD-GEORGE.

(By Wanda Von Kettler).

LONDON, January 11. — Megan Lloyd-George is going to write a book about us. Yes—all about skyscrapers and candy and American boys and girls and things.

This isn't official. It's just "Megan-official."

Ever since the 21-year-old daughter of Britain's most famous statesman returned from her trip to America with her distinguished father and pal, she has been dodging reporters who have been trying to put this question to her.

"I haven't said I am going to write a book,' she protested to me.

"Oh," said I, "shall I contradict the report in America?"

"Oh, no!" put in Megan with speed. "Don't do that. I haven't said I'm not going to write a book. I just haven't officially said that I am."

Office Buildings.

"You're an American girl," she said, "and you've been in my country just a little while. Well, things here are different to you, no doubt. In the same way, things over there were different to me.

"What impressed me the most? Let's see—. Oh, I know—the New York skyscrapers and the candy."

That made us both laugh.

Miss Megan is small of stature and small of build. When she laughs her face, softened by light brown locks, rounds out. It grew round now and her grey eyes twinkled a bit.

"Quite a difference in the two, isn't there?" she said. "But I will never forget either. Those skyscrapers with their tremendous up-and-downness. You notice we don't have them in England?"

"Yes, I noticed that. But you do have candy. Only you call it sweets. Why the candy?"

She Likes It.

"I don't know," came the reply. "It's just—well, it's so distinctly American. Everywhere you go your girl friends offer you candy. And you have so many kinds that we never even saw or heard of over here. Like American candy? Umm!"

No American matinee girl could have put more soul into that "Umm."

Of our boys and girls, the future authoress said:

"They seem to have the frankness that is typical of the age. But I didn't notice them to be any more frank than the young people of England and other countries, despite the fact that Americans are reputed to be extremely outspoken.

"American girls know exceptionally well how to wear their clothes. They know how to adopt styles that are becoming. We must say adopt, because all of us seem to let Paris do the creating. Rather deplorable, but convenient, isn't it?"

"Now about American boys—" Megan laughed. "I know! They dance delightfully! That's the thing about them that I remember best."

GAVE ADDRESSES KIWANIS CLUB

Rev. A. J. Langford and Mr. Bransby Williams Were Today's Speakers --Good Programme.

An interesting programme was provided for Kiwanians at their noon luncheon to-day at which President John R. Marshall presided. The guests included Mr. Bransby Williams, the noted actor and British ambassador for Rotary also his son Eric Bransby. The speaker of the day was Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. Miss Elva McIntyre contributed a solo and was presented with a bouquet of roses. In a brief address, Mr. Williams said he had addressed twenty Kiwanis Clubs since his Canadian tour opened in August last and he hoped to see the day when Kiawnis would be established in Great Britain. Commenting on the good fellowship that enters into meetings of various kinds on this side of the Atlantic, the speaker said he addressed a Board of Trade meeting in Vancouver. Song sheets were distributed and many of the celebraties of Vancouver figured in the singing. Mr. Williams had his name written into Barney Google. A feature of Kiwanis work that appealed to Mr. Williams was the work among boys and cripples." There could not be a greater work than this," said the speaker. While in Ottawa Mr. Williams was induced to address a gathering of two thousand persons in a church and owing to the circumstances and speed with which he was ushered into the task he found himself without a subject. He hit upon the expedient of portraying in word and action a portion of Dickens and he was amazed at the spontaneous outburst of appreciation that punctuated his efforts. Those who would not be found dead in a theatre lead in the applause. It was a real eye opener for many who were inclined to view actors as a class who were bad and beyond reformation. In England Mr. Williams was told that Canada was tired of American plays and wanted English productions. "That is not so," said Mr. Williams, who went on to relate that what he had gained in friendship as a result of his Canadian tour he had lost in cash to the extent of ten thousand dollars. While in this country the speaker has addressed eighty-three organizations of all kinds.

Rev A J Langford

Rev. A. J. Langford followed with an interesting address on the subject of play as distinguished from pleasure Play, said Mr. Langford is not incidental to life but is fundamental. A child plays without being taught to play. A great many forms of play that appear in the life of child come out of the distant past. Man's desire to hunt and fish and foresake the comforts of civilization in the wilds of the great open spaces and woods is a return to the primitive state. Man, said, the speaker, has no business filling his life so full of toil that he has no time to play. There ought to be opportunities for everybody to play. There ought to be opportunities for everybody to play. Professional sport does not furnish that. Playground facilities ought to be provided for everybody who wants to play. We have lots of parks here, but there are too many "keep off the grass" signs. Soft ball in Peterboro has done a great deal to promote it, said Mr. Langford. Play helps to make better men and women. Many who are in the asylum to-day are there because they were denied the right to play.

Kiwanians J. A. McKond and Isaac McNabb moved and seconded a vote of thanks to Miss McIntyre and the speaker. In commenting on Mr. Williams' statement that Canada does not want English players and plays, Mr. McNabb said he pas sorry that such a condition existed to which Mr. Williams replied that he did not intend to convey the impression that English plays were not appreciated. The people who come into the theatre to see English plays appreciate them said Mr. Williams but there are not enough people who will come into a theatre to see a serious play to-day.

It was announced that the Kiwanis Musical revue will be reproduced under Y.M.C.A. auspices on January 31st and February 1st, and that the first act will be entirely new. A rehearsal will be held to-morrow evening at eseven o'clock.

To-day's guests included the following representatives of the Quaker Oats Company's sales staff who are in the city, Messrs. W. Gill, E. Ainsley, M. Burke, George Morrow all of Toronto also A. F. James, Kingston, H. R. Williams, of the Midland district and W. J. Bradley, London.

New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.— (United Press.)—Stocks were stimulated in the early trading to-day by the successful movement by the Republican caucus in the House of Representatives to sidetrack the bonus in favor of the tax reduction bill which reported out of committee Feb. 11. Another conspicuous feature was the extraordinary jump in the reserve ratio in the Federal Bank of New York which breaks all records for a single week of improvement. Baldwin was the leader of the Industrial group in the initial dealings, spurting to around the best levels of the current movement. Steel Common also displayed impressive strength and the Rails maintained the buoyancy shown in the last three or four sessions. French francs began the day with a new low and sank to $.0480, off $.0004 later. Demand sterling was at $4.27, 11/16 off 9/16. Irregularity characterized the market towards the close of the first hour when considerable profit taking and professional selling appeared, the bears concentrated on the motor stocks in the belief that most of the bullish ammunition had been exhausted as the local automobile show approaches its end.

Studebaker sold at new low on the present reaction at 105 5-8, while Chandler and Maxwell "A" yielded part of their recent recoveries. But the general list was not without features of strength. Sears Roebuck went into new high ground on the movement at 90 1-8 and May Department Store at 91. General Cigar declared a quarterly dividend of $2 on the common. The previous rate was $1.50 a quarter regular quarterly $1.75 quarterly also declared. U. S. Realty's high was 30 3-8, reflecting the expectation of an early increase in the present $8 dividend rate.

RAILWAY CRASH AT BELLEVILLE

C. P. R. Engine Struck C. N. R. Coach -- Passengers Were Removed Through Hole Sawed in Side.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Four passengers were taken out through a hole sawed in the observation compartment coach of the C.P.R. train from Montreal here at four o'clock this morning when the C.N.R. train from Ottawa crashed into the coach which was not quite clear of the C.N.R. tracks at the station.

Rain and fog prevented the C.N.R. engineer from seeing that the coach was fouling the tracks. Fortunately, no one suffered more than a shakeup in the collision, which turned the observation car almost completely over, wrecked the rear end and smashed in the pilot of the C.N.R. engine.

An engine had to be brought from Trenton before the C. N. R. train could proceed after a delay of two hours.

CROOKS ARE DRIVEN FROM PHILADELPHIA

Declares Butler ; the Big Job Now is to Keep Them Out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Brigadier-General Smedley D. Butler to-day expressed satisfaction with the conditions as he had found them at the beginning of the fifth day of his campaign to rid the city of vice and crime.

He said he believed that most of the law-breakers had been run out of the city, and that the big job was now to keep them out.

The General lost no time in filling the places of the six police lieutenants and two sergeants suspended yesterday, but he said the replacements will have to show they mean business.

"They will be also given 48 hours to clean up, and if they don't do it, they'll go too."

While General Butler was shaking up the executive personnel of the police, raids on questionable resorts were being conducted in nearly every district in the city. They resulted in scores of arrests and the confiscation of many stills and quantities of mash and high-powered beer. Police lieutenants, after making the rounds of their districts, reported that every known resort in the tenderloin was closed tight and that not a single gambling house was in operation.

A WORD OF COMFORT.

It is terribly wrong for us to cringe day after day anticipating some possible hardship or sorrow in sequence to what we have known.

While every soul, to become strong, must endure the tonic experience of disappointment and heartache, we have never been told to expect any specific proportion of grief amid our joys, and the Father provides strength when we need it, if we live close to Him.

Do not be on the look-out for pain. Live each day at its best. Tomorrow will take care of itself.

Eighty-two Living Descendants Numbered by Mrs. Richard May.

COBOURG, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Richard May, an esteemed lady of this town, is receiving congratulations from citizens generally this week upon having attained the 100th anniversary of her birth. She is Cobourg's oldest resident and has spent her lifetime here and in Hamilton Township. Her husband, the late Richard May, died about 11 years ago. Three daughters reside in Cobourg—Mrs. Dundas, Sr., Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Dovey. Mrs. May has also 21 grandchildren, 69 great-grandchildren and 2 great-great-grandchildren. She is able to be up for a part of each day and is possessed of wonderful vigor of body and mind.

EXHAUSTED WOMEN WIN NEW STRENGTH AND NERVE POWER

Quickly Relieve Body Vitality by a Home Treatment Costing Few Cents a Day

Rich, red blood is the driving force of life. If the blood is weak, watery, impure we know nothing of the joys of success and accomplishment that come with abundant strength and nerve power. Red blood feeds the body tissues, nourishes the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

Those women, and men as well, who are quickly exhausted, nervous, sleep fitfully and awake unrefreshed, who have not the vital nerve force to succeed and who must have new energy, should think first of their blood.

Nourish the blood. Enrich it. Get from your druggist today a generous size bottle of Wincarnis, the blood builder. Start the Wincarnis home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. No need to be pale, weak, haggard. Wincarnis will quickly give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

THE QEEN ALEXANDRA LADIES HELD MEETING

At a meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, held this week, a talk on school rules and regulations was given by the principal of the school, Mr. M. H. Park, and Miss C. Davidson, of Toronto, General Organizer for the Red Cross Association, was also present and explained to the society the new plan of Home Nursing Classes, as inaugurated by the Canadian Red Cross Association. Following Miss Davidon' talk it was decided to have at least one such class at the school, and enrolment began at once. The president, Mrs. S. F. Touchburn, was in the chair.

As Mr. Park and Mr. F. H. Dearborn, assisted by the boys, have made a rink at the school the Association decided to assist also by supplying boards for the sides.

RAGING STORMS SWEEP THE COAST OF FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 11. United Press. — The death list from the tidal wave which inundated many towns along the coast of France early Wednesday stood at 17 to-day, with crews of many ships still to be heard from.

It was feared that the final toll of casualties might be much larger.

The reports that there was a submarine seismic disturbance were denied by the scientists, who asserted that the wave was caused by a combination of unusually high tides and the severe storms which have been raging intermittantly for two weeks.

No reports have been received from the crews of several disabled vessels. It is feared that the men were overwhelmed by giant waves when they took to the lifeboats.

LABOR LEADER'S NAME

LONDON, Jan. 11. Canadian Press Cable.—The Labor leader's name is spelled in various ways by various journals, but the Canadian Press was authoritatively informed to-day at Mr. MacDonald's headquarters that the correct spelling is as follows: "James Ramsay MacDonald," with a capital "D" after the "Mac."

PATERSON, N.J., Jan 9.—Harry Harper, former Major League southpaw, has been signed to pitch next season for the Doherty Silk Sox, an independent team. He replaces Milton Gaston, Sox star, who has been signed by the New York Yankees.

OLYMPICS WIN A FINAL GAME

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Playing a brand of hockey hardly expected from a team in its first game of the season, Charlottetown Abegweitz, hockey champions of the Maritime Provinces, answered the question, "How does Maritime hockey compare with the best in Canada?" in convincing fashion last night at the Arena before fully 3,500 cheering fans when they were the opponents of the Canadian Olympic hockey team in their final game on Canadian ice, for Canada's representatives, the "Abbies" lost 4 to 1, but they were great in defeat. The Olympics scored three goals in the opening period; after that, it was a ding-dong struggle with the battle raging furiously up and down the rink.

In the second period the island team more than held its own, and scored its only goal in a mixup in front of the net, Macechern playing out from behind to "Chick" Williams, former Abbie, and now of Boston, who, amid tremendous applause, poked the puck past Cameron.

Between the second and final periods the spectators were treated to a marvellous exhibition of figure skating by Miss Cecile Smith, of Ottawa, and Melville Rogers, of Ottawa. Miss Smith and Mr. Rogers are sailing this afternoon on the Montcalm along with the Olympic hockey team to represent Canada at the figure skating competition.

This Leonia (N.J.) high school girl is one of the best high jumpers in feminine athletic circles. At a recent meet of the Women's Collegate and Scholastic Association Miss Stine outjumped the field, setting a new record for the event of 4 feet 10 1-2 inches.

BROCKVILLE PROTESTED LAST NIGHT'S BATTLE

BROCKVILLE, January 11. — In O.H.A. Itermediate series here before a capacity crowd, Belleville defeated Brockville 2 to 1 in a game that was anything but hockey due to the mild weather and the soft ice, the match has been protested, it being alleged that Ed. Thomas, manager of the Belleville team, who was in the timekeeper's box, pulled the bell, with ten seconds to play, and Brockville going strong at the time.

AURA LEE SENIORS DEFEAT ST. MARY'S

Anybody's Game Until the Last Tinkle of the Bell—Score Was 4 to 3

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Aura Lee seniors won a hard fought game at the Arena last evening, defeating St. Marys by 4 to 3. Ten penalties were imposed by Referee Farlow, the teams sharing alike in these "honors." For the most part they were for minor offences.

Aura Lee opened the scoring and retained the lead for the first period, but were behind by 3 to 2 at the end of the second frame.

It was while four men were serving penalties, three of them St. Marys players, that Shaw beat a one-man defence and tied the score. From then on both teams remained on the ice and played good hockey.

It was anybody's game all the way, and although not fast, was a good exhibition of hockey, and at times there were flashes of really brilliant back-checking and stick-handling.

"Eddie" Burke and Charlie Dinsmore were the stars in this respect.

BOWMANVILLE JUNIORS WON GAME FROM WHITBY

WHITBY, January 11. — Bowmanville defeated Whitby 2 to 1 in an O.H.A. Junior game here last night on very soft ice.

SOUTH'S BET TO WIN TITLE

FRANKIE GARCIA

Ring enthusiasts in Memphis, Tenn. ,are nominating Frankie Garcia to go against Johnny Dundee in the featherweight sweepstakes.

Garcia, a product of the Pacific Coast amateur rings, has been fighting in fine style here lately, and many experts think he is entitled to a shot at the title.

Although beaten by a number of battlers Garcia has some worthwhile victories to his credit. Only recently he came close to scoring a knockout against Sammy Mandell, sensational Chicago scrapper.

In a recent fight with Lefty Murray he scored 19 knockouts, with well-timed, solid punches, and finally knocked his rugged opponent into utter submission.

IROQUOIS FALLS WON FROM CANADIAN SOO

IROQUOIS FALLS, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press). — Led by Alex. Currie, well-known Ottawa hockey mentor, and captained by Percy Fahey, whose name used to grace the sport pages of the capital city, and with Jack Roos and Pat Byrne, two other famous Ottawa players, the Iroquois Falls team last night downed the Canadian Soo in the first of a two-game series by the score of 6 to 4, after a thrilling battle, while a real northern blizzard raged outside the rink.

CAMERON McLEAN HERE ON MONDAY

Cameron McLean, the great baritone singer who will appear at Trinity Church on Sunday and Monday next, in connection with the church's anniversary services, captivated the people of this city by his wonderful vocal powers on the occasion of his visit last year, when he sang in the Grand Opera House with the Peterboro Male Voice Choir.

The Toronto Saturday Night said of him: "As a singer, Cameron McLean is the possessor of a baritone voice of large emotional quality that is flexible and flawless. In all-round technical equipment one knows of no singer of his class who is on a parity with McLean. One of his most characteristic achievements is the mordant and cynical rendering of Moussorgsky's bizarre setting of "The Song of the Flea," from Goethe's Faust." (This number will be rendered at the concert on Monday night).

Cameron McLean has become a national figure in music and is now in demand throughout the United States and Canada to such an extent that he will this year make a coast to coast tour to fill his engagements

He will be assisted in Peterboro by his accompanist Mabelle Howe Mable, who is a pianiste of the highest order.

THAT'S ALL.

The waitress at the restaurant had taken his order some time ago, but now she stood behind his chair with a perplexed frown on her fair face.

At last the prospective diner broke the silence.

"A penny for your thoughts, miss," he said.

She blushed deeply.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

A First National picture, starring Jackie Coogan, in "Daddy," is the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre for this week end. The precocious child does some excellent work in this production which shows him again in his familiar role as a child of the streets, ragged but not forlorn. In the scene where his old benefecator dies, he gives an uncanny presentation of grief that could hardly be surpassed by any veteran of the silver screen and its mimic art. His audience can almost hear the bitter sobs that wrack the small figure as it slides to the floor and rest a desolate little head against the silent hand of the dead man. Jackie is a wonderful littl, actor. Although at moments, there is a trace of grown-up methods in his work that detracts from the natural childish charm of the little boy, most of his impressions are gained by a real following-out of the everyday processes of the child mind, transferred in simple fashion to the silver sheet.

The story deals with the adventures of the little lad, separated from his father, his mother dying, and depending on the bounty of the two old people, Grandma and Grandpa Holden, who are forced into the poor farm. The forlorn Jackie comes under the notice of the old street musician, Gallo, who befriends him and teaches him to play the violin. Signor Gallani, the great musicion, comes upon him playing on a street corner as his old benefactor lies ill at home, and discovers finally that the little boy is his own lost son. The joys that follow in the wake of this discovery, not only for Jackie, but for the old people at the poor farm, are realistically enacted.

COLOR AND CONVICTS AS SEEN BY STAR

Norma Talmadge has a new interest in life! It's color!

Not the kind that comes in bottles imported from France, nor by the yard to make up into frocks and create havoc by its sheer loveliness; and not even the color that comes in a package of sunset every evening.

It is more the effect of color on the individual that interests Miss Talmadge—its curative values for crime as well as sickness. Quite naturally, she has read more or less about the use of color in hospitals that advocate it as a Cheer Cure, but lately she has had a deeper, more personal insight.

Just before she returned to the coast to film "Within the Law", Miss Talmadge spent a week at Auburn Prison, New York, getting atmosphere for the production, as much of its action takes place at the Tombs and Auburn. She had with her a favorite morning dress, simple in the extreme and notable only for the warm yellow of its wool.

Going a round of the women prisoners, she noticed a striking change in their mental attitude. From surly resentment and ugliness, they became cheerful and even friendly and, after experimenting for several mornings with black and dark-hued frocks, she found that yellow and orchid colors gave the best results.

Personally, though everyone agrees that color is generally beneficial, we think that Norma's smile is worth in cheer a whole store full of yellow dresses.

"Within the Law" is the latest of Miss Talmadge's successes directed by Frank Lloyd. It will be presented at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.

AT THE ROYAL.

Excellent Vaudeville three clever acts now playing Royal

Cal Dean and his Sonority girls, scored a decided hit last night with their miniature musical comedy. Mr Dean is a clever comedian of the musical comedy variety and their clever little comedy has a real plot interspersed with songs written especially for the act. Five pretty girls with a variety of costumes introduce some new dances. This is one of the best vaudeville acts seen locally in some time. Will and Blanch Ross present a skit they call "Neighborhood Pals". Their chatter is new and from the novelty opening to final song spells class. Nat Royal has a combination musical and juggling act that is out of the ordinary.

The feature photoplay was Stephen Steps Out" features Douglas Fairbanks Jr. who looks and acts like his famous father. The entire program is extra good and should not be missed.

Screen Debut of Douglas Fairbanks Jr a Success

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., need not stand in the reflected light of his famous father. He proved this indisputably in his first screen appearance in the Paramount picture, "Stephen Steps Out," which was shown here for the first time at the Royal Theatre last night. The young screen star has ability and distinct personality, two factors that, coupled with wider experience, will at no distant day transform him into a screen luminary of renown and popularity.

In "Stephen Steps Out" young Fairbanks is a school boy of the sort all school boys—and their parents as well—will appreciate and delight in. He is loath to study, but lack of his juvenile imperfections, he is a sturdy lad who sheds lustre upon his family and himself. In the portrayal of this role, the juvenile star displayed exceptional ability and mimetic talents, which are likely to make him a conspicuous screen figure within a year or two. Theodore Roberts is well cast as the boy's father, while the minor parts are in excellent hands. The picture is well worth while.

AT THE GRAND.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS AT THE GRAND.

Tonight at the Grand the attraction will be a romantic French drama presented by Bransby Williams and his all-English company who have just returned from the Coast, where the play was received with great enthusiasm by large audiences. "Vidocq" is founded on the character of the famous French detective of that name, before he became the great man. He appears as a young sea captain in love with the daughter of an old aristocrat, the Vicomte de Bernai. The period and action of the play takes place in Paris in the early part of the 19th century during the Consulate of Napoleon and the First Empire. The times were unsettled and ruffianism often rampant. Vidocq is arrested on suspicion of murder and sent to the galleys. Making his escape he finds that he was allowed to do so by the Paris police, who suspect him to be a member of a notorious criminal society then prominent and whom the police are unable to trace. Vidocq really knows nothing about them, but is given two weeks to find them. He disguises himself and gets into the gang. His disguises are so quick that it is bewildering to the audience to detect which is Vidocq or people in the scene. The drama abounds with hair breadth escapes and thrills of excitement. Bransby Williams plays six different characters necessitating a change of costume fifteen times. Leslie Barrie who had the part of Copperfield, now takes the part of the leader of the notorious criminals; Eric Williams, son of the famous actor, has the part of Chief of Police; Madeline Temple, the old Mrs. Gummidge, plays the difficult part of mistress of the leading gangster, while Uriah Heep, in the person of Fred Forrest, now is secretary to the police chief.

"Vidocq" will be presented at the matinee tomorrow Saturday, and a charming domestic play "Tatterly" dealing with the eccentricities of an old miser, Caleb Fry, who wishes to find out how his money would be spent in the event of his death, presented on Saturday night.

DANTE COMING TO THE GRAND.

Dante, the great European magician, will appear under the management of Thurston, famous American conjurer, at The Grand Opera House for 3 days beginning Thursday, Jan. 17 matinee Saturday.

Dante has long been a prime favorite with the theatregoing public of the continent and comes to the United States after a triumphal tour of foreign capitals. Just before his departure he was decorated by King Christian of Denmark, who is an ardent lover of magic.

Dante's father was an officer in the British army. He was stationed in India for a great many years and the boy came up under the tuition of an old Yogi, who quickly perceived his unusual physic powers and set about developing them. At the age of fourteen he attracted the attention of the mystic order of the Mahatmas and upon the earnest solicitation of one of the great leaders of that day he left and joined them. From the age of fourteen to twenty-one he lived with this band of wonder workers, and during that time his psychic talents came into fult fruition.

He is said to be the only white man who is versed in all the mystic powers of the East Indian magician

During Thurston's investigations of East Indian mysteries, he was so amazed by the young man's extraordinary psychic powers and the sincerity of his ascetic life that he decided, then and there, to bring him to the occident so that the people of Europe and America might be afforded an opportunity, by means of Dante's abilities to see some of the wonderful mysteries for which the Orient has been famed for centuries.

Prominent among the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which he presents are, The Ghost Woman, psychic phenomena of the age. You may ask her any question. She is proclaimed to be unequalled as an exponent of mental telepathy.

The mysterious Chinese fountain, of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient oriental splendor. Also such miracles as Creation, the Phantom Woman, the Miracle, the Great East Indian Rope Trick the Vanishing Piano, the Lady and the Lion, the Spirit Cabinet and scores of other weird, mystical effects bordering on the supernatural.

AT THE REGENT.

MANY NEW THRILLS IN DUSTIN FARNUM FILM

An unusual Western melodrama is "The Buster," the William Fox production with Dustin Farnum in the starring role, which came to the Regent Theatre yesterday.

Immediately after the opening scenes the action begins and the suspense and absorbing interest is manifested through the entire length of the feature. "The Buster" is one of the most engrossing stories laid in the Western atmosphere that has come to this city in many months. The photography is superb, and all the richness and beauty of the wide stretches of open country are reproduced with an elegance of workmanship.

Colin Campbell, the director has brought out all the quantities of Farnum in their finest array. The story by William Patterson White, the noted author, concerns the many difficulties of a handsome ranch foreman in his task of taming the temperamental niece (Doris Pawn) of the owner. The whole cast—a brilliant one—performs admirably.

PROTECTION MAY BE DROPPED OUT

British Cabinet Council Agree After a Conference

LONDON, Jan. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—The Cabinet Council yesterday declined to drop the protection issue in the King's speech, the Daily Telegraph says, and it was agreed, after a discussion on the policy of the government, that a general tariff of manufactures should not be included in the proposals with which the government intends to meet parliament next week.

The Cabinet, however ,according to the Telegraph, felt under an obligation to include among its proposals in the King's speech, plans for expansion of preference system, assistance in development schemes in the Dominions and other Imperial matters on which an agreement was reached at the recent Imperial conference.

RHINE BRIDGES ARE CLOSED AND GUARDED

MAYENCE, Jan. 11. — (United Press.)—General Demets to-day ordered the closing of the frontier between the Palatinate and Germany, as a result of disorders following the assassination of President Heintz of the autonomous Palatinate.

Residents of the affected territory will be alowed to come and go after they have procured the special passes, and no strangers will be allowed to enter or depart.

The bridges across the Rhine have been closed and are guarded by military units. The circulation in the streets of Speyer is prohibited between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. All restaurants and public places are closed during these hours. Heintz was shot and killed while dining in the Hotel Wittlesbacher at Speyer the night before last, presumably by a young Nationalist German who resented his separatist views.

QUEBEC STORM HAS DEMORALIZED CITY

One Man Dead, Several Injured and Traffic Suspended.

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—One man dead, several citizens suffering from minor injuries, street car service demoralized, ferry service completely at a standstill, trains and autos snowbound and thousands of people living in the outlying districts of the city unable to reach their places of business ,are a few of the tolls taken by the violent storm which has had Quebec in its grip for more than twenty-four hours.

OBITUARY

THOMAS LOREN COLTON

The death occurred yesterday afternoon at the Muskoka Sanitarium, of Thomas Loren Colton, better known as "Tommy," in his 27th year. For the past number of years he was a brakeman for the C.P.R., and was well known and highly respected by his fellow employees. He also was a member of the Knights of Columbus

Before going to the sanitarium several months ago he resided in Havelock. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides a sorrowing wife and one child, two months old, his parents, three brothers, and one sister.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning from the family residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. E. Fontaine, 456 Aylmer street, to the St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

REV. DR. ROBT. JARDINE DIED IN NEW YORK TO-DAY

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)— Word was received here to-day of the death in New York at the home of his son, of Rev. Dr. Robert Jardine, former prominent member of the Presbyterian church in Canada, at the age of 83 years. He was born in the township of Augusta, near here, and graduated at Queen's University, Kingston. He filled positions in India and various parts of Canada, and in 1893, through doctrinal differences, he withdrew from the Presbyterian church and became pastor of the Church of Our Father, Chicago, affiliated with the American Congress of Liberal Religious Societies.

SAILORS' MISSION REPRESENTED HERE

Miss Lillian Kellett is in City in Interests of Great Lake Sailors.

Miss Lillian Kellett is in the city in the interests of the mission to sailors on thegreat lakes, carrying on the work which was done by Miss Dunlop, well known in Peterborough.

The Tract Society's Mission to Sailors on inland waters was founded in Confederation year and it has since that time carried on its beneficent Mission to the thousands of sailors passing through the Welland canal. It is said to be the only organization in Canada doing sailor welfare work among the 25,000 sailors on the great lakes.

The society owns and operates the Royal Arthur Sailors' Institute, Port Arthur and the Sailors' Rest, Toronto. These are well equipped resorts for the sailors when ashore, and a free shipping bureau is conducted at each. Loan libraries are supplied for use aboard ship.

BRASS SOFT BALL TEAM WERE GIVEN A BANQUET

The members of the Brass Department soft ball club met on Wednesday evening Jan. 9th, at the home of Mr. T. Pacey, 585 Aylmer street for a social and business time.

Officers were elected and plans for the coming season were discussed.

A very pleasing feature of the gathering was a presentation to Mr. P. Killingbeck, who was recently married, of an address accompanied by a mantel clock and vase.

The banquet of good things which had been provided followed by speeches brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Halley's comet was first noted in 240 B.C. and has since reappeared every 76.8 years.

POLICE HEADS TAKE BIG DROP

Eight Fall in the Basket at One Time--Clean-up Continues.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 11.—It was marines' turn to tell it yesterday. The big-knuckled fist of Brig.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler, on leave from the marine corps, which has been shaking menacingly at vice and politics here, smacked politics on the point of the nose.

At the end of his "48 hour" time limit, which extended until three o'clock yesterday afternoon, when all the city was to be "clean or heads will fall," he suspended eight police officers. Six of them were lieutenants in command of police districts and two were sergeants.

On the fourth floor of the city hall, where all the "wise men" of Philadelphia politics mingle, "the boys" waited for the news. For three days ward leaders, district bosses, "big fellows," themselves have been run dizzy by stooped shouldered marine two floors below. When news of his action came "the boys" howled. They talked. They argued. There must be mistake. Why he was acting as if he was on the level in promising to clean up the town no matter who is hurt. Now they are forced to the belief that he means what he said.

WHAT PEOPLE ASK

The following are some of the questions that people ask about Peterboro before they decide to make it their town:

1. Attractiveness: Shall I like the town—its "atmosphere?" Does it have the beauty of shaded streets and other beautiful features Is it a quiet, roomy, airy, well-lighted town? Does it have attractive public buildings and homes? Is it well paved? Is it clean in every sense?

2. Healthfulness: Will my family and I have a reasonable chance to keep well in that town? How about its water supply? Its sanitary system? Its methods of milk inspection? Its health department? Its hospitals?

3. Education: Can I educate my family and myself in that town? How about its public schools, present and future? Its library? Its lecture and concert courses? Its newspapers? Its postal facilities?

4. People: Shall I like the people of the town? Are they "home folks" without false exclusiveness? Are they neighborly and friendly? Is the town free from factionalism? Does it have strong religious, fraternal and social organizations?

5. Recreation: Can I have a good time in that town? I and my family? How about the theatres, museums, gymnasiums, parks, etc.? Are there active agencies for providing good entertainment, athletic contests, etc.? Are there inviting opportunities for pleasure drives afforded by well-constructed highways?

6. Living: Can we live reasonably and well in that town? Are the best of modern conveniences available for its residents? Are the housing and shopping conditions favorable? Rents, taxes and prices fair? Hotels good? Home and truck gardens and dairy products plentiful?

7. Accessibility: Can we go and come easily? Does the town have adequate railroad connections and train service? Street car lines? Well marked automobile routes?

8. Business: Can I make good use of capital in that town? Are there good banking facilities? Manufacturing interests? Up-to-date stores? Good shipping facilities? Favorable labor conditions? A prosperous farming territory? Fair real estate values? Reasonably cheap power? Active co-operation among business interests?

Employment: Can I get a job in that town at fair pay and with good prospects of the future? Can I count on co-operation from organizations making it their business to help introduce and establish new commercial interests and to welcome new citizens?

10. Progressiveness: Shall I find that I am in a live town, have a progressive city government, active civic organizations, modern fire protection, and a pull-together spirit in everything; a town with a future?

WESTERN PROGRESSIVE DISCUSSED POLITICAL SITUATION WITH KING

Many Canadian Questions Presented to Premier From Aspect of Prairie Sentiment — May Have Influence in Legislation of Next Session.

AT KING'S REQUEST.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. T. A. Crerar has not been invited to join the Federal Government. The former Progressive leader concluded his conversations with Premier King yesterday and this morning" left for New York. He does not plan returning to Ottawa before leaving again for the West.

To a representative of the Canadian Press, Mr. Crerar last night outlined the purpose of his visit to Ottawa and the nature of his conversations with Premier King.

Invited by Premier.

"I came to Ottawa," he said, "on the Prime Minister's invitation, and at his request discussed with him the general political situation, and more particularly the possibilities of political differences developing in the country arising from sectional considerations. I wish to make it clear here that I was invited as a private member of parliament, that I had no authority to speak for the Progressive members of parliament and the Progressive sentiment in the country, and I presumed to no such authority.

Wide Range of Subjects.

"At Mr. King's request I placed before him as clearly as I could the policies which in my view the country urgently needs in respect of the paramount necessity for retrenchment in expenditures, a balanced budget, fiscal reform, national railways, need of an accelerated immigration policy, a representative to Washington, the need of safeguarding bank depositors, and the necessity of a Government inspection of banks, changes in our electoral system which would furnish a clearer and more accurate means of expression for voters at the polls; and the reorganization of the government necessary to carry on these policies.

"As one who is interested in finding the wisest and best policies for Canada at the present ime, I willingly gave Mr. King my views. I may add that Mr. King did not extend an invitation to me to join his Government at any time during our conversations."

The foregoing it is explained, is Mr. Crerar's personal statement.Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan, will probably have a further conversation with Mr. King to-day. Whether or not he has been offered a portfolio is not indicated but it is questioned if he would accept it if offered.

Cabinet Changes Few.

With the admission of Mr. Crerar to the Cabinet at present in question, it is not thought likely that Cabinet changes for the time being will be extensive. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, the Minister of Marine, is expected to take over the vacant portfolio, and a new head for the Marine Department is secured, possibly by transferring some other member of the Government. Such a course would ob viate the necessity of a by-election.

It is a course further which is based on the assumption that Premier Dunning is not joining the Federal Government.

May Win Progressives.

Comment now turns on how far the the conversations between Premier King and Mr. Crerar are likely to affect Government legislation during the coming session of Parliament. The questions discussed in the conversations, such as fiscal policy, immigration, national railways and taxation, are all questions which will come before the House in some form or other. Will it is asked, the Government's policy be such as is likely to win over a certain amount of Progressive support? There is already talk of such possible tariff changes as reduction of the duty on agricultural implements.

But what the Government will actually do is not likely to be revealed before Parliament is actually in session.

Body of Aviator Washed Up by Sea

LONDON, Jan. 12. — The body found lying on the shore yesterday near Rye, Sussex, is that of Lawrence B. Sperry, the American aviator who has been missing since December 13, it was stated last night by P. R. Jackson, London manager for the Sperry Company, upon his return from Rye.

Mr. Jackson said that although the face was practically unrecognizable, he was certain the body found was that of Sperry.

The body was removed to a neighboring farm, where an inquest will be held Monday. Mr. Jackson is waiting instructions from Sperry's relatives in Brooklyn, N.Y., regarding the disposition of the body.

MID-WEST TRADE REMAINS QUIET

Regina Reports Wholesale Demand Above the Average—Calgary Finds Collections Still Slow.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association ,Limited, states:

Halifax — Wholesale and retail trade quiet, but up to expectations for time of year.

St John—General conditions fair. Reviewing the situation for last year all classes considered fairly satisfactory. Collections fair.

Montreal —Wholesale trade somewhat quiet owing to stock-taking, but considerable volume of small orders from country points. Business expected to pick up as travellers get on the territory. Retail business somewhat slow. Collections fair.

Toronto— Cold weather helping sale of footwear and winter clothing. Wholesale drygoods unchanged. Conditions generally on quiet side owing to stock-taking. Mining, lumbering and pulp business continues satisfactory .Collections fair.

Winnipeg — Trade in wholesale lines fair for time of year. Outlook for spring business in western provinces considered fairly encouraging. Collections fair.

Regina — Wholesale trade slow but about average for the season. Retail trade quiet. Collections fair.

Calgary — Result of unusually good crop has not made relief felt much as anticipated. Collections still slow though farmers not realizing on crop as fast as could be desired. Retail trade quiet after the holiday season.

Vancouver — Wholesale and retail groceries opening up fairly good. Better feeling developing. Wholesale hardware rather quiet. Retail very slow though this condition is more or less expected .Dry goods fairly good .Boots and shoes quiet. Collections on all lines fair only, except hardware, which is poor.

More than 300,000,000 envelopes will be required to handle the United States government business this year.

SENIOR CLERK WAS ADVANCED TO COLLECTOR

W. M. Lang Succeeds to Position Held for Many Years by Late Robert Hall.

A LONG RECORD

W. M. Lang of the Peterborough Customs House staff, has been advanced to the position of Collector of Customs made vacant by the death of Robert Hall in October. Confirmation of the appointment was received this morning from the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Lang has had a long record of service in the city Customs Department, having entered the service in 1904 as a junior. Passing the Civil Service Examination in 1907 he was appointed clerk of Customs, and in 1913 he advanced to the position of senior clerk.

As senior clerk, which carries the duties, if not the title of Deputy Collector, Mr. Lang was right-hand man to the late Robert Hall. He was therefore fitted by actual experience with the work for the position to which he has now been raised.

Mr. Lang is well known in Peterborough curling circles, in which sport he has taken a prominent part. Some years ago he skipped the tankard rink.

In Masonic circles he is also appreciated, being the newly elected Master of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

EMBARGO ON GRAIN TO THE LAKE PORTS.

C. N. R. Has Sufficient Grain Under Load to Fill Lake-Head Elevators.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press) —An embargo on grain shipments from the prairie provinces to the head of the lakes over Canadian National Railways will become effective at midnight January 14 it was announced last night.

The announcement carries a proviso that in the event of hardships arising as in the case of elevators at individual points being filled while the farmers have large quantities of grain on hand, permits to cover these cases may be issued on application to superintendent of car service at Winnipeg.

Sufficient cars are stated to be under load to fill all available space at the lake head. This does not effect all rail shipments to the east or shipments to the Pacific coast.

ANTHRAX DEPLETES CARABAOS

MANILA, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Anthrax has made such inroads among the work animals, chiefly carabao or water buffalo, in central Luzon that paralysis of agricultural activities is threatened. Thousands of carabao have died from the disease in the last few weeks, and all available veterinarians have been detailed to the infected area in an attempt to stamp it out.

"With the $60,000 just appropriated by the Legislature," said Secretary of Agriculture Apostol, "a systematic campaign against anthrax, Attention is also drawn to the area, is made possible."

EXPLOSION CAUSED RAIN.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 12.—(United Press).—The old question of whether or not explosions cause rain has been reopened here as a result of the explosion of five tons of T-N-T at the national cartridge factory. A local meteorological station observed following the explosion a general atmospheric disturbance. Six days later there came a general rain, occurring in what is usually the dry season.

BIG RAILWAY STRIKE MAY TAKE EFFECT IN THE NEXT FEW HOURS

Railway Union Threatens To Tie Up All Railways in England and Scotland--Public Will Not Be Warned.

A WAGE DISPUTE

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(United Press.)—A strike of the railway employes in England to-day was considered inevitable following the refusal of the heads of various companies to grant any concessions to the men. Secretary Bromley, of the Engineers' and Firemen's Union, has announced he is perfecting plans to put the strike machinery into effect.

"The public will not be warned, but we are prepared to strike any time within the next 24 hours," said Secretary Bromley.

The society asserted that the lines had refused to make any concessions. The dispute arose over the findings of the Railway Wage Board decision which the men assert reduces their weekly wage out of proportion to the cost of living.

The dispute involves 63,000 members of the union. If a strike occurs the union claims, it will tie up all the railways in England and Scotland, but not those of Ireland.

Whether the strike is entirely effective, will depend, it is thought, largely upon the attitude of the National Union of Railwaymen, which accepted the wages awarded.

KNOCKED OFF TRAIN INSTANTLY KILLED

Prominent Farmer Was Loading Cattle on Train When Engine Unexpectedly Shunted.

CHESLEY, Ont. 12.—(Canadian Press).—W. H. Brown, prominent in the district as farmer and livestock dealer and defeated Conservative candidate for North Bruce in the provincial election of last June, was killed almost instantly here at noon yesterday. He was supervising in the loading of a consignment of livestock on to a cattle car when the engine of his train unexpectedly shunted throwing him off the ladder of the car to between two of the freight cars.

Born in Toronto in 1874, he moved with his parents to Bentinick township, Grey county in 1880.

A TRIBUTE OF HONOR

Again the Buick takes the place of honour at the New York Show. For the sixth consecutive year Buick has been awarded first choice of space. This is allotted each year to the make of car doing the largest volume of business in dollars. In other words, the people have voted this car to stand above the heads of all other makes as a standard of comparison. They acclaim that the dollar value is paramount in this ever-popular car.

The Canadian people have assisted in this achievement by their ever increasing purchase of McLaughlin-Buick Cars in Canada.

One of the outstanding features of the New York Motor Show is the general adoption of four-wheel brakes.

Election Error on Parks By-law

NORTH BAY, Jan. 12.— It was revealed yesterday that a serious error was made in last Monday's voting here on the adoption of a parks commission, when only property owners were tendered the ballot and all others refused, thereby disqualifying some 2,500 electors.

It now appears that this ruling by the returning officer was not in accord with the provisions of the Municipal Act, and that "all persons entitled to vote at municipal elections, including the owner or tenant of land, and wife or husband also persons qualified on income" were entitled to the ballot and may exercise their franchise on the adoption of the Public Parks Act.

The by-law to appoint a parks commission was defeated in Monday's polling, and there is a move on foot to have it re-submitted to the electors in accordance with the Municipal Act.

MANY VESSELS WERE DAMAGED

Lloyd's Posted Long List of Steamers Lost or in Distress From Atlantic Gales.

LONDON, Jan. 12. —The list of steamers in distress or damaged reported at Lloyd's yesterday was an extremely long one. And last night the Weather Bureau forecasted further gales to harass shipping out in the Atlantic from off the British Isles to southern Spain.

The vessels posted yesterday include the Italian steamer Feronia, which was reported in a sinking condition Thursday off the Ushant lighthouse, on the eastern extremity of the Department of Finisterre, France.

The British steamer Arncliffe, bound from Newport for Buenos Aires, put into Vigo, Spain, where she reported the loss of three men and damage to the vessel. The British steamer Arundale, which sailed from London, January 3, for Philadelphia, took refuge in Queenstown Harbor, considerably battered and with water in four of her holds.

The United States' tank steamer Aryan, on her way from Port Arthur, Texas, for Antwerp, in a wireless dispatch to Valencia, Spain, reports that she has suffered "very extensive damage in a hurricane," while according to a dispatch to Lloyd's from Soller, on the Island of Majorca, the Czecho-Slovak steamer Legie, on the way from Baltimore to Genoa, has requested assistance.

One Port's Loss.

PARIS, Jan. 12.— Heavy loss to shipping interests from the storm along the coast is shown by the first definite reports reaching the Ministry of Marine yesterday. The damage to fishing craft was heavy. One small port alone reported the loss of fifteen fishing vessels, while many craft that rode out the storm are coming in badly battered.

Reported Sinking.

BREST, France, Jan. 11.— The Italian steamer Ferona, of 4,000 tons, is reported to have been seen sinking off this port, but the fate of the crew is unknown.

(No vessel of that name or tonnage is listed in available registers).

The Dutch steamer Rondo, of 7,500 tons, which has been in distress for three days off Ushant, was found by tugs sent to her aid and towed into St, Nazaire.

Steamer Abandoned.

Marseilles, France, Jan. 12.—The Czeco-Slovak steamer Legie, of 5,700 tons, is reported to have been abandoned and to be drifting before the wind southwest of here towards Corsica.

U. S. MONEY IN CHILE.

SANTIAGO, Jan. 12.—(United Press).—The United States has close to three hundred million dollars at the present exchange invested in Chile, according to the American Ambassador, William M. Collier. The larger part of these investments are in mining and nitrates industries. No other South American country has this much American capital.

PRAIRIE FARMS' TOP SIX INCHES PRODUCED MORE

Nearly Four Hundred Million Dollars Set in Motion By the Industry of Western Farmers Is Winnipeg Estimate.

OMITS MILLIONS.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12.—Including four months of the crop year, September to December, for wheat and coarse grains, and the full year of 1923 for other products, a total sum of $394,131,082 have been "set in motion through the industry of the farmers of the Prairie Provinces," according to statistics compiled for the Manitoba Free Press annual trade and commerce supplement which will be published to-day. This is an increase of $35,000,000 over the preceding year.

"These sums do not tell the whole story," says the Free Press. "There are eight months of the crop year to run and many millions of wheat and coarse grains still to market, and it has not been possible to secure returns from poultry or any correct idea of the enormous number of eggs consumed within the Prairie Provinces that do not come under inspection."

Not Whole Story.

It is pointed out that this total does not represent the amount of money which went to the producers. Grain prices are based on Fort William and live stock prices those prevailing at stock yards. "Making these allowances," the Free Press states, "there still remains the fact that a very large sum of money has circulated to the farms and accounts for the marked lessening of farmers' indebtedness to banks and mortgage companies."

In the four months wheat and coarse grains to the value of $272,584,211 reached Fort William. In the year live stock marketed was valued at $31,757,104; dairy products $54,308,343; pottoes, hay, root and fodder crops $32,844,000; eggs shipped out of the province $1,737,672. The three provinces manufactured more than 39,000,000 lbs. of creamery butter in addition to dairy butter.

Returns for live stock were $4,000,000 under 1922, due less to lower prices than to a decrease in numbers sold. There was an increase of $28,000,000 in grains.

MEIGHEN BRINGS UP MANY ISSUES

Literally Went to the Country at Meeting Last Night.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, flanked by his French-speaking supporters from the province of Quebec, literally went to the county at Western Ontario Conservative Association rally here last night, preaching the doctrines of retaliatory tariff against the Fordney bill of the United States, a cultivation of Imperial preference and a closer knitting of east and west by means of reduction of transcontinental freight rates through the medium of government contributions towards the cost of haulage on basic commodities.

Mr. Meighen was more circumspect in his commitments than Hon. John S. Martin on the question of reprisals against the American tariff wall that has virtually barred Canadian producers from the United States markets. Nevertheless he cried out against what he called the effort of Liberals and Progressives to make Canada economically subservant to the United States, which will not hesitate to crush and smash any reciprocal agreement as soon as it suits.

The whole session was marked by accentuation of a bonne entente with the province of Quebec, condemnation of prejudice and bigotry and an appeal to the sister provinces to unite on common ground for higher tariff against the forces of free trade or reciprocity. Mr. Meighen attacked the King administration, charging monotonous succession of lack of effort, of failure and of evasion.

FRENCH RADICAL PARTY LEADER PROPOSES OLD ENTENTE WITH BRITAIN

Edouard Herriot Says the Stupid Misunderstanding of Old Allies Should Be Ended As Soon As Possible — Indicates French Policy of Party Elected.

DEPLORES FINANCES.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical party, and the most formidable opponent of the present French Government, delivered a speech in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday in which he deplored the present financial situation of France as "one of the most difficult in her history." He also expressed an earnest desire that the most friendly relations should be resumed between the Allied and associated powers, dealt in conciliatory language with the former enemies of the Entente, and outlined what will be the foreign policy of France should the Radical party win in the general elections which are to be held a few months hence.

M. Herriott advocated as close an entente between the French and British nations as existed during the war. He pleaded with the present French leaders to immediately lessen the gap which has been widening between the Washington and the Paris governments, and hailed the arrival of the British and United States experts to participate in the work of ascertaining Germany's present situation as a splendid opportunity for France to take the initiative in conciliation.

Equitable Settlement.

The attitude of the Radical party toward Germany, should the party obtain direction of French affairs in the elections next May, M. Herriot declared, will be for an equitable settlement of the reparation situation through economic and financial agreements in which all the Allies and their associates concur, rather than strong measures of coercion Referring to the occupation of the Ruhr as having proved a falacy for this mode of settlement, M. Herriott said the majority who voted it just one year ago were now convinced that it would prove insufficient.

During his address, M. Herriot referred to the situation between France and Great Britain as "a stupid misunderstanding," which should be ended as soon as possible. In asking if it was not possible to try and 'lessen the gap" between France and the United States, the speaker declared that although there were members of the United States Congress who had been unjust to France, President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes were on record as saying that the United States could not be a brutal creditor to France.

Ruhr Exploitation Vain.

Apropos of reparations the speaker said: "There can be no solution of the reparations problem through the exploitation of the Ruhr. And even if occupation of the Ruhr were necessary, you have reached the conclusion that it is insufficient."

The speaker was addressing the majority benches. Dealing with the possibility of a complete reconciliation between France and Great Britain, he warned the other parties in the Chamber that even if they believed that France could get along without Great Britain in European politics, they were wrong to proclaim Great Britain is decadent.

"England," he said, "has been grappling with insoluble problems for four centuries, but she always solves them."

Great Britain, declared M. Herriot, was mistaken in believing that the occupation of the Ruhr had brought her unemployment. It was the coming of United States tonnage on the seas that was the primary cause for closing the British shipyards.

"America has become a great commercial power, and England is suffering," he added. British unemployment really was due to lack of consumption.

Trade with Russia.

M. Herriot advocated a renewal of economic relations with Russia.

Discussing the coming Labor government in Great Britain the speaker asserted that it would be easier for France to reach an understanding with it than with the Conservatives or the Liberals.

"The stupid misunderstanding between France and England should be dissipated at the soonest moment possible," declared M. Herriot.

To this remark Premier Poincare interjected, "We are quite in accord"

M. Herriot concluded by saying that the plan of Dr. Arnold Rechberg the German industrialist, for a reparation agreement between France and Germany was entirely unacceptable to his party, which was quite opposed to it.

GERMAN PROBE BEGINS MONDAY

Committee of Experts to Investigate the Financial Condition Arriving For First Session.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—The initial session of the first expert committee appointed by the Reparation Commission to investigate Germany's financial condition has been fixed for eleven o'clock Monday, morning. Immediately after the formal opening, the members of the Reparation Commission will make a courtesy call on the committee and when this is concluded the real work will begin at once.

It is understood the committee will not occupy itself with the question of the scope of its work under the Reparation Commission's letter of invitation, the delegates taking it for granted that the latitude allowed them will be ample to attain the object in view. There is plenty of material at Reparation headquarters to keep the committee busy for some time in Paris, but when this matter has been worked over it is believed the committee will deem it necessary to transfer its activities to Germany.

British delegates and Henry M. Robinson, United States member of the second committee were due in Paris last evening. The Belgians are expected today and the Italians on Sunday. Speculation has started as to who will be chosen chairman of the second committee.

FRENCH ANSWER NOT CONCLUSIVE

Reply to German Note Leaves Way Open For Possible Understanding —Is Mostly Negative.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — Count De Peretti De La Rocca, director of political affairs at the Foreign Office, yesterday handed to Herr Von Hoesch, the German Charge, France's reply to Germany's latest note requesting discussions of points growing out of the Ruhr and the Rhineland occupation.

The German charge at the same time was informed that while the answers point by point, to Germany's questions, were negative in form in some cases, this did not signify the end of the conversations. Count Peretti assured Herr Von Hoesch that the French government would be glad to discuss any question which the German government saw fit to bring up.

The extreme precautions taken to keep the document secret are explained at the Foreign Office as due to a desire "to prevent polemics, which might compromise the chances for making headway in the negotiations."

It is pointed out that every time a question is up between Paris and Berlin, "someone finds in the notes exchanged some point on which to hang comment that constitutes an obstacle to an understanding."

There appears no doubt that the reply is negative on some points and non-committal on others; that it is intended on the whole to keep the subject open without compromising Allied interests. The tone of the comment in official circles indicates that Paris wants to come to an understanding if she finds it possible without affecting the position she took when she went into the Ruhr.

Border Freight Traffic Business

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 12.—The quiet part of the season for freight traffic through this point is nearing an end railway officials say. In the last two days daily average of cars passing through the tunnel has increased from 700 to 900 and the outlook promises good business up to the opening of navigation.

Automobile shipments are picking up, 75 carloads being handled Thursday and 85 yesterday.

There will shortly be heavy shipments of flour from the Southern States to New York and Vermont, and arrangements are being made for the use of 4,000 Canadian National cars.

WILL PRESENT LABOR PROGRAM

Tom Moore and Delegation Will Suggest to Premier King Legislation Desired By Organized Workers.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Members of the Executive Council of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will meet Premier King and other members of the Dominion Cabinet Monday and will lay before them the programme of legislation to be asked for by organized labor.

In discussing the forthcoming conference, Tom Moore, president of the organization, said: "The Congress represents more than 150,000 organized workers scattered throughout the industrial centres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and its expressions have been recognized for years as reflecting the opinions of the workers generally throughout Canada.

"Many important events have occurred during the past year, including the despatch of troops into Nova Scotia during the recent strike. Workers have been arrested and imprisoned on charges of sedition and it is no secret that the Congress Executive has been constantly endeavoring to secure amendments to this law and the release of those still imprisoned under it.

"Wider use has been made of the power to issue injunctions during trade disputes preventing peaceful picketing and similar activities, thus preventing the workers from carrying out strike activities, and it is considered likely that representations on these subjects will be made at the forthcoming interview.

"The importance of Canada ratifying the conventions and recommendations of the International Labor Organization of the League of Nations, which includes the establishment of the eight-hour day, unemployment insurance, granting of one day's rest in seven, etc., is still one of Labor's chief aims, whilst the immigration policies of the Government have been a continuous cause of complaint during the past year."

FIRED ON THE MISSIONARIES

A New Uprising in China --Troops Storm Mission

(By Ray G. Marshall, United Press Staff Corespondent).

PEKIN, Jan. 12—Storming down upon Supu, the first division of the regular Hunan troops plundered the village, attacked the American mission of the Passionist Fathers —a Catholic order—fired upon two American missionaries and riddled the American flag, according to the reports made to the American Legation here.

After plundering the town, the troops withdrew and last reports were that Supu was again quite under control of higher officials.

The customery protests are being made to the Chinese Government by the American minister.

The order is comprised of ordained Priests whose lives are devoted to misionary work.

According to the first advices received here the soldiers acted under direct orders of General Hoyao-Tsun, commanding the Chinese Inland Province of Hunan. These orders it was said, were to "destroy the Mission and kill the Foreign Devils."

The troops dashed into the village without warning and stormed the Mission.

They fired upon Flavian Mullins and Arthur Benson ,two of the Mission attaches riddling their clothing. Miraculously neither of them was injured. They then proceeded to shoot holes in the American flag flying over the Mission.

Hunan Province comprises about 75,00 square miles and drained by Southern Tributaries of the Yangtse Kiang, is one of the chief tea producing regions of China. It has a population of 2,000,000. The capital in Chang Sha.

WILL BANQUET FIRE BRIGADE

Lakefield Business Men Will Be Hosts to Chief Webster and His Volunteers.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 12—The business men will be the hosts to the firemen at a complimentary banquet in the Lakefield House on January 21st. Chief Webster and his brigade of fire-fighters have repeatedly earned the gratitude of the citizens in whose regard they hold a high place, and the business men will be expressing the general public's feelings of appreciation to the firemen by the forthcoming dinner.

Chimney Blown Down.

Yesterday's wind blew the top of a chimney on Bullock's garage into the street and the firemen removed further possibility of danger to pedestrians by pulling down the remaining loose bricks. The garage was formerly the Midland House, an old hotel, that lost its identity in the changing conditions of recent years.

MAY LOSE FOOT

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 11.—William Law, Kirkland street, an employee of the James Goldie Milling Company, had his foot badly crushed when he was caught in a grain conveyer. He was removed to the General Hospital and it is possible that his foot may have to be amputated.

HOISTED TO CEILING BY BELT THEN DROPPED TO CEMENT FLOOR ON HEAD

Gilbert Herrington, An Employee of the Hastings Tannery, Was Seriously Injured Friday Afternoon —Putting Belt on Pulley.

HASTINGS, Jan. 12.—Mr. Gilbert Herrington, who is employed in the rolling room department of the Hastings Tanning Co., met with a serious accident about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Mr. Herrington was attaching a belt to one of the pulleys which was in motion, not knowing that the other end was wrapped around his leg, and when the belt was attached to the pulley it drew the unfortunate man to the ceiling. While being pulled up his foot came loose from the belt and he fell with his full weight on his head on the cement floor.

Mr. Herrington was badly cut about the head and face, besides hurting his arm and leg in the fall.

Dr. J. A. McDonald was called at once and had him removed to his home on Division street.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, January 12.—With the ice in the rink marked out ready for play and everything in order for the opening, the curlers are beginning to despair of a successful year. At all events the season cannot be a long one. There was play on a few nights when the ice was hard, but the mild weather of the past few days put an end to that, and now Caretaker Cole sits alone and disconsolate in the waiting room praying for frost, like a true sport. Last year the season opened at Christmas, and there was good ice at Easter.

The rinks have not yet been drawn. The cold snap of last night revived the hopes of those interested, and if present weather conditions hold, the sport will be in full blast next week.

Reception to Rector.

The new rector of Christ Church, Rev. G. C. Clarke, will be extended a formal welcome to the parish and town at a reception to be held in the Parish Hall on Monday night.

Although his stay here has been comparatively short, Mr. Clarke has already made a host of friends, not only in the parish, but among the townspeople generally.

The annual business meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church was held in the parish hall on Thursday. Twenty one members were present. A good report of te work done for the year 1923, was given by the Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. J. Free. A beautiful set of communion linen was sent to the Rev. C. A. G. Spence for the church at Apsley. An outfit for an Indian boy was sent to the chuch at Glechen, Alta. A Christmas parcel was sent to Dr. Geo. Archer for his hospital at Ranaghat, India. Total expenditures for the year were $224.72. During the year a great honor was conferred on the Auxiliary when their president, Mrs. J. P. Archer, was made chairman of the Peterboro Deanery for two years.

Hon. Presidents—Mrs. G. C. Clarke and Mrs. John Maynard.

President—Mrs. J. B. Archer.

Vice-Presidents—Mrs. A. J. Jenkins and Mrs. R. J. Bullen.

Cor. Secretary—Miss H. M. Campbell.

Rec. Secretary—Mrs. E. J. Free.

Treasurer—Mrs. Stanley Neale.

Secretary for "Living Message" — Miss May Muffatt.

Secretary for Mite Boxes—Mrs. A. J. Jenkins.

Supt. of Juniors—Mrs. F. Linton.

Secretary for "Little Helpers" — Mrs. Neil Dixon.

Dorcas Secretary—Mrs. Robert Lawford.

Dorcas Committee — Mrs. Ross McComb, Mrs. Alfred Denmark, Mrs Bert Gilespie, Mrs. Chas. Benor and Miss Mary Bedford.

Auditors—Mrs. Wm. Smith and Mrs. E. J. Free.

Day of Meeting, 2nd and 4th Thursday of every month, in the parish hall, Rear street.

A Birthday Party

A very pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday night when seventeen of the little friends of Evelyn Southern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Southern, Kent street, gathered at her home in honor of her tenth birthday.

Games were played including a contest for which two prizes were given. Supper was served at 5.30 each little girl, taking a wish as the candles on the cake were blown out. The party lasted till about 8.30 when everyone went home delighted with the pleasant and happy time they had spent.

Gave a Reception

A large number of the ladies of town went to the home of Mrs. James Sanders, Second street, on Thursday afternoon, where she received for the first time since her marriage. The table and rooms were decorated with pink and white carnations.

Mrs. L. A. Denike sister of Mrs Sanders, assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. F. W. Denike conducted the ladies to the tea room, where Mrs. John Gay and Mrs. G. A. Kingston poured tea, while Mrs. Harry Denike, Miss Lulu Gay and Miss Kathleen Dolman served. Two smaller young ladies Miss Winnie Sanders and Miss Daisy Rowe were at the door.

At the Regent.

The patrons of the Regent Theatre are treated every evening to moving picture exhibitions equal to those held in the cities, and the steady attendance is the best evidence that the public appreciate the enterprise of Capt. Hyland, the proprietor. There is a change of pictures three times a week. The feature last night was the screen version of the famous English novel, "The Lowries," renamed for the film, "The Flame of Life," a graphic story of life in an English mining village, where women endure drudgery until they lose almost the last vestige of feminity. The comedy was a portraval of the various complications in a flirtation at the seaside. The bill will be repeated to-night.

Rex. Ingram's production of Anthony Hope's novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda," will be seen on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The receipts both evenings will be turned over to the hockey team of the Trent Valley League to help give the boys a financial start in their ambitious undertaking.

The fire alarm rang from Ward Three on Friday night about six o'clock. A chimney on fire at the home of Mrs. Wm. Clarke, Sebastapool Street, was the cause, but no damage was done.

Rev. A. L. McTear, L.Th., of Trenton, who was here on Friday night for the induction service, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. Linton, Queen Street.

Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, Rural Dean of Peterborough, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bullen, Rear Street, while here for the induction services at Christ Church.

Mrs. Harry Johnston, District Deputy President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, and two other friends from Trenton, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Morrison, Rear Street, on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Booker and little daughter Gladys, who have been visiting Mrs. Booker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lavison, at Washington, D.C., returned to their home on Friday night.

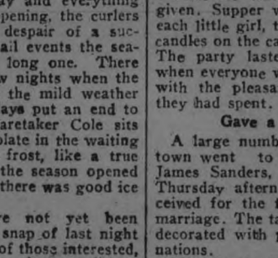
EST. 1850 — 73 YEARS

What the Name

Heintzman & Co.

Stands for in the Making of Pianos



The Miniature Upright Grand

In the first place, the Heintzman & Co. is a Canadian piano. The factory was established 73 years ago, from which time it has, through infinite care and attention to detail, and by constant improvements to its present exclusive constructions, maintained a quality value which has placed it in the category of "The Aristocrat among pianos."

Its known high standard is not limited to our Dominion alone, for in the best music circles the world over the name Heintzman & Co. is cherished as representing one of the foremost pianos made anywhere.

"I am in love with its beautiful tone and singing quality."—Tetrazzini.

HASTINGS GAME WAS WITHDRAWN

Ice Was Covered With Water—Players Champing at the Bit.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11. — The hockey team were unable to play their first league game in Hastings last night owing to the mild weather. Secretary Saunders received word from Manager Clapper that the Hastings rink was covered with water and the only thing to do was to postpone the game. The secretary also was in communication with Keene and arranged for that team to change dates for the opening game. Instead of Keene playing here next Tuesday, January 15th, the local boys will journey to Keene and demonstrate their ability as puck chasers to the fans of that fair town. It will be the first time in a good many years that these old rivals have met on the ice and the outcome will be watched with interest by fans in this district.

The switch in dates was asked for by the local club so as not to interfere with the picture being shown in the Regent theatre Monday and Tuesday nights for the benefit of the hockey club.

Had the locals played in Hastings last night, they would have been somewhat weakened, by the absence of Johnston, who is suffering from a bruised hip, received in practice last Monday. He will likely be ready for the Keene game next Tuesday and will probably be moved up to centre or left wing. Saunders and Stewart will be the net guardians and both will likely be given a chance.

Hankinson and Cowell will form the defence, with Jack Archer to relieve and also play forward. The forwards will be picked from Wood, Ayrhart, Bulford, Labrash and White. The management have been trying to coax "Nip" Weston back into harness, but so far have been unsuccessful. "Nip" says "it's not fun any more, it's hard work."

COMMITTED MOTOR DRIVER FOR TRIAL.

On Manslaughter Charge Involving the Death of Two Children Near Preston.

GALT, Ont., Jan. 11.—Joe Krawchynski of Waterloo, was this afternoon committed for trial before a higher court on two charges of manslaughter by Magistrate J. R. Blake. The actions arose from a fatal auto accident on the Preston-Breslau Road on the night of December 13, in which one child was killed and another so badly inured that she died three days later.

Krawchynski was defended by E. McKenzie, Kitchener, who pleaded not guilty, but Magistrate Blake, decided after considering the evidence taken at the inquest in Preston, and th fact that the auto driven by the accused rode on the edge of the ditch for 400 feet before toppling over, that he could do nothing else but send him for trial.

SUSPECT INDIAN OF COCHRANE MURDER.

NORTH BAY, Jan. 12.—With the arrest at Amos, Quebec, of an Indian youth named Cosette, the police are in hopes of solving the murder of fiv--year old Monica Foster, at Cochrane last July under particularly revolting circumstances. Cosette was arrested at Amos early this week following an assault upon a little girl and close questioning of the prisoner leads to the belief that he is probably connected with the Cochrane atrocity. Accused who is being held at Amos, last night attempted suicide by eating ground glass. He also made a break for liberty, escaping from the lock-up, but was a little later recaptured. Monica Foster, five years old, was brutally attacked and slain ast July on the outskirts of Cochrane and although the provincial police worked incessantly on the case, no clue was ever discovered that would indicate the murderer. A reward of $1,000 is still offered by the Ontario Government for the arrest of the murderer.

STARTING WORK ON POWER HOUSE

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12.—The sudden rise in the river which recently overflowed the dam and flooded the excavation at the new power plant at Dam No. 8 has not stopped work entirely. Work on the basement of the new power house will be started by J. H. Henderson, who has the sub-contract from the Sinclair Construction Company who are making the excavation. When the basement is completed ready for the superstructure it is understood that the building will be completed and the equipment put in by the Hydro people themselves.

Henry Redden of town has been awarded the contract for supplying the gravel required for the basement, about 1,500 yards in all. As the river is no longer navigable, Mr. Redden will transport the gravel from his pits to the power house on sleighs, provided the sleighing lasts.

Club Elected Officers.

The members of the Twelve O'Clock Club have elected the following officers for the year: Dr. W. A. [illegible]rphy, president (re-elected); Dr. C. V. Bussey, vice-president; Miss Jane Nancarrow, secretary (re-elected); C. T. Booker, treasurer (re-elected). Executive Committee —Miss Hazel Atkinson, Mrs. C. V. Bussey, Miss Helen Tait, P. J. Gould, James Gay and Carl Maguire.

It was decided that a dance, other than that presented by the rules of the organization, be held on the evening of January 24 in the Regent Theatre. This will be an informal affair like the regular functions, and will be continued past midnight, at which hour lunch will be served. Leonard's three-piece orchestra will provide the musis. On account of these special features the admission tickets will be slightly higher than the usual club rate.

The rent of the theatre will be $35 a night this year, as against $20 last winter. Capt. Hyland is obliged to increase the price as in order to make way for the dances, he is obliged to withdraw his picture show for that date.

SARNIA IMPORTED CHIEF LIBRARIAN.

Appointment Criticized Because Local Staff With Equal Qualifications Were Overlooked.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 11. — That there is considerable criticism in the city of the appointment of Miss Dorothy Carlyle who was Librarian at Sault Ste. Marie, to the office of Chief Librarian at Sarnia, was the statement made by Wilfrid S. Haney to the Sarnia Board of Education last night. He said he was given to understand that provincial library inspector had urged the appointment of a University graduate and that it was stated to him that the new appointee was not a graduate but only held the same librarian certificates as the members of the present library staff. If such was the case he could not understand why the appointment had been given to a librarian from the outside. Mr. Haney mentioned the salary of Miss Carlyle as $2,000 against a $900 salary paid at present.

Norman Gurd of the Library Board said that there had been no stipulation on the part of anyone that the Librarian must be a university graduate and that the appointment of Miss Carlyle had been made solely on the recommendation of the Provincial Inspector of Libraries.

SIMCOE DROPPED GAME.

BRANTFORD, January 12 (Canadia Press) — Brantford defeated Simcoe here last night by 9 to 1.

It was the third straight victory for the Brants, who are now at the top of the Intermediate O.H.A. Group No. 10, and appear to have a splendid chance of entering the next round.

Simcoe made the game very interesting, despite the score.

MOTHER!

Baby's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

When baby is constipated, has wind-colic, feverish breath, coated-tongue, or diarrhea, a half-teasonful of genuine "California Fig Syrup" promptly moves the poisons, gases, bile, souring food and waste right out. Never cramps or overacts. Babies love its delicious taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for infants in arms, and children of all ages, plainy printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

GERMAN IMMIGRATION.

It will be difficult for the majority of Canadians to understand the resolution passed by the Regina Board of Trade approving of the unrestricted immigration of Germans into this country.

The thought that only six years after our Canadian soldiers overseas were battling with the Germans in a life and death struggle the Board of Trade of a Canadian city should open its arms wide to any of the country's erstwhile foes who want to come here is repugnant to most people in Canada.

When there are thousands of men and women with British blood in their veins willing and anxious to become citizens of this country, the attempt to promote the immigration of Germans upon a large scale seems not only unpatriotic, but unnecessary.

In less than ten years after hundreds of young Canadians were killed in the first use of the terrible gas invented by German scientists as a weapon in the campaign of frightfulness that was to give Wilhelm his place in the sun, to find a representative Canadian organization extending an unrestricted welcome to the exponents of the kultur that blossomed forth in the blood-bath of the great war must make many a veteran wonder what he risked his life for and why he was foolish enough to face the hardships and suffering of warfare.

The mere announcement of the plan to bring 3,000 Germans into Saskatchewan caused protests in several parts of Eastern Ontario, and the resolution passed by the Regina Board of Trade will serve to add fuel to the flames.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Mayor Watters, Ottawa's new chief magistrate, has asked the newspapers to announce that he does not propose to be bothered by applicants for jobs.

"I have no jobs to give," he declares, "and the best course for unemployed men to take is to get in touch with the proper department and take their chances of getting work when vacancies occur.

Mayor Watters, from the viewpoint of efficiency, may be quite justified in this attitude.

He has nothing to do with employing men for civic work, and doubtless there are calls upon his time in connection with his municipal duties that are of much greater importance than listening to the troubles of the unemployed, even if his predecessor in office did find it possible to give an audience to the majority of such applicants.

The point that struck the Examiner as typical of many public men, not only in the municipal arena, but in politics generally, was that this blunt statement was made after election and not before it.

Mr. Watters possibly is the kind of man who would have laid down the law to the unemployed before election day if he had thought of it.

But there is just a little natural wonder as to whether if he had talked in that manner during the campaign his majority would have been so large.

There are so many people who talk quite differently when they are safe in office than they do when their political fate is on the knees of the gods.

SCHOOL ACCOMODATION.

The expression is often heard in connection with the discussion over Collegiate Institute accomodation and facilities for technical education that "the present is not the proper time to build."

There is not a ratepayer in town who would not favour deferring any large public expenditure if he was sure that it was possible to postpone action.

The time comes, however, notwithstanding the desire to keep down expenditure, when a community has to face the inevitable, just as an individual whose house is tumbling down about his ears is finally forced to unloosen his purse strings and have it repaired.

In the matter of Collegiate Institute accomodation Peterborough is fast reaching that situation.

While the problem has been under discussion time has not been standing still.

The Collegiate Institute is no longer adequate to the demands made upon it, and those demands are increasing at such a rate that even the eight-room extension proposed by those in favour of enlarging the institute for academic training alone would not take care of the situation, it is said, for very long.

The Board of Education in dealing with this whole question of additional accomodation has a most vital problem on its hands, and citizens will hope that the members will be guided by vision and judgment in arriving at a policy in the best interests of the community.

There is a very pressing demand for economy, but even that cannot be allowed to stand in the way of a progressive policy if the alternative is to deny the children of Peterborough an opportunity to obtain a fair start in life.

REDUCING THE OVERHEAD.

The new Minister of Public Works, Hon. G. S. Henry, has called for the resignation of 65 per cent. of the engineers in the Department of Highways as a first step toward the re-organization of the system of highway administration.

The Province will wish him the best of luck in his efforts to reduce the overhead cost, and there will be hearty applause if he succeeds in getting anywhere near his goal, which is the saving of $100,000 a year.

The majority of people recognize the importance of good roads and are willing to pay a reasonable proportion of the cost.

Under the late regime there was a general feeling that the road system was too expensive, that there were too many frills and unnecessary expenditure and that the department was overstaffed.

Apparently there was no lack of engineers employed, for the department staff included a chief engineer, his assistant, three divisional engineers in charge of all highways. Each of the three divisional engineers had the district under his jurisdiction subdivided into subordinate "residencies," the local staff of which consisted of an engineer in charge and two or three juniors who were qualified as engineers and received payment as such.

Mr. Henry's pruning will reduce the number of the residencies from 25 to 12, and an immediate saving of considerable proportions will be effected as a result of this step.

There is only one way of reducing expenditures, and that is to stop spending money.

Hon. Mr. Henry has made a step in the right direction, and other Provincial Ministers might find it advisable to take a survey of their respective departments with a view toward a similar reduction.

WASTING TIME.

"Times have changed, and it does very little good to talk of the things father did when he was a boy. The young man is looking for entertainment and he is going to have it."

That is from an address in a place not far from London, says the London Advertiser.

Part of which is true and part of which is not true. As one looks around London, or any other city, it becomes apparent that a good deal of this looking around for entertainment is a strange squandering of time, money and undeveloped talent.

Any night you can see them, wandering around town, dropping into this place or that. As a last resort, and not knowing what to do, or not having the good sense to go home and get to bed at a decent hour, they invade any one of the score or so of eating places, and devour a lot of stuff they do not need and which is of no use to them.

It is quite true their fathers did not do this. Had they done so they would never have had the wherewith to start the home in which to raise these night-wanderers.

Another specimen is the youth, often in short trousers, who is seen in the shoe shine establishments. He must have a foreigner wiping and scraping away at his boots. Quite true, again, his father never had this sort of entertainment. Not much, for the chances are that he not only blacked his own boots but his father's as well. The youngster who has his shoes shined for him is getting off to a poor start.

Wasting time is something that all ages have done—it is separate and apart from wholesome or useful entertainment. Many of our young people right now are contributing their full quota to it.

AN INADEQUATE FORCE.

Unchecked crime goes merrily on in Montreal. Not a day passes without some record of burglary, robbery with violence or other successful [illegible] by the criminals who have been enjoying immunity from arrest for some considerable time past. It has become the fashion to lay the blame upon the police force. But this is both childish and unfair. No police force in the world numbering only 1,090 could possibly give efficient service throughout a city with a population approximating eight hundred and fifty thousand souls, distributed over such an area as it is in Montreal. The police have to work in shifts, and it is obviously impossible for the entire force to be on duty at the same time, so that at any given moment of the day or night the total number of men is considerably less than that. No matter how the beats are arranged, no matter how dexterously the ground is covered, it is a sheer matter of impossibility for the present force to give adequate protection to Montreal.

This fact has been recognized in part by the City Council, and the appropriations for the current year contained provision for the increase of the force to a total of twelve hundred—one thousand constables and two hundred officers. A number of these extra men have already been engaged, and the balance will be on duty as soon as they can be secured. But even then the total will be only twelve hundred. That means one constable for every seven hundred people. Can such a body guarantee the citizens an efficient protective service? It is a very vital matter. A city's police force is every bit as essential as its water supply and its fire brigade. It is the only bulwark that stands for the preservation of law and order and that makes possible the guarantees of citizenship. In so far as it is weak, the city is weak, and its citizenship is the poorer. The police, we may recognize, are doing their best today; but they are working under a very serious handicap, in that there are not enough men to cover the area to be protected, and that in consequence the men are overworked. In proportion to the degree to which they are overtaxed, their capacity for efficiency is inevitably reduced.

The problem is an urgent one. It cannot be dismissed by any resolution of the Police Committee. It is a matter in which every citizen is most vitally and intimately interested. New York has one policeman for every 459 citizens. Montreal proposes to rub along with one for every 700. If the citizens are content to let the City Council continue inadequate service, then the citizens must share the blame if existing conditions of crime continue also, in more or less proportionate degree. But the present conditions are rapidly becoming intolerable. What are the citizens of Montreal going to do about it?—Montreal Star.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—The domestic demand for beef has increased, and packers were ready purchasers during the week. For a few of the heaviest steers they paid up to $8 a cwt. and all the choice medium weights around 1200 lbs. made $7.50 to $7.75 a cwt. Good butchers' steers and heifers of the handy weight class sold from $6.50 to $7, and good mediums sold up to $6 a cwt. Poor medium butchers were 50 to 75 cents lower and common butchers of which there were fewer than usual sold at 4½ cents a pound.

Butchers' cows and bulls were stronger by 25 to 50 cents in some cases. Choice fat cows were mostly 5½ cents with a few special ones up to 6 cents. Heavy export bulls sold from 5 to 5¼ cents, with a few special noes at 6 cents. Medium fair butchers bulls at 4¼ cents, and any useful cows would bring 3¾ cents a pound. Well flavored calves, but not fat, sold up to 11 cents, and heavy calves at 8 cents. Grassers also were firmer and mostly over 4 cents.

Packers are not getting enough lambs from 80 to 90 lbs. each and are paying a good premium for them over the heavies. A few nice thoroughbreds Southdowns sold at 15 cents during the week, but the major part of the light lambs brought 13½ cents. Heavy lambs went a cent a pound under this and bucks are $1.50 a cwt. below these prices Choice light sheep are selling firm at 7 to 7½ cents.

Hogs came in heavy supply this week and the number was increased by a northwest shipment. The price has been dropped 75 cents a cwt. since a week ago to $7.75 f.o.b. The packers are suggesting another cut of 5 cents for next week, but this can only be accomplished by a deluge of offerings equal to those of the current week.

FACES PRISON TO SAVE DOG'S LIFE

Offers to Go to Jail for Ten Days to Save Collie Dog From Banishment.

(By JACK JUNGMEYER)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—'To banish for two years a dog looked upon as a human member of her family, or—

To spend ten days in jail away from her two young sons.

Such is the odd dilemma put upon Mrs. Percy J. Edwards by Police Judge James H. Pope in dealing with the case of "Scotty," a Scotch collie haled into court here and tried like any two-legged offender on charges of vicious conduct.

"Scotty" escaped the death penalty only through tearful pleading by Mrs. Edwards after it had been established that he had severely bitten several youngsters and adults in the neighborhood. The chief prosecuting witness was Paul Puthoff, 8, whose throat the dog had slashed and who, a doctor witness asserted, had almost miraculously escaped death.

Death Sentence Commuted

Yielding to his owner's request to commute sentence, Judge Pope decreed a ten days' jail sentence for Mrs. Edwards, to be remitted if she agreed to exile "Scotty" for two years from Los Angeles. In addition the woman was fined $50 for harboring a vicious animal.

Mrs. Edwards' decision has been postponed by her attorneys' attempt to carry the case to the superior courts. Meantime the dog was placed in quarantine.

After the two-year probationary period, if his mistress decided to exile "Scotty," the dog might return to Los Angeles provided his behavior has been exemplary during the interim, according to court order.

"But by that time he will have forgotten us," wails the sons of Mrs. Edwards, Percy and Charles, who were also confronted with choice of losing the animal they raised from puppyhood, or seeing their mother go to jail so that they might keep him.

And the mother's decision, if superior courts should refuse to consider appeal, rested largely upon the preference of her sons.

"My boys just love the dog," she said, "and he loves them. We raised him from a puppy. He's been with us two years. He's our only protection when Mr. Edwards is away.

"Scotty Is Misunderstood"

"I'd rather have paid a hundred fines than have seen him put to death—and banishment is almost as bad.

"Scotty is misunderstood. He was not angry, only playful when the alleged attacks occurred. He has been very sensitive since an iceman once mistook his intentions and hit him between the eyes with his tongs."

But neighbors appearing in court en masse are not disposed to tolerate canine "playfulness" which expresses itself in painful fang marks. They hold that Judge Pope was excessively lenient in reprieving "Scotty's" life, agreeing to that dispensation only on condition that the dog be removed.

What would you do, boys, if you had to choose between keeping your pet dog and seeing your mother go to jail for 10 days?

And what you, mothers, if confronted by this singular dilemma?

BEGGARS FLOCKING TO LEIPSIG.

LEIPSIG, Jan. 11.—(Associated Press).—Beggars, unknown here before the war, have been overrunning the city this winter, and causing the police much concern.

Investigators have estimated that each house in Leipzig was visited on an average by 12 beggars each day, many of them children. All those who asked for something to eat were no actually hungry, however. The police discovered several sets of men and women who begged all day for meat and bread, and sold the food thus collected from push carts in the streets at night.

JAPANESE MATCH TRADE SUFFERS.

OSAKA, Japan, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Japan's match export trade has been hard hit by the development of that industry in China, and the heavy import duty placed on matches by the Indian government. Many factories here and in Kobe have been forced to cose down as a result.

NO NOVICES ON THE NEW BOARD

Chairmanships Will Be Handed Out on Monday Morning.

Monday's meeting of the City Council is awaited with equanimity by citizens and councillors alike, there being so little change in the personnel of the council that no startling turnover of opinion is anticipated.

As for the chairmanships which will be handed out on Monday morning, there is not much speculation, the general opinion being that the Aldermen are satisfied as they are.

Alderman Crowe, has prior claim to the Fire, Water and Light chairmanship because of his long continuous service extending from 1919 when he replaced Alex Murray. It is almost safe to presume that Alderman Stocker's record on the Board of Works during the past two years has ensured his again being given the position of chairman this year. Alderman Stocker spent a great deal of time in the business of the Board of Works and brought his ingenuity, fortified later by experience, to bear on the problems of that body. Alderman Morrison has been mentioned as a possible rival.

Alderman Phelan, who has controlled the Finance Committee two years and has had considerable experience in not only handling finances but in not having any to handle will probably be retained.

The Property committee, including building, market and health, has been presided over by Alderman McIntyre who served on the councils of 1913, 1914, 1918, 1922 and 1923 and who was re-elected this year at the head of the poll. His excellent work on this committee is a guaranty of his efficiency, and unless by his express wish it is improbable that a change will be made.

Aldermen Morrison and Maher were without chairmanships last year, and will probably lead Aldermen Jones in the contest for preferment on Monday, although the last named has been suggested for a position.

There is a general antipathy noted among the Aldermen toward lobbying in connection with the alloting of chairmanships. The positions, it is felt, should go to the men who are best fitted by natural ability, personal inclination, training and experience. With this principle the citizens will have no quarrel.

None of the Aldermen are new to the Council Chamber and most of them have served on one or more committees, so there should be no lost time in shaking down nor any delay in getting down to business.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LOCAL PRICES HOLDING FIRM

New Fruits and Vegetables From Warmer Climes—Meat Still Steady.

With this season of the year commences the usual slight upward trend in price of meat, but this year, according to authorities, the increase will not be as marked as usual. Toronto markets are described as steady. There is an increase this week in the wholesale prices of hogs, both live and dressed.

There are quantities of fish in the outer stalls of local stores, both fresh and salt water, ranging all the way from the blanched packaged cod to the big, meaty-looking salmon trout. Shrimps are a popular sea food at 40 cents a pint.

Prices are stationary in butter circles, and eggs are still proving a bother to the grocers, who have been checked up rather firmly of late with regard to grading regulations. Prominent in some of the stores are the cards that announce compliance with Government gradings and baskets containing eggs with dull and glazed exteriors. Egg circles, with their accompanying numbered brands, are not known in this district, one store showing a basket of purple-stamped eggs from a Westwood circle.

Oranges were down in fact as well as in price today, when a delivery rig of a local wholesaler suffered a slight mishap that scattered the golden balls along the highway for a considerable slushy distance.

From California come the latest imported arrivals, new small pink carrots, making the long distance to retail here at 15 cents a bunch, green onions from the field, with long whiskers, at the same price, and fresh endive, with its icy-looking shoots and dark green foliage, at 10 to 20 cents a bunch. Tomatoes from local hothouses are 50 cents a pound, from Florida 40 cents.

Sugar is described as a little easier the wholesale price asking $10.22 a hundredweight.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable—one bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms, and are soon seized seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds, and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Captain of "Dixmude" Complained of Faults.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Lieutenant Du Plessis de Grenadan, commander of the ill-fated airship Dixmude, had repeatedly criticized the faulty construction of the dirigible and complained of the inefficiency of the French technical services as affecting her, according to the Matin today. It demands full publicity for the late commander's letter and reports and asks why the Government had permitted the airship to start on her fatal trip with Lieutenant Grenadan's complaints before it.

PREMIER BRUCE NOT COMING

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Premier King was notified by cable yesterday of Premier Bruce's decision not to visit Canada when returning to Australia. The message explains that the Australian Premier is recovering from the effects of an operation and expresses regret over the change of plans. Senator Wilson, the message says, will proceed direct to Canada to take up with Premier King the negotiation of a reciprocal tariff.

DRIVER ROBBED BY PASSENGERS

Took His Roll of $150 Near Kingston and Forced Him to Drive Back to the City.

KINGSTON, Jan. 11. Canadian Press. — Three gunmen whom he had accepted as passengers on a trip to Bath late last night, relieved John H. Nolan of the sum of $150 near Collins' Bay, after covering him with three guns, according to the story Nolan told the police after the affair. According to his story Nolan was called to a local hotel to take three passengers to Bath . He had driven well past Collins' Bay, when all 3 passengers suddenly covered him with revolvers and ordered him to "shell out." He did so passing over to the gunmen his roll, which amounted to $150.

The gunmen then ordered him to turn his auto around and drive back to the city. Nolan still covered by the three gunmen, replied, and as he ran his car into a laneway with the idea of getting assistance they jumped out and departed.

Could Not Straighten His Back

Then Quebec Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. E. D. Tremblay is delighted with the results obtained.

Pointe Aux Outardes, Que., Jan. 11.—(Special).—The sterling value of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a kidney remedy is shown by the following statement of Mr. E. D. Tremblay of this town.

"I have suffered for nearly six years from rheumatism and bad kidneys and was not able to stand up straight. I took 2 boxes of your Dodds' Kidney Pills, and am now completely relieved of my trouble."

What Mr. Tremblay states is all that has ever been claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills—that they are good for sick kidneys.

It is outstanding how some people will go on suffering day after day with the aches and pains, rheumatism and backache. The suffer because they are not aware of the fact that they can get relief. Strengthen the kidneys, which are the source of the trouble and these pains vanish. Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They heal and strengthen them so that they do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE TO HAVE COAT OF ARMS

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—After having been in existence for 180 years, the London Stock Exchange has realized that it is just as important as most of the other great city corporations which have their coats of arms so the trustees and managers have decided that the Stock Exchange shall have a coat of arms all to itself.

The College of Heralds has submitted a design to the authorities and should this be approved the great bargaining house in Throgmorton Street will have its own heraldic insignia.

Neurities, that painful inflammation of the nerves, will yield to Internal Bathing. Warm water, circulated through the large intestine, rids the body of harmful waste matter that poisons the system. By thus keeping the large intestine, or colon, clean the body functions normally and the purity of blood is maintained.

Mr. J. H. Edmonton, writes: "I suffered from neuritis very badly and tried everything possible as I thought, but I got worse. A friend who had been the same as myself used your Cascade, which he declared cured him.

"I immediately sent for one and I used it for a short time, when I found the pains had entirely left me—before I used the Cascade I was unable to dress myself. I am nearly 58 years and I can throw my arms and legs about as well as some of the youngsters."

As well as neuritis, Internal Bathing relieves constipation, insomnia, billiousness and other complaints that are the direct result of a congested, unhealthy and blood-contaminating colon.

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at at the Warne Drug Company.

Phone or ask them for free booklet about it, or write Tyrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

EMPLOYEES OF MINT WERE COUNTERFEITERS

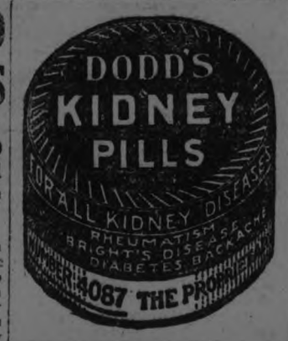
RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 12. — (Associated Press).—Half a million dollars worth of counterfeit revenue stamps, which were as genuine lookinug as any ever printed by the Government, were confiscated by the police recently after the discovery of one of the boldest counterfeiting plots in the criminal annals of this city.

In addition to the stamps, a huge sum of money, and 15 men implicated in the swindle were taken in the raid. The stamps were printed on paper and with ink and plates stolen from the Printing Department of the Government mint.

The leaders of the plot were trusted employes of the mint. The money captured in the raid, which amounted to about $100,000 dollars, had been received from sale of stamps.

CAVAN MEN TAKE COURSE

CAVAN, Jan. 12.— Two of Cavan's young farmers Willis Hall and Stuart McGill left Wednesday last to attend the short course in stock and seed judging at Guelph. Their friends wish these two young men every success.



HUNGER CAUSED STUDENT REVOLT.

MUNICH, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Students in the university have always been a turbulent lot, and they played such an important part in the recent Hitler-Ludendorff-von Kahr rathskeller revolution that there is a great diversity of opinion among Bavarians about the worthiness of the student body as a whole. The students were so monarchical, for the most part, that the monarchists are warm in their praise, while the anti-monarchists have nothing but condemnation for the excitable youngsters.

A professor in Munich University recently made a contribution to the fund for feeding Munich students and in turning the money over to the commission for feeding students said: "The demeanor of Munich students, which is to be deeply regretted, suggests to the Munich doctors the fact that the cause of the student action was the physical privations which the students have undergone. He who wants to calm youth must appease hunger."

The Bayerischer Curier takes issue with this statement and declares the leaders of the student riots were not hungry.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

RARE BOOK BRINGS A LARGE PRICE

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—At a recent auction a William Blake "Milton," 1804, brought $17,000. The volume is believed to be superior to the one in the British Museum as no other copy has 50 leaves. Two others are in the United States.

ASSUMPTION OF POWER BY SEPARATISTS CALLS PROTEST FROM BERLIN

DIVERS FAIL TO LOCATE SUB IN THIRTY FATHOMS

Handicapped By Heavy Seas—Marks On Dreadnaught's Bow Indicate Great Force of Impact—No Hope Left.

END WAS SWIFT.

PORTLAND, England, Jan. 12.—Divers made a number of unsuccessful descents off Portland Bill yesterday afternoon in an effort to learn whether an object located in thirty fathoms of water is the British submarine L-24, which sank on Thursday after a collision with the dreadnought Resolution. Last night there was nothing to give hope that there would be survivors among the members of the submarine's crew.

The divers were greatly handicapped by huge seas and made their descents at great personal risk.

An under-water examination of the Resolution shows unmistakably that the submarine must have been badly holed. The bow chain of the battelship was cut right through and, while the battleship itself was not seriously damaged, there are marks showing that she must have struck the submarine with tremendous force. It is supposed the underwater craft was struck high up, which would explain why no oil floated up, because the oil tanks are at the bottom of the vessel.

The end of the crew is believed to have been mercifully swift, as sea pouring in on the batteries would have created fumes, asphyxiating the men almost immediately. This is regarded as the likely happening since the sensitive hydrophones have heard no sound.

Members of the Resolution's crew, it was learned yesterday, just before the accident, saw what they supposed was a dummy torpedo just ahead, but what, it is now known, must have been the submarine's periscope.

MAY ENTER APPEAL IN LOCKIE WILL CASE

Question of Services Rendered Before the Death of George Lockie.

Joseph Madill and Herbert Cunninghamm the executors under the last Will and Testament of George Lockie, formerly of North Monaghan are considering the question of an appeal whereby the estate has been ordered by the Surrogate Court to pay Peter Moffat $125.00 and Elizabeth Moffatt $000.00 for services which are said to have been rendered the deceased before his death.

The grounds of appeal would be that on the evidence given at the trial it was shown that Peter Moffatt was well paid by receiving his board and the money that was paid to him in the life time by Mr. Lockie considering that he did practically no work together with the fact that he was given part of the farm to work on his own account on which he made a profit and also the fact that he went to Mr. Lockie's in the first place because he needed a home. In his evidence Peter Moffatt contradicted himself as to the money he had while at Mr. Lockie's farm.

With regard to Elizabeth Moffatt the grounds of appeal would be that the intentions of Mr. Lockie in giving her $300 a short time before his death, which payment was not admitted by Miss Moffatt on her examination for discovery as well as bequeathing her $2500 in his Will so to adequately repay her for the services tendered by her to him. The payment of all debts as well as these judgments if they are upheld must come out of the late Mr. Lockie's farm which was left to his neice Mrs. J. Soloman, subject to the payment of all debts. The evidence also showed that Mrs Soloman had rendered more or less services to the deceased from the time she was a girl until his death and the evidence of Joseph Madill indicated that Mr. Lockie considered he was dealing fairly by both parties, when he left Miss Moffatt $2500 by his Will and the farm valued at $3000 to Mrs. Soloman especially considering that the farm is charged with the payment of debts, funeral and testamentary expenses which would considerably reduce this value apart form these judgments which if upheld will leave very little for Mrs. Soloman after judgment.

BRITAIN TO EXPERIMENT

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Experiments are shortly to be made, and big developments expected, inthe semi-diesel type of aero engine which burns crude oil. Tests were made recently with a 600 horsepower engine with six cylinders which ran on crude oil, and now another crude-oil engine is in the experimental design state at Shoreham.

The Air Ministry is anxious to develop this type and the newly formed $5,000,000 Air Transport Company has the same object in view.

SENATE CONFIRMS RELIEVE

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The Senate today voted the relief measure, providing for an appropriation of fifteen million francs, which was passed by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. The money will be used to relieve thos in distress through the recent floods, tidal wave, avalanches and forest fires.

Murder of Heintz Emphasizes Impossible Situation of Separatist Ordinances Being Regarded As Legitimate Laws By the Occupation Authorities, Says Cabinet Statement.

ASSASSINS ESCAPED.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—An official communique with reference to Thursday's discussion by the German Cabinet of the situation in the Palatinate, including the assassination of Herr Heintz, Separatist leader, was issued yesterday.

"Vivid light is thrown by the murder of Herr Heintz on the impossible situation created by the Separatist putsch and its support by the occupation authorities," says the communique. "The newest phase in the development of the situation is that Separatist acts of violence are given in the phraseology of the occupation authorities an appearance of legitimacy.

"The crown will be put upon this policy of hypocrisy if criminal acts of the Separatists are to be treated as ordinances and laws, and registered by the Bureau of the Rhineland Commission as laws of the Reich's lands. The Government has lodged sharpest protest against such proceedings at Paris and Brussels."

DISTURBANCES DENIED.

MAYENCE, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The city of Speyer, in the Bavarian Palatinate, is absolutely quiet, according to French military headquarters here, where it was said aside from the assassination of Herr Heintz, head of the Autonomous Government, and the other Separatist victims, there had been absolutely no disorders in the city and that none was expected. Reports of disturbances in Speyer were officially and categorically denied.

The assassins escaped without the slightest difficulty, according to the French authorities, who say the investigation of the crime by French secret service agents and the German police has yielded no tangible results as to the criminals. The authorities declare, however, their belief that the crime was committed by persons connected with the Hitler or Oberland Nationalist Associations, with the slight evidence available pointing rather toward the Oberland adherents than the Hitlerites.

NATIONALISTS AS HOSTAGES.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The news reaching Berlin from Speyer is still restricted owing to the censorship of dispatches destined for unoccupied Germany, but it is known that all efforts to trace the murderers of Herr Heintz, the Separatist leader, have proved fruitless.

Meanwhile, according to newspaper reports from the Palatinate, the activities of the Separatists are increasing at several points. Additional hostages have been taken, including one of the directors of the aniline soda works at Ludwigshafen and other prominent persons. The bridge between Ludwigshafen and Mannheim has been closed since this morning, completely stopping communication.

Bands of Separatists are being concentrated at Worms, and towns of the middle Rhine are taking measures to safeguard themselves against possible Separatist surprises.

HEINTZ WAS INTEVIEWED.

SPEYER, Palatinate, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The late Herr Heintz, president of the autonomous government of the Palatinate, was seen by a press correspondent only a few days before the assassination of the president and a number of his associates, and gave an interesting interview concerning the status and plans of the Separatist organization.

After the first of January, he told the correspondent the new government expected to begin collecting taxes. A beginning would be made, he said, by issuing licenses on automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles and other vehicles, and by levying indirect taxes on tobacco, beer and luxuries generally. No attempt would be made for a while to collect income taxes.

Plans had been completed, said President Heintz, to issue passports to citizens wishing to travel abroad. This, however, would not be done until the new government had been officially recognized by the Rhineland High Commission. Negotiations for such recognition, he said, had been in progress some days in Coblenz.

Had Planned Elections

When asked if plans also were being made to hold popular elections, now that a great majority of communes had approved the new regime, the president said, "Certainly."

"When do you propose to hold elections?" he was asked.

"Ach, das steht bei Gott," he replied —(Oh, that's in God's hands)

It is not generally known that all streets in the main cities of the Palatinate have been given French names. The old German signs, on iron plaques, still remain on the corners of the buildings, but they are all rusting out until they are barely legible. Underneath each German sign has been painted the French designation in bright letters. Hohe Strasse, for example, has been renamed "Rue Capitals."

Friendly To French.

Having remarked that these changes in street nomenclature had been made, the correspondent asked Herr Heintz if this mean an extensive alliance between the autonomous Palatinate and France.

"Naturally," he replied, "we intend to cultivate friendly relations with our western neighbors, particularly now that we feel we have been so let down by Berlin."

FIELDING MUCH IMPROVED.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding is so much improved in health that he would be able to move about his home without assistance were it not for his eye trouble. This information was furnished by his physician last night, when he was asked about the Minister's condition. It is stated that Mr. Fielding receives a few visitors, dictates letters and shows his usual keen interest in the progress of public affairs.

"My Back Aches"

It is not much wonder that the mother in the home has backaches and headaches when you think of the multiplicity of work and worries she has from morning until night and from week to week.

But pains and aches come from poisons in the system and if the kidneys and liver were doing their duty as filters of the blood the poisoning would not remain there.

This is why it is usual to blame the kidneys and the liver for backache, headache, rheumatism etc.

The way to get rid of such pains and aches, then, is by arousing the action of the kidneys and liver and this is most promptly and most certainly done by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

By using this popular medicine you can usually obtain relief in a few hours.

You will realize then the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills once or twice a week so as to keep these vital organs active and ensure that the poisonous waste matter is promptly removed from the system.

In most homes this medicine is kept constantly on hand for use in case of emergency. Not a bad idea, is it?

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

XXXVII.

During the following week she gave a dinner and insisted upon his attendance. She had given others to that increasing throng that had been young with her in the eighties and to others who had stormed and conquered that once impregnable citadel, but, she informed him, it was now time to entertain some of the younger women, and he must help her.

He consented readily enough, for he was curious to see her surrounded by a generation into which she had coolly stepped with no disadvantage to herself and, from all he heard, considerable to them. He knew that not only Vane but other men in their late twenties and early thirties were paying her devoted attentions. Dinwiddie, who met him in the Park one day and dined with him in the Casino, had spoken with modified enthusiasm of these conquests, but added that it was yet to be demonstrated whether the young men were egged by novelty or genuine coveting. When he hinted that she may have appealed to that secret lust for the macabre that exists somewhere in all men, Clavering had scowled at him so ferociously that he had plunged into rhapsody and bewailed his own lost youth.

And then he had endeavored to sound the young man in whom he was most interested, but of whose present relations with Mary Zattiany he had no inkling; he had not seen them together nor heard any fresh gossip since her second debut. But he was told to shut up and talk about the weather.

Clavering, who knew that he would not have a moment alone with her, went to the dinner in much the same mood as he went to a first-night at which he was reasonably sure of entertainment. It certainly would be good comedy to the detached observer, and this he was quite capable of being with nothing better in prospect. Nevertheless, he was utterly unprepared for the presence of Anne Goodrich and Marian Lawrence, for he understood that the dinner was given to the more important of the young married women. But they were the first persons he saw when he entered the drawing-room. They were standing together—shoulder to shoulder, he reflected cynically—and he knew that they privately detested each other, and not on his account only.

How like Mary Zattiany, with her superb confidence in herself, to ask these beautiful girls who she had heard wanted to marry him themselves. Well, he understood women well enough to be indulgent to their little vanities.

He was almost the last of the guests, but he had time to observe the two girls before dinner was announced, in spite of the fact that he was claimed by other acquaintances before he could reach them.

Anne looked regally handsome in old-colored tissue and paillettes that gave a tawny light to her eyes and hair, and to her skin an amber glow. She held her head very high, and in spite of her mere five feet five, looked little less stately than Madame Zattiany, who wore a marvelous velvet gown the exact shade of her hair. Marian Lawrence was small but so perfectly made that her figure was always alluded to as her body, and she carried her head not regally, but with an insolent assurance that became her. She was very beautiful, with a gleaming white skin that she never powdered nor colored, and hair like gold leaf, parted and worn in smooth bands over her ears and knotted loosely on her neck in the fashion known as a la vierge. Her large grayish-green eyes were set far apart and her brows and lashes were black. She had a straight innocent-looking nose with very thin nostrils, into which she was capable of compressing the entire expression of a face. She generally wore the fashionable colors of the moment, but tonight her soft shimmering gown was of palest green, and Clavering wondered if this was a secret declaration of war. She, too, was of the siren class, and it was possible that she and Mary Zattiany derived from some common ancestress who had combed her hair on a rock or floated northward over the steppes of Russia. But there were abysmal differences between the two women, as Clavering well knew. Marian Lawrence, with great natural intelligence, never read anything more serious than a novel and preferred those that were not translated into English. She took no interest whatever in anything outside her inherited circumference, and had prided herself during the war upon ignoring its existence. She was as luxurious and as dainty as a cat and one of the most ardent sportswomen in America. She looked as if she had just stepped out of a stained-glass window, and she was a hard, subtle, predatory flirt; too much in love with her beautiful body to give it wholly to any man. She had never really fallen in love with Clavering until she had lost him, and he, his brief enthusiasm for her unique beauty and somewhat demoniac charm having subsided, had avoided her ever since; although they danced together at the few fashionable parties he attended. He knew her better now than when he had seen her daily, almost hourly, at a house party in the White Mountains, and almost as often for several weeks after his return. This was shortly after his mistake with Anne, and her attraction had consisted largely in her complete difference from a really fine character toward whom he felt a certain resentment for having so much and still lacking the undefined essential. He had not deluded himself that he would find it in Marian Lawrence, but her paradoxes diverted him and he was quite willing to go as far as her technique permitted. It had never occurred to him for a moment that she was seriously in love with him, but he had had more than one glimpse of her claws and he regarded her uneasily tonight. And what were she and Anne whispering about?

"You will take in Miss Goodrich," Madame Zattiany had said to him, her eyes twinkling, and he had merely shrugged his shoulders. He did not care in the least whom he talked to; it was the ensemble that interested him. Anne and Marian were the only girls present. The other women were between twenty-five and thirty-five-or-six. Madame Zattiany would seem to have chosen them all for their good looks, and she looked younger than several of them.

Mauve was the fashionable color of the season. There were three mauve gowns and the table was lit by very long, very thin mauve candles above a low bank of orchids. Mrs. Ruyler had disinterred the family amethysts, but Mrs. de Lacey and Mrs. Vane, "Polly's" daughter-in-laws, wore their pearls. There were several tiaras, for they were going on to the opera and later to a ball. The company numbered twenty in all and there were three unmarried men besides Clavering, and including Harry Vane. Clavering found Marian Lawrence on his left, and once more he caught a twinkle in Madame Zattiany's eyes as the guests surrounded the table.

He had not seen Anne since the night of Suzan's party, when they had varied the program by sitting on the floor in front of the fire, roasting chestnuts and discussing philosophy; then playing poker until two o'clock in the morning. He asked her if she were comfortable and happy in her new life.

"Rather!" She smiled with all her old serene brightness and her eyes dwelt on him in complete friendliness.

HOME MADE COUGH MIXTURE CONSIDERED BEST

Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly.

COSTS BUT A TRIFLE

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best.

Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.

It's fine for chests colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.

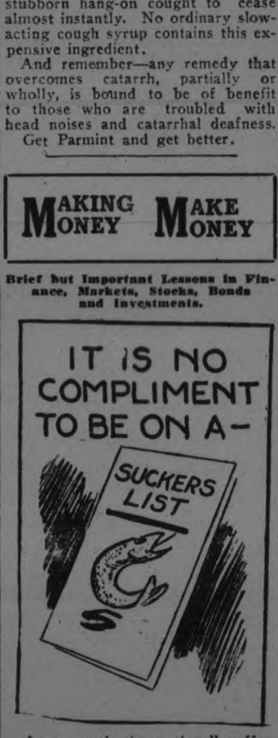
Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cought to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

And remember—any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness. Get Parmint and get better.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



Any one who is continually offered questionable securities by unknown brokers need not feel complimented, because such persons are probably on a "sucker list."

"Sucker lists' are acquired by long experience in the fake stock promotion game. Every time a get-rich-quick artist discovers some one who is easily persuaded to buy stocks through rosy promises of enormous profits, the promoter adds this name to his list

Although "one is born every minute" it takes years to acquire a good valuable sucker list. Such lists have been known to sell for as much as $100,000. If one crooked broker is put out of business he usually sells his list to another.

Consequently, although it may appeal to one's vanity to be solicited often by stock promoters, it ought to be considered as an insult.

HEADACHES FOR WEEKS

They Soon Disappeared After Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Every woman, at times, finds the routine of housework irksome. But how much more difficult are the daily tasks of the home to the woman who is nervous and rundown? She prepares meals for the family, but has no appetite for food. What she does eat distresses her, headaches and dizziness follow, there is a fluttering of the heart, and the complexion becomes pale. In cases of debility of this kind building up the blood is generally effective. By improving the quality of the blood and increasing its quantity, nourishment is carried to the shattered nerves. The appetite invariably improves, and gradually the exhausted system is toned up and the whole outlook of life is brightened. Mrs. Geo. Grant, R. R. No. 1, Markdale, Ont., tells for the benefit of others the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were to her in a run-down condition. She says: "If anyone can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I feel I can. For over four years I had been troubled with my nerves, and for weeks at a time I would suffer terribly with headaches. My blood was very thin, I had no appetite, could hardly go about. I was afraid to stay alone in the house as I feared something would happen me. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they have made me a new woman, as I am now the picture of health. I have increased in weight, the headaches come no more, and my nerves are as good as ever they were. Before I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills life was a burden; now I enjoy living, and I hope some other woman will take courage from my experience, for I feel sure that what this medicine did for me it can do for others."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SEEK A TOXIN NOW TO END WEARINESS

Scientists Search For a Formula That Will Eliminate Fatigue.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Scientists having failed to find the elixir of life or the fountain of youth are now seeking the next best thing—a vaccine that will do away with weariness and enable a person to go through all forms of exertion without fatigue. The search, according to Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones, is going on in the United States, Italy and the United Kingdom.

Crile and Cannon are leading the movement in America and Mosso in Italy, he said. They are experimenting with tired animals. They are basing their experiments on the medical fact that the human body invariably creates its own anti-toxins when poison enters the blood. Even if the fatigue-fighting vaccine is found it still will be necessary for man to sleep, said Sir Robert. Indeed, the alleviation would be conducive to slumber.

Pending the discovery of the toxin various methods to avoid that tired feeling are being advocated. One is the use of salt in a solution as a beverage. Experiments upon miners have shown that their efficiency is increased 20 per cent. by the daily use of salt, a recent convention in London was informed by Professor K. Neville-Moss.

Laborious work in a hot, dry temperature, Professor Moss explained, causes the worker to perspire freely and leads him to drinking large quantities of water. This, said Professor Moss, produces cramps, fatigue and clogging of the kidneys.

To prevent water poisoning, miners undergoing the tests in this country were given a solution of salt in water to balance the loss of salt by perspiration. As a result the miners dug more coal, their vigor was maintained throughout the day, they were no longer bothered with cramps and they slept more soundly.

Professor Moss said the best solution of salt to use is one containing 60 per cent. sodium chloride and 40 per cent. potassium chloride.

AGED WOMAN HAS SUCCESSFUL JOB

Woman Has Made a Living For 29 Years Out of Knitting. She Makes Big Money.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 12.—At the age of 50, Mrs. Mary Heunisch started a hobby of which she knew absolutely nothing and which has now grown into an unusual business.

That was 29 years ago, when Mrs. Heunisch began thinking seriously of her declining years. Her fear of dependence on others, and her dread of inactivity, led her to decide on knitting as a means by which she could get enough money to keep her going the rest of her life.

Knitting then was as unknown to her as was the English language. Now her income equals that of an average professional man.

"Until I was 50 years old, I had never attempted knitting," she says. "But I sent to the town of my birth in Germany for an instruction book in knitting, being unable to read English.

"I studied that book day and night for several weeks until I was able to repeat the text word for word. Then I began knitting. My first efforts were discouraging and I was often on the verge of giving up the task. I made 34 attempts to knit a simple little doily and each time failed to attain the standard I desired. One evening, about four months after I had begun knitting, I discovered that at last I had mastered the art and from then on my work showed distinct signs of progress.

"I usually begin knitting about 11 in the morning and keep it up until 4 the next morning. I have found a few hours sleep are all I require. All of my designs are original and I work them out while lying in bed waiting for sleep to overtake me. As soon as I arise the next day, I make a rough sketch of the design and preserve it until I can get around to work it out with the needles."

Mrs. Heunisch receives from $100 to $500 for a single piece of work, depending on the size and intricacy of the design. She seldom spends more than 10 days on a piece.

PETERBORO WOMEN ARE STILL GETTING BOBBED

The Garconne Hair Cut Has Not Reached This Neck of the Woods Yet -What the Hairdressers and Barbers Say.

By JEANNETTE.)

From what may be gleaned by observation of prevalent fashions and the trend of opinion in other lands as mirrored in the daily press, it looks as though the fashion of bobbing the hair, like the short skirt and the poor, is one of those things that we will have always with us. After a valiant effort by the style-changers and the hairdressers to bring back the vogue of abundant hair, the bob still retains its popularity. Spain is said to be the only country in the world where the bob has not caught on. And there is a distinct departure in the latest thing in bobs. Displacing the Tut-ankamen cut, which wasn't much of a success, anyway, is the shingled bob, which is now in vogue in Toronto, and is said to be the forerunner of the garconne hair cut which has not yet reached here from Paris.

In the shingled bob the idea is to give the back of a girl's head the same general cut and appearance as a shingled roof, and it takes a good workman to do it properly. It is said to be only a step behind the garconne cut, which aims to look just as much like a boy's hair cut as possible, and to follow the line of the head in the back, lying sleek and tight to the scalp. One of its early results has been to show that men are not the only people in the world with funny-shaped heads.

No curly bobbed hair is now really chic, and no hair that flares out in the back is really chic. It must have an upward slant in the back and be cut close to the head.

Interrogated as to prospects in Peterborough for the new boyish cut, local hair-dressers, both masculine and feminine, report no demand so far for the garconne cut or the shingled bob. The bush and curled effect seems to be still holding its own, in this city, but personal observation has revealed at least one adherent of the latest tendency. Examination of the profile of the young lady who had her head treated in this fashion would lead one to agree with the commentators who declare that on some it looks wonderful, and on others not quite so wonderful.

An odd slant to the bobbing game is the fact that, while the local lady hairdressers consider it quite chic and smart, the men assume a doubtful expression over its merits. Evidently the old tradition of the hair as "woman's crowning glory" dies hard in the masculine mind. One gentleman went to so far as to declare that he emphatically didn't admire it at all, and thought that no girl over sixteen should bob her hair. In this gentleman's establishment, a certain lady customer, desirous of shearing locks that were described as being very abundant and lovely, was refused service, and had to go elsewhere to have her hair shorn. In another place, a lament was expressed over the action of a woman, "with hair that reached to her hips," who, after withstanding temptation for the last three years, had it cut off very recently.

The trials and tribulations of the man who aims to satisfy a woman's demands are well illustrated in the case of hair-cutting. It seems that women are very finicky where their locks are concerned, and give minute and special instructions as to the length, the apparatus to be used, and the general procedure to be followed in the process. One good-natured gentleman spoke of a lady customer who patronizes his establishment constantly and whose wishes he feels constantly unable to satisfy. "I never feel as if I earned my money with that woman," he says, "for she always appears dissatisfied with the final result, no matter what I do."

It appears that a bob, to remain satisfactory, must stay put. That is, if you have it done with a part on the left side, then go home and decide that a right parting is more suited to your particular style of beauty, the whole tonsorial effect is ruined. Some women, too, have a habit of wanting it cut just a certain length on the forehead, then throwing back the locks, and blaming the barber for the resulting disruption of picturesque appearance.

Most women have an aversion to the clippers, and carry this dislike into their instructions for the use of the scissors altogether, even when it happens to be a child's hair that is being cut. And it appears that the scissors must be held at a certain slanting angle to get the proper cut, also that a saw-like edge is preferable to a sharp steel.

The origin of the bob has been popularly ascribed to Irene Castle, but the American dancer only introduced it to this side of the water. In England, in war time, the custom started, when women joined up for service of various kinds, and were compelled to cut their hair to more convenient and efficient length. On this continent, so one lady asserts, the previous styles of 'hair do' had been so huge that women following the fashion were compelled to constantly 'back-comb' their locks, that process that looks so cruel in the doing but has such fluffy results, with the result that their hair was almost ruined when the providential rage of the bob set in, and practically made a virtue out of a necessity. The style has been accredited in recent years to the 'flapper,' but the original flapper of England, the 'young duck' trying out her wings, and her Teutonic sister, the 'backfische' of German origin, wore a long and stringy braid hanging down her back.

The "Canadian Barber," in its January issue, contains a note to the effect that war between beauty shops and beauty parlors has been declared in Minneapolis, to decide the question of who is permitted to bob hair. In a test case in the municipal court there some weeks ago, two beauty shop operators were sentenced to serve ten days in jail and placed on probation. In one of the cases, the justice said, in imposing sentence: "The place to get a hair cut is in a barber shop."

The charge in the instances noted was preferred by a member of the State Board of Barber Examiners, who is also proprietor of a barber shop, the charge being based on a law passed 25 years ago permitting only licensed barbers to cut hair for pecuniary reward.

"The barbers of Canada," the note goes on to state, "are now, through the various Provincial Legislatures, seeking the enactment of an adequate uniform law defining the profession of barbers."

Evidently another instance of the great modern excursion of the woman from her former sphere in the home to a field of commerce considered an exclusively masculine preserve.

A certain young local lady with shorn locks gets around the whole difficulty by "cutting her own." By the use of a hand-mirror, a pair of sharp shears and a plentiful supply of ingenuity, mixed with patience, she gets through the whole operation, even cutting the dark locks on the back of her neck in a very satisfactory manner to herself and family.

MARKET BIRDS FULL REGALIA

Hardwood Plentiful at Twelve and Thirteen Dollars a Cord.

Plenty of fowl, butter and eggs and lots of cut wood in loads on the open section, were the main features of the farmers' market this morning. Wood was selling mixed lots at eight and nine dollars, with cut hardwood at twelve and thirteen. Several loads of hay were $14 a ton.

Meat was plentiful, beef selling at 8c and 10c for fronts and 10 and 12c for hind quarters, in varying qualities. Pork was 14 and 16c.

Apples in barrels, the Stark variety, were $4; Russets were 45c a pk.; Baldwins and McIntosh, 60c; and Ontario, 35c.

There was a variety of mixed roots and onions. California beans were 20c quart, turnips 50c a bag, and potatoes $1.50 a bag.

Fowl was everywhere on the upstairs tables, with most of it in a particularly neat condition. The majority of the birds appeared in full dress with claws trussed up in the approved fashion. One big turkey had achieved in death a gymnastic feat that it may have pondered on during life, when it screwed it purple head in between two stiffly tied legs and faced the world in this peculiar position.

Turkeys were selling at 35 and 40c a pound, geese from 25 to 30c, ducks at 30c, and chickens, which are very plentiful, all the way from 25c for good, dry-picked birds, to 30c for crate-fed specimens.

Butter was 40 to 45c a pound, in crocks and prints, ranged neatly in baskets or in the big brown suitcases that many of the vendors use, and eggs sold for 50 to 55c a doz.

The Government grading regulations are still an unknown factor in the lives of the market vendors of eggs. Oe woman declare1 that an enforcement of them would send the price of eggs up to the consumer.

Head cheese in round pound cakes, was 15 and 25c, and suet circles were 10c.

The snow brought here yesterday in six open cars at an estimated cost of $1000 a car, melted in the spring-like weather. It was insured for $4,000.

Negro Was Mayor For Single Hour Sixty Years Ago

Peterborough is the only city of its size on the continent where there is not a resident colored man.

But it was not ever thus.

The municipal inauguaration on Monday recalls the time, 62 years ago, when an ebony-hued negro was Peterboro's mayor for one hour.

The negro, Crossley, who operated a barber shop on Water street, and who was reported to be exceptionally black—black, indeed, as the best advertised shoe polish—was nominated as a "joke."

Other candidates, insulted by the idea of having their names go on the ballot with the dusky aspirant, withdrew, with the result that Crossley was elected by acclamation.

An hour after the polls closed, a committee armed with strong arguments, and other persuasive powers, waited on the Mayor and asked him to resign. He acceded to the request, and Peterborough has been without a negro since.

FIVE YEAR TERM FOR LOCAL MAN

Prisoner Pleaded Guilty to a Serious Charge—Police Court News.

"Five years in Kingston penitentiary and twenty lashes" was the sentnce pronounced this morning on James Shaw, charged with incest. Magistrate O. A. Langley presided and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., conducted the prosecution. The prisoner, who pleaded guilty to the charge, was represented by J. C. Strickland, who urged in his behalf that a man who committed an offense of this kind and pleaded guilty to it could not be mentally normal.

As is usual when salacious cases of this nature are being heard, the court room was crowded to capacity with spectators, including several women. Besides filling the seats they crowded the standing room at the back of the court, and some, unable to gain entrance, stood in the hallway.

In his address to the court, Mr. Strickland said he appeared as the solicitation of Mrs. Shaw. "This man has peladed guilty," he said, "to the most horrible crime we come in contact with. Most of these cases come from outlying districts, but a similar case came before the court a year ago. I made representations in connection with that case as to the condition of the man, and this case appears very similar. A man who pleads guilty to a charge of this nature is not normal and should not be dealt with as a normal man. It seems to me the case is one for the intervention of a medical man. This man has a family of 6 children. He has been 8 years in Peterborough. His wife says he is an excellent husband in every way except in this one particular. His only blot is this act, or this series of acts, and it seems to be without explanation except on the grounds that he is not normal. In the event of his being sentenced to imprisonment his family will be a charge on the municipality."

Mrs. Shaw, having obtained leave to speak, said her husband was "good to the kiddies. They look up to him."

Abominable Case.

Mr .Hatton said the crime is accepted as the most abominable in the list of crimes. "The particular instances in this case are such that they are almost unbelievable. They are abominable and fiendish—words of mine could not express the feelings anyone must have who knows the circumstances. The statement has been put forward that this man is not normal. One could hardly conclude that he is normal. But nothing has been brought forward to show that his condition is different from other men who have committed crimes of this nature."

This crime must be stamped out as far as possible," the Crown Attorney continued ."The charge to the state alone, from an economic viewpoint, is such that degenerates are bred and the country is contaminated. It is in the interests of the public that this man must be punished severely."

Magistrate Langley, in passing sentence, said the adjective used by Mr. Hatton was the only one to describe the crime. In view of the circumstances, and the need of eradicating the horrible crime, it was his duty, he said, to impose the lash. "The principle of punishment is not so much vengeance of the state as to set an example so that other men may see what happens to those who violate the law, and take warning."

The lashes, according to the magistrate's order, will be given, 10 at the expiration of one month and 10 at the expiration of two months.

Sentenced For Theft .

J. Burritt Mann, charged with stealing the sums of $113.69 and $171.73 from G. J. Jopling and Sons, was sentenced to two months in the common jail. Mann pleaded guilty to both charges .

The prisoner, it was alleged, delivered meat to customers of the firm, collected the money in payment and by some method covered the fact he had received it. He promised to prove trustworthy in future if given a chance.

Crown Attorney Hatton said the thieving had been systematic over a period of two months, making it more serious than if the man had been tempted once or twice to take money.

Mr. Jopling and the prisoner's family pleaded for leniency, restitution having been made by the family.

Magistrate Langley said he could not allow this [illegible] to be used as a collecting house for debts. "This is a serious case," he said. "You have pleaded guilty to a charge that implies dishonesty when you were trusted. For an offense such as that to make the sentence a month's imprisonment would be making a joke of the administration of justice."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE MYSTERY

"I still haven't found my lost people!" said the Sandman.

Nancy and Nick and Daddy Gander helped Mister Sandman to sweep up his spilled sand. Daddy Gander got his magic dustpan and Nancy found where the Old Shoe Woman kept her borom and they soon had every grain of it up.

They didn't guess for one minute that the greatest damage of all had been done quite outside the Old Shoe House. They didn't know that when the sand tickled their noses and every one of them had sneezed his head off nearly, that a great many grains had floated out of the patch door-way and over the house tops to the house that Jack built. And that the party that Jack and Jill were giving had come to a sudden end.

Mister Piper, Tom's father, who was blowing out his cheeks like apples and playing a merry jig on his pipe, suddenly let his head sink on his breast and began to snore.

The three fiddlers brought by King Cole, suddenly stopped their bows, their fiddles fell from their chins, and their heads dropped over like ten-pins.

King Cole himself dancing with the Queen of Hearts, was making a gorgeous bow when the sleepy sand struck him in the eye, and he sank in a heap at her feet—sound asleep. The Queen herself, ready for a curtsy, gave one yawn and fell back into a rocking chair—dead to the world.

And every one of the Daddy Gander Land people from the Crooked Man to the Sprats, fell asleep at Jack and Jill's party. The Old Shoe Woman and her children among them.

Jack and Jill and Missez John, too, fell asleep still looking for the missing pies that the Twins had gone to hunt. Missez John in the pantry, Jill in the kitchen and Jack in the cellar. For the house that Jack built was a very complete one indeed.

Well, after the Old Shoe Woman's house had been swept clean, Daddy Gander and the Sandman and the Twins got their wits together.

"I still haven't found my lost people!" said the Sandman.

"And we still haven't found the lost pies," said Daddy Gander. "And if we don't find them, Jack's party will be spoiled. How can they end a party without refreshments? There is no other way to end a party. And the party will go on and on all night. Something must be done."

"Let's go back," suggested Nick.

"That's a good idea!" nodded the Sandman. "Maybe I can persuade the Old Shoe Woman's children to come home to bed anyway."

So off they went.

And you know what they saw when they got there. Every single soul as sound asleep as mummies.

But they saw something more, for when they rushed back to the kitchen there was every pie and every cake and the ice cream freezer and everything right in the cupboard where Missez John had put them. Not a thing had been touched.

"Well, well, well!" What a topsy-turvy place this is!" cried poor Daddy Gander. "A little while ago we had a lot of people and no pies. Now we have a lot of pies and no people. I hope you are satisfied, Mister Sandman."

There was a mystery! And they were soon to find it out.

Canadian Stock Exchange —And Mines— | New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices—

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(United Pres).—Strength in the steel stocks and in numerous industrial specialties gave promise at the week end of definite continuance of the markets current buoyancy, with money in unprecedented supply and the trade indications for the spring exceptionaly bright, the back ground exists for a broad bull market of old fashioned proportions and constructive interests are not likely to overlook the opportunity which the situation affords.

Busness surveys told of quickening activity in the steel trade, supplying the impulse for furhter bullish demonstrations in this class of stocks. Steel Common maintained the best levels of the present recovery and new highs on the movement were reached by leading independents like Bethlehem and Republic in the industrial specialties category. The principal features were the Willy's-Overland issues, Stewart Warner, Texas Gulf Sulphur and International Combustion.

New favorites were taken up in the Industrial specialties class in the final dealings including Congoleum and famous players. In the main body of stocks, the principal feature was the strength of the steels.

Steel Common continued in demand at par and new highs on the movement were reached by Republic at 53 3-8 and Bethlehem at 55 1-2.

The mercantile agencies at the close of the week spoke of the indications of revival from the year and recession in general business with activity in steel and automobile lines especially.

The reports furnished the evidence which Wall St. has awaited regarding the manner in which the New Year was opening up and stocks displayed fresh buoyancy in the early dealings.

Baldwin and Steel were the real leaders, reflecting preparations under way for the account of the strongest interests in the financial district to make these two issues the features of next weeks phase of the current bullish demonstrations.

French Francs opened at a new record low, and Belgian Francs sagged in sympathy. Later, Francs were down to $.0468, off $.0009, after having touched $.0467 for a new record low.

Demand Sterling was at $4.26 3-8 of 1 1-4.

No further progress on the unside was scored by the main body of stocks in the first hour. But the general list maintained a strong tone and operations for the rise went ahead in various industrial specialties.

Willys-Overland issues were outstanding features, preferred reaching its highest point since 1920—37 1-4. This stocks rapid advance reflects the expectation that resumption of dividends will be discussed in the near futre.

The company in 1923 earned approximately sixty dollars a share on this issue. Accumulated dividends amounted to 25 per cent on January 1st.

ABANDONS ALL HOPE OF SAVING THE MEN

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Admiralty announced this morning that it had abandoned all hope of saving lives of forty three men who went down with submarine L-24 when that craft was rammed by the dreadnought Resolution off Portland, on Thursday.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

While the same general problems of personal health apply, in a way, to city and country alike, in many ways they differ. Owing to the great growth, crowded conditions, and intensity of health problems in the city, their solution has been more possible. Cities have been more fortunate in creating better housing conditions, and in the maintenance of both public and private hospitals, dispensaries and clinics.

Combatting disease conditions has also been better taken care of in cities. Social health service is far better organized than in the country, and physicians are easier to reach in case of emergencies.

Perhaps the phase of health in the rural districts, more important than all others, is the lack of real health knowledge in dealing with actual health conditions. Where settlements are scattered, a real health gain would result from a gathering once or twice a month. Some health authority could be secured to address such a meeting, and health pamphlets from national and state boards could be distributed. A school house or church could be used as a center.

In the solution of individual problems of water, sewage and hygiene, education must be sought from the best possible sources. A community or county physician is a modern way of giving adequate service to the whole countryside at a minimum expense.

The problem of cleanliness is another of great import. Where there is water and soap, one may bathe the whole body in some way. Do this at least twice a week, and bathe the feet, if inclined to sweat, every night. A health gain of increased length of life would be the result. The cities have gained 10 years, the country can increase this.

There is a deficit of great import in rural foods. Too much of the same kind is eaten, where a change in diet would cost no more. Every farm garden, which results in the canning and storage of food, means better diet. Health in body building is a result of better garden work by boys and girls.

Try and have the family supplied with vegetables and fruits the year round, and vary the diet for a distinct health gain.

On the Bridge of a Great Liner A Tremendous Responsibility

When a disaster comes at sea, a captain has perhaps ten seconds in which to decide on his course of action. Those who may afterwards be called upon to sit in judgment on the matter are allowed many months to arrive at their conclusions. On the sea it is always a case of "You never can tell." Anything may happen, anywhere, any time. Life afloat is, of course, hard, but (writes C. A. Smith, captain of the Berengaria, the world's second greatest liner) with all my responsibilities I enjoy every moment of it. Men who have pierced the inky darkness ahead, who can smell an iceberg miles away," who have learnt to watch for danger that others may sleep in safety —these men see life sane and see it whole.

Constant warfare with the elements simplifies the sailor. He knows how to observe a sense of proportion. He does not rave at the blistering sun which makes his decks as hot as a furnace. Nor does he curse at the driving hail which cuts his face.

The captain of a big ocean liner has many ticklish times, but if he absolutely refuses to worry these won't harm him. On the bridge his brain must be wide awake and his imagination fast asleep. As an illustration, take the most exciting incident in my whole career. During the war I was once bringing the Aquitania down Channel. On board were 6,000 troops and 1,000 crew. You may well say, "What an awful responsibility." It was, but on the bridge that was the last thing I had to think about (shut off imagination). I resolutely shut off my imagination, full-stopped it, and concentrated my whole being on the job in hand, which was to guide my precious cargo and my splendid ship to her haven.

My business was to outwit the German submarines, which I knew were all around me. My officers and I were peering over the bridge, watching every yard of sea. Suddenly, quick as the lightning flash, a torpedo appeared from nowhere, and I had to decide in one second what to do. I did it, and the torpedo missed what would have been the biggest casualty list of the war. A captain of a big passenger liner is always on duty, so to speak, from the time he leaves port until he reaches the other side. The only time he relaxes is when he hands the giant ship over to the marine superintendent. "Port to Port" is the captain's spell of duty. Obviously he must sleep at sea, but metaphorically he does so with one leg out of the bunk.

Before I leave the bridge, I make sure of the ship's position, and record it. I prepare my "captain's night orders," wherein is noted any alteration of course, and directions when I am to be called. There are always some cautionary remarks to the officer on watch, e.g., as to open ports and fog. If near land, the precise position of the ship must be marked on the chart.

The compass must be corrected for any deviation, and steps must be taken to ensure that the ship is held properly on her course. The junior officer on watch must be made equally conversant with everything. Even he must be prepared to deal with all emergencies. On every Cunard liner a special officer is detailed to supervise the actual steering of the ship.

When fog descends, or even threatens, the captain instantly goes on the Berengaria's bridge. This is the universal rule for a master during a fog. Under my feet are 52,000 tons and 4,000 people, who have implicit trust in me. Whole families are sleeping with the same sense of security as in London.

My officers and I are dim shadows silhouetted against the driving fog, which writhes and twists like some awful gigantic ghost. Every nerve is taut, the engines at stand-by or eased down. At regular intervals our whistle—sounding hoarse and scarifying in the black night—splits the dead silence. Far away, I hear an answering signal. I know exactly what I am going to do, but the skipper's anxiety in a fog is, "Does the other fellow know?" That's the fog problem. There is no room for imagination on a bridge.

Once, years ago, on one of my ships some girls smoking in bed, set their cabin on fire. If I began to think of such risks I should soon lose my nerve. My job is the ship, and not young women's cigarettes.

On the Berengaria's bridge I have the feeling that under me, is the safest ship afloat. She is in reality one ship built inside another. In times of less tension I have many other duties, for as captain I am, ipso facto, judge, jury, lawyer and acting officiant at burials. When on the Austrian—New York Route—I have myself buried as many as 16 or 17 returning emigrants—Southern Europeans who were suffering from tuberculosis.

In the Cunard line there are none but Britons, and in a tight corner give me the Briton every time. He works independently when others get excited. He is not afraid of lonesome jobs. The chief reason why the German submarine failed was that, as they told me, they hated lonely jobs.

NO JAZZ IN TORONTO SCHOOLS

Jazz finds no place in the music training that is being given in the Toronto schools. Jazzy songs and hymns may gain a hold in Sunday schools, but Duncan McKenzie, director of music in the high and public schools of that city, has set his face flintily against it.

Mr. McKenzie aims to give the children music that is worth remembering, music that will live. The list of the moment comes and goes and time spent on it is wasted, so far as study is concerned. "Music badly taught is worse than none," is one of Mr. McKenzie's maxims.

He is building up a library of records at the school administration building in Toronto to which any school may have access and may borrow, for a month, the records desired. Already the library is a notable one both in quantity and quality and it is being added to from time to time. Before long the director hopes to have it fairly adequate and to make it of great assistance to the work of giving the children a grounding in good music.

Ave Maria—Gounod (soprano solo).
Aida—Verdi.
Ave Maria)Schubert (violin-Ysaye
Andantino—Thomas.
Andanty Theme—Sonata II.—Mozart.
Allegro—Sonata, Op. 49—Beethoven.
Ase's Death —(Peer Gynt Suite). Greig.
Anitra's Dance—(Peer Gynt Suite). Grieg.
Andante—Tschaikowsky.
Allegro Tardante—Mendelssohn.
And then take the M's:
Mother Song—Kuchen.
Minuet—Boccherini.
Morning Mood—(Peer Gynt). Greig.
Men of Harlech.
Monastery Bells—Rubenstein.
March Slave—Tschaikowsky.
Moment Musical—Schubert.
Minuet—Beethoven.
Melody in F—Rubenstein.
March Militaire—Saint Saens.
Meditztion—from Thais-Massanet.
Minuet—Debussy (Petite Suite).
Minuet—Boccherini.

Mr. McKenzie summarizes his aims in the musical development of the pupils in these words:

1. To cultivate a musical vocabulary in order to talk about music.
2. To develop critical powers and so have a standard to judge music.
3. To raise the taste beyond the "popular" song or instrumental hit of the moment.
4. To create a favorable atmosphere for the proper employment of leisure hours.

A PRESENTATION TO BRO. W. MADILL

I. O. F. Installation and Banquet of Court Chemong.

The annual installation of officers of Court Chemong, No. 530, I. O. F., was held on Thursday evening in the W. O. W. hall. There was a large, attendance of the members and their friends, including a number of ladies from Court Prince of Wales, Havelock, Ont. Bro E. C. Styles presided and on behalf of the Court extended a cordial welcome to all present, and Bro. Geo. E. Bailey, S. Sec., of Toronto, was received with honors and given a hearty welcome. The officers were then duly installed in their various chairs of office by Bro. Bailey, S. S., assisted by two Companions from Havelock, Companion Mrs. McGill, acting as Marshall and Companion Mrs. Jones as Conductor.

The installation ceremony being completed all sat down to an excellent banquet prepared by the ladies , the tables being very tastefully arranged and decorated with flowers from the Peterboro Floral Co. All having partaken of the dainty refreshments to their satisfaction, Bro. W. Madill, toast-master, addressed the company in a neat, appropriate address and then proceeded with the toast list.

"The King" was proposed by Bro. H. E. Connoley, which was responded to by Bro. J. H. Byers. "The High Court" was proposed by Bro. F. Clark and responded to by Bro. G. W. Spring. "Court Chemong" was proposed by Bro. E. C. Styles and responded to by Bro. J. Cooper. "Court Prince of Wales," Havelock, was proposed by Companion Mrs. Millard and responded to by Companion Mrs. McGill. "The Supreme Court" was proposed by Bro. A. Bradshaw and responded to by Bro. Geo. E. Bailey, S. S., who delivered an interesting and instructive address dealing with the excellent financial standing of the Order, and explaining about the splendid benevolent work accomplished at the Orphan's Home at Oakville, and at the Rainbow Sanitorium in the heart of the Adironack mountains, Rainbow Lake, New York, of which institution he was managing director.

Bro. Bailey then called Bro. Madill to come forward and in a brief address referred to Bro. Madill having been 30 years a member of the I. O. F. and 20 years its faithful treasurer, and then presented and decorated Bro. Madill with a veteran forester Jewel and the audience joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and Bro. Madill was given three cheers and tiger. Bro. Madill although taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply, thanking the members and the Supreme Court for this token of their esteem.

Companion Mrs. Bradshaw acted very acceptably as piano accompanist for the community singing. The singing of God Save the King brought to a close a very enjoyable evening.

THERAPEUTIC VALUE OF MUSIC DEMONSTRATED

Inmates of New York Hospital for Insane Give Normal Music and Dramatic Performance

Among the 100 participants in a musical and dramatic performance at the Central Islip (L. I.) State Hospital for the Insane recently were three performars who less than three months before had been violent. This, according to Willem van de Wall, of the Committee for the Study of Music in Institutions, clearly demonstrated the therapeutic value of music in the treatment of the mentally defective.

The event was arranged by Mr. van de Wall, assisted by Dr. G. A. Smith of the hospital and Mrs. Stella Wollesen, stage director. Tyere was solo singing, solo and interpretive dancing, chorus singing and dancing and exhibitions of costume making and stage setting. The performers in every instance were the patients themselves and the audience was made up proncipally of patients.

The participants represented every division and ward in the hospital, including that in which the least manageable were confined, yet so absolutely normally was every act "put off" that outsiders seeing the performance for the first time did not believe the performers were inmates of a hospital for the insane. Patients were extended the liberty of the grounds during the entertainment and not one took advantage of the parole to attempt flight.

At the hospital is an orchestra maintained by the State, some of the members of which are inmates of the hospital. Every type of music was played and sung from the most classic to "Yes, We Have No Bananas Today." These all, according to Mr. van de Wall, are effective in varying degrees, depending upon the condition of the hearer.

There no longer is any question as to the value of music on the discipline of the mentally afflicted, Mr. van de Wall said, nor as to its power to restore them by degrees toward the normal.

Washington, Oregon, and Idaho produce nearly half of the commercial apples of the United States.

What 600 kitchen-talks taught two young women

JOTTINGS FROM THE NOTEBOOKS OF M. C. AND M. S.

"LEON, the West Indian cook in an exclusive home was—well, Leon was certainly a Crisco enthusiast. I happened to enter Leon's kitchen at the very moment he was taking his Crisco pies from the oven. After I had explained my errand, Leon, who was a rapid talker, launched into a long list of reasons why he preferred Crisco. He gave dozens, of which I remember these:

"'Crisco makes a delicious and very flaky pie crust—people tell me my pies are wonderful. Crisco fries quickly, too, and after frying anything with it I can strain and use it all over again. I always use it for cakes and people say my cakes are delicious — light and moist. I don't have to put Crisco in the ice-box. I just leave it out on the kitchen shelf and it keeps sweet and fresh.'"

(This and the following comments were selected from the notebooks of two young women who keep us, the makers of Crisco, in touch with the cooking problems of the women who use it.)

"Mrs. H. was away, but her husband was at home and turned out to be the proprietor of a fine bakery. Every day, it seems, he makes 160 dozen doughnuts and 300 pies — with Crisco. He has tried every shortening and settled down to Crisco. It was easier to use, he said, and gave more delicious results.

"Miss L. and her mother (a gentle old lady of long cookery experience) were very partial to Crisco. 'In cooking with Crisco,' said Miss L's mother, 'I am sure of such delicious flavours. Crisco blends so delicately that it seems to bring out the fine natural flavours of the ingredients themselves—the real secret of all good cooking.'

"One house, apparently a residence, turned out to be a sanitarium in whose kitchen Crisco was the only shortening. 'The doctor,' said the head cook, 'insists on Crisco because of its ready digestibility.'"

The choice of 2,000,000 women

And so, through the pages of reports which would take you hours to read we find this same enthusiasm for Crisco—the enthusiasm that has made Crisco one of the largest selling brands of shortening on the continent—the favoured shortening in more than 2,000,000 homes.

Wherever these two young women went they found the same friendly enthusiasm for Crisco. They discovered, however, that some old Crisco users did not yet appreciate the vegetable origin of Crisco—that Crisco is made from the pure sweet oils of growing plants.

Again, a certain number of housekeepers were surprised to learn that Crisco alone serves every frying and shortening purpose. For example, a woman would compliment Crisco on its tender, flaky pie crusts while forgetting that it also makes deliciously light cakes and crisp, digestible fried foods.

For easy digestion, say doctors, a fat should have a melting point near body temperature of 98¾ degrees. This pure vegetable shortening melts at 97 degrees—even below body temperature. Yes, it is very digestible.

Crisco will add new delicacy of flavour to many of your favorite dishes. So order a can today, try it in the recipe printed here and in your own recipes. When using Crisco in place of butter take ⅛ less and add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each cupful of Crisco.

Walnut Wafers

1 cupful brown sugar
1 cupful chopped walnut meats
1 egg
1 tablespoonful melted Crisco
4 even tablespoonfuls flour
½ teaspoonful vanilla
¼ teaspoonful salt

Cream the Crisco, sugar and beaten egg together. Beat until perfectly smooth. Then add the vanilla, salt, flour and walnut meats. Mix all together well. Then drop by a teaspoon into muffin rings in order to keep them perfectly round. Bake in a hot oven about 10 minutes.

Avoid Smoke and Unpleasant Odor

By using this fat you can keep your whole house fresh and charmingly free from odor yet still enjoy French Fried Potatoes, Doughnuts, and all the delicious foods which require deep-frying. Tests made by a well-known university showed that this fat could be heated to 446 degrees without smoking, while the most commonly used animal fat smoked at 374 degrees.

HINTS TO THE WISE WOMAN

MANICURE
By HELEN GRANVILLE BUTLER)

Daintily-manicured nails are the final touch to a well-cared-for hand. In order to achieve the best results a little time must be spent each day in addition to a regular weekly manicure.

In giving the regular manicure first take the file, which should be long and flexible, and file the nails to the desired shape, round or oval depending upon the shape of your hand. When filing hold the file at the end and work from the sides to the point of the nail. Take a little off each side in order to keep the nail even, otherwise you may take off too much and your nail will look ragged. Do not cut the nails, as that makes them stiff and thick. Now soak the hand in warm water and soap in order to soften the cuticle. Then take an orange stick and push back the loosened skin about the base of the nail. Now take powdered pumice stone and add to it enough vaseline or oil to form a paste. Dip the orange stick into the pumice and work around the nail, pushing the cuticle well back and rubbing off the dried skin that adheres to the nail. After each nail has been treated thus, wipe off the pumice and rub a little cream or cuticle ice into each nail. Give each finger a gentle massage while applying the cream. Take the orange stick or a cuticle knife and again push the cuticle back. Be careful in so doing not to bruise the nail. If necessary take the scissors and trim off the cuticle and clean the corners. It is much better not to cut the cuticle as cutting thickens the skin. Be sure not to cut so close that you make the skin bleed. Now rub a little more cream on the nails and turn to the other hand.

If your nails are ridged take a little of the dry pumice and buff each nail lightly until the ridges are removed. Then take a polishing cream and apply it to the nails and polish lightly. Do not polish one nail too long as there is danger of burning the skin and causing ugly marks on the nail. For a final luster use a polishing powder and polish with the palm of the hand. Now wash the hands in warm water, dry them carefully and give one last polish either with a clean buffer or the palm of your hand. Do not give your nails too high a polish—extremely shiny nails are not in good taste.

If a nail whitener is desired, dip the orange stick in the polishing powder and pass it under each nail. Do this just before the washing.

Every morning clean your nails carefully with the orange stick and push the cuticle back from the nail. If necessary give a few strokes of the buffer to keep the gloss on the nails. At night take the cuticle ice or a skin food and rub it into each nail; work the cuticle back as you apply the cream. If any hang nails or rough edges have developed take them off carefully. Use the pumice paste when necessary to supplement the work of the cream.

Above all, never bite the nails or skin around the nails. Don't pick at the skin or you will destroy the beauty of your hands.

Constant Headaches And Dizziness.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time, and in nine cases out of ten the persistent headaches are due to some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters removes the cause of the headaches, as it acts on every organ of the body and strengthens, purifies and regulates the whole system.

Mrs. Peter Curran, 27 Morrison St., Sydney, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled for the last five years with constant headaches and dizziness. After trying several remedies, which I found to be of no avail, Burdock Blood Bitters was recommended to me.

B.B.B. did me a world of good, and I cannot praise this remedy enough." Manufactured only by The T. Mil-

LOCAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY HAD MEETING

R. F. Cormack Elected President For the Year —Interesting Address by George Baldwin of Toronto.

Mr. George Baldwin, F.R.H.S., gave one of his interesting and instructive addresses on gardening at the annual meeting of the Peterboro Horticultural Society, held last evening in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce, with an attendance of about fifty members and friends. The past president, T. E. Bradburn, occupied the chair until the installation of new officers. The report of the nominating committee, read by J. Howland, was unanimously adopted. Officers for 1924 are: President, R. W. Cormack; Vice-president, F. J. A. Morris; Secretary-Treasurer, Leon Frazer; Members for two-year term on executive—Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. J. W. Fraser, I. Boddison and G. Land.

Mr. Baldwin's Address

"Keep your plants clean and keep the ground well stirred, and you will have good results," was probably the outstanding maxim of Mr. Baldwin's address, delivered in the manner which gives his utterances the hallmark of a wide and deep knowledge of his subject, and a love for the gardening which he describes so eloquently. The culture of flowers in a backyard garden, with particular reference to perennials, and the inclusion of vegetables as a part of the gardener's scheme, formed the basic matter of his address last evening, illustrated by many lantern slides.

"Continuity of bloom" was stressed by the speaker, who said that his attention to this phase of a gardener's business had enabled him to keep the King Edward Hotel in Toronto, supplied with cut flowers throughout the blooming season during the past four years.

Several snapshot scenes of Dutch bulb fields were shown; long area packed with hyacinths, bedded in deep yellow sand, with water supply from the narrow sluice-ways at either side.

For a perennial border, the perennial phlox was recommended, starting with the Miss Lingard variety, the peony, in which the Therese bloom was described as a splendid specimen, the scarlet Turk's cap, and many variations of the lily family, including the Madonna, the Belfast lily, the single and double tiger, the auratum and late speciosum, including the rubram and the rosium.

To procure large sizes in the auratum, "the aristocrat of the lily family," the following method of handling the bulbs was recommended: Dig a hole about 12 inches deep, put three inches of sand in the bottom and bulb on top, covering with sand sufficient to leave only the point exposed, then pack down hard, "for the lily likes something hard to force itself up through. With this method, you can keep them for eight or ten years."

"The majestic blue delphinium" was another border favorite. Mr. Baldwin reiterated here a previous statement made by him that the perennial border required a complete re-making once in every three or four years, to avoid choking out by the plants themselves. "The best time to do this is governed by your perennial aster bloom. When it has finished blooming, that is good time to re-make your border."

Many beautiful slides of roses' bush, standing and rambler varieties being shown, the majority, as in the case of the other views, being taken from Mr. Baldwin's own garden on Dovercourt Road in Toronto. Handpicking was the best method to use in freeing roses of the maggot or caterpillar which afflicts them, and one variety was described as almost immense from the aphis; the Los Angeles rose, budded on English Briar stock, to give the best results.

Here Mr. Baldwin gave his pet formula for an insecticide, praised by him as being the most effective of any; the result obtained by mixing a teaspoonful of borax in two quarts of water.

In the standing rose, the Rev Allan Shields variety was recommended, and digging up for replanting in the first week in April was the method advocated.

The speaker mentioned the 9,000 gladioli grown by him last year, and spoke in high terms of praise of the Peace variety, one of the best of the whites, the Early Sunrise, and especially of the Evelyn Kirkland, which appeared to be a great favorite.

In the annuals, the aster was recommended particularly. Mr. Baldwin digressed here to remark that in the perennial border, everything, with the exception of the peonies, should be taken up and sub-divided every three or four years. Peonies should be left untouched for seven or eight years, and then should have their roots parted with care. September was the proper month for transplanting peonies.

The Vegetable Garden

A short period was devoted to the vegetanle garden. Tomatoes were shown, grown on four stakes, with their laterals pinched off after the fourth fruitage. Foliage, declared the speaker, should remain untouched on tomatoes. Onions should be planted thickly in little boxes during the last weeks of February, then transplanted two or three times, after trimming off roots and tops. The white Southport and the white, red and yellow glow were praised as being good varieties, "and they won't make you cry when you peel them either."

The proper methods of celery planting were described, to be done in a trench shovel-deep, with radishes and lettuces planted in the soil ridges thrown up, so as to utilize every bit of space in the small back gardens. Lettuce, broad beans, cabbage, parsnips and cucumbers of the English telegraph variety were also shown. In planting parsnips, radishes should be used to mark the rows, coming up before the young shoots of the vegetables appeared.

Mr. Baldwin gave the formula for the liquid fertilizer which he uses for many purposes, and which he praised highly. A barrel of rainwater contains a bag with two handfuls of nitrate of soda, for twenty-four hours, and is then ready for use.

"Don't use a hose too often, and not on the foliage. Soak the roots when they need it. Once a week may be sufficient." And keep the soil constantly stirred, to form a dust mulch that will prevent the fisures in the soil where the water gets out and the air gets in." For mealy bugs and fungus growths, a mixture of the borax water and Bordeaux mixture was recommended.

For sick house plants, the following formula was given: Take equal parts in weight of slaked lime, powdered sulphur, crushed charcoal and nitrate of soda. Mix together dry, and put in a tin can or box. Use a teaspoonful to two quarts of water.

Several views of Vacant Lot gardens and ex-soldiers', results from them in prize-winning vegetables were shown, and Mr. Baldwin spent some time after his address in answering questions as to various matters in gardening difficulties. His own garden, he said, is a space of 75 by 165 feet.

The new president, R. W. Cormack presented a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker, which was acknowledged by Mr. Baldwin, who expressed his own thanks to the lantern assistant. Mr. H. Lang. Ald. Stocker also spoke of Mr. Baldwin's presence in Peterboro on garden judging expeditions, and suggested that Mr. Baldwin be supplied with a motor and chauffeur at his next visit, and allowed to make the trip alone.

Sundry Business

Preceding the lecture, the past-president, T. E. Bradburn, briefly outlined the work of the year, speaking particularly of the dwindling membership numbers of the society, which in 1922 numbered 502 members and last year only 247. Neither the fall nor spring option lists had been taken advantage of to the fullest extent.

Letters were read, giving the date of the annual convention of the Ontario Horticultural Association as February 7th and 8th, to be held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. Another communication from the secretary of the Ontario Association asked the local society to co-operate in a scheme to assess each member of the organization one cent, the assessment to be based on the 1922 membership list, in order to augment the funds of the association. Both letters were received.

In the absence of Mr. Leon Frazer, the report of the secretary-treasurer was read by C. S. Dummer, giving a financial statement as follows:

RECEIPTS—Legislative grant, $150; subscriptions to Dec. 31st, $235; donations, $15; balance from previous year, $2.50; Total, $402.50.

EXPENDITURES—Prizes for lawn and garden competitions, $37; spent by Society in civic improvements, $28.25; for seeds and plants, $162.26; services of treasurer, $30; stamps $66.50; stationery, $52.14; commission, $1.20; car for judge, $10; Ontario Horticultural Association fees, $4; assessment, $2.47; engraving shield on Adams cup, $5; Total, $399.32. Balance on hand, $3.18.

Dr. J. E. Middleton referred to the two cups which have been donated for competition this year, one from Mr. A. W. Cressman in Class A, and the other from Mr. T. E. Bradburn in Class B. A vote of thanks was extended for these donations.

R. W. Cormack, the new president, spoke of the presence in Peterboro of enough lovers of the beautiful to make a really good society, and of the backward year just passed through as having a tendency to lower the membership, also of the duty incumbent on the new officers to boost the society and obtain new members.

SONS OF ENGLAND HAD AN ENJOYABLE EUCHRE

A very enjoyable time was held last evening when the Sons of England held another of their fortnightly euchre parties. While lunch was being served Mr. R. Dawson presided at the piano and the numbers given were heartily encored.

After lunch several old time choruses were sung. Mr. T. Staziker, well-known baritone, accompanied by Mr. Dawson, sang several numbers including Nevana and Absence.

First prizes were won by Mrs. T. James and Mrs. Sedgewick.

Consolation prizes went to Mrs. C. Wright and Mr. W. Doigge.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies but the overfat carry a burden they can not conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight surely and quickly. The harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy, helps the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same harmless ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take but one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., the price the world over, and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slimness and happiness.

RECORD OF 1922 EXCELLED BY CANADA'S FIRST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Unequalled Progress Marks 76th Year of Canada Life

Mr. Herbert C. Cox, President, Outlines Splendid Achievements in His Annual Address

CANADA LIFE IN EXCELLENT POSITION

YEAR UNDER REVIEW PRESENTS HIGH RECORD

The year under review has presented another high record in all the items which register progress. As success begets success, the result of our effort in 1922 led us to fix our aim still higher for 1923, and I am happy to be able to say we have again gone beyond our objective, which was that policies actually paid for in cash should exceed those issued in the previous year. We therefore report $79,176,000 as the amount taken up, while policies for a further $15,041,000 were issued and are in process of settlement, making the total issued $94,217,000. It is unfortunately unavoidable that some policyholders should through various circumstances find it impossible to continue their insurance, and during the past two or three years these terminations the world over have been aggravated by prevailing conditions. We have not escaped our share of this misfortune, but, despite it, we have made the very substantial gain of $51,454,000 in our total assurances, bringing them up to $412,435,000.

Surplus Earnings Greater.

We have again been favored with unusually low death losses, reflecting not only a generally good public health, but a careful valuation by our Selection Committee of the lives offered us. The marked saving as between the actual losses and those for which provision was made, added to the other earnings which contribute to the general surplus, enables us to report what again constitutes the largest amount earned by the company in any year, namely $2,814,000. May I remind you that throughout the war years and the succeeding period this Company maintained its bonuses to policyholders upon the pre-war basis, increasing them in 1922 and 1923. We shall now be able to implement them further upon some classes of policy which will, I am sure, be gratifying to the assured as it is to your Directors, particularly in view of the important accretions in new assurances.

Agency Organization Strengthened.

Our agency organization has been strengthened where and when opportunity was found. No new territory has been entered during the year—rather have we sought to improve our machinery in the fields already occupied. It is our considered policy to include in our agency forces only such men as can measure up to a very high standard of ability and reliability, and this necessarily leads us to those who are prepared to devote their entire time to the project. We are now able to say that the major portion of our organization is of this class of whole-time men, most of whom have had the advantage of a special course of training in our own school at the Home Office, and I submit that they are equipped to render a much higher and more intelligent type of service to the insuring public as well as to the Company. This is already reflecting itself in reduced policy terminations and in a lessened turnover in the agency force, with a consequent saving to all concerned—the assured, the Company and the agent.

Position in Britain Consolidated.

Last year marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Company, and this year we attain our majority in Great Britain, having extended our operations to the Mother Country in 1903. For a number of years our growth there was purposely moderated, as your Directors properly determined that the business in that branch should not be allowed to strain the resources at home. This policy was amply justified, and such real progress has attended the efforts of those charged with the management that during the past four or five years it has been possible to so enlarge the Company's business there that it has now been found necessary to provide more commodious accommodation for the chief office in Great Britain. This has been done by the purchase of Falmouth House, a most desirable and suitable property at No. 2 St. James' Square. Slight alterations and repairs are required, and when these are completed the Company will occupy premises commensurate with its dignity and its place in Great Britain and ample care for its needs for many years to come. Your Directors and the General Manager for Great Britain extend to you and your friends a very cordial invitation to make use of our facilities when in London. To consolidate our position and increase our effectives in Great Britain we have arranged to establish, as soon as we enter our new home, a department committed solely to the securing and training of representatives. This will be conducted by one of our oldest and most successful Managers, who has already applied the practice to his own branch with excellent success.

Insure Life Without Examination.

Two years ago, in conjunction with a number of Canadian companies, your Directors decided to undertake in Canada the issue, without medical examination, of policies not exceeding two thousand dollars in amount. All possible safeguards were introduced into the application form, and a very comprehensive statement is required from the applicant, the Company always retaining the right to demand examination if that is deemed necessary. Our experience and that of our contemporaries has proven the step fully warranted, and the saving in expense has been material.

Investments Bear Rigid Scrutiny.

No real or permanent progress can be established in life assurance unless the funds being accumulated for the ultimate discharge of policy liability are safely and productively invested. In 1859 your President laid down the axiom that "the Company will seek always to obtain perfect and ample security when investing its funds and will not be tempted by high rates of interest upon doubtful investments." This wise determination has been the guiding principle of successive Boards of Directors and continues to actuate those presently charged with the placing of your funds. The list of your securities is annually exposed for your inspection and bears its own witness as to the judgment and care being exercised. Their diversity and the absence of everything of a speculative nature warrant the utmost confidence in the soundness and stability of your investments. While using great caution in selection we have also been able to obtain a favorable interest return as indicated by the average rate realized for the year, viz., 6.09 per cent. Real estate mortgages still continue to offer an attractive field, for while we may fairly look for some unfortunajes among 12,000 borrowers our arrearages are well within reason, and we are in all cases amply secured.

Extend Loaning Facilities.

It has recently been thought desirable and advisable to seek mortgage loans in larger number in important cities, and we have consequently established, in addition to our facilities in Toronto, loaning departments in Montreal, Hamilton and Windsor. Much attractive business is offering from which we are able to make satisfactory selection. We have heretofore, for several reasons, confined ourselves to Canadian securities, but as our agencies in the United States increase, and as our business there grows, we shall, I believe, find it desirable to invest a portion of our funds in that country, and as and when that is done the usual care will be exerted by your Directors.

Investment Position Excellent.

All your assets have been conservatively valued under the ruling of the Dominion Government, which requires that they shall be included at a price not exceeding the market value on December 31 of the year to which the annual statement applies. Compliance with this ruling has sometimes necessitated a reduction in the values of individual securities in our banks, but it has long been the established practice of your Directors not to write them up again on a rising market. As a result there is a considerable margin between the book and present market values of a number of your holdings, which constitutes a very comfortable investment reserve, in addition to which we still maintain the special Contingent Fund of $500,000, which you set up in recent years. Your investment position is, therefore, very excellent.

During the year your Directors were greatly distressed by the death of one of their colleagues, who had for many years served the Company to its great advantage, Mr. H. A. Richardson, while yet the local Manager in Prince Edward Island of that branch of the great institution of which he afterwards became the head, already advanced the welfare of this Company as its representative. This early interest and support grew with the years until we were able to avail ourselves of it in larger measure by inviting him to join the Board, in which capacity his keenness and ability have added conspicuously to our general progress. His colleagues make this formal record of their profound sorrow and of their conscious loss.

The primary care of a life assurance company is its members, but it in turn requires their interest and aid if it is to properly progress and merits them in direct ratio to the type of service it renders. Believing that its obligation to you who own it has been faithfully discharged by this institution, your Directors confidently ask your cordial support in furthering its success.

The result of the year's effort as disclosed in the statement submitted has only been achieved by the continuous, persistent and cheerful labor of all branches of the service, of which your Directors desire to express their highest appreciation.

It has again been my privilege to have a full and generous support in the prosecution of your business, and I once more venture to offer my respectful appreciation to all with whom I have had the honor of being associated.

Conditions in Canada Improving.

All available information points to the conclusion that trade generally in Canada has improved during the year. Increases are reported in bank clearings, in foreign commerce and in railway receipts. Prices of commodities have been more stable, and this has led to a larger degree of confidence and to wider buying. Building operations have fluctuated, but in the aggregate were better than in the previous year. Lumbering has progressed, while the demand from the United States for our pulpwood has benefited that industry. Our mineral resources are, as we all know, prodigious, and the output of all kinds has continued in gratifying degree. The almost complete disappearance of unemployment argues a return to better business, although the continued high level of cost makes reasonable profit difficult.

Phenomenal success attended the Federal Government offering of bonds during the summer. The alacrity with which they were taken up and the extent to which they were absorbed in Canada was the source of great gratification and of some pleasurable surprise, but it is to be hoped that if and when the Government requires further sums they may be secured in such manner as will not deflect other important amounts from the regular channels of commerce and trade of the country, which require all the stimulus which can be made available.

Conditions in West Improved.

We have had a most generous harvest in all field crops, with wheat leading, and while we express regret and sympathy that some territories have been denied their share in the good fortune, we must not forget that upon the whole the condition of the farmer, and consequently of the country, has been measurably improved.

There must needs be some farmers who do not succeed, just as there are necessarily failures in every other line of business, but these are insignificant in number as compared with those who win through, and we must not allow their clamor and complaint to distract our attention from those who are, with great energy, carrying on the basic industry of the country. Several causes have contributed to these failures, mainly inexperience, lack of application to the work in hand, unwise expenditure and subsequent over-borrowing, all of which have been aggravated by events in nature which are beyond man's control. Borrowing to provide working capital for the better prosecution of one's business—farming or other—is desirable and legitimate, and should be encouraged by those lending money, but the placing of loans to cover accumulated debts arising from wilful or ill-advised extravagance should be made most difficult. The care and discretion of the loaning agent should insure assistance to those properly entitled to it, while the courtesy and consideration of his institution will make their experience as borrowers as smooth and agreeable as possible.

The tendency to mixed farming which showed itself in the Western Provinces some few years ago is steadily extending, and I venture to urge that in this channel lies our best insurance for the future. He who has a moderate acreage which he can cultivate with a minimum of hired labor, and who has a well-selected quota of live stock, properly cared for, will be the contented, successful and permanent farmer and the most desirable member of the community.

Should Encourage Settlers.

The great need of our Western country still is more settlers of this permanent and knowledgable type, and it is gratifying to know that the Federal Government is now making more use of its splendid machinery in Great Britain to stimulate the flow of this most desirable material in our direction. These activities, supplemented by some of a more private nature, will, we believe, be of great benefit. Our responsibility, however, does not cease with a welcome to the newcomers—on the contrary, it only begins with their arrival. They must be advised in the selection of their homesteads and assisted in establishing themselves upon them. They must be encouraged and cheered through the dark spells and made to feel that they have fallen among friends. They must be persuaded and convinced of the sure possibilities of their new country, so that they will not be unduly disheartened or led to throw up their undertaking by the early disappointments which are bound to come to them. The kindly understanding hand of friendship—not only the official hand, but that of the neighbor and of those of us who go constantly up and down the country upon business, will go far in making these people feel that they have indeed reached the land of plenty and of their desire.

Insurance Funds Aid Development.

It may be fairly claimed that the life assurance companies have taken and continue to take their full share in the settlement and general progress of the country, as evidenced by the many, many millions of dollars they have loaned upon farm mortgages, in addition to their very important investments in Federal, Provincial and municipal securities. Their endeavor is to treat their borrowers with the utmost courtesy and consideration, and in following this policy they have been able, with wise and conservative management, to build upon safe and right principles an institution with a body of assets guaranteeing a solidity and strength second to no other in our financial structure. It is significant that no policyholder has ever sustained the loss of even a single dollar by the default of a Canadian life assurance company.

It is this very atmosphere of certainty—monetary and mathematical—attaching to life assurance which is enabling the constant broadening of its application to the needs of the corporation and the individual, and one of its most recent and interesting developments is its widespread adoption in large amounts to make provision for inheritance taxes, cash legacies and other charges immediately payable under the average will.

Companies Offer Splendid Service.

The growing extent to which the people of this continent are making use of the facilities of life assurance is indicated by the increase of twenty per cent. in the amount sold this year as compared with 1922. The almost incredible growth of the institution in all its branches demands and offers ample opportunity for the ablest minds in the fields of management and salesmanship, and its success would seem to indicate that such minds have been attracted to it. Most companies have adopted some more or less effective method of preparing and equipping all who enter their service, with the result that a highly trained body of men and women are daily offering to the public a most intelligent and intelligible presentation of the varied uses of life assurance. This presentation now includes even the drawing of wills and well considered advice as to the economical disposition of one's estate.

Co-operative Spirit Exists.

While there continues a healthy and desirable competition amongst the companies, that old keen rivalry and the effort to get the start of one another has disappeared in the general co-operation which has replaced it. Through the various associations of Presidents and Managers, of Actuaries, of Medical Directors, of Agency Officers, of Publicity Managers and of Field Representatives, there is a most willing exposure of means and methods so that the youngest and smallest may benefit by the experience and success of the oldest and largest. Supplementing all this co-operation in Canada are the general announcements in the daily press regarding life assurance in which many companies share. This means is taken to carefully inform the public of the extent to which we are supervised by the Governments from whom we obtain licenses, of the multitude of ways in which life assurance can be adapted to everyday needs and of the channels in which its accumulated funds are being used for the general advantage of the community. This spirit, which has been so wonderfully developed on this continent, has not only facilitated the progress of the institution, but has made possible a much fuller and more immediate service to the public, which has not lacked appreciation. It is regrettable that in Great Britain, where many of our companies are represented, there still exists the old aloofness and absence of all the aids which have proven so valuable here. We do not forget from whence came the light of life assurance to the new world, but we do venture to express the hope that one day the parent sun may cease to be obscured by those unnecessary clouds of rebate and twisting which can be so easily dispelled. It has been amply proven that a common desire upon the part of the companies to conserve the interests of themselves, their members and their representatives can be readily converted into accomplishment by the very obvious means of co-operation. The way is open—only a leader is lacking.

Income Tax Reduction Looked For.

Although it may be charged that this is not an opportune time to suggest reduction in taxes as applied by the various Provinces to life assurance companies, I again venture to present the matter for consideration. As is known, but not perhaps so widely as is desirable, the premium income of the companies in each Province is taxed by the respective Provinces at a rate varying from 1¼% to 2%. It has been submitted from time to time that these premium payments represent the savings of the assured and are not, therefore, properly subject to taxation, and more especially as the individual has already paid some form of income tax upon them. Three years ago the Province of Ontario accepted this view to the extent of granting a reduction of ½%, making her tax the lowest, and thereby pointed the way to others, but up to this time her good example has not been followed. It is perhaps too much to hope that any Legislature will remit the full tax, but strong and untiring effort should be directed toward a material reduction, and in this endeavor every holder of a policy in any company can and should assist by the means at his individual command.

BIG LAKEFIELD CROWD CHEERED FOR VICTORY AS PETES RAN UP COUNT

PETES WON 10-3.

Last evening the Peterborough Intermediates cut another notch in their sticks and took another step closer to the group championship by defeating the North Town aggregation on their own ice by the score of 10 goals to 3, after a fast exhibition of hockey on good ice.

A large crowd turned out to see the battle, and they were well satisfied. The ice was fast throughout, and the Petes cut loose in the first period and grabbed a two-goal lead, which they increased in the remaining two periods.

The garnet and greys came back in the next period and scored two more counters in quick succession, while the Petes scored four.

In the third the Petes hit their stride and registered three times before the final gong sounded.

At this stage of the game the players mixed it up a little, and several penalties were handed out to both teams.

The Lakefield aggregation are nearly as husky as the Petes, and stood up magnificently against the odds of the smooth-working combination which the Petes frequently used In the last period the Northerners had their whole team on the firing line in an attempt to pull down the margin. They stormed Dwyer from all angles, but could not succeed in pushing the rubber past him.

Summarising the game, it was very good considering the little practice that both teams have had this season. The Lakefield aggregation had considerable weight, and they frequently used it, but the pace set by the Petes in the earlier stages of the game was too fast for them.

Taking the team all round, they have a pretty smart gang of back-checkers and stick-handlers, who, with a little more practice and combination, will give the Petes a better run for the money in the next game.

Grover Halpin handled the bell in great style.

The First Period.

The game opened fast and furious, with both teams going at top speed. Simpson, the Northerner's fast defence man, broke away early in the game for a beautiful rush; he stick-handled through the Peterborough forwards and raced in on the defence, only to be checked by Parker. A few seconds later Collins duplicated Simpson's feat. He managed to get through the defence, but he also met disaster when he missed the goal by an inch from a close-in shot. Ranger had the honour of scoring the first goal on a pass from Burgess in front of the nets

Two minutes later Parker and Ranger combined in a rush which netted the Petes their second counter, Ranger doing the trick Blewett was chased for tripping Collins.

The credit for the this counter goes to McPherson, who tapped one in from a scrimmage in front of the nets.

Blewett registered the first goal for the garnet and greys by a long shot from outside the defence.

After baffling the whole Lakefield team with his beautiful rush Parker was robbed of a sure goal by Webster the goalie, who rushed out and checked Parker before he had a chance to shoot.

For the last several minutes of the first period the puck was carried from one end of the rink to the other and both goalies were tested with hot shots from close in, which they handled faultlessly.

The period ended with the score 3 to 1 for Peterborough.

Second Period.

The second period opened faster than the first, and for the first couple of minutes the play was mostly at the Petes' end of the rink. Simpson got away to a good start and scored on a long shot that glanced off Lackey's stick and into the corner of the net. Two minutes later Lackey carried the puck to the homesters' end and shot high, the puck hitting the wall behind the net and glancing back into the net for Peterborough's fourth counter.

One and a half minutes later the most spectacular play of the night was made by Parker He started at his own goal and stick-handled past every man on the opposing team, drew the goalie out, and slipped the puck into the net Afew minutes later he nearly duplicated the feat, but it was spoiled by Webster, who rushed out of his goal and cleverly checked him

Blewett was benched for tripping Collins.

Rose took a long shot from centre ice that tore into the corner of the net before the goalie had a chance to see it

The seventh goal was scored by Collins, who took a lone jaunt down the ice and fooled Webster from close in.

Blewett- then carried the puck down the boards to the defence, swung out into the middle, and heaved one at Dwyer that bulged the net for the third and last time during the game.

Sabatino, the stone wall defence man, was watched very closely by the Petes forwards, but he was always dangerous when he broke loose.

L. Sabatino was chased for bumping Burgess.

Last Period.

In the third period the Northerners tried hard, and for several minutes kept the locals at bay by their clever back-checking Collins was benched for tripping Lackey took a long shot and followed in fastly, securing the rebound, and batting it in.

Rose made a clever rush, but was tripped by J. Sabatino in front of the goal. Sabatino was chased for upsetting Parker.

Burgess and Collins combined in a rush Collings taking a pass from Burgess and slapping it in for the ninth goal.

While Sabatino was off Rose made a clever individual rush and scored the final goal. Both teams battled on till the end of the game but neither succeeded in scoring.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lakefield — Goal, Webster. defence, Simpson and J. Sabatino; centre, L Sabatino. right wing, J. S. Ridpath; left wing, B. Blewett; subs., W. Webster and J. C. Ridpath.

Referee, Grover Halpin.

Score by Periods.

First Period—

1—Peterborough, Ranger, assisted by Burgess, 3 minutes.

2—Peterborough, Ranger, assisted by Parker, 5 minutes.

3—Peterborough, McPherson, 12 minutes.

Lakefield — Blewett, 13 minutes.

4—Lakefield, Blewett, 13 minutes.

Second Period—

5 — Lakefield, Simpson, 3 1-2 minutes.

6 — Peterborough, Lackey, 4 minutes.

7 — Peterborough, Parker, 6 minutes.

8 — Peterborough, Rose, 15 minutes.

9 — PPeterborough, Collins, 15 1-2 minutes.

10—Lakefield, Blewett, 17 minutes. minutes.

11 — Peterborough, Lackey, 13 minutes.

12 — Peterborough, Collins, assisted by Burgess, 17 minutes.

13 — Peterborough, Rose, 18 1-2 minutes.

Final score — 10 goals to 3.

Frisch's Salary Raised to $18,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. — Frank Frisch, the Fordham flash, star second baseman of the New York National League Club, yesterday signed a contract for the 1924 season at a salary reported to be greater than any ever paid a Giant.

It was authoritatively reported Frisch next season would captain the Giants, succeeding Dave Bancroft, who recently was traded to Boston.

Frisch, whose individual work was the sensation of the 1923 world series, was reported to have signed for this year at a salary close to $18,000.

SENOR FIRPO, HE IS PLUMP.

LUIS FIRPO.

Photographic evidence is at hand attesting to the increasing plumpness of Senor Luis Firpo, the well known box fighter of South America. The good senor has developed a very decided ruffle about the midsection. It is obvious that he has done little serious training since returning to his native land.

Firpo will start his come-back campaign by meeting Farmer Lodge, one of those pick-me-up-and-knock me-down type of fighters, before the home folks next month. After that he will sail for America to sign for a return bout with Jack Dempsey.

WILLS OFFERS GIBBONS BOUT

Purse of $50,000 For 15-Round Match From Queensboro A. C. Promoter — No Dempsey Details.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Enlivened by Tex Rickard's announcement that he had practically closed negotiations for a return heavyweight championship match between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, speculation was aroused yesterday over other features in prospect for the 1924 heavyweight program.

Rickard revealed no further details of his plans for the Dempsey-Gibbons match, terms for which were accepted yesterday by Eddie Kane the St. Paul challenger's manager, with the understanding that the battle will be held "somewhere in the Metropolitan area," either late in May or early in June.

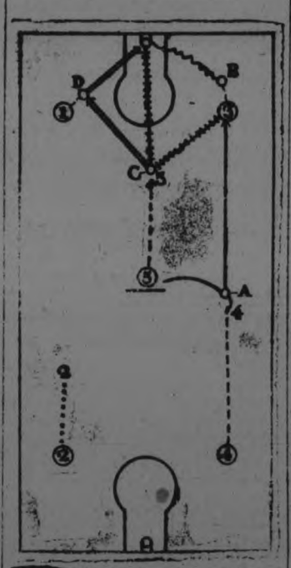
Neither manager has as yet signed articles, but Rickard indicated he had satisfied both as to terms and that only minor details remained to eb worked out. In some quarters it was reported Gibbons had been guaranteed $100,000 for his end of the proposed sequel to the bout at Shelby, Mont., last July, when Gibbons, after staying the 15 round limit with Dempsey, barely obtained expenses because of the financial failure of the contest.

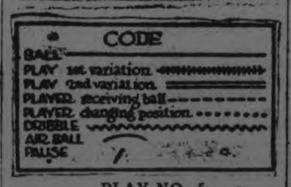
Challenges for fights from two other rivals came to Kane and Gibbons to-day. The first was from Harry Wills negro heavyweight, on whose behalf Simon Flaherty, Queensboro A. C. promoter, offered Gibbons, $50,000 for a 15-round match here during the outdoor season Flaherty who claims to have Wills signed for the proposed contest, plans to confer with Kane tomorrow. The other challenge was from Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, whos manager, Billy Gibson, offered to sign with Gibbons for either on indoor or outdoor bout.

U. S. ENVOY PLEASES AFRICA.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—The appointment of Clinton Poole as United States Consul General for South Africa has created a favorable impression here. The Cape Times regards the appointment as leading to the day when the United States will accredit ministers to and receive ministers from the dominions.

The newspaper also says Mr. Poole will be welcomed in South Africa as one more sign of the firm establishment of dominion status in the eyes of the world.





PLAY NO. 5

Signal No 3 Variations 435, 4351

No. 435—Right forward passes to center C who shoots of dribbles for the basket.

No. 4351—Center from C passes to left forward, who dribbles or shoots.

This is a very successful play when intelligently mixed with other plays.

Bowling

LEADS FOR LAMP PRIZE.

Miss W Coon now holds the high single for the boudoir lamp, which is given to the lady rolling the highest single and which ends a week from today. Mrs. E. McNeely held the high single till yesterday afternoon, when her score of 149 was beaten by Miss D. Currie. Miss Currie's score was then topped in the evening by Miss W. Coon, who rolled 161.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League last evening at Solomons' Alleys the Examiner took three straight from the Bell Telephone. By virtue of their wins the Examiner tied four teams for first place in the Mercantile League. Some great bowling was turned in by both teams. Leonard Hayward was high man for the evening when he rolled a beautiful score of 687 for his three game. In rolling this score Haywards rolled over 200 in every game. George Cairns was next in line with 593 for his three games. For the losers Steve Elliott rolled 558 for three games, and Dick Lush rolled the same score as Elliott, 558 for his three games. Hayward besides having the high three games also had the high single of 258. There were three men on the Examiner aggregation who rolled over 500 and two of the Telephone crew. Following are the scores:

Bell Telephone—

CITY TEN PIN LEAGUE.

Last night in the City Ten Pin League at Solomon's Alleys, the High Rollers took two out of three from the Quakers. Some good scores were set up but some of the bowlers were not up to their usual form. The high man for the evening was LeBlanc, who rolled a nice score of 565 for his three games. Alex Miller of the winners was next with 515 for his three games, and he copped the high single of 213. Following are the scores:

Quakers—

CITY TEN PIN LEAGUE.

At Solomon's Alleys last night in the City Ten Pin League the C.P.C. and C.G.E. played off a postponed game. The Canadian Packing took the whole three from the Canadian General. Dedman copped the high three games for the evening, rolling and even 540. Heckman had the high single rolling 203 and finishing only 4 pins behind Dedman in his three games. Following are the scores:

C.G.E.—

CLOSE RACE IN THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE

By taking three straight last night from the Bell Telephone, the Examiner sent four teams into a tie for first place in the Mercantile Five Pin League. This is one of the closest races ever witnessed in the Mercantile League, and as there are only 6 more games left in the first half half every team will have to make their games count. The fifth team is only 2 games behind the leaders. Following is the standing of the Five Pin League:

	Won	Lost
Wm. Hamilton	9	6
Bell Telephone	9	6
Western Clock	9	6
Examiner	9	6
Nashua Paper	8	7
Red Ferns	6	9
Merchants Press	6	9

A Severe Attack Of Heart Trouble Was Relieved By MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Mr. S. E. Barnes, Athens, Ont., writes:—"Four years ago I had a very severe attack of heart trouble. I consulted my doctor; he treated me for some time, but I only seemed to be getting worse. I finally went to our druggist and purchased three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and derived immediate relief from their use, and I can truthfully say they are a wonderful medicine. I always keep a box on hand, and if I feel out of sorts I take a few pills and feel all right again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TURKISH TOBACCO DROPS IN PRICE.

A Plentiful Crop Causes Drawback to Prosperity of Near East Region.

ATHENS, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—The bumper tobacco crop, common to all tobacco-growing states in the Near East, is proving a serious drawback to the prosperity of this region.

The indications are that the world market for the type of tobacco produced in the Near East, formerly designated as "Turkish," is glutted with the product, and its absorbing capacity is today greatly limited, unless producers in Turkey, Greece, Macedonia and Bulgaria are willing to accept much lower prices than they now demand.

Turkey and Bulgaria have each from this year's crop alone about 90,000,000 pounds of leaf, and Greece has about 120,000,000 pounds, chiefly raised in her Macedonian possessions.

All this tobacco is for the manufacture of cigarettes alone. In the United States, for the purpose of manufacture, it is blended, chiefly with Virginia. It might possibly be used for filler in the production of cigars, but that is still a question.

The impracticability of manufacturing cigars out of "Turkish" tobacco was amply proved in Bulgaria a few years ago, when an effort to build up a cigar-making industry of native tobacco proved a flat failure. "Turkish" tobacco does not possess a sufficiently large and tough leaf for the wrapper of a cigar. That is why the demand of America and western Europe for Near East tobacco is limited.

Tobacco in the Near East bears about the same relation to its prosperity that cotton bears to the prosperity of the southern States of the United Sates. Tobacco is produced even more cheaply in the Balkans than cotton is grown in the south.

But it will not sell this year at anything like the figures for which the producers of the Near East are holding out. The failure to sell the crop at the beginning of winter already is exerting an unfavorable influence on Balkan finances.

FLOATING MINES ARE DANGEROUS.

Seas Are Not Yet Cleared of the Dangerous War Weapons--Constant Care Necessary.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—Notwithstanding the fact that it is more than five years since the world war ended the seas have not been entirely freed of mine fields and those remaining are a constant menace to navigation. Captain Zieler, chief of the Danish hydrographic office, recently said that energetic work has been done to sweep up the various anchored mine fields, but the number of mines laid and the long time they have been lying has resulted in a number getting free of their moorings and they are now drifting about ocean highways like infernal machines.

Captain Zieler said that the most frequent reports of floating mines come from the North and Baltic Seas, in which the largest mine fields were established. Helsingfors recently sent out urgent warning to navigators to exercise extreme caution in the southern part of the Gulf of Finland, where a number of mines had been observed. Captain Zieler disputes the theory that the mines are not dangerous when floating.

Of the known anchored mine fields Captain Zieler said there is now only one big field west of the Gulf of Cronstadt. This enables Russia to completely control the approach to Petrograd, as all navigation to that port must go via the two-mile broad mine-swept channel which can easily be closed if desired, as well as a number of small fields in the Black Sea which stop the free navigation to the Russian ports there.

The field west of the Gulf of Cronstadt stretches from the south end of Hogland eastward into the mouth of the Gulf of Cronstadt. The northern boundary is formed by a line from Hogland over Sommers, Nerva, Hallj and Alvati. The southern boundary runs over Little Tjuters and Great Tjuters to about 15 miles north of Narva. A mine-swept channel, two miles broad, buoyed, leads from the south end of Hogland to the mouth of the Gulf of Cronstadt where the lightvessel "Priemny" lies at anchor with plots aboard for the purpose of guiding vessels further on. The depth in Petrograd Sea Canal is now 8.5 metres.

Attention as also drawn to the fact that the lighting and buoyage of the Gulf of Cronstadt has been considerably altered.

SLIM RETURNS STOP GERMAN PLAYWRITING

HAMBURG, January 12 (Associated Press.) — Alfred Brust, playwright, is not over-enthusiastic about earning a living in Germany by writing for the stage. His "South Seas" recently put on in his city, yielded him in royalties a sum in paper marks equal to five gold pfennigs, or one and a quarter cents.

Brust bought a postage stamp and sent it to the theatrical agency which had put on his play, with his thanks for the manner in which the product of his imagination had been handled.

GOOD HOLSTEINS GIVE 1,109 POUNDS BUTTER

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press).—The total yearly production of the leading Holstein cow in each of 47 States is 41,689 pounds butterfat, equivalent to 52,111 pounds of butter, according to the advanced register records of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, recently announced. This production is sufficient to supply each family with one pound of butter in cities the size of Rochester, New York and Portland, Oregon.

The average production of each cow is 1,109 pounds of butter in one year, which is more than the yearly butter yield of five average dairy cows in the United States, the records show. However, it is explained, the production is but 1.3 times that of the average of the 16,294 pure bred Holstein cows which have completed yearly records under supervision of the State Agricultural Colleges and admitted to the advanced register of the National Breed Association.

HIGH CLASS BILL FOR WEDNESDAY

U.S.A. Title Holder Coming With Benny Cutt For Boxing Bill.

A letter from Billy Cutt this morning assured the secretary of the P.A.A.A. Boxing Committee that the Rochester lad will be here next Wednesday for his bout with Al. Williams. Cutt writes that he will be accompanied by Willie Buff, the U.S.A. amateur featherweight titleholder, who will be willing to take part in the programme.

Jack McDonough, Sr., who is promoting the sport at the Holy Name Societys 'rooms, is giving the Boxing Committee a helping hand, and several of his boys will be seen in action.

Jack McDonough, Jr., and Lorne Combe are down for one of the main bouts. These boys have a decision apiece from former bouts, and as they always travel at top speed, the fans are sure to witness an interesting bout.

Another lively go is promised when Joe Jordan and "Red" Thomson come together again. These youngsters have been big favourites on former occasions.

Others who will take part inclule Ray Millard, Wes. Johns, Harvey Smith, Des. Hunt, and Art Johnson.

The preliminaries will start at 8.15 o'clock, and the main bouts one hour later. Reserved seats at the ringside are on sale at LeBarr's News Agency.

Members of the Intermediate and Junior O.H.A. teams will attend the show as guests of the Boxing Committee.

PORT HOPE WON.

PORT HOPE, Jan. 12. — The local hockey season was opened here last night when Port Hope and Whitby met in an O.H.A. intermediate fixture, the home club winning 4 to 2. There was a large attendance of spectators, but the ice was heavy and prevented good hockey. The local team turned out with three of last year's juniors; Ham in goal, Harwood and Ken Ware, while Roy Ware who played last year with the C. P. R. team of Toronto, was back with his home club.

A REAL ARGUMENT

KITCHENER, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Parkdale Canoe club of Toronto gave the Twin City Seniors a real argument at the auditorium here last night in the local's opening senior O.H.A. game, the final score being 4 to 3, for the Homesters. he victory puts Kitchener club into tie with Aura Lee team for second place in group No. 1 of the Senior Series. The rejuvenated Parkdale team put up a stiffer argument than most local fans expected, despite their recent win over the St. Mary's team. The paddlers are not a flashy team, but stick to their knitting ,and there in lay their strength along with their goal keeper, who played a steady game and picked off the Kitchener longshots fairly easily and there were many of them.

TORONTO CLUB LOST.

TORONTO, January 12 (Canadian Press). — Playing the brand of hockey that carried them to the Junior S.P.A. championship, St. Mary's last night at the Arena defeated the Toronto Canoe Club in a Junior O.H.A. scheduled game by the score of 10 to 2.

The Saints attended to their knitting, played good combination, and outclassed the Paddlers in every department in the first and last periods.

The second period provided the best hockey of the night, T. C. C. outscoring the green shirts two goals to one, having about as much of the play as the score indicates.

The win gave St. Marys their first victory of the O.H.A. season, and the Canoeists tasted their third defeat.

TILLSONBURG WON.

TILLSONBURG, Jan. 12 Canadian Press. — The much touted red and white intermediate O.H.A. crew of Woodstock, bowed to defeat by the Pan Drieds last night in one of the fastest games of hockey ever witnessed in the local arena, by a score of 4 to 3, after ten minutes overtime.

WON A DECISION.

WOONSOCKET, R.I., January 12 (Canadian Press). — Sailor Byron, Worcester lightweight, won the referee's decision in a ten-round bout here last night with Filipino "Eight Ball" Dixon of New Bedford.

AT TOP OF THE HEAP.

PORT COLBORNE, Jan. 12. — The Port Colborne team clinched their position at the top of local intermediate O.H.A. group standing last night, when they defeated Grimsby peach kings by 4 to 1. Both teams travelled at top speed.

SCORED A KNOCKOUT.

BOXED TEN-ROUND DRAW.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, January 12 (Canadian Press). — Harry Gordon of New York and Eddie O'Dow of Columbus boxed a ten-round draw here last night, according to the judges' decision.

They are bantamweight.

TEN-ROUND BOUT.

TAMPA, Florida, January 12 (Canadian Press). — Joe Chaney of Baltimore and Aramis Delpino of Havana, lightweights, battled ten hard fought rounds to a draw here last night, according to the judges' decision.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS.

Bransby Wiliams, eminent British actor, whose work in the two roles of Mr. Micawber and old Peggoty in "David Copperfield," when he visited Peterborough some months ago, proved his unusual ability as an impersonator, is paying a return visit to the Grand, and last night in the stirring play "Vidocq," gave further evidence of his great talent. The play itself is frankly a melodrama of the old school with a manly hero, and a villain who is really "villainous," hair-breadth escapes, thrilling situations, a strong love interest, and the inevitable triumph of virtue over evil at the final curtain.

The scenes are laid in Paris in the early part of 19th century, and there is a wealth of picturesque characters.

Mr. Williams is seen in the title role as a sea captain who, suspected of murder, is sent to the galleys, and then allowed to escape by the police in the hope that he may lead them to his supposed confederates, a gang of robbers, known as the "Screech Owls." Vidocq knows nothing about this criminal society, but is given two weeks to bring them to justice, and by the aid of a number of clever disguises succeeds in his task. The part gives Mr. Williams every opportunity to demonstrate his cleverness as he is seen in six different characters, and has to change costumes no fewer than fifteen times. The audience was more than once competely bewildered in trying to pick out Vidocq from the other characters on the stage.

The supporting company gives the star every assistance. Leslie Barrie, who was seen in the title role of David Coperfield, was a real bad man as leader of the "Screech Owls," and Forrest, who was the Uriah Heep in the Dickens' offering, scores as secretary to the chief of police, and Mr. Williams' son Eric has the role of the police chief. Charles Leighton provides plenty of comedy as Vidocq's messmate. Hector Deltah and Douglas Ives is excellent as Adolphe, Helenora Bevas as Mimi was an individual triumph. Nina Gerrad is a pleasing heroine, and the other members of cast are convincing in their respective parts.

The audience enjoyed the offering thoroughly and the company was loudly applauded at the end of each act. After the final curtain the hand clapping was so long sustained that Mr. Williams had to acknowledge it in a neat speech, in which he referred to "Vidocq" as an old-fashiened melodrama, exciting and impossible. Speaking of his Canadian tour, he declared that those who said that Canadians were hungry for British productions were in error. A few Canadians in each city were, and their support he acknowledged grate fully.

"Vidocq" is being presented at the matinee at the Grand to-day, and this evening Mr. Williams' will offer something quite different in the play "Tatterly," adapted from the novel of the same name by Arthur Shirley and Tom Gallon.

"ENEMIES" MADE A GREAT H I T.

Rex's Splendid Attraction Is Fine Feature -- Shown To-night and To-morrow.

The Rex Company in their presentation "Enemies" at the Grand Opera House last night scored a decided triumph one which puts the players away out in front over their previous performances ,and assures to theatre-goers a splendid bill again to-night and to-morrow matinee and evening.

The members have been seen in all kinds of roles heretofore, but it is quite safe to say that in none of the others have they "put over" the appeal that they are doing in "Enemies." In every detail their work is pleasing, they do clever work in a piece with a neat plot, not too intricate and with just enough humour thrown in to make it a very pleasing one.

"Herb" Lewis as the patriotic son of a German father, Rex, and his sweetheart, Zana, have difficult parts which they play well, while Billie Yule, in the role of a friend of Rex, does about the best bit of acting which he has produced for some time, which is saying quite a bit. Ethel VanOrder, as the wife of Rex and mother of Herbert Lewis, was an exceptionally strong feature. W. Seymour made a capital "mystery" man. Rex as the old man who wanted to see Germany win the war, did a really nice bit of acting, showing that he is equally at home in the older or "heavier" parts as in the carefree and lighter ones. The whole presentatoin works out well and gives a splendid evening's enjoyment and in addition a really good bit of vaudeville by Billy Seymour and the genial Hazel Williams captivates the audience as does another bit which Fred Dampier gives. The Grand's Own Orchestra lends to the enjoyment of the evening with a well chosen programme admirably carried out.

The presentation will be on the boards again to-night and for the matinee and evening to-morrow, and no one should miss it.—Kingston Standard.

DANTE TO APPEAR AT THE GRAND.

Dante, the renowned European conjurer, will appear under the management of Thurston, famous American magican at the Grand Opera House for three days, beginning on Thursday, January 17th. , Matinee Saturday.

In addition to his own wonderful European illusions, he will present the best of the Thurston-Kellar mysteries, which insures a combination that for size and entertainment value will long remain unexcelled in the annals of magical production.

Dante has devoted an entire year to the preparation of this production for America. A large staff of workmen, skilled mechanics and artists have been busily engaged all of that time, under the supervision of the master magician, in devising the unusual—and some of them gigantic in size—pieces of property and mechanical contrivances which are used in producing the baffling illusions and mysteries that feature his performance.

These properties and contrivances are employed in effecting some of the most marvellous illusions that have been seen on the modern stage. Thurston declares that they will stand out as unique and unsurpassed in the annals of magic. Hermann was great, Kellar was still greater, but as the later said before he died 'Thurston is the greatest of them all.' 'The greatest of them all'' has collaborated with "the greatest ever seen in America.'

Dante combed Europe for able assistants and brings with him a staff of twenty-three—everyone an expert in the particular task he is called upon to do.

The New York Central is furnishing him with two of the very largest baggage cars they have on their system for the transportation of his scenery, enormous properties and sizable menagerie.

Featured among his own and the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which Dante presents are, 'The Ghost Woman,' psychic phenomena of the age. You may ask her any question that chances to come into your mind. She is proclaimed to be unequaled as an exponent of mental telepathy.

Alvin's Six Musical Wizards, a sextette of merry melody makers augumented by Dante's travesty impersonations of famous conductors. The mysterious Chinese Fountain of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient oriental splendor. Also such miracles as Creation, the Phantom Woman, the Miracle, the Great East Indian Rope Trick, the Vanishing Piano, the Lady and the Lion, the Spirit Cabinet and a score of other wierd, mystical effects bordering on the supernatural.

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMA TALMADGE IS SCREEN BLACKMAILER IN "WITHIN THE LAW"

Sent to prison for a theft that another girl committed.

Saved from an attempt at suicide.

Initiated into a band of blackmailers working only "within the law."

Specializing in breach of promise suits.

Married to his son as a means of obtaining vengeance, but somehow this didn't work out as planned.

These are some of the dramatic and romantic things that happen to Norma Talmadge, as Mary Turner in the screen version of "Within the Law," the First National picture directed by Frank Lloyd, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. But Mary is a good girl at heart and everything, of course, turns out well. It is said to be Norma Talmadge's biggest emotional role in motion pictures, and surrounding her is a cast of exceptional talent. Her leading man is Jack Mulhall, in the role of Dick Gilder, "victimized" son of Mary Turner's hated employer. Eileen Percy plays Aggie Lynch, the blackmailer, with whom Mary forms an acquaintance that sets her life on a new course. Lew Cody is seen as Joe Garson, forger, who sacrifices himself because of his love for Mary.

Other important parts are taken by such celebrities as DeWitt Jennings, Lincoln Plummer, Joseph Kilgour, Helen Ferguson, Warde Crane, Lionel Belmore, Catherine Murphy and Thomas Ricketts.

What promises to be an event in local theatre history is near at hand The Royal management ever on the alert for out of the ordinary attractions have signed contracts whereby Danny Simons, Peterboro's own favorite comedian will be back home for three days. Monday, Tuesday Wednesday of next week. It is safe to say that the Royal will never hold the crowds as Danny is known by every man woman and child. Three vaudeville acts will be in the program. "The Village Four" a refined harmony singing act and "Davies and Norton's comedy skit "At a Quarter to Ten." The photoplay part of the program includes James Cruze's latest comedy "o the Ladies" with Theodore Roberts, James Horton, Louise Dresser, etc. The vaudville will appear at every daily matinee, as well as the evening performances.

"VILLAGE FOUR" AT ROYAL ON MONDAY

A really clever harmony singing organization has been secured by the Royal's Detroit representative for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday "The Village Four". Music lovers have a treat in store for them as this act comes from Detroit very highly recommended. Danny Simons will be on the same program.

"TO THE LADIES" COMING

"To the Ladies," a James Cruze Paramount production, will be the feature at the Royal Theatre for three days, opening on Monday next It is a story of the bright side of factory life and features Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser.

PETER CLARK MacFARLANE'S GRIPPING NOVEL REACHES THE SCREEN

A story decidedly out of the ordinary is dramatically told in "Held to Answer," the Metro Premier feature which is coming to the Regent Theatre next week.

Peter Clark MacFarlane, one of the best liked authors of the day, has never written anything more thrilling or exciting than this drama of a fighting minister, an actress and the criminal courts. He has taken as his central character a young acter who deserts the stage to preach the word of God and serve humanity in a small Western city. An actress friend follows him and,through jealousy, manages to have him accused of theft.

Mr. MacFarlane has woven a tale that holds one spellbound. It is no wonder that the novel enjoyed the largest sale of any book ever published in America and it is said that the motion picture version is even more absorbing and thrilling, the director, Harold Shaw, having caught the spirit of the story and brought to life the characters outlined in the author's story.

House Peters enacts the role of the fighting minister who conducts his own defense when called into court to answer the charge of theft. The important role of the actress is played by Grace Carlyle who has seldom, if ever, been provided with a part more suitable to her talents.

James Morrison, one of the best-liked juveniles on the screen, has the role of a young man who falls under the spell of the actress even to the extent of robbing his employers to obtain funds with which to entertain her. Evelyn Brent, the captivating English star, is seen as the heroine who falls in love with the minister and upholds him until he is vindicated. Others who enact the principal roles include "Bull" Montana, by a special arrangement with Hunt Stromberg Lydia Knott and John Sainpolis.

"Held to Answer" is to be given a special presentation at the Regent A well selected surrounding program will be offered in conjunction with the Metro feature with the usual musical numbers.

DENS OF VICE ARE NOW DARK

Philadelphia Claims to Be Having a Wonderful Clean-up.

PHILADELPHIA, Penna., Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Of 1,920 saloons selling illegal beverages before General Butler's 48 hour drive began, 973 have been closed. The new director of public safety, said last night. Declaring he has only just begun his task of cleaning up Philadelphia. He said, he is satisfied that 80 per cent of the dens of vice have been wiped out, and that time is now ripe to turn police efforts to curbing of banditry and general lawlessness. He outlined the following innovations to be put into effect immediately.

Armed guards and observation booths at every entrance to the city to prevent escape of bandits and keep tab on violaters coming into the city. The placing of speedy bandit cars in all of the 42 police districts. The observation or information booths wil be patterned after military posts.

With nearly 1,000 of the city's 12,000 saloons closed, every known disorderly house and gambling establishment out of business, and the bootleggers driven to cover, as a result of an intensive police campaign for the elimination of vice and of crime, big General Smedley D. Butler, Director of Public Safety, today turned his attention to banditry and other forms of lawlessness.

General Butler said he was satisfied that at least 80 per cent. of the place where vice flourished before the drive started after he assumed office last Monday, had been wiped out.

"When I say that we are turning our efforts to attacking banditry," said the General, "I do not mean that we are going to relax our vigilance towards vice. We have most of the saloons and dives closed, and we are going to see that they stay closed. What few that continue to operate will be closed. It is my intention to institute a vice drive at least once every week, and keep it up until these places are afraid to re-open."

In outlining his plans to curb banditry, Director Butler said that armed guards and observation booths would be placed at all entrances and exits of Philadelphia to prevent the escape of highwaymen, and to check up on persons entering the city.

A HALL WRECKED BY RIVAL FORCE

Meeting Wound Up in a Shooting Match With Fatal Results.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(United Press). — Syndicatist Hall was dilapidated to-day as a result of blows, chair smashing and finally fatal shooting last night, when Communists attempted to hold a meeting against the wishes of the anarchists.

Two men are dead and from six to fifteen suffering from more or less serious wounds.

Communists announced the meeting as a protest against the Rhur occupation the increased cost of life necessities and other ills.

Scarcely had deputy Marcel Caichin begun an address when fifty anarchists entered a verbal barrage which ended up in a free for all fight and the shooting.

ALBERTA FARMERS TO HOLD A CONVENTION.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 12. — Canadian Press. — For the first time in four years, and for the second time in his seven years of office, H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, will meet with opposition if he seeks re-election to the presidency of the U.F.A. at the convention in Edmonton next week.

Two candidates are certain to oppose him, Charles F. Harris, of Oyen and George Bevington, of West Edmonton, who has become widely known throughout the province because of his advocacy of banking reform.

The big line of attack upon Mr. Wood will be the objection to him holding the position of President of the Wheat Pool and president of the U.F.A.

ST. JOHN'S C.W.A. HELD A MEETING ON FRIDAY.

The annual meeting of St. John's C.W.A was held in the parish hall yesterday afternoon, when election of officers for the ensuing year was made, and reports heard. Mulholland was re-nominated by acclamation but declined to stand. The new officers are as follows: President: Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, 1st vice president: Mrs. A. H. Stratton 2nd vice-president Mrs. G. S. Cameron, secretary: Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, treasurer; Mrs. H. Morphet.

THE BELMONT CLUB DANCE

The sixteenth annual At Home of the Belmont Club was held last evening in the G.W.V.A. hall, with an attendance of about 250 people. The affair proved to be one of the most enjoyable dances in the history of the organization. Excellent music was provided for dancing by Al Linton's five-piece orchestra from Toronto, refreshments catered for by the Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. and arrangements for the entertainment were in the capable hands of the social committee, composed of J. H. Carey, H. J. Snelgrove, N. C. Staples, L. L. Maguire, and J. W. Batten, chairman. The president of the society is Walter Fitzgerald, the secretary C. Haskill.

The decorations, carried out under direction of Harry Cobb, were done in snappy and effective fashion, featuring the purple and mauve colors of the club. At the white curtained windows, gilded rising suns were backed by vari-colored lights, and the same varied tints were in the electric globes that lit up the paper basket and pendant streamers from each of the overhead fixtures. The small room at the rear of the hall was used as a lounging centre, arranged with wicker furniture, palms and ferns. A novelty in the dancing programme, which had several spotlight numbers with tinted lights, was the Leap Year dance, when mauve and purple hoops at the end of long holders helped the ladies to procure partners.

Patronesses were Mesdames R. H. Turner, H. W. Cressman, R. Denne, C. G. Graham, C. K. Lech, F. L. Roy, G. N Gordon, W. H. Bradburn, G. D. McClelland, A. W. McPherson

HON. W. S. FIELDING IS PREPARING NEW BUDGET.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance has no intention of not coming back, the Ottawa journal, is reliably informed, according to an editorial published this morning.

"At the present moment he is confined to his bed; but with characteristic indominatable will he has turned his bed into his office, and there, surrounded by reports and documents and correspondence, he is preparing his next budget," the editorial continues.

"Mr. King, we venture to say, will discover in due time that Mr. Fielding is not preparing that budget for delivery by Mr. Crerar. And to this we add the additional prophecy that Mr. Fielding's determination spells the futility and failure of the present negotiation with the west."

CENTRAL HOME AND SCHOOL LADIES HAD A SOCIAL GATHERING.

An enjoyable social evening was spent last night at the home of Mrs. Frank McCarthy, 514 Aylmer street, under the auspices of the Central Home and School Association. Mrs. McCarthy was assisted in receiving her guests by the president of the society, Mrs. F. Miller, Mr. E. Bartlett acted as general convenor, and Mrs. M. Morgan had charge of the refreshments, assisted by Mesdames Spencer, Bartlett, Lush and Taylor. Mrs. F. Miller had charge of the card tables, where prizes for progressive euchre were won by Mrs. A. R. Reptke of Guelph, and Mr. T. D. Pacey, the prizes being a berry spoon and a pack of cards in case. The prizes werd preasted by Mrs. J. Spencer. During the evening the following artists delighted the audience with several lovely vocal selections: Mrs. T. Curvin, Messrs. Edwin Rowe and John Anderson. Accompanists were Mrs. J. Anderson, Miss Wood and J. H. Renwick.

Forecasts in Spring Gowns

By HELEN ROSS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(United Press).—The League of Nations may be defunct, but the vivid coloring of the clothes of every nation under the sun will brighten up Milady's spring wardrobe.

Three-quarter length jackets, in Chinese design, with a narrow upstanding mandarin collar, will be worn over light spring frocks.

Plain little schoolgirl frocks will be embroidered on pockets, hems and tunics like a Chinese laundry ticket.

Heavy, soft crepes, brilliantly figured, and vivid prints in Hungarian fashion, sometimes quilted, sometimes cut into straight slim little skirt-and-jacket suits, will be seen everywhere in preference to plain colors.

* * *

The peasant shawl, first introduced as an integral part of the costume at the Soviet Fashion Show in Moscow, proved so decorative that it will have a prominent place in spring fashions, bringing the whole Russian motif along with it.

Brilliant colors—elaborate figures—slim, tube-like lines, these strike the general note of the incoming styles.

* * *

With the tri-corn hat has come in the little flat-heeled Dutch shoes, with enormous tongues and buckles. These quaint little shoes are developed for the Broadway trade in every material and color, but those most commonly seen are a soft brown suede or tan kid, with brass buckle, and the ever-popular black patent-leather with silver buckle.

* * *

A short life, but daring one, is my prediction for the "shingle" hair-cut, which is, to say the least, trying.

When the flappers weary of its severity, which will probably be soon, I predict an adaptation of it which will permit the wearing of one of those stunning Spanish combs that shopwindows are flaunting in the eyes of bobbed-haired misses nowadays.

The beautification of the lowly umbrella is one of the winter's most joyful notes. The new painted handles are exceedingly smart as well as utilitarian, and the tips, ribends and handles of amber and other composition show no signs of dying out as a vogue.

STAR CHUMS WITH AN OLD PLAYMATE.

Playmate Told Her That She Would Become Great Singer and Go on the Stage in America.

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Once upon a time in Russia, a young girl bound for America told her playmate:

"You sing so beautifully, you will be an artist some day. Then you will come to America. But you will be too grand. When I call to see you, you will send out word, 'Madame is not receiving'."

The older girl, Bertha, sent back no word from America. The other, Raisa, was taken soon to Italy in flight from pogroms.

One night in Boston, where Rosa Raisa was singing with the Chicago Opera Company, this friend, Bertha Levine, found her again. The whole prophecy came true, but the artist did receive her friends with tears and kisses.

"Take curage," smiles this simple and brilliant opera star. "The future has possibilities more glorious than people dream.

"Bertha was the first to pay attention to my singing, when I was just a little girl. She loved music and would sell her school books and buy tickets for us to hear concerts from the gallery.

"I lived for a while with my uncle, a dentist. I helped him and I thought I might be a woman dentist. But he was exiled. Then I worked as a dressmaker. And I thought I should be satisfied if I could get just some little part around the theatre, even scrubbing the stage, so I might look at the artists."

The girl was taken to Naples when she was 14, and soon the neighbors noticed her voice. A teacher was engaged, and the dream began to unfold dazzingly. She appeared in opera first at Parma. Campanini brought her to Chicago 10 years ago, and her development is musical history.

KING EDWARD LADIES HAD SOCIAL EVENING.

The King Edward Home and School Association held a very enjoyable social evening last night in the Kindergarten of the school, which was filled to capacity with a large attendance of members and friends.

R. J. Bolton, the principal of the school, acted as chairman, and in his opening remarks, congratulated the association on the splendid work accomplished by them.

A pleasant musical programme was given, including a duet by the Misses Welbourne and Fairbrother, readings by Miss Irene Herridge and Ashton Fife, a tale by several small children, led by Muriel Byers, vocal solos by Mrs. W. Byers, Mrs. G. Perks and Miss A Kennedy, and an instrumental selection by May Pollock.

Mrs. J. Pollock, president of the association, expressed her thanks to those taking part in the programme and also to the teachers, for assistance given at all times.

The largest output of quicksilver on record was that of 1877.

Curling News

Last evening on a fairly good sheet of ice the local curlers put on some good games. Six of the ices ewre used. R. L. Dobbin and his team mates were credited with the highest score of the night which was 19, defeating their opponents; C. B. Westbrook's quartette by 16 shots.

S. T. Medd was second with a score of 17 while J. W. Fraser and W. R. Widdiss also made the high score of 16. The junior curlers got away to a good start this week and with practice will likely give some of the "old boys" a battle worth watching. The following is the personnel of the rink and their results.

CANADIAN ASBESTOS FIRMS WILL LIKELY MERGE SOON

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. — A Wall street news service quotes A. Halstead, United States Consul General at Montreal, as authority for a report that seven of the largest asbestos mining companies in Canada may merge soon. The plans, according to this report call for a company with a capital of about $24,000,000, which would control 85 per cent. of the Canadian asbestos supply.

DETECTIVES ARREST A MUCH WANTED MAN

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 12. — Canadian Press, — Detectives to-day arrested Michael Libertini, alias Frank Corbone, wanted in Montreal on a charge of attempting to shoot a police officer, and jumping his bail bond.

Libertini is alleged to have escaped from jail in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., also; he was jailed there following his escape from Montreal. He is held here pending extradition to Montreal.

IN MEMORIAM.

Waller—Robert James—A loving tribute to the cherished memory of a devoted father, died January 5th, 1923:

Both love and memory to my heart doth hold
My Daddy—so good—with bonds of purest gold.

Dearly beloved father, God bless you and keep
My darling, in peace as you sleep,
And surely the birds and the flowers
The sweetest of vigils will keep
O'er the spot where loving ones laid you
In the beautiful Garden of Sleep.

Your loving daughter,
New York City. Olive Jewell.

Her Most Powerful Dramatic Role!

NORMA TALMADGE IN "WITHIN THE LAW"

FOR EVERY DAY I SPEND IN JAIL YOU'LL PAY! PAY! PAY!

The ringing, rattle of chains, the clang of an iron door—and another girl goes "up the river" to the great grey walls of Sing Sing! That's the start of the greatest dramatic picture Norma Talmadge has ever made; adapted from a stage success that brought new thrills and heart throbs to millions! On the screen it is more thrilling than ever; and with Norma as the shop-girl, driven by the stern destinies of the law to a life of crime, it is more intensely emotional than ever!

AMAZING GLIMPSES OF LIFE IN THE UNDERWORLD IN "WITHIN THE LAW"

Criminals! Deep plots to plunder the wealthy! Secret meetings in dens of thieves. A shrewd brain to scheme . . . and keep the criminals within the law of the land. But always the shadow of the law, hanging over them . . . waiting for that mistake that comes sooner or later to every clever crook!

STRIKE RUMORS INSPIRE EFFORT FOR MEDIATION

Council of Trades Union Congress Are Endeavouring To Avert Railway Tie-Up. Miners Propose to Terminate Agreement

Complicate Problem.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press). — A mediation movement has been started to avert the threatened railway strike. Intervention of the Council of the Trades Union Congress has been sought and a meeting of the Council has been summoned for today. It is expected that the Council will appoint a mediation committee to consult with both sides and initiate negotiations.

MACDONALD'S PROBLEMS.

LONDON, January 14 (Canadian Press). — J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labour leader, in addition to the natural difficulties inseparable from the taking of office for the first time by a totally inexperienced Government at a moment of great industrial and commercial depression, with unemployment increasing rather than diminishing, seems likely to be confronted also with two first-class industrial upheavals.

The first is a railway strike, and the second similar trouble with coal miners, who are discontented with and are trying to upset their national wages agreement.

The miners are now taking a ballot on the question of terminating this agreement three months hence, and the result of this ballot will be officially announced next week.

It is known that it will be overwhelmingly in favour of a new agreement, but it is understood that the vote will not be regarded as a mandate for a strike, but rather for negotiating modifications in the wages agreement.

If the miners will be advised by their executives there will be no strike, but danger always exists for the widening of a dispute through one side or the other proving intractable.

How the new Government will handle these disputes will be an effective test of its ability.

WOMAN IN BATHTUB WAS ELECTROCUTED

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press.)— Leaning out of the bahtub in her home to move an electric heater which stood close by, Mrs. David Williams, aged 39 years, was electrocuted on Saturday. It is claimed that the insulation had been impaired on the heater and that when Mrs. Williams stood in the tub she was in direct contact with the earth by means of the pipes that ran to the sewers and therefore received the full force of the current.

PRINCE REMEMBERED PARIS FLOOD VICTIMS

British Heir Under Incognito of Prince of Chester Terminated Visit to Paris Sunday.. Met Friend of Grandfather.

WAVED GOOD-BYE.

PARIS, Jan. 14. — "Good-bye, friends," was cheerily shouted Sunday evening from the rear platform of a train in the Gare Du Nord by a light-haired young man, who simultaneously waved his derby hat as the Boulogne Express pulled out. It was the Prince of Wales, who previously had been known in Paris under his incognito title as the Earl of Chester, who spoke the words of adieu. As the wheels of the train began moving the Prince, a radiant smile on his face, disappeared through the doorway into the coach.

The Prince, accompanied by the Marquis of Crewe, the British Ambassador, reached the station fully 15 minutes ahead of the time set for the train to start. He mingled with the other passengers along the platform, shaking hands at times with friends who came up to wish him good-bye, or whistling softly to him self while the Ambassador was conversing with Prefect of Police Naudin. Once a broad smile of satisfaction overspread the face of the Prince when one of a bevy of pretty French girls said audibly, referring to the Prince, "Isn't he sweet"

Like Grandfather

The Prince appeared deeply interested in a long conversation he had with a very aged, white-bearded man who was tapping him fondly on the shoulder, just before he entered his car. Turning to a newspaper correspondent, the old man said: "He is the living image of his grandfather, with whom I had many happy times, a long time ago." The elderly man proved to be Fernand Dubose, president of the French Steeplechase Society, who was one of King Edward's bosom friends during his days as Prince of Wales and a boon companion of the Prince during his numerous visits to Paris.

The last thought of the Prince of Wales before leaving the hotel, where he made his headquarters was for the sufferers of the recent floods in Paris, the scenes of which he visited. He sent a neat sum of money to Premier Poincare to be distributed among the victims through one of the numerous charitable organizations with which Madame Poincare is connected.

Lost Detectives

The Prince spent Saturday stag hunting in Villers-Cotterets Forest, to the great despair of the French detectives entrusted with the task of keeping him discreetly shadowed night and day. The antiquated taxi used by the detectives was unable to keep pace with the high-powered car in which the heir to the British throne went to the chase and the sleuths were out-distanced on the Chateau Thierry Road.

Asquith Rejects Electors' Advice

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Business men of Paisley (Mr. Asquith's constituency) representing both parties who go together Saturday to suggest to Mr. Asquith, the liberal leader that he had ebtter assist the tories temporarily in order to save the country from another election upheaval in the near future received the answer which the Canadian Press foreshadowed a few days ago.

Mr. Asquith refers his interrogators to his National Liberal Club speech in which he declared he would not raise his finger to save the present goverment and adds that he sees no reason to recede from the considered opinion then expressed.

PATROLMAN AND BANDIT KILLED

Gun Fight in New York Restaurant. Police Entered While Three Bandits Were In Action.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Patrolman Jno. Schneider was killed by holdup men when he and Patrolman Frank Erpola, both in plain clothes, walked into a restaurant in the Yorkville section and found three men holding up the proprietor and patrons. Erpola returned the fire, striking the bandit believed to have killed Schneider just above the heart.

The wounded bandit, James Donovan, was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. One of his companions was arrested, but the third escaped.

United States Soldier Arrested At Cornwall.

CORNWALL, Jan. 13.—A United States soldier, Alex. FATHER'S TRUTH CONDEMNED SON IN MURDER CASE

Placed His Oath Before His Boy's Life and Repeated Slayer's Confession. Pleads Insanity.

MAY SAVE HIM.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.— Arnold Anderson of Brooklyn, convicted on Tuesday night in Jersey City of the murder of Harry C. Moore, real estate man, last August, was sentenced Friday to die in the electric chair in the week of Feb. 17. County Judge Lazarus ignored the jury's recommendation for mercy. He held that such a recommendation was meaningless under the New Jersey law, which allows a verdict without recommendation, or with the recommendation of life imprisonment.

When he stood up for sentence Anderson was pale, but showed little emotion. In reply to the usual question he said he had nothing to say. George E. Cutley, counsel for the defense, said he would ask the Court of Pardons to change the sentence to life imprisonment and failing in this, would probably seek a writ of error.

Youg Anderson's father is the head of a tailoring firm at 187 Montague street, Brooklyn. He caused a sensation when on the witness stand he had admitted his son had confessed that he shot Moore. This testimony strengthened the already strong case presented by the prosecution.

"My son is mentally irresponsible and he should long ago have been put somewhere where he would have been cared for as he is incapable of caring for himself," the father said. "The State of New York is responsible for what has happened. Six years ago I applied to the King's County Court to have my son committed to some institution. He was examined and the commission found that he was not sufficiently abnormal to be declared legally insane. It was found however, that he was mentally irresponsible. If a person is insane he is sent to an asylum, and if he is a criminal he is sent to jail. There is no place to which boys such as mine can be sent and taken care of.

"All this has been a great source of grief to me. I could not have the boy at home on account of my other children. The newspaper reports of my testimony confused the answers to some questions. He did not confess to me on my first visit to the jail.

"I feel certain in view of the recommendation of the jury that mercy will be extended to my son and that the sentence to death in the electric chair will be changed. I talked with some of the jurymen after sentence was imposed and they told me that they had not slept since they realized that they made a mistake in not specifically requesting that the sentence be one of life imprisonment. The jurors said that they will do all in their power to have the mistake rectified. They told me they would join in the appeal to the Boardof Pardons."

"Musher" Camps on Square in Montreal

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—What is described as the virtual opening of the winter sports season here officially set to open next Saturday, occurred yesterday when the Montreal ex-policeman, J. T. Laflamme, with wife and helper, arrived yesterday afternoon. He had made the journey from Gowganda, Northern Ontario, in a sleigh drawn by eight huskies and two wolves. He has been given permission by the Chief of Police to set up a camp on Dominion Square in the heart of the city for the duration of the winter sports season.

APPRAISE FORD AT 840 MILLIONS

Wall St. Financiers Think The Stock Value Wil Go To $1,260,000,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Experts in Wall street who for years have wondered what the total stock of the Ford Motor Co, was worth today hazarded the estimate of $840,000,000 and said they believed it would total $1,260,000,000 within another year.

The computations were based on the public valuation of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, profits per car made by the Dominion corporation and the one of this country, the former earning $68 a car and the latter $67, and the market valuation of the Canadian stock, which is $425 a share.

Comparing the value of the Canadian stock, the profit per car there and the valuation of the company, with the profit per car here, plus the United States production, the experts believed they had figured the first definite fiscal information the financial district ever has had about the Detroit plant.

NEW CANADIAN LONDON OFFICE

Former Union Club Will Be Occupied in March. Staff Will Be Installed.

LONDON, Jan. 13.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Canada takes possession at the end of March of the Union club in Trafalgar square, purchased a year ago to house the Canadian offices in London. Some months will elapse however, before the high commission and the other staffs actually install themselves although the alterations at present contemplated are not extensive.

Some Canadians residing here or who visit London frequently rather wonder whether it is not mistaken economy to adapt the present structure instead of building afresh almost from the foundations for although the existing premises can doubtless be refaced to present an attractive appearance other features of the premises are hardly, it is claimed, compatible with thoroughly up-to-date official or commercial offices .On the other hand those responsible for this enterprise have doubtless before them the experience of Australia in building an admittedly imposing Australia house which however in its earlier years at any rate, has imposed a big financial responsibility.

DONATED MONEY FOR SUFFERERS BEFORE LEAVING

LABOR SATISFIED WITH THE SPEAKER

Have Shown They Are Agreeable To Whitley Continuing In Office.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The labor party has already demonstrated that they are quite agreeable to Speaker Whitley continuing in office but the question of accepting the former chairman of committtees is said to be quite another matter. The speakership is a non-party or rather an all-party appointment but the office of chairman of committees, who is also the deputy speaker, is definitely a party appointment. So also is the deputy chairman of committees.

The present chairman is James Hope, nephew of the late Duke of Norfolk and was for many years the representative of Sheffield in the house. Although personally popular with labor men the party will hardly acquies, readily in the appointment again being given to a conservative especially as the chairman and deputy, like the speaker, are appointed for the life of parliament. The chairman draws £2,500 and generally has a good chance for succession to the speakership. The deputy chairman draws £1,000.

PETERBORO WINS CASE BEFORE APPEAL COURT ON SALARY QUESTIONS

Judges Interpret the Municipal Act of 1922 and Finds The City Council Sole Judge of What Municipality Should Pay for Its Police Force.

THE APPEAL ALLOWED

TORONTO, January 14 (Special to The Examiner). — The City of Peterborough has won its fight against the claim of Police Chief Newhall for payment of his salary for the month of December.

The First Divsional Court of Ontario, with Mr. Justice Magee dissenting, to-day allowed with costs, the city's appeal from the finding of Judge Ward, who had sustained Newhall's claim.

"The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1922 makes a very profound change in the relations between police boards and municipal councils. Under the revised statues of Ontario 1914, there was vested in the police board, power to determine both the remuneration of the police force, and the amount, which maintenance municipal councils, by the same section, were required to appropriate for and pay such remuneration. Provision was then made for the sub mission of estimates, the city council having no authhority to question the requisition of the police board in any way.

"The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1922 completely changes this situation, withdraws from the police board the power to require the municipalities to provide what the board has determined to be necessary, and, in place thereof, makes the council sole judge of what the municipality should pay for its police force. This was subject only to one qualification, that the council

MUNICH, Jan. 14.—The People's Party announces an intention to put forward the restoration of the Bavarian monarchy as part of their programme for the forthcoming election.

BRITISH TRADE WITH RUSSIANS WAS PREVENTED

Liberal Member Quoted Russian Statement Of Secret Agreement to Obstruct Business Resumption For Year.

PREDICTS CHANGE

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable).—J. J. O'Neill, M.P. (Liberal) speaking last night in Lancaster said the efforts of the great British industrialists to open trading relations with Russia during the whole of 1923 had been methodically and deliberately obstructed by the board of trade. The Russian view, which had never been challenged was that a secret and tacit agreement had been arrived at in Paris between the board of trade and the French industrialists not to resume trading relations with Russia for a period of twelve months from the making of the agreement. Facilities, he declared, had been consistently withheld by the government from the great textile houses of Lancashire and Yorkshire which might have helped them to re-open trading with Russia which has thus been closed to British enterprise and British operatives had been kept out.

Mr. O'Neill added that arrangements were progressing for resumption of friendly Anglo-Russian relations and in about three months time there would be a British ambassador at work in Moscow. The manufacturers of Lancashire and Yorkshire and British exporters generally would welcome that news and would be well advised to have their machinery in readiness. Since the defeat of Premier Baldwin British merchants who had built up a vast Russian connection in pre-war days, had shown their confidence in Russia's capacity to pay by the despatch of trade missionaries to Moscow. There was now some prospect that a steady stream of British commercial agents from the great manufacturing districts of Great Britain will soon be moving towards Russia and middle Europe.

COUNCIL HELD BUSY SESSION THIS MORNING

Selected Committees for the Year and Heard Mayor J. J. Turner's Inaugural Address.

ALD. STOCKER LEFT

Peterborough's City Council for 1924, composed of Mayor John J. Turner, Aldermen Robert Morrison, Nagle Phelan, Joseph Crowe, E. M. Turner, W. Stocker, M. McIntyre, J. W. Meyers, J. O. Fife, M. J. Maher and R N Jones met this morning in the inaugural meeting and drafted the standing committees for the year

An element of discord was introduced into the Committee of the Whole when Alderman Stocker was ousted from the chairmanship of the Board of Works, on apointment of Ald. Morrison, and left the Board Room.

On convening in the Council Chamber, Ald. R. N. Jones, the only newcomer to the council, took the seat vacated by ex-Ald. W. T. Holloway

Gentlemen: My first duty is to extend congratulations to the Aldermen who were returned at the polls at the recent municipal elections for a period of two years. It is very gratifying to have the confidence of the electors, and congratulations are in order.

Health.

In dealing with municipal problems the first which occurs to me is the problem of the health of the community. Health matters are looked after by a very efficient board, composed of gentlemen who give their time without remunerátion to this very important work. I think the board might be enlarged without becoming unwieldly, and suggest two names be added to the personnel, which will have the effect of initiating new members and distributing information over a wider area.

Some time ago the board devised plans to enable the public to instal sanitary plumbing on installment payments to enable all to connect to the sewer without hardship. This plan has been well received and a number of connection are being made each year, which will finally result in bringing all premises up to a sanitary standard.

The city has been face to face with the problem of sewerage disposal for a number of years, and has gradually worked up the matter by laying trunk sewers which will ultimately reach the disposal plant. There is some difference of opinion between the Provincail Board of Health and ourselves as to the style of disposal works best suited for our climatic conditions, but this difference we hope to dispose off promptly, so the work will not be further delayed. The city has already acquired sufficient land for the erection of a disposal plant, and when a decision has been reached as to the style of plant to be used, plans will be prepared and tenders requested without delay.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Health on behalf of the public, I extend thanks assuring them we fully appreciate the value of the services they are rendering the municipality.

The Relief Board is composed of representatives form all religious denominations in the city, and presided over by Mr. Harry Rush, who has occupied many municipal offices, and not the least important is the chairmanship of the City Relief Board. To the chairman and associates, I extend best wishes for continued health and happiness.

Utilities Commission.

The Utilities Commission is an elective body, and I desire to extend congratulations to Commissioner Mason on his re-election by acclamation to the Utilities Board. This Board controls our light and water, and have gradually developed the plant bought from the Peterboro Water Company by installing a new dam and pump house, and more recently completed the installation of filter beds and reservoirs large enough to supply the needs of a city of 40,000 to 50,000. We are now supplied with pure drinking water, which is vitaly essential to the health

ROTARY HEARS FINE ADDRESS ON FELLOWSHIP

Rev. Dr. Blagrave the Eloquent Speaker at Today's Luncheon at Local Club.

MR. McLEAN'S SONGS

To-day's luncheon at the Peterborough Rotary Club was under the auspices of the Fellowship Committee, and the chairman of the committee, Rotarian Chris Graham, was chairman

The address of the day had "Fellowship" as the topic, and the speaker was Rev. Dr. Blagrave of St. John's Church, whose eloquent remarks were followed with close attention by the very large attendance of Rotarians and visitors.

Mr. Cameron McLean, famous Scottish baritone, who is to sing at Trinity Church to-night, was a visitor, and delighted the gathering with two solos, "Young Tom o' Devon," an old English song, and "Lassie o' Mine," a Scottish number. Mr. McLean's splendid voice and the skill of his artistry were demonstrated effectively in these two selections. Mrs. Mabelle Howe Mable was a sympathetic accompanist.

Dr. Blagrave, in commencing his address, said that it always was an honour to address the Rotary Club. Rotary has discovered a field of activity, said the speaker. The boy life has always been dear to the church. On the material side, she has never been able to do what ought to be done. It needs concentration. Her main duty is her spiritual influence in character building by the impulse of the Divine appeal. Anyone won for God is not under-privileged. Lord Ampthill said in Toronto last summer that no organisation could long continue unless here was something in it of permanent value. Rotary can only continue as a vital and effective organisation so long as it has a serious aim, and is accomplishing something of real value to itself and to others.

The fellowship in itself is of undoubted value, and to Rotary the reaction of a good work done in unselfish service for those who are less fortunate is a moral factor, educative and satisfying, in the life of its members. The ideals of any organisation ought to be higher than those of any individual member thereof. They are an aggregate of the best ideals of all the members, and must inevitably lift a standard to which the individual member can only by faith and effort approximately attain.

The Lambeth Conference.

The keynote of the Lambeth Conference, held some three years ago, was fellowship. The Bishops of the Anglican Church throughout the world recognised and accentuated the essential fellowship of all true believers. Re-union is the aim, but in the meantime the fellowship is maintained. There is a common aim among all Christian bodies, and there is a common anxiety, felt acutely in these days, for the settlement of the world's problems, and for the betterment of mankind. Differences of upbringing and of conviction need not separate men in point of goodwill. While we guard the heritage we emphasise the fellowship. And it is the larger fellowship in every line of common activity that is the crying need of this age, and of all ages. The thing man finds hardest to do is to attain to this wider sense of fellowship. It can only be come to by a process which may be long and laborious. It is easy and natural to cherish a narrower feeling that accords with the interests of the group or the section. We drift naturally into sectional interests. Hence we have the labour interest and the agricultural and the professional and ecclesiastical, the management and the financial. We have group loyalties and club loyalties and political loyalties. Sometimes the group sees only its material interests that are to be protected, sometimes the higher loyalties actuate devotion. But, humanly speaking, we are limited in our outlook and sympathies to the section or the group. Now this has its advantage. We can only come by a growing sense of wider fellowship by way of realisation of the narrower. We are first a family, then a clan, then a nation.

Nationalism Intensified.

Here again, in the national interest, we are local and limited. The war, and even the application of the Wilsonian 14 points, have intensified nationalism. The world is more isolated in national and ethical compartments than ever before. The smaller the nation the more intense the national fellowship. That is because we are as yet limited in the extent of our sympathies, and the bond of a common need and of national integrity and defence has quickened and intensified national sentiment. This is all to the good so long as it does not become permanently crystallised. It must not stop there.

One great service which the British Empire can render is to blaze the trail to a wider fellowship among the nations. That is beause we are an empire of free nations, a league of nations in ourselves, a multiplicity in unity, a cosmopolitan while, we recognize the difficulty of extending our fellowship even within the empire. The narrower is ever at war with the wider interest. We find it difficult to realize India or South Africa as one in Imperial fellowship with ourselves. We frame our own policies with a view to our own interests. That was the essence of the conflict in the recent Imperial conference, and in the subsequent British elections. Are we to become large enough to view things from the Imperial point of view, or are we always to be confined to the interest of the section?

The Bond of Empire.

The bond of Empire is the throne. It is therefore the great educative influence to blaez the way to a wider sympathy. That wider sympathy is already present in Great Britain, as is evidenced in her atttiude toward the Franco-German embroglio. She is showing the liberal spirit of a larger fellowship. She is against the timid and reactive nationalism which hold the world fast in chains. We are being educated in the British Empire through the unifying influence of the throne to a wider sense of fellowship which always presses as an ideal before all the component constituents of the Empire. The goal of the wider fellowship lies ever before us. It is to be attained not by diluting but be retaining the narrower fellowship in all sections of our life whether social or international. But it must be attained by the extension of that fellowship in ever widening circles in proportion as the mind and heart of man is capable, by a process of education and enlargement, of encompassing it. Each section of every community or nation must gradually but surely come to realize that the economic and social interests of the section or group is bound up with the interests and prosperitly of the whole. No one section in any nation, or group of nations or of provinces, can ever come to its highest attainment without a recognition of the absolute interdependence of all sections, and the security and integrity of the whole. So, too, the sense of national loyalty must not be diminished or reduced in peace or war, but must be extended in ever widening circles to a full recognition of the interdependence of nations, as well as to a keener sympathy with the problems and limitations under which each nation struggles. It requires a much larger fellowship, a much wider sense of sympathy than we are yet capable of, to bring about this world fellowship for which the heart of man craves.

The League of Nations.

The League of Nations is the symbol of that hope and the earnest of its realization. It is the composite idealism of the world's best minds, particularly if it is, and when it is, broad based upon the spiritual yearnings of the nations that stand behind it. It represents the objective of the world's quest. It is the promise of the fulfilment of the hope which was born into the world on the first great Epiphany, the Divine manifestation of the creative power that makes all things possible.

If your fellowship, in rotary, of helpfulness as well as enlightenment serves to widen and quicken your sympathies so as to aim at and demand a wider fellowship in all actiivties of life, and to look beyond the limits of national loyalty and security to the greater security and fellowship of all nations, to make of boundaries not divisive lines but bridges for the redeemed to pass over, you will have built wiser than you knew, and contributed your quota to to the one Divine, if far off, event

"When the war drums throb no longer
And the battle flag's unfurled
The federation of the world."

In the parliament of man,

President V. J. McElderry moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker and it was passed in the usual enthusiastic manner.

Rotarian J. M. Greene was congratulated upon his election as chairman of the Board of Education, before the meeting adjourned.

GAVE ADDRESS REV. MR. GROBB

A Purse of Money and Gold Watch For Rector of All Saints.

After the services at All Saints' Anglican Church last night, the congregation filled the Parish Hall to capacity on the occasion of a presentation to the departing rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, of a purse of money, and a handsome gold watch, from the congregation of the church. The chair was taken by the Rector's Warden, Mr. W. H. Buller, who made a brief address expressing the regret of the congregation of All Saints' church at the departure of Mr. Grobb, and recording the good wishes of the people for the success of their rector.

The presentation was made by Master Charles Dobbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dobin, and an address was read by the people's warden, Mr. R. J. Bolton. Rev. Mr. Grobb acknowledged the presentation in appropriate terms. The address was as follows:

Dear Mr. Grobb: It is with deep regret that we, the members of All Saints' Church, are here assembled to bid you good-bye. We are greatly disappointed that you have seen fit to resign your position as rector, which position you have so ably filled during the past twelve years. In al that time you have discharged the duties of your sacred office faithfully and well.

The higest ideals have always been held up in sermons exceptionally able, scriptural, logical and inspiring, free from sensationalism, deeming the church a place specially for the worship of God and spiritual inspiration. The work of the church in other directions has been characterized by the same faithfulness and ability. The congregation is greatly indebted to your successful and persistent efforts directed towards both the continued increase in membership and the material prosperity of our church.

We ask you to accept this watch and purse as a slight token of our esteem and love for you as our rector. We wish you Godspeed, a nd every success in your new field of labour in the City of Chicago.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of All Saints' churchu,

R. J. Bolton,
W. H. Buller,
Wardens.

A WORD TO THE WISE

ACNE

(By Helen Granville Butler)

Nearly everybody has been troubled at some time or other by acne, or pimples as they are commonly called. Nothing is more annoying or disfiguring than an attack of pimples. With care, however, you can avoid most of the worry and discomfort.

Pimples are caused by an inflammation of the glands of the skin and a subsequent clogging of the pores, the natural outlet for the secretion of the glands. The cause of this inflammation is sometimes hard to trace. It is occasionally due to the condition of the blood as during adolescence, but more often can be traced to digestive disorders and a generally run-down or anemic condition.

In the treatment of acne it is essential to consider your general health first and foremost. Regulate your life in order to get yourself into the very best physical condition. Watch your diet and eliminate rich foods, sweets and alcohol. Eat plenty of green vegetables, take regular exercise and drink plenty of water. These suggestions if carefully followed will often clear up the complexion without any local treatment.

In the local treatment be careful not to use salves and heavy creams that will only aggrevate the inflammation by further clogging the pores. Do not massage your face if you are suffering from an attack as the massage causes additional irritation and increases the infection. Clean the face thoroughly with warm water and a reliable face soap, then take a towel or cloth and soak it in very hot water, place the towel on the face and steam the skin thus for four or five minutes. Change the towel if necessary in order to maintain an even temperature. This steam will soften the skin and cause the pimples to open of themselves except in unusually obstinate cases. Now rinse the face again and gently press those pimples which have opened, taking care not to bruise the skin. Wash the face in cold water and then rub alcohol over the infected areas. The alcohol helps to dry up the pimples. It is also an excellent disinfectant. Use this Method of treatment every day or two.

In cases of a single pimple which has come to a head cleanse it thoroughly and treat it as described above. If, however, the steaming does not open it take a fine needle, disinfect the point and the pimple and prick the center of the infection. Be careful not to break the skin around the pimple as a scar or infection may result. Then press out the puss with a clean cloth or a piece of cotton. Be careful not to draw blood. Wipe the place clean and disinfect it once more. After that leave it alone. Whenever you have acne keep your hands down from your face, if not for your own sake at least for the sake of your friends.

Special treatment at the hands of a doctor or skin specialist is sometimes necessary, but as a general rule if you will keep yourself in good condition and follow the treatment I prescribe you will have little or no trouble.

PETERBORO WINS CASE

could not reduce the police force below the number reported by the board to be absolutely necessary."

The court finds that the city council, in reducing the estimates of the police board to $25,000 did not constitute a reduction of the force. At most, it indicated that the board must arrange to retain the number on the force, by reducing other items or by fixing somewhat lower salaries. And nothing appears, the court rules, which indicates that the board could not have done this.

'The appeal is allowed with costs.'

G. N. Gordon K.C. and Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor, represented the city of Peterboro in the appeal, while R. R. Hall, K.C., appeared for Chief Newhall.

NEWS OF BURNBRAE AND THE DISTRICT

BURNBRAE, Jan. 14. — Mrs. George Craighead, entertained Burnbrae choir Friday evening to a radio concert. About thirty were present and enjoyed the evening listening in. Lunch was served and everyone spent a very pleasant evening.

Mr. John Coutts returned Friday from Toronto.

Mr. John Rannie has returned from his visit to Guelph and Markham.

Annual meeting of the Presbyterian church, Rylstone, was held this week.

The report from the various organization showed that the year was quite prosperous. After all obligations were met the Congregational treasurer reported a balance on hand of $200.00.

The two new managers for the coming year are Herbert Spencer and Chester Meiklejohn.

The Cemetery Committee were instructed to improve the Cemetery by leveling it and putting up a new fence.

Mercury at 15 in Cape May, but Bathers Take Dip Anyway

CAPE MAY, Jan. 14.—Despite the fact that the mercury fell to 15 degrees above zero here, the drop being accompanied by a northwest gale blowing forty-five miles an hour, members of the Polar Bear Club, led by Prof. Bard, of the Cape May High School and Albert R. Smith, World War veteran, took a dip in the ocean.

Bard and Smith have renewed the bet of last winter that they will bathe once a week during January, February and March despite weather conditions. If they lose the bet they will have to dine the high school faculty. Last year Smith threw up the bet and went to Florida. Bard says he will win again this year.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Induction Service Of Rev. Gerald Campbell Clarke.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 14. —The induction service of Rev. Gerald Campbell Clarke, B.A, rector of Christ Church, was held on Friday evening. The church was filled to capacity, and a large choir, with Miss Maynard as organist, led the singing of the hymns. During the service the choir sang the anthem, "Saviour, Again in Thy Dear Name We Meet," the solos in which were taken by Major J. M. Bygott and Miss Isabel Bygott.

Those taking part in the induction service were Lord Bishop Sweeney of Toronto, Rev. Canon W. L. Baynes-Reed, Rural Dean of Toronto, Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, Rural Dean of Peterborough Diocese, of Norwood, Rev. A. L. McTear, L.Th., of Trenton, with Rev. G. M. Clarke, B.A., the new rector.

The following was the order of service:

Hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Prayer, led by Rev. A. L. McTear

Responsive reading, Psalms 121-132.

Bible lesson, Titus, 2nd chapter, Bishop of Toronto.

Singing, Nunc Dimittis, then the Apostles' Creed and Lord's Prayer.

The induction service, Silent prayer for His servant.

Declaration read, Rev. G. C. Clarke, B.A., Rector of Christ Church.

Presentation of the keys of the church to the Rector by the Wardens of the church, Mr. Stanley Neale and Mr. R. J. Bullen.

Hymn ,"O Thou Who Makest Souls to Shine."

Sermon, Rev. Canon W. R. Baynes-Reed, Rural Dean of Toronto. He spoke of the duties of the Rector and the duties of the members of the church.

Rev. Baynes-Reed compared the occasion to a marriage service. First, unity of purpose; when a man is set over a people there must be unity of service and common ideals between him and his people; unity of ideals and unity of strength for one common good. There must be love and forbearance between clergyman and people. He represents you before God, to act in your name, and he represents God to you, to proclaim God, one who reveals God's will to man. He must speak in God's name. His mind must be enlightened by prayer and study. The Church is set in the world to be a witness to God. The Church of God is a director, pointing the way. Service is the greatest act that we can do. In our baptism every one of us was pledged to be service of God. A rector is one who rules over you in love. This means the promotion of God's kingdom among you.

I pray God for a rich blessing upon you in your ministry. With your solemn responsibilities I leave two thoughts with you, the words of Paul, "My grace is sufficient for you," and "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." Not I, but Christ may win others.

In speaking of the new rector to the members of the congregation, Mr. Baynes-Reed said: "I commend him to you, pray for him, work with him and for him. Do not criticise him, look for the best, and uphold him, that he may do the work that is laid on him. Workers together with Christ. There is a tremendous work to be done in the world. It needs strong men to declare for God and the right. It is for us in our day to be true witnesses for God. To build up the kingdom of God in this world we must lay the foundation strong and true so that the kingdoms of the world may become the kingdoms of Christ."

Bishop Sweeney of Toronto then gave a short address, in which he said: We have had a beautiful and impressive service to-night. I bring the congratulations of Archdeacon J. C. Davidson, of Toronto, to you to-night, as it was impossible for him to be here. I bring my own congratulations. I sympathise with you in the loss of your recent rector, but you have another, so very worthy to succeed him. I congratulate you upon the continuance of the name; I believe it to be an omen for happiness and joy, that he bears the same name. I want you to realise that as this man of God is among you, he represents the means of reconciliation to God. This is a service of institution and induction. All men should be saved, and come to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ Jesus. Your rector represents this agency. The time has come when we want in the Church men of certain character and calibre. Men of faith, men of prayer, men with a knowledge of the Word of God, men who are not afraid to endure hardships for the cause of Christ. We want men of great devotion, "This one thing I do," brushing aside the concerns of the world, and concentrating upon the one great special cause of the King and the King's business We want men who are loyal to the Bishop, the Church, practising and teaching the faith of the Church. We are to be the living spirits in that heavenly kingdom for ever. But I want to warn you as members. We can not possibly carry out this charge unless every member helps in this great work. God bless both priest and people.

The Bishop wished all a very happy and splendid New Year.

Hymn, "We love Thy place, O Lord."

Prayer by Bishop Sweeney.

Hymn, "The Church's one foundation."

Benediction.

GOOD CONCERT CAMPBELLFORD

Looked Like a Real Community Gathering—Campbellford News.

Campbellford, January 14. — Greeted by an audience that filled every seat in the Regent theatre and overflowed into the space at the entrance, the Northumberland Regiment Band last night rendered an excellent programe of sacred music, the third of three Sunday evening concerts. It seemed that the worshippers from all the churches in town, after the evening services, met in the theatre for what was a typical community gathering. The popularity of the band appears to increase with every public appearance, and the attendance at these concerts is the best proof that the people of Campbellford appreciate high class musical entertainments. The passing weeks bring the band nearer to the time when they will take part in the musical competition of the Toronto Exhibition an event for which the members are already preparing. All of the programme last night was by regular members of the band, no outside assistance being called on. The only vocal selection was by Herb Leonard, one of the bandsmen, who sang "Marguerite," and in response to an enthusiastic recall rendered "Thora."

Capt. P. J. Kelly, recently promoted from a lieutenancy to second in command, under Major J. M. Bygott, of the local company, acted as chairman, and briefly stated the purpose to which the proceeds of the Sunday night concerts are devoted: charity, and the purchase of new music. The band has no funds with which to carry on outside of money earned in this way.

Old and familiar hymns featured the programme. One of these, the second number, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," was rendered, the audience joining in singing the well known words. Charlie Mitchell, accompanied by Bandmaster Cowell, on the piano, rendered a saxaphone solo and an encore. This is a role regularly taken by Mr. Mitchell at these concerts, and he is always assured a hearty welcome.

Another popular number was the rendition of the old melodies of the south, "Memories of Stephen Foster," and which sounded like a musical version of a chapter from the life of the colored population whose sufferings as well as their joys in the days of slavery found expression in extemporaneous songs that will live while the English language endures. In this number the solo parts were taken by Sergt. George T. Salter on the euphonium. The collection amounted to $32.50.

James Cassidy Injured.

James Cassidy was seriously injured Sunday morning when he fell on the sidewalk, striking his head on the cement. He was on his way at the time to attend service in St. Mary's church and had reached the corner of Bridge and Centre streets, within sight of the edifice, when he suddenly fell backward. As there was comparatively little ice on the walk it is supposed that Mr. Cassidy was suddenly overcome by a fainting spell before he fell. The back of his head was badly cut and bruised, and for a time it was feared that he was dead. He was removed to his home on Front street in a cutter and Dr. F. W. Loucks was called in. Late last night Mr. Cassidy rallied and hopes were held out for his recovery. He is a man of advanced age, is one of the pioneer residents of the town, having been in the employ of the government during the construction of the Trent Canal through here, and was a candidate for the council at the election last week.

Curling in Full Blast.

The recent drop in the temperature has had its effect and the ice in the curling rink is in excellent condition. The roarin 'game was in full blast Saturday night and the scheduled contests will soon be put on.

Upheld Dairy Act.

Richard Honey of Percy township, who represented Northumberland county at the meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association at Kingston last week, was one of the strongest supporters of the Dairy Standard Act when that matter was brought up for discussion. It is frequently said that owners of Holstein herds as a rule are opposed to the Act.

"I keep black and white, too" said Mr. Honey in his address at the convention, and I am in favor of the Act. If a neighbor who has Ayrshires or Jerseys has higher testing milk he is entitled to more money. We Holstein men do not have to steal money from our neighbor."

The Act, which interests every dairyman in this district, was upheld by a large majority.

Annual At Home.

The annual 'At Home' under the auspices of St. Mary's Parish, will be held in the Regent Theatre on Monday evening, January 28th. This is always looked forward to as one of the leading social functions of the season.

AT THE REGENT

"The Prisoner of Zenda," will be the feature picture at the Regent tonight and to-morrow night, the proceeds to be for the benefit of the Trent Valley Hockey Club. Admission, including war tax, 50 cents. Turn out and give the boys a lift. tickets on sale every day.

A New Low

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(United Press.)— Frantic efforts on the part of the French financiers over the week end to arrest the fall of the Franc proved unavailing and the Franc tumbled to a new low level—92.60 to the Pound Sterling—on the London Exchange to-day.

The Pound also slumped as compared with the Dollar, falling to $4.25 1-4.

PARIS, Jan. 14. — (United Press.)—The French Franc opened at 21.60 to the Dollar today, forty centimes lower than on Saturday.

TORONTO, Jan .14.—(Canadian Press.)—After a brief illness George Perry Sylvester, M.D., one of the senior surgeons on the staff of Grace Hospital died yesterday in Wellesley Hospital. Dr. Sylvester had been in failing health for the past two yeares.

Born in Durham county, Dr. Sylvester was 71 years old. He was educated in Bowmanville schools and was graduated from Trinity University, to practice his profession, in 1874.

GAME WAS LOST IN PENALTY BOX

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press). — St. Patricks terminated their losing streak in the National Hockey League on Saturday night at the arena when they emerged on the long end of a 5 to 3 count in a typical professional encounter against Canadiens and as a result the latter are temporarily ousted from second place in the standing which is now held solely by locals. The crowd of standing room proportions that witnessed the game saw plenty of action of all kinds and on the whole, the affair was pleasing not only because the locals won but because three players who have not shown much so ar this season, on home ice, ot least showed great improvment. Trio were Adams, Dye and Jackson, although the latter has had but few opportunities to show anything here tofore. Both Adams and Dye turned in their best games of the season, in fact Adams looked better than at any time since he joined the Irish squad. In spite of this and in justice to Canadiens it can hardly be said that the locals deserved the two goal margin, everything considered. In fact up until the last period Canadiens were the better team but it was finally impressed on Leo Dandurand's firebrands that games are won on ice and not in the penalty box. Canadiens pulled down seven penalties including a match foul to Sprague Cleghorn and a major to Billy Boucher. This forced the visitors to play 35 minutes with a man short and in the third period the strain on the others told and they wilted for a time. The Irish did not believe in receiving without handing back receipts, but while they had ten visitors to the penalty box, their total was 15 minutes shorter than that of the losers.

LAKEFIELD HOME PREY TO FLAMES

Family of Gordon Hendren Had a Narrow Escape.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14. — Early this morning fire destroyed the destroyed the frame bungalow of Gordon Hendren, Edward street. The smoke awakened a six weeks old child, and its crying roused the rest of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Hendren and three children managed to escape. A fourth child is in the Isolation Hospital in Peterboro.

The firemen were summoned and they succeeded in saving some of the furniture as well as the stable and the henhouse. The house and part of the contents were completely destroyed.

GET A DOLL TO MATCH COSTUME.

Black and White Is Popular This Season So a White Bunny on a Leash Will Be Appropriate.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Discard your pet, if it does not match with your new costume.

Or, at least, get a costume to match your pet.

For this is the dictate of fashion. That cunning chocolate pomeranian that was just marvellous last year with your brown coat is all wrong with the new grey one. No matter how much attached to him you may be, you should get some sort of a grey beast to match.

Since black and white are popular colors this season, what is more appropriate than a little white bunny attached to a leash strolling along beside a black satin costume? Or an all-white rabbitskin coat?

The rabbit may be seen not only on the Paris boulevards, but along Fifth avenue, New York.

Dog Too Common.

Cats, leashed, are too common by this time to attract much attention. The Siamese or Persian variety are acknowledged to be more submissive and more decorative than just a plain Tom or Tabby.

A consistent pet is the monkey, particularly the marmoset, because of his appealing diminutiveness. If he is small enough to sit comfortably in a champagne glass he has attained the ideal development, though the garden variety is a few sizes larger.

What's Price!

I priced a nifty looking monkey at a Fifth avenue pet shop and found I would have to part with just one hundred and fifty dollars before they would wrap him up for me.

In Paris it is reported snails have become so popular with women for pets that there is a great scarcity of them for restaurant use—and the Parisian loves his snails. But the snail as yet has not penetrated the exclusive circles of Manhattan as a pet, any more than as a food.

If you don't carry a monkey, cat, dog, goat or rabbit, your only alternative seems to dangle one of those flat, lifeless, but wicked-looking, dolls from your arm.

These are the days when a woman has her hands full.

PRAYER OF KNOCKER

Lord, please don't let this town grow. I've been here for thirty years and during that time I have fought every public improvement. I've knocked everything and everybody. I have done all I could to keep this town from growing and never have spoken a good word for it. I've knocked hard and often. I've put ashes on the children's slide and I've made the policemen make the boys stop playing ball on my vacant lot.

Whenever I saw any one prospering or enjoying himself, I have started a reform to kill the business or spoil the fun. I do not want the young folks to stay in this town, and I will do all I can by law, rule and ordinance to drive them away. It pains me, Lord, to see that in spite of my knocking this town is beginning to grow. Some day I fear I will be called on to put down sidewalks in front of my property, and who knows but that I may have to help keep up the streets that run by my premises. This, Lord, would be more than I could bear. It would cost me money, though all I have made has been made right here in this town. Then, too, more people might come if the town begins to grow, which would cause me to lose some of my pull. I ask therefore, to keep this town at a standstill, that I may continue to be chief. Amen!—Anon.

A WORD OF COMFORT.

Read your Bible. It is a guidebook for a life-journey enroute to closer communion with God. It makes no pretense to unveiling the future except to promise the fulfilment of our highest hopes and endeavors.

No other book brings so much assurance to the earnest soul. God's love is revealed in every line and His will for us becomes plain as we drink in His words. Read, mark, learn, inwardly digest them and go forward without fear. God is with you step by step. The future with Him will be sweet.

JAPANESE WOMEN GAIN IN POWER

President of Oriental College Finds Big Change in National Point of View.

Christianity Makes Gains.

DETROIT, Jan. 12.—Women of Japan are gradually coming to occupy a place in their national life analogous to that of women in America because of the transforming character of the Christian message now bearing fruit in that country.

The Rev. Dr. David B. Schneder, president of the North Japan College, Sendai, Japan, since 1887, on a furlough home for a few months. His home in this country is in Bowmanville, Lancaster County. Yesterday he visited the Rev. Allen R. Bartholmew, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in the United States, and conferred with him on the work of the Reformed Church in Japan.

The North Japan College was established by the Reformed Church.

Quite apart from the work of missionaries and of the churches in Japan, there is a noticeable change within recent years on their whole national point of view, Dr. Schneder said yesterday.

"Within a few years woman suffrage will be an accomplished thing in Japan," he declared. "Not only is the conception of womanhood being changed, but officers of the Government are rapidly adopting Christianity. The Crown Prince of Japan, who is now Prince Regent and serving as Emperor because of his father's incapacity, is surrounded by Christian advisers, and converted Christians are among his warmest friends.

Lays Reform to Schools

"I think the rapidly increasing appreciation of woman's education and place in society has been brought about by the Christian girls' schools which were among the first to be established by missionaries in Japan.

"A large and increasing number of Government officials are marrying Christian wives, girls who have been educated in the Christian mission schools. Those girls' schools were the first in the field of education of girls of high school grade, and their influence is now being felt. They are sought as wives by men in the higher stations of life.

"The Governor of Korea, though not a professing Christian, has a Christian wife and is exercising a very humane policy in the Government of Korea. Already through his efforts, three-quarters of the children of school age in Korea have school facilities. He is doing the most he can to help the Koreans.

"From time to time I have noticed that as civil and governmental positions became vacant they are being filled by Christian men. The former Prime Minister of Japan has a Christian wife. Even while Prime Minister, and himself not a Christian, he had weekly prayer meeting and other Christian meetings in his official residence.

"All those things count for a great deal. Another instance is the Crown Prince of Japan. When he visited England some time ago, three of his advisers were Christians, and one was the former Ambassador to the United States, also a Christian. Before he went to England the Empress called one of the Christians in his company to her side and asked him to take special care of her son. Count Chinda, a Christian, is the Prince's personal counselor."

Seeks Funds For College

Dr. Schneder thinks the earthquake will have a stimulating effect upon the religious life of Japan, rather than otherwise.

While back home he is especially desirous of raising $100,000 to further the work of the North Japan College, and to build a college building. There are 770 students in the college, and buildings are provided only for the seminary students and the academy. But the enrollment of the college must be kept down because of the lack of equipment, he said.

The North Japan College is the only institution of its kind in the northern part of Japan. It must serve a population of 10,000,000 people. Most denominational schools and colleges, Dr. Schneder said, are located in Tokio and in Southern Japan.

The influence of the Christian ideal is extending far beyond the work of the churches," Dr. Schneder declared. "The ideals of human life, of society and of national and international relations are undergoing a profound change.

"There is no doubt but that the missionaries contributed on large part to this transformation. One of the ways was in the establishment of educational institutions, but the Christian point of view has grown on and expanded in the national mind quite apart from the missionaries."

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Jan. 14.—Mr. Wm. McCoy, foreman of the County road gang, had the grader run over the Marmora-Deloro road this week. This makes the roadway open for motor traffic which is a great boon to those driving cars to work and also to the Deloro pupils who are attending the Continuation School in Marmora.

The senior hockey club held a box-social in the town hall Wednesday evening at which over $70,00 was raised for the expenses of the hockey team. A guessing contest is also being conducted for this purpose, the prizes being donated by the merchants of the village.

ONE YEAR WITH FRANCE IN RUHR.

French Claim Victory at Terrible Outlay of Money —Entente Still Exists.

By WEBB MILLER.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—(United Press). —One year after France, with her Belgian ally, went into the Ruhr to compel Germany to pay her reparations bill according to the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, an operation which England officially denounced as illegal and likely to lead to disaster, France is receiving coal and coke to the extent of several thousands of tons daily toward the reparations account.

It cost France about $50,000,000 to force Germany to her knees. It cost Germany untold trillions of paper marks, actually representing, however, many millions of dollars and brought the country to the verge of revolution and economic collapse.

When 50,000 French and Belgian troops, infantry, cavalry, artillery and tanks, advanced into the great industial and mining region on Jan. 11, 1923, the inspired press of England cried, "The end of the entente!"

Germany Surrendered.

But, in spite of the pessimistic predictions of the British press, Germany capitulated. She carried on a losing fight of about nine months, subsidizing the unemployed workers of the Ruhr by printing millions, billions, trillions of marks until the point of exhaustion arrived and she could do no more

The occupation was military only in a limited sense. The troops were there because the French and Belgians had decided that the mining, industrial, customs and other administrative employees needed protection. Just as soon as the occupation became effective there began a series of manoeuvres since entitled "passive resistance," which the Berlin Government has represented as spontaneous, but which Poincare has often called direct German propaganda, paid by funds which should have been paid over to the Reparations Commission.

Isolated French and Belgian posts were attacked. The Germans who remained in the mines and on the trains systematically "sabotaged" both services. Train wrecks, in which the victims were not always allied citizens, were numerous. One German, named Schlagetter, was convicted and shot by a firing squad for such a crime. He is now the hero of the ultra-nationalists of the Ruhr.

Cash Not Expected.

Poincare admitted in the French Chamber that he did not expect to get actual cash towards the reparations account out of the operation. He said what he desired was to create in Germany "the will to pay." He succeeded in the sense that the Berlin Government capitulated, practically washing its hands of the whole affair. It left the actual terms of settlement to be worked out between the representatives of the Allies and the big group of Ruhr industrial barons, headed by Krupp and Hugo Stinnes.

When Berlin realized in October, 1923, that it would be impossible to continue the financial war, it practically admitted that it had been supplying the funds for the so-called passive resistance. It gave carte blanche to Stinnes and company. The result was that, on Nov. 23, after the negotiations had been called off by the Allies on account of Berlin's interference, the "barons" signed an agreement, whereby the chief industrial and mining men of the occupied region consented to the following conditions:

1.—Immediate payment of $15,000,000 (the figures were given in dollars, not in marks) as arrears of the coal tax, which the Germans had refused to pay from the date of the occupation.

2.—Payment of ten francs (paper—or about 50 cents) a ton on all coal extracted sold in unoccupied territor yor sent thereto.

3.—Handing over to the Reparations Commission of 21 per cent. of all the production of the Ruhr mines.

According to the statistics of the French engineers, France is now getting about 7,000 tons of coke and 12,000 tons of coal a day. In an., 1923, before the occupation the Ruhr mines delivered to the Allies 532,000 tons. In the month of February, the first after the occupation, the deliveries fell to 95,000 tons and in the following month only 82,000 tons were handed over. French factories had to buy coal and coke in England.

TONGUE COATED BAD TASTE IN MOUTH EYES TINGED WITH YELLOW

Liver Trouble the Cause

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work.

I had severe pains in my stomach so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, and had a yellow and sallow complexion.

I had read a great deal about Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and decided I would try a vial, and after taking two or three I found I was greatly improved, and can truthfully say that I felt more like living and can now do my own work without any trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A MERITED PROMOTION.

The announcement of the promotion of Mr. W. M. Lang to the position of Collector of Customs has been received with general satisfaction in the city and is hailed as a proof of the advantage of the Civil Service Commission plan as compared with the old patronage system.

Mr. Lang has been connected with the local customs office for twenty years, since 1913 has been senior clerk, a position that was virtually that of Deputy Collector, and has therefore had a long schooling in the duties to which he has been promoted.

The application of the principle of promotion in the civil service as exemplified in this particular case is gratifying to those who realize the effect it has upon civil service employees generally, causing them to realize that there is a chance for them to get somewhere in the work to which they have devoted themselves.

Under the old method they had no reason to believe this, but rather to feel that there was nothing ahead of them, that if a vacancy occurred near the top it would be filled not by promoting somebody who was qualified by training and experience for the position, but by bringing a party favourite in from outside.

There are some politicians who favour a return to the old patronage game, but they are not supported by the bulk of the Canadian people, who prefer a system that gives the faithful civil service employee some hope for the future.

GERMAN IMMIGRATION.

The patriotism of Regina is surely more truthfully portrayed by the protest of the Regina Great War Veterans' Association against encouraging German immigration than by the resolution of the Regina Board of Trade favouring unrestricted immigration from Germany.

The feeling among Canadians, particularly in the East, is that if it comes to a choice between carrying our burden of debt with the present population or filling up the country with people who were our foes only a few years ago and who will cling to their German language and German ideas and endeavour to make a second Vaterland out of the Canadian prairies, Canada prefers to stay as she is.

What inspired the Regina resolution is a mystery, but at all events the motion should not be allowed to get beyond the resolution stage so far as the Government is concerned.

If there was any attempt by the Federal administration to act upon the Regina suggestion the protest that would go up from the country generally would be strong enough to topple the administration out of office.

There are thousands of Britishers of the best type whom Canada would be glad to receive as citizens, but it should be understood that there is no welcome on the map for "unrestricted German immigration."

DROPPING THE MAGISTRATE.

It is presumed that one of the first matters to be taken up by the City Council will be the attitude that is to be assumed by Peterborough towards the resolution passed by the Kitchener Council for presentation to the Legislature calling for a change in the personnel of city Police Commissions.

The Kitchener plan is to substitute an elective member for the Police Magistrate, who is at present by virtue of his office a Police Commissioner.

The local Council should give careful consideration to all aspects of this question before coming to a decision in the matter.

Hon. W. E. Raney, discussing this point in a newspaper article, regards the Police Magistrate as a most important member of the commission, and the Examiner is inclined to agree with the former Attorney-General.

The Magistrate is in daily touch with the police force and should more than any other individual be in a position to judge their work and to know all about the men themselves.

At the same time he should know conditions generally in the territory under his jurisdiction and have a comprehensive idea of how the law is being enforced.

It would seem a mistake to drop from the commission the member most intimate with the work of the police, and to substitute an elective member who might know little about the members of the force and less about law enforcement.

WARD ASSOCIATIONS.

In view of the lack of candidates for Aldermanic honours at the recent municipal election, the need of stirring up the electors to take a keener interest in the management of the city's affairs is once more sharply emphasized.

Perhaps the trouble is partly caused because nobody bothers much about the situation until a week or two before nomination day, and it is impossible for a last-minute hurrah to take the place of a steady pressure.

The extension of the Tenants' and Owners' Association into ward associations of the ratepayers might have considerable effect in arousing interest in municipal matters if a few leading citizens in each ward would concern themselves with such an organization and give it the leadership that it would require.

Ward meetings held at comparatively frequent intervals at which members of the Council, Board of Education and Utilities Commission might be invited to discuss problems that are of moment to the people could be arranged without a great deal of difficulty—a school in each ward could be utilized as a meeting place—and in this way many electors could be brought much more closely in touch with civic business than there is any possibility of them being brought at present.

Such ward associations would not only give their members a chance to acquaint themselves with details of matters affecting the whole city, but they would be valuable in bringing to the attention of the City Council problems that are of particular interest in their own district.

Under the ward system of electing a Council each section had its spokesmen in the Council.

The present arrangement makes it quite possible to have one or two wards not represented at all in Council, and a ward association of ratepayers would therefore be of especial service in such districts as its wants could be kept before the Aldermen.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTION OF BANKS.

The revision of the Bank Act during the last session at Ottawa was accompanied by protracted and vigorous discussion, both in committee and on the floor of the House. In those debates no principle was discussed at greater length or with more tenacity of purpose by the Progressive Party, who were the protagonists of the most drastic changes in the Act, than the question of audit and inspection. It seemed to be the general concensus of opinion among the bankers of the Dominion that any form of Government inspection was not a desirable innovation. Those who did not directly oppose such interference argued that since the officials of the banks carried out a searching and systematic inspection of their own, the Government inspectors would be the fifth wheels in the coach and that their presence would involve an expenditure which would not be compensated for by any services they might perform.

At the insistence of certain members, however, the law was amended by which no auditor could hold office for more than two years and that the two auditors appointed to guard the interests of the depositors should not both belong to the same firm This was a concession to this demand for an independent audit, but the principle of Government inspection was still strongly opposed by the bankers.

Apparently there has been some change in this attitude. President W. G. Gooderham, in his report at the annual meeting of the Bank of Toronto, said:

"Recent events have led to an expressed desire in many directions that the Government should undertake the yearly inspection and audit of banks, and to this there should be no objection by the banks if the Government is willing to accept the responsibility that would necessarily follow such action. A satisfactory report of the condition of a bank as the result of an inspection made by efficient officers of the Government would doubtless strengthen confidence, and it would be difficult for Governmental responsibility to be avoided. So far as this bank is concerned, no inspection could be more thorough than that made by our own inspecting officers, and the conservative estimate placed upon our assets by the management and concurred in by our auditor, would, we are certain, not be disturbed by the most exacting officials."

Government inspection, if efficient, would strengthen confidence, believes Mr. Gooderham, and there will be few to dispute his dictum. Canada during the past year has passed through a period of perturbation, due to the revelation of the transactions of certain of her banks. It will take some years to re-establish that complete confidence in our banking system which for so many years was our pride and our boast. The plundering of the Merchants Bank, the failure of the Home Bank, the salving of two other large banks, one by Government intervention and the other by absorption, have shaken the confidence of the people considerably. That confidence would be re-created in some measure by the knowledge that every bank in the Dominion had its books minutely examined and audited by an official of the Government. Such an audit would place a grave responsibility upon the Government, but it is a task that, in the interests of the nation, the Government—whose first duty it is to be the custodian of the rights and property of its citizens—should not hesitate to take.

If the banks are willing to give Government inspection and audit their approval and co-operation, there seems no reason why its adoption should be delayed.—Montreal Star.

KOREA DAMAGED BY TIDAL WAVE.

Floods Inundated Large Part of Country—Wave Swallowed Up Entire Villages.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (Associated Press).—Reports received by the Presbyterian Board of Missions from missionaries in Korea show that that country suffered heavy damage during the latter part of 1923 from floods and tidal waves. A large part of the country was inundated and thousands of homes were swept away.

The regions outside the submerged sections were visited by storms which caused the total destruction of rice fields, and these did not yield a grain of food.

An added destructive force was a giant tidal wave, which surged inland and swallowed up entire villages. It swept large boats into village streets and cut a new beach line 50 to 100 feet further inland from the original shore line, the new line standing straight up like palisades.

Many Presbyterian churches were washed away and others collapsed after being weakened by the floods and storms.

HUMAN SACRIFICES IN BURMESE HILLS.

Slaves Offered in Naga Hills Reported From Rangoon.

RANGOON, Jan. 7 (Associated Press).—Human slavery and the practice of sacrificing slaves at religious festivals still exist in the Naga hills, according to a report recently issued by H. A. Thornton, a government commissioner. This district, which is nominally under British rule, lies in northern Burma near the Assam border. The government has received authentic information of the sacrifice of six Naga slaves at different places during the past two months. These victims were brought from head-hunting villages whose inhabitants, though they do not themselves practice human sacrifice, do not hesitate to sell victims to those who desire them.

Slavery in the Naga hills has been decreasing during recent years, largely on account of the difficulty and danger involved in capturing recruits to replace those who die or who redeem themselves. The number found by census takers this year was 215, as opposed to 271 last year. Some have purchased freedom, and others have been liberated by their masters. A few have taken the yellow robe and become Buddhist monks. Those remaining in slavery are said to be either contented with their lot or too lazy and opium-sodden to work out their redemption.

Until recent years most of the slaves in this district were Indians who had been kidnapped in Assam, but on account of the increasing hazards of this practice, the Nagas have lately confined their raids to mountain tribes nearer at hand. No Indians are known to have been sacrificed since 1921, when two authentic cases were recorded. In capturing new slaves, it is customary for the Nagas to search for victims about whom no inquiry is likely to be made.

The Naga tribes are not directly related to the more civilized Burmans who inhabit the plains to the south.

BURNS - SCOTT - STEVENSON

An Educational Discourse Given At Caledonian Literary Night by Robert French. President.

At a meeting of the Caledonian Club, Robert French, president of the club, spoke on the lives of three great benefactors to Scotland.

Historical Data

What Scotland is to-day is what her people at home have made her in the last 150 years. She has given to the world great soldiers and sailors, none greater, yet her soldiers and sailors have not contributed to the making of Scotland alone but to Great Britain, of which she has so long been a vital part.

Her history has been made by her merchants, manufacturers, engineers, architects, theologians, her writers of songs, her weavers of fiction and her philosophers. These have made her history; it is a history to be proud of, but it is not the record of national politics. The literary annuals of Scotland, since Colloden, constitute the major part of Scotia's history. Indeed, her literature is her history and for this reason I intend placing before you a short biography of three great Scots—Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott and Robert Louis Stevenson.

Read by Thousands.

Burns and Scott are not the property of Scotland alone. Although Stevenson's works are not so eagerly read. Scotland's literary roll is a long and shining one, and I have by no means exhausted its treasures in this limited effort.

The songs, her poets have sung, the tales her story-tellers have told, are known wherever the English language is spoken and are treasured in every part of the world. Her literary annals are, in the deeper sense of the term, her history, but her singers and story-tellers have done infinitely more.

Imagine Scottish literature without its Burns and the throng of minor singers associated with the poesy of Caledonia. Picture what it would be without such story-tellers as Scott and Stevenson. It is not what these men alone accomplished for literature, in their proper person, that is to be considered but the impulse given to letters by their influence and example. Ferguson, to some extent, is responsible for the later Burns, which Burns and Scott made possible, in a certain degree, the innumerable singers and weavers of tales that have flourished since their day over the border. One need not pause to prophesy that countries, future and past. It only remains, therefore, to entreat the Ruler of nations to "Give her the glory of going on, and Still to be."

If Scotland's political annals were to be blended with those of the greater nation, south of the border, when the union of the two countries was accomplished, and when the two Jacobite uprisings were events of the past, its literary history suffered no such relapse.

A Forward Influence.

Fate had ordained, that, henceforth, the fortunes of Scotland and England were to be one but she did not assert that Scottish history should be inextricably confused with the literature of England. On the contrary, the cultivation of letters in the north of Great Britain experienced a forward influence in the period following the Union, an impulse that strengthened as the years went on and still potent.

Burns-Scott-Stevenson.

The close of the eighteenth century was illuminated by the genius of the peasant-born Burns, whose lyrics still echo round the world. The first quarter of the nineteenth century was made glorious by Sir Walter Scott, and the last quarter saw the growth of fame of Robert Louis Stevenson. And associated with the fame of these three are the names of a mighty army of Caledonians—historians, philosophers, essayists, theologians, physicians, novelists and poets, who have borne their part in the making Scottish literature what it is to-day. In connection with the Scottish revival of letters, it should be noted that for a long time a struggle went on between pure Scots and classic English, men who spoke their mother tongue without disguise, and experiencing great difficulty in suppressing their native idiom when they came to circulate classic English. The worst of it was that the Scots' tongue was looked upon as rude and contemptible, and, for a long time, even the best works of our eminent authors failed to make the dialect fashionable.

Revival of Poetry.

The revival of poetry came at last and culminated splendidly in Burns. Of no especial importance for his own sake, save acquaintance with Robert Ferguson who died in 1774, at the early age of 24, is of service as an introductory to more complete knowledge of that other and greater Scottish Robert, Robert Burns.

Talent and temperament in the case of Ferguson were anticipatory of those qualities in Burns. The pathetic end of the earlier poet, whose small volume of verse was issued in 1773, caused regret wherever he was known, but in Burns this emotion blended with sympathetic admiration, became almost passionate in its character. His perusal of Ferguson's volume led him to study with real attention the practice of native poetry and but for Ferguson there might have been no Burns. His similarity to Burns are easily discernable in such works as 'Caller Oysters,' 'Daft Days,' 'Caller Water,' and 'To the Tron Kirk Bell.' In 'His Hallow Fair,' his 'Ode to the Goudspink,' and 'Auld Reekie,' he comes nearer to Burns than any other Scottish poet of earlier or later times.

"A Folk Poet."

We shall never understand Burns aright if we do not grasp the fact that he was a "Folk Poet," into whom the soul of a poet of all time, and all space had entered. In countries where folk poetry exists, its forms and expressions are much less the property of the individual than the race.

Burns is the only example of the very first quality, of the poet who takes existing works in his own hands, and puts it on shaped in his own fashion. Though all his writings are occasional, he reflects every mood of the national character, its tenderness, and its patriotic fervour. Like Byron, he always wrought at white heat the highest lyrical power, and, if he sometimes fails, it is only when he tries to adopt the conventional English of his day that he becomes insipid.

Scotia's Own Bard.

Robert Burns, the eldest of seven children, was born in Alloway, Ayrshire, on Jan. 25, 1759; he was the son of a small farmer. William Burness or Burnes, and on the occasion of the publication in 1786 of his book, he adopted the present spelling of his name. The poet was fortunate in his father, a man of thoughtful, intense character, as the best of our poets are, valuing knowledge, possessing some and open minded for more, a fully infolded man, seldom seen in any rank of society and worth descending far in society to seek. His poverty sunk the whole family even below the reach of our cheap school system, and Burns remained a hard-worked plough boy. His education, scanty as it was, was irregular and pursued under difficulty. He learned to read in his sixth year, received some instruction in writing, and gradually acquired a little English and French, as well as the rudiments of geometry at 13. He thrashed his father's corn, and at 15 was the chief labourer on the farm.

At 16 his naturally strong frame began to show how it had been overtaxed. His shoulders were bent and he fell an easy prey to fits of depression, which frequent headaches only served to intensify. A spirit of revolt, resulting from the conditions of his hard, daily toil, became one of the poet's strongest characteristics.

Misfortunes Great and Small.

In 1781 he went to learn the flax dresser's trade at Irvine, which ended disastrously for the poet, as he was left penniless through fire. Burns' father died in Feb., 1784, an event which sobered the handsome, rollicking peasant, already beginning to be known as the rustic poet.

For some years Burns and his brother, Gildert, lived at Mossgiel, which they had leased. Burns, while at Mossgiel, met Jean Armour, and, on meeting opposition to the wedding, took passage to Jamaica. The proceeds for the passage money was obtained by the publication of his poems at Kilmarnock in 1786, and after remaining unsettled in his purposes for some time, he eventually gave up his West Indian plans.

In the preceding May, Burns met Highland Mary of Dunnoon, and it is she whom the poet commemorates in several touching lyrics: "To Mary in Heaven," "Will Ye Go to The Indies," "My Mary," and others. Highland Mary died in October, 1786. No study of Burns can leave out of account some mention of the various episodes in his life. Burns' love episodes colored his verse, his lapses from the righteous at times are better answered by his own words:

Then gently scan your brither man,
Still gentler sister woman;
Though they may gang a kennin wrang,
To step aside is human;
One point maun still be greatly dark
The moving why they do it,
And just a lamely can ye murk,
How far perhaps they rue it.

The volume of Burns' verse which saw the light in 1786 includes some of his most famous poems; among them are: 'The Twa Dogs,' 'The Cotter's Saturday Night,' 'Tae a Mouse,' 'To a Daisy,' 'Address to the Deil.' A collection, extremely varied, but bearing the undeniable stamp of genius.

Burns, after this, went to Edinburgh, where he was lionized and patronized. The second edition of his poems came out in 1787, and brought him £400, with which he settled at Ellisland on the Nith and married Jean Armour. At Ellisland he wrote: 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'Tam o' Shanter,' both of which are known to Scots all over the world, and for all his work, creative and adaptive, he received a paltry £5.

Two Warriors.

He held the post of exciseman, but did not retain it long, and presently fell upon evil days. His warm advocacy of the French Revolution did much to exile him from polite society, and on the 21st July, 1796, the greatest poet Scotland has ever known was dead. Four days later he was buried and on that day his youngest son was born.

Lowland Scotland as a distinct nationality, it has been said, came in with two warriors and went out with two bards. It came in with William Wallace and Robert Bruce and went out with Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott. The first two made the history and the last two told the story and sung the song. In the death of Burns the progress of our literature may be shortly defined: he was a link between two eras—the last of the old and the first of new—the inheritor of the traditions and the music of the past; in some respects, the herald of the future. Burns has made the songs her emigrants recall, in which maids are wooed, by which mothers lull their infants; they are the links, the watchwords, the masonic symbol of our race.

CO-OPERATION AT THE POST OFFICE

First Be Sure You Mailed The Parcel That Is Missing.

During the holiday season just past, you co-operated with the Post Office in the matter of early mailing, and we are glad to say that this co-operation helped to a considerable extent to reduce the last minute rush.

There is still another way in which you can co-operate, and that is by avoiding unnecessary inquiries. Just because your friend doesn't receive that gift when you thought he would, or neglects to acknowledge it, is not proof that it is lost. Perhaps it wasn't posted — it may still be in someone's pocket or tucked away in a corner. First be sure it is actually posted and correctly addressed, then remember that some persons will insist in bringing their mail to the post office at the last minute, and there is certain to be at least some congestion and delay. For this reason, you must allow more than the usual time for delivery. Lastly, be sure that the addressee did not receive the article—if possible, get a definite statement covering this.

If you neglect the above points and rush in with your inquiry, in many cases you cause unnecessary work and expense to the Post Office and delay legitimate inquiries or hold up other mail—perhaps your own or a friend's. You do not want to do that, we feel sure, so please co-operate by avoiding hasty inquiries.

FEDERAL FORCE DEFENDED CITY UNTIL RELIEVED

Were Greatly Outnumbered but Repulsed Attack in City Streets Losing Two Generals And Killing 116 Rebels.

OCCUPY TOWN.

MEXICA CITY, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—For twenty hours beginning at daybreak Thursday the rebels under Marcial Cavazos and Otilio Villegas fought with the Federal troops in the streets of Pachuca without completely controlling the city. Governor Azuara and Generals Benito Garcia, commander of the garrison, Victor Monter and Serapio Lopez defended the city against great odds, the rebels numbering more than eight hundred, while the defending forces totalled three hundred.

Generals Monter and Lopez were killed during the battle, while the rebel forces suffered heavily.

Surprise Attack.

According to eye-witnesses the rebels began their attack at 5 o'clock on Thursday morning by surprising a group of volunteer state guards, forcing them to surrender after two hours fighting Governor Azuara and Generals Monter and Garcia with the remaining forces fortified a church in one of the city's suburbs and the fighting continued for several hours. Then a group of women carrying a white flag approached the fortress, suggesting that the federal troops surrender. Governor Azuara refused and the battle continnued. In the late afternoon the rebels dynamited the church. This was followed by fierce fighting in which General Monter lost his life, falling with a bullet wound.

At two o'clock on Friday morning the rebels decided to abandon the city, learning of the approach of General Herrero's columns from Mexico City.

Cut Communication Lines.

The city suffered slightly from the fighting. The rebel troops did not molest the business men contenting themselves with taking government funds and imposing a loan on the mining companies.

The Federal forces rushed from Mexico City arrived at Pachuca after the rebels had evacuated it. Before their retreat the insurgents destroyed telegraphic, telephonic and railway communications for a considerable area.

According to the War Department 116 rebels were kilde durng the battle. The federal losses are still unknown and detailed reports are lacking.

Town Recovered.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14. — The occupation by Federal forces of the town of Tehuacan, State of Puebla, was officially confirmed on Sunday.

Forces under General Martinez entered the town at seven o'clock on Saturday evening without firing a single shot. The rebels hurriedly withdrew toward Esperanza.

An official bulletin issued by the War Department this afternoon contains the following report received from General Martinez, dated Tehuacan:

"I arrived at Tehuacan about 7 o'clock without firing a single shot. The enemy hurriedly retreated towards Esperanza. The cavalry which advanced on my left flank clashed with the enemy at Hacieda Del Carmen and along the railway between Tehuacan and Esperanza about 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. I ordered General Almazan to withdraw to Carnero during the night considering it improper to pursue the enemy owing to the difficult terrain I have sent a train to bring General Almazan for a conference and to render a detailed report of the operations he carried on.

"Three trains, occupied entirely by women, left yesterday for Oazaca. I was informed by the station master at nine o'clock this morning that he had been told by the train despatcher at Oaxaca that the town had been attacked. Half an hour later he reported that the government palace was being stormed, and also that all the railway employees were abandoning their posts. I am making an effort to obtain details concerning the happeings at Oaxaca."

EXTREMISTS UNLIKELY TO GET CABINET POSTS

Ramsay MacDonald Reported To Have No Intention of Including Them. Agitation To Frustrate Labour Persists.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—In the short period now intervening before the expected battle in the new House of Commons, the most notable feature of the situation observable is the persistence of the agitation to prevent Labor from forming a new government, or, failing that, to make sure that such a government, once it is formed shall have the shortest possible life.

The latest effort in this direction has been to seize upon pending industrial disputes to afford justifiable grounds for retaining the present government in power. The argument being employed is that in the presence of such a disturbing factor as a big railway strike, a new Labor administration might find its hand forced by the extremist sections of the Labor Party to the injury of the public interests and that therefore safety lies in the retention of the Baldwin administration. This argument clearly is addressed to the Liberal Party, which, with the Conservatives, would have the power to overthrow a Labor Government.

Asquith Unchanged.

It is impossible to say how far the argument appeals to the Liberal rank and file, but as far as Herbert H. Asquith and the other responsible Liberals are concerned, it is believed there has been no change in their views on the situation and that the fall of the Baldwin ministry will come quickly, perhaps next Thursday, the date already predicted for its downfall.

Without doubt big Labor disputes would embarrass a new Labor government, but thus far Ramsay MacDonald, who would be the new premier, is currently reported as having no intention to give representation to the extremistis in his cabinet, if it is formed. He is said to be showing no timidity in this respect, and there are predictions that his indifference to the influence of the extremists of his party will bring about his downfall.

Might Live Long.

Noticeable among the Labor leaders is the firm belief that a Labor Government would have a much longer life than it is generally assumed it would. The motive for this confidence is the knowledge that, being limited in its activities to quite moderate measures, differing little from the general principles of the Liberal programme, there would be no excuse for the Liberals combining with the Conservatives to unseat a Labor Government.

While the past week has seen no change in the actual situation of affairs, it seems at the same time certain that the quite unofficial movement for bringing about a sort of fusion of the Conservative and Liberal Parties against the Labor Party, which is regarded with extreme suspicion in the Labor ranks, is making headway and winning new important recruits. It is considered unlikely, however, that the fusion will see fruition until after Labor is in the saddle.

NORWOOD VETERAN GETS POST OFFICE

W. Griffin of the Union Bank Staff Named For Position.

NORWOOD, Jan. 14.— Mr. W. (Pete) Griffin, accountant in the local branch of the Union Bank, has received the appointment of postmaster for the local post office. Mr. Griffin, who has a long war record, came to Norwood shortly after the armistice was signed and during his stay here has made a very favorable impression on the citizens, who will be pleased to hear of his appointment to this responsible position.

WILL CONTINUE WEEK OF PRAYER

Lakefield Churches Find Beneficial Results And Men Ask For Extension of the Services.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 12. — The week of prayer services held this week have been so helpful and so well attended that it has been decided at the earnest wish of some of the men to continue them next week. The theme will be the Privileges and Responsibilities of a Church Member, and the object is to intensify the spiritual life of the community.

There will be a Young People's Rally in the Methodist church on Tuesday night and it is expected that there will be a good representation from the three churches. The services on Monday and Tuesday evenings will be held in the Methodist church; on Wednesday evening in the Presbyterian church, and on Thursday and Friday evenings in the Baptist church.

The results of the week of prayer services are very graitfying to all, and the evidences of religious awakening are evident in spite of the religious "whisper of death" which tells us that religion is a back number. This morbid viewpoint should be thoroughly scotched and the religious life of the community be better by more general church attendance.

On Sunday there will be a general exchange of pulpits, which will preface the second week of prayer.

Rev. P. L. Jull will be in the Baptist church in the morning, and the Methodist church at night. Rev. C. S. Reddick will be in the Presbyterian church in the morning and the Baptist church at night, and Rev. T. L. White will be in the Methodist church in the morning and the Presbyterian at night.

Mothers Should Not NEGLECT BRONCHITIS In the Babies

Mrs. E. Langdon, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"My baby had bronchitis when he was two weeks old, he recovered from the attack but took it again, several months later, and on account of the severity I was almost panic-stricken to know what to do for him. My mother advised me to try Dr. Woods' Norway Pine Syrup, as she had used it for several years with splendid results.

I got a bottle, and after I had used it I could see a decided improvement in him; after several bottle he was completely relieved.

My boy is now two years old, and he has never had an attack of bronchitis since.

As a mother, raising a family, I am very grateful to know that I have found a real remedy for bad colds and bronchitis, as it lifts care and anxiety from an anxious mother's shoulders."

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS ESTABLISHED MARKET POSITION

Industry Of The Province Will Never Reach Low Ebb Again Says Minister Of Lands. Need More People.

Has Been Provident.

OTTAWA, January 13. Canadian Press. — British Columbia has now established its position in the market of the world and never again will its industry reach the low ebb which marked the critical years in its early life when the wealth of its resources caused a period of reckless waste and culpable exploitation.

In these words Hon. T. D. Patullo, Minister of Lands in the British Columbia cabinet, for the last eight years, sized up the position of the province in the financial world when addressing the Canadian Club here yesterday.

One impression the Hon. Mr. Patullo was most anxious to correct. It had been charged against the administrators of the province that the expense per capita was unnecessarily high—higher than that in any other province. We admit, he said, that the character of our land—the huge mountains, waterways, and deep valleys make for scattered settlements. Much money has to be expended on the building and the upkeep of roads and bridges. But as to wastefulness and extravagance—there is none.

"The bond houses know,' said the Minister, "and what do they think of British Columbia? No bonds command a better price. As a matter of fact," said Mr. Patullo, "British Columbia has not only not been wasteful, but has actually been more provident in the matter of looking after her debt than all the other provinces put together, with the exception of Ontario. And although the debt of Ontario is four times that of British Columbia, the sinking fund in the Pacific Province is greater by three millions than that of Ontario."

Mr. Patullo's address was inspiringly loyal. He acknowledged a deep reverence for the province of his birth, Ontario, but had to admit having given his heart to British Columbia. "It does not become us to be over-boastful," he said, "but in my humble opinion no greater honor can befall any people than that enjoyed by us who can stand before the multitude and say 'I am a Canadian.'"

"One thing we need in Canada," he continued, "is more people. We are capable of absorbing 300,000 a year. These men who are to help build up the country must be of the type who will make good Canadian citizens. I would not have a man forget the layalty due to the country of his birth. He would be a poor citizen of this country who could so soon forget his; but we must instill into national life a strong spirit of Canadianism."

In addition to more people, the speaker urged the great need for the raising of stock. In British Columbia, in particular, there was ample room and feed. There are now, he said, 200,000 ehad of stock in British Columbia; but this number is so far short of the demand that over 160,000 are annually imported. The same situation holds with regard to sheep of which there are only about 50,000 in British Columbia, whereas in New Zealand, which is only one third the area of the Pacific Province, there are 24 millions.

FIRPO STARTS TRAINING.

BUENOS AYRES, January 14 (Canadian Press). —Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight fighter, has started training for his coming fights with Farmer Lodge and Erminio Spalla.

To-day he is to have his first workout with the negro, Galvin Respress, who was brought to Buenos Ayres from the United States by Firpo.

According to the present arrangements, Firpo will meet Lodge during the first fortnight in February, and Spalla during the second fortnight in February.

ONE NEW FACE IN HASTINGS COUNCIL

Sam Hatherley Replaces A. E. Chapman Who Resigned When Nominated.

HASTINGS, Jan. 12. — When Reeve W. M. Fowlds and his new council is sworn into office on Monday, Jan. 14th., at 11 o'clock one of last year's council will be missing.

Mr. A. E. Chapman who sat on the right of the Reeve will be missing as he resigned when the nominations were held and Mr. Samuel Hatherly takes his place by acclamation.

This is Reeve Fowlds last year in Public life in Hastings, and as the Warden's position falls to Northumberland County it is nearly Hastings' time to have this honor at this office has never been held by any Hastings' Reeve.

The Hastings Old Boys re-union will be held here this summer and Reeve Fowlds would made a capable warden as he is a man of good business qualities.

Company Seeks Loan

At the nomination meeting held in Brighton the Bodin Manufacturing Company had a representative here to address the ratepayers re locating in Brighton.

This is the same firm which visited Hastings some months ago and the council went to the trouble to draft out an agreement and send it to the Bodin Manufacturing Co they in turn returned this agreement with another one they had drawn up in which the town council had not the same security.

This firm asked for a grant of $10,000 from our town and in return would furnish a bond for a like amount which they did not do and the council turned the whole matter down.

Debt is Low

Hastings has a debenture debt of $16,000 at present and seems to have its name on the map as every two or three months some representative of a factory calls on the council in regard to starting a factory of the town would give them a grant.

A number of public meetings have been called in Hastings in the last five years re Industries locating here and it is often the smallest tax payer, who is in favor of making these grants.

About three years ago Hastings had a factory proposition put up to them and some of the merchants will always remember this as these people bought some goods from our merchants and they have never received their pay.

The council is elected to look after the interests of the ratepayers and they are to be congratulated with the good judgment they have used in late years.

The Living Voice of CARUSO and all the Pageantry of Song of AIDA

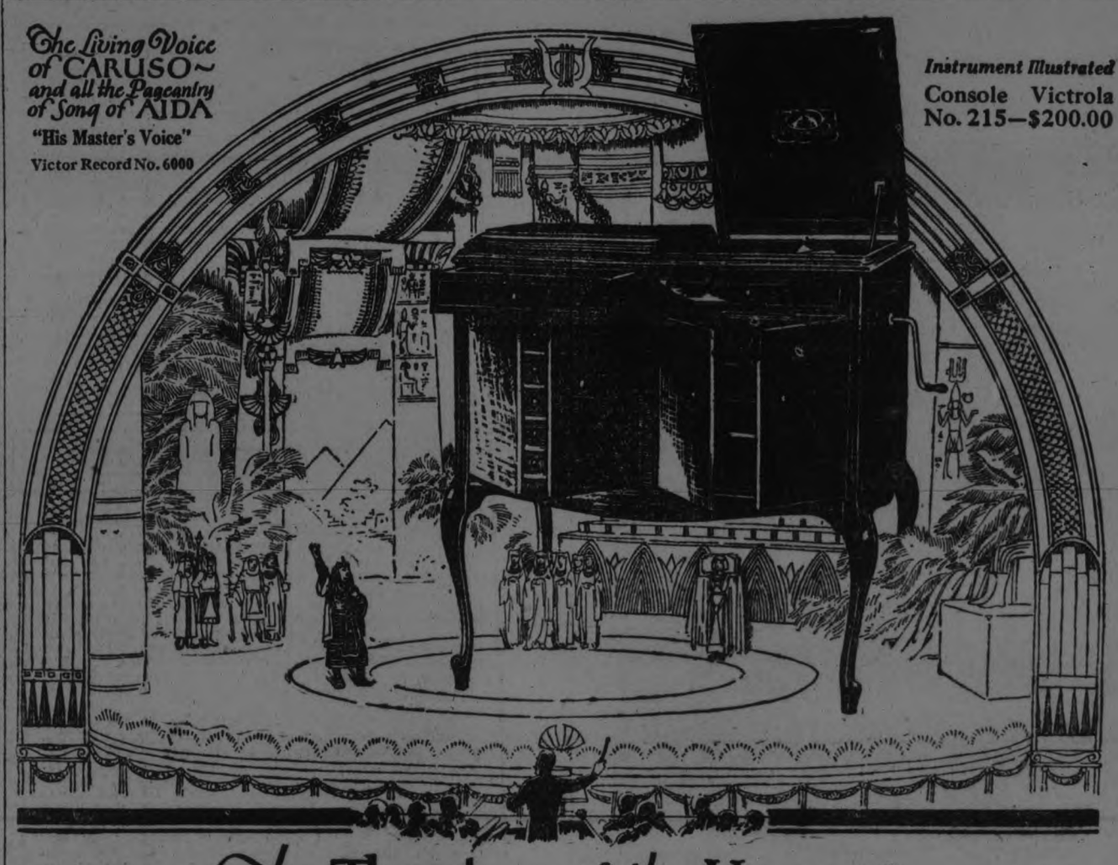
"His Master's Voice"

Victor Record No. 6000

Instrument Illustrated
Console Victrola No. 215—$200.00



"The Theatre of the Home"

The stage is set, the performers ready. Your mood this evening calls for the inspiring strains of Verdi. Suddenly you hear Caruso singing "Celeste Aida"—(Heavenly Aida)—clear, sweet, vibrant, real as life itself. For the moment you sit in an orchestra seat at the opera—with all its pomp and pageantry.

Then perhaps you long for the sweet strains of "The Last Rose of Summer"—and as the soft clear notes of Elman's violin sound in your ears, you can all but see him draw his bow across the magic strings.

But whether it be Caruso, or Elman, or the boom of Sousa's band, or the latest happy-go-lucky dance hit,—"HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola and "HIS MASTER'S VOICE"-VICTOR Records prove their superiority by making you forget the man-made reproduction and remember only the sensation of having living artists and real musical instruments—a few feet beyond the chair in which you sit.

And by virtue of such masterly performance "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola is the standard by which all instruments are judged. Often this causes many to refer to all instruments as Victrolas but for your own best interests as well as ours, remember there is only one real genuine Victrola—and that bears our famous trade-mark "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" under the lid. Be very careful to see that it is on the instrument you buy.

Why "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" VICTROLA dominates!

The Victrola goose-neck supports the sound box, allowing it full play. It takes the weight off the needle point, making for flexibility and consequently produces that unequalled exactness of tone for which "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola is pre-eminent; at the same time preserving the record from wear because of the very light weight pressure upon the needle. This is but one of the many features that combine to make "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola—incomparably best.

Important!

BABY LULLABIES ARE CONDEMNED WOMAN'S SONG UNDER GALLOWS

Jail Guards Becoming Unnerved by the Continuous Crooning of Italian Equivalent for 'Rock a Bye Baby."

TO FORGET DOOM.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—With weird incantation through the condemned chambers of the death house here resound the sibilant echoes of a discordant lullaby as Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle lulls herself with the opiate of song to meet the hangman's near embrace.

Dumpy and squat and with no redeeming gift of grace, the dumb-like little peasant woman marks time for the grim reaper soon to claim her on the scaffold in jury-meted penalty for murdering "her man."

Her dilemma presents an anomaly of tragedy since she is but a creature of primitive physical instincts and seemingly incapable of mentally measuring the great cup of grief set in store by the law.

Realities alone interest her. Nor has a long heredity of habits as a hard-working housewife been set aside.

Works to Forget Doom

Each day, at her own request, she finds outlet for the troubling yoke of the death-watch by washing white the flagons of her cell and meticulously dusting the wire meshing separating quarters of the doomed from those of ordinary prisoners.

But through the livelong hours

Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle

nd, sometimes far into the night, hat crooning melody garnered from he folksong 'ore of her native Italian owlands rises with plaintive jeer gainst the jail walls and ceiling to ome hurtling back like a battered ird seeking escape from the dank arkness within.

This same snatch of melody the ondemned woman in years gone by as wont to sing beside the cradle f her babies. Today it is her only olace—a monotonous echoed intonation seized upon as memory's sole ontribution to "cheer the way."

Thus in her ineffable plight has he been made doubly pathetic as a reature void of expression, vainly ndeavoring to communicate with utsiders what is going on behind the ussy twist of hair and swarthy row so seamed and crinkled with premature marks of age.

Translated, the gushing torrent of music bears resemblance to the English version of "Rock-a-Bye Baby, in the Tree Top." Forever it floats about the jail exterior where anxious guards are becoming unnerved by the serenade.

But Mrs. Nitti sings on.

Only occasionally does she talk and then in breath-sucking monotones to hiss between half-parted lips: "Me no strangl-a. Me no strangl-a."

At times she has expressed appreciation of the comparative benefits resulting from confinement.

Life before was hard. Married at 14 to a peasant 20 years her senior and brought soon to scramble for a living in America, she seems thankful for the better jail fare with occasional time for play, recreation and with no worry now for poverty nor endurance of bitter cold.

Looking into her leathery face and at the warped figure, one wonders at the murderous plot with young Peter Crudelle, who is under sentence with her.

"Me no look nothing," she says in the little English she has learned since coming to prison.

This absence of appeal to the eye, in her mind, is the reason why the jury brought in the verdict of guilty for the murder of her husband, Frank Nitti.

Song Is Her Balm

Except for the half-realized dread of "strangl-a" and the separation from her "babees," Sabelle would call the jail a refuge.

She has erased the physical tragedy of surroundings with her song.

Seemingly, it has beaten down the sharpest pangs of memory and dread of what has been ordained.

However, the common guess, both inside and outside the jail, is that she never will be executed.

The only other women ever sentenced to death in Illinois, 27 years ago, escaped the penalty.

But Sabelle's eyes see dangling over her the sword of Damocles as plainly as ever did a king.

Gripped with physical panic she is powerless to philosophize.

Nor does it make much difference to her that legions of her own sex, drawn from welfare agencies and civic clubs, are bearing succor to secure a commutation to life imprisonment.

"Me no kill any man," she moans. "And they strangl-a me."

A hoarse shriek follows the utterance.

Then comes once more the singsong monotonous melody.

Sabelle is dispersing her fears and grief once more.

FAIR PLAY FOR THE LABOR MAN

Outlook and Review Make a Plea For British Labour Party.

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—Fair play for the labor party is, in effect, urged by two weekly reviews which by no stretch of the imagination could be accused of sympathy for socialism.

"We are told by a paper with a large circulation that the end of all things is at hand of the King, Baldwin and Asquith do not get together and keep labor out," declares the Outlook. "It is surely time that this sort of thing came to an end. There is an ancient and honored tradition in England that government should have fair play and if ever there was a time for suspending judgment and giving incoming ministers a chance to make good it is now. The less we like a labor cabinet the more careful we ought to be, even on lower party grounds as well as from considerations of patriotism, to afford it every opportunity to do the most good and the least harm it can."

While more critical of the labor party's intentions the Saturday Review "entirely refuses to take a tragic view of the present moment as believe that the destinies of the world really depend on what happens at Westminster in the next few months." The Review adds: "These cries of the panic-mongers cause timid people to sell out some investments and put their money in foreign stocks which is a stupid and cowardly policy. It will rather result in the enlistment of a certain amount of sympathy for the labor party by these Englishmen who persistently look upon everything from the viewpoint of cricket and want to see fair play."

LIQUIDATORS AFTER A DOUBLE LIABILITY

TORONTO, Jan. 14. — Another and very important step in the legal proceedings against the shareholders of the Home Bank was taken on Saturday when formal printed summons with list of names of contributories attached thereto, was sent by registered mail to every one of the 1800 or more shareholders notifying them to show cause, either personally or through a lawyer, on or before Feb. 13, 1924, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, why they should not pay up amounts unpaid on their shares, and also double amount in addition, known as double liability.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE MYSTERY SOLVED

"If we get the sleepy sand o ut of everybody's eyes, wouldn't that wak en them?"

As Daddy Gander said afterwards, he could scarcely believe his own eyes. For there in the kitchen cupboard stood every pumpkin pie that Peter had made, and every mince and apple and lemon pie that Missez John had made, and the extra big one that the Bakerman had made and marked with J, and all the cookies and cakes and ice cream and everything. Right in the house that Jack built!

The Sandman stood looking, and so did the Twins and Daddy Gander, not one of them able to believe his eyes. For as truly as I tell you, not half an hour before the cupboard had been as empty as a refrigerator on Sunday night.

"I must be losing either my senses or my eye-sight!" gasped Daddy Gander.

"Well," said the Sandman, "I'll be losing my job, if I don't get these people awake and home to bed where I can put them to sleep properly. Whoever would have thought of my sand bag opening up that way, and all that sand flying over here?" And he looked at Missez John Jack's mother, sound asleep against the kitchen sink. How happy she would have been to know that all her pies were safe!

"Don't you know any magic way of waking people up?" asked Daddy Gander.

"No, I don't," declared the Sandman hopelessly.

"If only Mother Goose doesn't come home before we get everything straightened out!" sighed Daddy.

It was Nancy who had an idea. Her little brain had been thinking and thinking. "Say, Mister Sand-man, if we get the sleepy sand out of everybody's eyes, wouldn't that waken them?"

"You're just right it would, young lady, but how? That's the question."

"If Daddy Gander takes his magic dustpan—you know how you do it, Daddy Gander. If dust or sand comes anywhere near your dustpan, it flies right to it and sticks. Couldn't you wave it around and get all the sleepy sand out of everybody's eyes."

"Well, I declare!" cried Daddy Gander. "Of course I can! Funny I didn't think of it before. Here! Where did I leave that dustpan of mine? Oh, there it is."

And without another word he waved it around and said a charm and everybody woke up with a jump. The first thing Missez John saw was the pies. "Good lands! Where did they come from?" she cried.

At that minute Nick came up the cellar stairs two at a time. "That isn't a cupboard you put the pies and cakes into, mother," he said, "it was the dump-waiter that goes up and down to the cellar. They were so heavy they made it go down and you only saw the empty shelves. And when I fell asleep in the cellar I must have bumped it and made it come up again."

So the party ended just right. And when they were all home again, the Sandman put them all to sleep in the proper style. Then away he went in his cloud boat up to the sky where he lived.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE COMING DEBATE.

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER.

Sir: On January 22 there takes place in Carnegie Hall, new York City, a great debate between a champion of the Modernists and a champion of the Old Faith. This debate is to be the climax of the bitter warfare in the U. S. over the inspiration of the Bible.

The two champions are ministers and the modernist represents the great body of leading theologians, professors and Biblical scholars of the colleges, seminaries and religious institutions of that country. The contest is supposed to settle, as such contests used to do in the warfare of armies, the rightness or wrongness of the modernist contention that the Bible is not the inspired word of God and of the contention of the adherents of the Old Faith.

One would think that ministers who have an idea that they can set the what God has said or done or has not said or done must have gone "daft," as the Scotch say. But that is their idea all the same, and excitement over the approaching combat is at more than fever heat. Apart from the madness and foolishness of the modernist idea that their view of the Scriptures, which ranks them practically as fairy tales, and Christ as an ordinary individual liable to error, and often actually guilty of error—may we have the modernists to give the people in lieu of the Old Faith? Nothing but the idea that God is no longer a being who has revealed Himself to man, but a mysterious influence about whom men may philosophise, but about whom nothing certain is known.

This idea leaves a future life as a very doubtful proposition, and one which ranks with Buddhism as a matter of speculation instead of one of revelation. The Catholic Church has nothing to do with modernism. The Pope put his foot on it in that church at the very beginning. It has remained for Protestantism to declare that science has shown that the Bible is not true and cannot be the word of omniscient being. We see, therefore, how much depends upon this momentous conflict. It means the abolition of Christianity and the substitution for it of the thoughts and ideas of people who surely cannot pretend to know anything about the matter for a certainty at all. This movement amongst modernist ministers regarding the Bible is greatly aided and abetted by the movement of those who are dealing with morals and the moral conduct of the individual, which used to be considered as bound up with religion—in fact, they were formerly supposed to be so closely united as to be one and the same. People could not be moral or do what they ought do as people unless animated by a desire to look to God and Christ as the source of inspiration in those particulars.

But a body of public opinion modernly grew up which said: "God has not put it beyond the power of people to sin. He punishes people only after they have sinned. This plan is no good. We will take away the power to sin by removing all objects which may be used for that purpose (such as alcohol, tobacco, etc.)." This declaration opened up an entirely new and "modern" view of life and of the duties of man, a view which did not and could not come from God, who, if He had believed in it, could have ordained it from the beginning. The new movement of the people in this particular meant a complete overthrow of the old idea that we could save ourselves only by behaving ourselves under divine guidance, and not by blaming the things that God has made—and, therefore, actually blaming God Himself.

In this popular movement, strange to say, many Catholics of eminence took part, not being apparently that they were doing with God's created things exactly what modernist Protestant ministers are doing with the Bible—denying the presence and control of a provident God in life and in the universe. Likely, the Pope will pronounce on the modernist popular movement as he did upon the modernist movement amongst his clergy regarding the Bible. He will, perhaps, say that those people who find fault with what God has made or provided a way for us to make are astray. This way, the view, I think, that Cardinal Gibbons took. However, the point I wish to make is that Protestant ministers and people of all beliefs have united to brush aside the Bible, and the presence of God in nature. Who will win? Personally, I have the boldness to think that God will win. If He does not He will have to join the prohibitionists and abolish many of the things He has made and, indeed, perhaps He will have to revise the Bible. That both matters are being fought to a finish we all know.

Modernist ministers and modernist people are very determined and are likely to hang on with all the tenacity of those who know they are wrong, but won't give in. But you will ask how did modernists (both people and ministers) come to get into this mix-up regarding God in revelation and God in creation? How did it come about that the pulpit and the pew struck out so boldly and at the same time, although at different objects? The best opinion on that score seems to be that the modernist ministers got too big for their boots and that the people made up their minds that God had been trifling with the sin question too long, and that they would take it in hand. The idea of switching things away from people so that they cannot harm themselves overlooks the fact that man is supposed to have a soul and that he is not like animals or babies which we are accustomed to treat so. What is called by such people the plain, practical and horrible view of life overlooks the fact that, unlike animals, man has to fight the good fight, and that it depends upon himself, under Christ and upon us, our conduct whether he goes to Heaven or to hell, and not upon the kind offices of other people, whose sole duty is to keep their own skirts clean if they can. So that we may say both movements proceeded from the same cause—a loss of faith and a loss of the belief in a soul.

We need not fear, however, except for ourselves. It is time the world is going to the bad as fast as it can under the new bosses, but the Maker of the universe can't be so easily set aside as all that. We can only hope that those who have lost their faith will live long enough to regain it. It might be wise for them to cling to the old Bible, and, if I may say it, with all reverence also to the old God.

"I'd even sleep in the studio, but have made one concession to my poor family. They're not reconciled, but, after all, I am twenty-four—and spent two years in France. I have had three orders for portraits—friends of the family, of course. I must be content with 'pull' until I am taken seriously as an artist. If I can only exhibit at the next Academy I shall feel full-fledged."

"And what of your new circle?"

"I've been to several parties and enjoyed myself hugely. Some of them get pretty tight, but I've seen people tighter at house parties and not nearly so amusing. And then Gora and Suzan! I've never liked any women as well. . . . This is the first dinner of the old sort I've been to since I started."

"Ah?" asked Clavering absently. "Why the exception?"

"Well, you see, I am tremendously intrigue, like everyone else. I'd met her several times at home, and she came one day to my studio, where the Sophisticates made the most tremendous fuss over her. But I was curious to see her in her own old home, where she had reigned so long ago as Mary Ogden. Mother told me that everything was unchanged except the stair carpet and her bedroom." Her tone was lightly impersonal, and still more so as she added: "Why don't you write a novel about her, Lee? She must be the most remarkable psychological study of the age. Fancy living two lifetimes in the same body. It puts reincarnation to the blush. I suppose she'll bury us all."

Clavering shot her a sharp investigating glance, but replied suavely: "Not necessarily. The same road is open to all of you."

Miss Good rich had never looked

"Miss Goodrich finished, but accepted his score calmly. 'Oh, I shall marry, of course. But then, you see, I am young—really young.'" more the fine and dignified representative of her class as she lifted her candid eyes with an expression of disdain.

"My dear Lee! Really! There are some women above that sort of thing."

"Above? I don't think I follow you. But of course she's given hide-bound conservation a pretty hard jolt."

"It's not that—really. But all women growing old and trying to be or to look young again are rather undignified—according to our standards at least, and I have been brought up in the belief that they are the highest in the world. And then, one's sense of humor——"

"Humor? Is that what you call it? (Damn all women for cats, the best of them. Anne!)

"Why, yes, isn't it rather absurd—for more reasons than one? To my mind it is the complete farce. She has regained the appearance—and—possibly—the real feeling of youth, with all its capacity for enthusiasm and unworn emotions—it seems rather ludicrous, but still it may be; certainly the interior should be in some degree a match for that marvelously restored face and body—but the whole thing is made farcical by the fact that she never can have children. And what else does youth in women really mean?"

"Experience has taught me that it means quite a number of other things. And painting portraits is not fulfilling the first and highest duty of womanhood, dear Anne."

Miss Goodrich flushed, but accepted his score calmly. "Oh, I shall marry, of course. But then, you see, I am young—really young."

"What are you two quarreling about?" broke in Miss Lawrence's husky voice. She had smoked steadily since taking her seat at the table, not so much because she had an irresistible passion for tobacco as because it destroyed her appetite and preserved her figure. "I haven't seen Anne blush like that since she got back from France."

"I was just telling her how beautiful she looked tonight...." And angry as he was, it amused him to hear Anne's little gasp of pleasure.

"Yes, doesn't she?" Miss Lawrence blew a ring and smiled sweetly. "I've always been jealous of Anne. She's such a beautiful height. I'm so glad the giraffes of the last generation seem to have died out. Too bad, when Madame Zattiany rejuvenated herself, she didn't slice off a few inches. She dwarfs even men of your height, although, of course, you are really taller. But then tall women——" She shrugged her shoulders, her crisp voice softened and she went on as if thinking aloud. "Do you know . . . to me she does not look young at all. I have a fancy she's hypnotized every one but myself. I seem to see an old woman with a colossal will. . . . But I'd like to know the name of that whitewash she uses. It may come in handy some day. Not for another ten years, though. Oh, Lee! it's good to be really young and not have to be flattened out on a table under broiling X-Rays and have your poor old feminine department cranked up. . . . I wonder just how adventurous men are?"

But Clavering, although seething, merely smiled. He knew himself to be like the man who has had a virulent attack of smallpox and is immune for the rest of his life. Nevertheless, he would cheerfully have twisted her neck. She was holding that slim lily-like throat up for his inspection, a cigarette between her thin scarlet lips as she looked at him over her shoulder. At sixteen she could not have been more outwardly unblemished, and she emanated a heady essence. Her long green eyes met his keen satiric ones with melting langour. But she said unexpectedly:

"I hear she's going to marry Mr. Osborne, mother's old beau—or is that Mr Dinkwiddle? How can one strighten out those old - timers But it would be quite appropriate if she must marry—and I suppose she's dying to; but I notice she hasn't asked either of them tonight. I suppose it makes her feel younger to surround herself with young people. It certainly makes me feel frightfully young—— I mean she does."

'Do you think it good manners to discuss your hostess at her own table?'

"Oh, manners! You'll always be a Southerner, Lee. New York has always prided itself on its bad manners. That is the real source of our strength.'

"Pretty poor prop. It seems to me a sign of congenital weakness."

"Oh, we never defend ourselves. By theway, I hear Jim Oglethorpe rushed poor little Janet ot to Egypt because he found her in your rooms and you refused to marry her. You've not such a gallant Southerner, after all——"

"What a lie! Who on earth started such a yarn?" But he turned cold and his hand shook a little as he raised his wine glass.

"It's all over town, and people think you really ought to marry her. Of course, those ridiculous little flappers don't care whether they are talked about or not, but their families do. I hear that old Mrs. Oglethorpe is quite ill over the scandel, and she always swore by you."

"Mrs. Oglethorpe, I happen to know, as I dined there last night was never better and is delighted with the idea that Jim has taken Janet abroad to get her away from that rotten crowd."

She looked nonplussed, but returned to the charge. "How stories do get about! They even say that he horsewhipped you——"

"Pray don't overtax your powers of invention. You know there's no such story going about or everybody her would have cut me dead. Try another tack."

INDIA MAY BE A TEST FOR LABOUR.

Joseph Wedgwood Will Probably Be The New Secretary To India.

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—Joseph Wedgwood, who cabinet-makers and liberal papers today declare, will probably be secretary for India in the event of labor forming a ministry, speaking at the University-labor federation conference in Toynbee Hall Saturday night, said the labor party would welcome the assumption by the self-governing Dominions of further responsibilities in foreign and well as domestic affairs of the Empire.

Labor, continued Col. Wedgwood, regarded emigration as an invaluable outlet for British people. They only opposed the assumption that emigration would solve unemployment. They did not wish emigration to be utilized as a means of supplying cheap labor to planters and manufacturers in the colonies.

India would provide the test of a labor government, said the speaker. The labor party hoped to overcome the difficulty by accelerating the conversion of India into a self-governing dominion. This depended, not merely on matters of finance, defence and international order, but on winning the Indian nationalists to the view that they must meet the labor government half-way. Self-glovernment must be restrained in the various colonies until the people are fit for self-government. The question of developing trade and industries in these countries must be regulated by knowledge. The aim of the labor party was a British Commonwealth of people of various colors—a free union of free peoples.

Royal Bank Annual Meeting Marks Close of Successful Year

Sir Herbert Holt, President, Takes View That Canada Has Great Deal on Which to be Congratulated--Very Large Gain in Canada's Trade With Countries Served by Bank--Urgency For Continuance of Aggressive Policy of Immigration.

C. E. Neil, General Manager, Draws Attention to Thorough System of Supervision of Credits at All Points--Bank Has 65,000 Direct Borrowers in Canada, With Average Loan of Only $4,080--Warm Tribute to Efficiency of Staff--Fifty Million Dollar Gain in Deposits.

The fifty-fifth annual meeting of shareholders of The Royal Bank of Canada, held at the head office, not only marked the close of a particularly successful year, but was also featured by important and interesting announcements in the addresses of Sir Herbert Holt, the President, and C. E. Neill, the General Manager.

Sir Herbert, in moving the adoption of the annual report, stated that the year had been marked by what he hoped would be the final adjustments of the period of depression—adjustments in which he was glad to say the bank had not been deeply concerned, except insofar as the country's general business was affected. He pointed out that the results of Canada's foreign trade during the year had been gratifying, the surplus of exports over imports having amounted to $107,351,000.

In summing up the situation, Sir Herbert said, "I believe that increased immigration, the development and conservation of our natural resources, the protection of our industries and reduction of our excessive taxes, will within a few years bear fruit in prosperity for us all, leaving the events of the past few years as experiences to guide our steps in the future."

Growth of Bank

Charles E. Neill, the general manager, in his address, dealt more particularly with the growth and expansion of the bank. He submitted details of the very thorough manner in which all credits of the bank are supervised. Of special interest was a reference to the very widespread business now being handled throughout the entire Dominion, as indicated by the fact that the bank now has 65,000 direct borrowers in Canada, with an average loan of only $4,080.

Reviewing the revision of the Bank Act, Mr. Neill stated that the record of banking in Canada, as compared with other countries, was undoubtedly satisfactory. He knew of no case in a well-managed bank where the directors or officers had used the bank or its resources in any way for their personal advantage. As a matter of fact, in most cases directors of Canadian banks asumed great responsibilities, giving their time and experience in the interest of the bank and the advantage of the public, without adequate remuneration or gain to themselves.

Before concluding, Mr. Neill paid a warm tribute to the officers and staff, saying, "As the executive head of the bank, I could not wish for a more efficient staff, and I desire further to place on record the statement that if I, as executive head, have achieved any measure of success in furthering your interests, it is due to the loyal support I have received from all ranks of the staff, especially those senior officers with whom I come in daily contact."

President's Address

Sir Herbert Holt, president, in his address to shareholders, said in part:

"The situation in Canada has been a varied one. In the West a record wheat crop of about 450,000,000 bushels was harvested. Alberta, which perhaps stood most in need of a good crop, was fortunate in producing 160,000,000, possibly 175,000,000, bushels of high average grade. Section of Saskatchewan, and more especially of Manitoba, suffered from sevére lack of rain, and the average quality of their wheat was lowered by rust. In spite of these defects and of continued low prices, the gross receipts from the crop in the West will be very large. The net return will not by any means suffice to place the farmers on their feet again, but it will assist in reducing their obligations, and is bound to result in larger purchases after years of restriction in this respect. Increased activity in western business which was expected to follow hard on the harvest did not materialize to any extent, but since the middle of December there has been considerable sectional improvement.

"The situation of the farmers in the West clearly shows that they must adopt mixed and more scientific farming and not depend wholly on grain, principally wheat, which is so subject to rust and climatic conditions. However, until the change can be made it is to the wheat crop that we must look for prosperity. A reduction of 5,759,000 acres in the area planted to winter wheat in the United States is encouraging for Canada. Eventually I expect to see the United States producing only enough wheat to supply their domestic needs, leaving Canada, already the leading exporter of the world, as the sole exporter from North America. I am confident that before long better conditions will prevail in the West; in the meantime the farmers' troubles must have our full sympathetic consideration and assistance. The situation in regard to agricultural credits will be referred to by the general manager.

Need For Larger Population

"Notwithstanding the increase which has already taken place in our immigration figures, the pressing need of the country is for a larger population, and the campaign for immigrants should continue to be conducted with vigor. Fortunately the Government is adopting an aggressive immigration policy, and admirable work is being done by certain private organizations. The distress in Europe affords an opportunity of securing settlers of the best type. The newcomers should receive every encouragement and must be regarded not as competitors in our labor market, but as citizens whose requirements will stimulate employment in home industries and whose work will aid in developing our natural resources.

"Coming back again to our own Canadian situation, I cannot but feel that we have a great deal to congratulate ourselves on. We are not unduly prosperous, but it is certain that it was no poor country which subscribed so generously to the recent highly successful Dominion Government loan. We will come into our own when the tide of Immigration again turns strongly towards our shores, bringing with it the long-sought for country-wide development. Here is the only solution of our railroad problem and the most satisfactory solution of the taxation problem. But in the inteval of marking time there is no question that continued retrenchment is called for. As a country we have discounted our earning capacity to the margin of safety and it is to be hoped that the Government will bear in mind that the situation renders imperative a rigid adherence to spending on real necessities alone, in order that our excessive taxes may be reasonably reduced in the near future. Otherwise we will retard the influx of new citizens and capital, which are so essential to our progress and which will seek other countries where taxation is less burdensome."

Review by General Manager

C. E. Neill, General Manager, in reviewing the annual statement, said in part:—

"As regards our business in Canada, conditions on the whole have been reasonably satisfactory. A bountiful harvest has resulted in considerable liquidation of agricultural loans and an increase in deposits in farming communities. The demand for lumber has been good, and the heavy stocks which accumulated for several years after the war, have been cleaned out, unfortunately in many cases, at a substantial loss. However, the situation is now much healthier. The pulp and paper industry, which is such a great factor in our exports, is prospering. The mineral production of the country shows a steady growth and the outlook is most promising, especially as regards the gold mines in Northern Ontario and Quebec. Our fisheries have not shared in the general prosperity, but recently prices appear to be improving slightly. Commercial failures during the past year were less than during the previous year, and on the whole the outlook is encouraging.

"There has been another profitable sugar crop in Cuba and other West Indian Islands, and I am glad to say that the general improvement we looked for has been fully realized. I am also pleased to report a substantial increase in our deposits in Cuba, and that on the whole, our business there continues to develop to our satisfaction.

Thorough System of Inspection

"With regard to our widely distributed business, we are often asked how it is possible to supervise from Montreal our branches in distant countries, and not only in these countries, but even in Canada. In the circular which each shareholder received, giving particulars of the attendance of Directors of the Bank at Board meetings, it was explained that in addition to the Directors at Montreal, there are committees of the Board at Toronto, Halifax, Winnipeg and Quebec. The directors at these points meet regularly and consider with the senior local executive officers credits originating in, and other matters pertaining to, the business of the district. For the purposes of supervision, Canada is divided into six districts, viz.: Quebec, Ontario, Maritime Provinces, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Our business in each of these districts is supervised by an executive officer of experience, assisted by a staff of competent inspectors. Credits are submitted to the Supervisors by local managers, and after proper investigation by the former, are either authorized by the local Directors, or, if in excess of a specified amount, forwarded to Montreal. All credits authorized by local Directors are submitted to Montreal for confirmation.

"At Head Office our General Credit Department is divided into sections to correspond with the Supervisors' districts. Before submission to or Directors, every credit recommended by the Supervisors is carefully investigated by the credit officials at Head Office, and when finally passed upon, the Directors and senior executive officials have the benefit of the views of the local manager, the District Supervisor and the Head Office Credit Department.

"The organization which we consider it advisable to maintain may appear elaborate, but experience has taught us that through local supervision is the surest way to keep losses at a minimum and to ensure proper and intelligent consideration of local business.

MARK STREET SCHOOL HELD BANQUET FRIDAY

On Friday night, Jan. 11th, a very successful banquet was given to the scholars of Mark street Methodist Sunday school by the teachers and officers. The tables were laden with a great variety of the necessaries and from the youngest to the oldest all seemed to partake and enjoy themselves.

After the banquet the Supt. A. W. Gamble, took the chair and a very pleasant programme took place in the body of the church.

A selection on the bagpipes by Mr. MacDonald.

A recitation by Miss Curry.

Address by Rev. Rourke.

Address by Mr. C. Robb.

Address by Rev. Mr. Bamforth.

A vote of thanks was moved by A. W. Gamble, seconded by K. Throop, thanking all those who contributed to the programme, also the ladies of the congregation and lady teachers of the Sunday school for their work in preparing the banquet. The banquet came to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

ANNIVERSARY AT TRINITY CHURCH

Rev. J. E. Millyard and Cameron McLean, Noted Baritone Singer Attracted Big Congregations.

Trinity Methodist Church Anniversary services yesterday drew congregations that were never rivalled in size in the previous history of the church. In the evening hundreds were turned away and the vestibule was crowded with people who stood throughout the service.

The special speaker for the day was Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of Sarnia, and Cameron McLean, the noted baritone singer, rendered several of his best sacred numbers. The choir of fifty voices was heard to advantage in three anthems, under the direction of George H. King. Mabell. Howe Mable was accompanist to Cameron McLean.

In his address last night the speaker developed the text 'Behold the Lamb of God" in such a way as to bring out His sacrifice as the supreme truth concerning Christ.

"The sin of the world is a problem," he said. "The suffering of the world impresses our age more than anything else, but it is only on incident when compared with the sin of the world."

The power of sin moved Jesus to tears more than did the power of suffering. He sobbed aloud when he thought of the sin of Jerusalem, for sin was the great calamity in his eyes.

The speaker condemned those who teach that sin is an incident in moral development, or that it is not the black fact painted by Jesus, but simply a phantasmogoria of diseased imagination. Others say sin marks a step upward in man's moral development; that sins are moral mistakes that indicate moral advancement. "Isn't it lovely?" the speaker asked. "Some who call themselves Christians make it their business to switch us away from Jesus' idea of sin."

There is no power in nature that can relieve sin; there is no antidote adequate to take away the dread and deadly disease of sin. Pictures may be used to advantage in the treatment of men's illnesses, but there is a limit to their efficacy. "Such things can never prevail aagainst the moral maladies of the human race. You cannot chain the dark wild passions of sin by music or art. The only programme for the solution of the problem of sin is through the person of the Lamb of God.

Jesus Christ has solved the problem and He alone can take away the sins of the world. How? Suppose I cannot tell you? If you want to use the telegraph do you wait until you understand the electric fluid that carries your message? Even if I cannot tell you and I can't—should you refuse to avail yourself of His ministry? To men and women who are wrestling with the problem of sin I say "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

Special Music

The special musical programme arranged for the anniversary service included: Anthem —"The Everlasting Strength,"; Baritone Solo—"It is Enough," (Elizah), Cameron McLean; Anthem — "Lead Kindly Light," Baritone Solo—"Softy and Tenderly," Cameron McLean.

MISS NELLIE FALLIS HONOURED BY SCHOOL

Was Presented With a Set of Ralph Connor's Books.

A very interesting event took place at the Park street Baptist Sunday school yesterday afternoon when the Superintendent called upon Miss Nellie Fallis to come forward, when the following address was read to her by the secretary, Mr. O. S. Matchett, and at the proper moment Mrs. Neal F. Porter presented her with a set of Ralph Connor's books.

Peterboro, Jan. 13th, 1924.

Miss Nellie Fallis, City:

Dear Miss Falis: It was with deep regret that we were asked to accept your resignation as one of our Sunday school teachers.

The Primary department over which you have presided for so many years, is one whose footsteps it will be hard to fill.

Your faithfulness, our punctuality in attendance, having now completed nine years of fifty Sundays and over, your patience with the children and above all your Christian character, has been a noble example to us all.

We trust that circumstances will permit you at no distant date to again join our staff.

As a slight recognition of our love and esteem we would ask you to accept this set of books, and we trust that God's richest blessing may rest upon you.

Signed on behalf of the Park St. Baptist Sunday School.

W. E. Morrow, Pastor.
Jas. I. Mabee, Supt.,
Neil F Porter,
Maurice Dunkley,
Asst. Superintendents
O. S. Matchett, Sec.-Treas.

Miss Fallis, although taken very much by surprise, made a suitable reply.

WINDSOR YOUTH FOUND A FORTUNE IN STREETS

WINDSOR, Jan. 14. — What Thos. McCarthy, a 14 year old Windsor boy believed was a worthles piece of paper that he kicked outside of the Detroit post office last Friday night, developed yesterday to be an envelope containing a draft for $300,000 on a New York bank.

The boy, thinking that the unstamped envelope was without any value, placed it in his pocket, where it remained until Saturday, when the draft was discovered.

The boy's father returned the draft to the Detroit bank upon which it was drawn.

COAL MINERS THREATEN TERMINATE AGREEMENTS

LONDON, Jan. 14.— (United Press).—Coal miners of Lancashire and Cheshire voted overwhelmingly to-day in favor termination of the existing wage agreement.

The count was 55,785 for termination 3,340 against. Unless immediate concessions on the part of the employers are forthcomng, important strikes in th ecoal industry, as well as on the country's railroads, will confront a Labor government when it takes office, it is predicted.

COUNCIL HELD BUSY SESSION

of our people. We also have ample pressure for fire purposes, and with the present thought of fire prevention, will strive to reduce the key rate for insurance to the lowest possible point.

Our lighting system is not all I desire, but the commissioners are gradually renovating and improving their material, and with the opening of the ew distributing station, the commission will be better able to carry out improvements they have in mind, bringing the lighting of our streets and parks up to date. In conection with park lighting, I hope to inaugurate a scheme which will eb adopted by the Board of Aldermen, and each year will work towards its completion so that ultimately we will have lights throughout Central and Victoria Parks on re-inforced concrete standards.

In connection with our parks, tribute must be paid to the gentlemen composing the Nicholls Park Trust, Mr. Richard Hall, chairman, for the care and attention given to Inverlea, East Nicholls Oval, and Jackson Park, which are maintained and open for use by the public without any expense to the ratepayers. On behalf of the citizens generally I tender thanks for the privileges we enjoy, and regret to learn the esteemed chairman is at present confined to his home through illness. I trust he will have a speedy recovery, and soon be found at his place of business.

Fire Protection.

The city is well served from one Central Fire Station, and I believe our fire loss compares very favorably with other cities. This department should always be kept up to date, fully equipped to carry on the work they have to do, as one disastrous fire would result in more loss to the city than the operating expenses of the Department for a whole year.

Police Commission.

The maintenance of law and order is vested in a police commission,composed of His Honor, the Judge, the Police Magistrate and the Mayor. A great deal of discussion has taken place with reference to the personnel of the Commission, some believing the number should be increased to five, two being elected or appointed by the city council. So far this thought has not found favor with the Provincial Legislature, as they have refused to change the existing law of three Commissioners.

There has been further discussion over the annual budget of expenditures, the city council assuming they have the authority to set the amount, while the commissioners are of the opinion the Statutes allow them to form the budget of expenditures, to which the council must agree. This point is being cleared up by a test case in court, and a decision is expected at any time. In the meantime through this controversy the members of the police department, are without their salaries, which is to be regretted, as the council has no quarrel whatever with the personnel of the staff, but it is rather a difference of opinion with the commissioners. Some opinion has been expressed the police department is over staffed and suggests a reduction to ten men, which in the mind of the public seems to be sufficient to do the work required. This is something which the commission will deal with, weighing it carefully, and if in accord, will carry out the wish of the people.

Education.— The city can be congratulated on the Boards of Education which serve from year to year. The lady and gentlemen offering their services in the interests of education are of highest qualification, who give their time and attention without reward other than than the pleasure one derives from service. The Board of Education is responsible for the expenditure of a large amount of money raised by taxation, and with increased demands made upon them, will have a problem to solve as to how they can reduce their demands, and still give the public the education and services desired. This problem is a live one with all Boards of Education, and I noticed on a recent visit to Calgary, the Board of Education was making a survey of the schools, with a view to having a uniform number in each room, which they thought would reduce their demand on the city. I am satisfied their problems will be dealt with in a satisfactory manner, and no demands made on the ratepayers other than they believe absolutely necessary.

Old Boys' Re-union.— Two years ago some discussion occurred with reference to an old boys' re-union, and at that time it was thought advisable to put the matter over for a year or two. It is just possible the time is opportune to put this thought into effect, and if such is the case, we are assured of the support of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotarians, Kiwanis and other organizations. It is a large project, and if we desire to develop it, we must enter on the work now to be sure of success.

City Progress.— We are vitally interested in the growing and development of our city, as we have planned a community to serve twice our population by laying sidewalks, sewers, water mains, and it is only by filling up the vacant lots which are served by these conveniences, and in a large measure paid for, that we will continue to prosper, and be able to reduce taxation on property at present assessed. To build up these vacant spaces, it would be necessary to have an expansion of our present industries and induce new manufacurers to come to us. In this way we will create a demand for houses, and while building costs are high, contractors and others will soon erect houses if there is a demand. It will be the aim of the Industrial Commissioner, Board of Aldermen and myself to do everything possible to induce manufacturers to locate here, and in passing I might say this has always been the anxiety of every Council to build up the city by developing local industries, and locating new industries in our midst.

In previous years we have had two or three advisory members appointed to the Manufacturers' committee to confer with them when discussing the location of new industries in our midst. The personnel of these appointees was from the banking profession, representing financial interests, the manufacturers and the legal profession. Such a custom might well be continued, as while the appointees would not have any voting power, their advice would be invaluable to the committee and council in discussing matters from their angle.

Post Office and Customs House.—Efforts will be made to induce the Federal Government to go on with the building, for which a contract was let and cancelled as a war measure. The land has been acquired, the need just as great as before—perhaps greater since new distributing districts have been added, increasing the staff, and adding to the congestion in the present building.

Financial. —The finances of the city are in good condition, properly safeguarded by a City Trust Commission, who handle our money for investment, guaranteeing to bondholders the interest when due, and the ultimate payment of the principal at maturity. The city is indebted to the gentlemen who serve on this Commission for the years of faithful service given the city.

The Board of Aldermen have the authority to raise funds for municipal requirements, by taxing the citizens and their property, but of the amount raised, the council have very little control, as sixty-nine to seventy per cent. out of every dollar raised has to be set aside for education purposes, sinking funds to cover debentures which have been issued for sewers, water, sidewalks, pavements and other needs. We promised to use the utmost economy to make the money over which we have control go as far as possible, and if we are not able to grant every petition and request which is presented from time to time, you will understand it is not because we are unsympathetic, but because we are financially unable to support the project as requested.

There is no money we spend that brings us back half as much as the money we put up for municipal taxes. The institutions we maintain in this way are absolutely indispensable to our life, our health and our business. The raising of adequate revenue for the upkeep of the city and for its continued progress, cleanliness and beauty ought to be the prime objective of every citizen. It ought to be a point of honor with every citizen to see the city is well kept, and that every man pays his share of the expense.

In looking over the "Evening Examiner' 'of Monday ,January 7th, I noticed an advertisement as follows:

"Better Than Riches

Under the dome of a Board of Trade building in Manchester, England, is this inscription: 'A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches'."

The thought is considerably more than sentiment, it is good business. This is a thought I expressed at a public meeting held a short time ago, and I ask you to reflect on the industries within the City limits. We have industries which have been established for well up to fifty years, and they have sent their products up and down the country, advertising Peterborough, and to this day, they have the name of supplying a first class article. We have also industries which export a large portion of their product, so that the name of Peterborough is carried beyond the Dominion, to other countries. I have yet to learn of a demerit registered against any of these institutions for the product they supply, either for home consumption or export; consequently Peterborough stands high in the industrial world, for honesty and integrity, but we have within our limits a greater asset in our young men and young women, who are going out to the four corners of the earth, and will advertise the fact they came from Peterborough, and the public impresssion of this city will be gained by their actions their lives, their habits, when away from home. Let us lay our foundations well, let us indicate in our children the privilege of being born, educated and developed in the City of Peterborough, so that when they go forth they will carry a good name, which is rather to be chosen than great riches.

Financial Condition

Finally I wish to say a word on the financial conditions at the present time, which are not all we desire, and I caninot see any real prosperity until the farmers obtain better prices for their products, or what they need to purchase is reduced in price to a level with what they have to sell. The present time calls for economy in our homes, our business, our City life. I am quite optimistic of the future, fully realizing the tide never goes out but what it returns, yet it may run out a greater distance than usual and be long returning, but it will inevitably roll back, and in the meantime, we must keep swimming against the stream, and be ready to take advantage of the turn when it comes.

Institutions

The City is well provided with Hospitals, and at a recent convention of doctors held in the city, they testified to their proficiency in handling any work assigned to them. We also have our Industrial Homes for the infirm and aged, carefully managed and supervised by Christian women, imbued with the idea of service, rather than the monetary rewards.

The Children's Aid Society have recently acquired new premises for their work and are to be congratulated on their investment. This Society is composed of men and women who give a great deal of time and care to the end of the little ones, and are doing a valuable work in the community. Every expenditure is carefully scrutinized and the cost per head for maintenance is extremely small. The St. Vincent de Paul Society do similar work, and the ladies in charge practise the strictest economy in the management of the work To both these institutions, I extend thanks on behalf of the public for the splendid work carried out.

My address would not be complete unless honorable mention was made of Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition, so ably presided over by President Denne and his Board of Directors. Much work has been done to the grounds, new buildings have been erected, and the whole property is kept in splendid condition. Of the value of Annual Exhibitions to ths city and rural community, I need not speak, as the best evidence for good can be found in the fact the Government make small annual grants to keep Exhibitions alive all over the Province. I hope to suggest ways and means for acquiring the grounds at the termination of the present lease, to enable the work so well founded to continue. To President Denne and his Board of Directors, on behalf of the city and rural population, we return thanks for years of hard work and concentrated efforts.

I once more extend congratulations to the Board of Aldermen, and assure them it will be my constant care to discharge the duties of my office to the best of my ability. We may have many problems to solve during the year, and we may not always see eye to eye, and I ask your sympathetic cooperation to arrive at a conclusion which will be satisfactory to the majority.

I extend best wishes to everyone for a prosperous and happy new year.

J. J. TURNER,
Mayor.

Committee's Selected.

On the motion of Alderman Turner and Stocker, the Council went into Committee of the whole to draft the standing committees for the year. Alderman Turner proposed, seconded by Alderman Meyers that the selection of chairman be carried out by closed ballot, but an amendment for open vote by Alderman Fife and McIntyre carried.

Alderman McIntyre declared he did not want the Parks committee again, and said he thought the chairmen of last year's committees should have the privilege of stating what committees they wished to serve on. Personally he desired the Fire, Water and Light or the Manufacturers committee, and if the chairmen on those committees were changing he wished to claim one.

Alderman Stocker said he had been two years on the Board of Works as chairman and if not chosen this year he was through. "There's not enough work in any other committee to keep me going" he said, ' and if I am not appointed chairman of the Board of Works I'm through."

Alderman Crowe said he was sorry to hear a remark of that nature in beginning the business of the year. "Alderman Stocker has devoted time to the work of this Board that many others of us could not do without having a salary attached. This is an exceptional case where I don't know any other man who could do as well. He has been such a splendid man and a whole hearted worker for the good of the City Council and the city I believe he is the only man for the position.'

Alderman Meyers seconded Alderman Crowe's nomination.

Alderman Maher said he admired the work Aledrman Stocker had done during his tenancy of the Board of Works chair, but pointed out that Alderman Morrison had been without a committee. "He stayed with the rank and file with the same modesty as myself," Alderman Maher said.

Alderman McIntyre seconded the nomination, and on the vote Alderman Morrison was declared elected to the chairmanship of the Board of Works.

Alderman Maher said he regreted being the innocent cause of the scene. "I recognize the work Alderman Stocker did, and I will forgo the chairmanship of any committee to which I am nominated in favor of Alderman Stocker.'

Alderman Jones: "A man like that doesn't seem to be working for the good of the city."

Fire, Water and Light.

Alderman Crowe passed on the credit for the administration of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to the other members of the committee. It was up to him he thought to leave the chairmanship open if any others desired it, and he nominated Alderman McIntyre. Alderman Maher seconded the nomination, and Alderman McIntyre was appointed without opposition.

Manufacturing.

Alderman Meyers said he did not claim to have done a great deal with his committee, but he thought the power situation had been handled well during his tenure of office. "While I would like another year it is up to you people to say." On proposal of Alderman McIntyre and Crowe he was appointed.

Nagle Phelan was returned to the chairmanship of the Finance Committee without oposition. Alderman Turner and Jones were his sponsors.

For the property committee, Alderman Maher was nominated by Alderman Crowe; Alderman Fife was nominated by Alderman McIntyre and Maher, and Alderman Jones was named by Alderman Turner.

Alderman Jones spoke in his own behalf, saying he had been a member of the City Council four years and a chairman of the property committee two years. "When I was in the Council before,' he said, "we sat back and allowed the new members to come in as chairmen. I think I should be entitled to a committee.'

legal Committee.

Alderman Phelan said Alderman Crowe handled the Legal Committee two years ago and in his opinion he shoulld have it again. Alderman McIntyre seconded the nomination.

Alderman Morrison, seconded by Alderman Turner nominated Alderman Maher.

Alderman Maher, to Alderman Crowe, "Do you want it?"

Alderman Crowe: "Yes, I do."

Alderman Maher withdrew, and Alderman Crowe is chairman of the Legal Committee.

The Railways Committee will be headed by Alderman Turner, on motion of Alderman Maher and Meyers.

Alderman Maher was put in as chairman of the Fuel Committee after prolonged discussion. He was proposed by Alderman Jones and Turner. Alderman Maher proposed first Alderman Stocker and then Alderman Jones, but received no suport. Alderman Jones refused to accept in view of Alderman Stocker's position. Alderman Stocker, he thought, should have a committee if he were remaining in Council.

The vote was unanimous in favor of Alderman Maher.

Alderman Phelan proposed that the Board of Works consist of the whole council.

The Committees.

The Committees as finally drafted for submission to the City Council to-night, when they may be altered, are:

Board of Works—Alderman Morrison and the whole council.

Fire, Water and Light—McIntyre Crowe, Turner, Jones, Maher, Fife, Phelan.

Manufacturers—Meyers, McIntyre, Turner, Jones, Phelan, Maher.

Finance—Phelan, Morrison, McIntyre, Turner, Crowe, Fife.

Property—Fife, McIntyre, Meyers, Maher, Jones, Morrison.

Legal— Crowe, Phelan, Meyers, Fife, Maher, Stocker, Turner.

Railways—Turner, Phelan, Jones Meyers, Morrison, Stocker.

Unemployment, Relief and Fuel —Maher, Fife, Morrison, Crowe, Stocker.

STRONG DEMAND TO FOLLOW UPRISING

One Missionary Dead as Result of Wounds Received.

PEKING, Jan. 14.— (By Ray G. Marshall, United Press Staff Correspondent.)—American Minister S. C. Hurman, who returned to Peking from the south to-day, has prepared for presentation to the Chinese Government the strongest demands yet delivered on the subject of killing and kidnapping of American missionaries by bandits and the looting of the Supu Mission and firing upon the American flag by regular Chinese troops.

Professor Bernhardt Hoff, American missionary, died in hospital at Saing Yang from wounds received a fortnight ago. The American Legation has cabled the State Department at Washington, asking instructions regarding procedure.

Nothing has been heard of the fate of Mrs. Julina Kilen, of Northfield, Minn., co-worker of Prof. Hoff, who was kidnapped from the Tsao Yang Mission at the time the missionary and his wife were shot. Mrs. Hoff is expected to recover.

When last seen Mrs. Kilen was mounted on a huge white horse, towering over her chattering captors who led her away into the hills.

COMPLETE ROUT SO POLICE SAY

One Thousand in the Coop as Result of Raid

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press.)— Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler's offensive against crime and vice of all sorts in Philadelphia has resulted in a complete rout of the enemy according to claims of police officers.

Official reports made public to-day by Superintendent Mills showed that 484 raids were made in a six days' period ended last night and that every variety of law breaking establishment was included in the places visited. Official figures on number of arrests were not available, but unofficial estimates placed them at nearly 1,000.

Prisoners included saloon keepers, bartenders, proprietors of gambling houses, peddlers of narcotic drugs, inmates and proprietors of disorderly houses, operators of illicit stills, bootleggers and proprietors of speakeasies. In addition scores of corner loungers and alley crap shooters also were taken into custody.

THE CONSERVATIVES WANT A CONVENTION

TORONTO, January 14 (Canadian Press). — A strong election flavour in the Dominion field was give nto the annual meeting on Saturday night of the Central Conservaive Association, the governing body of the Tory Party in Toronto.

A convention, which could give the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader at Ottawa, the benefit of his advice, was strongly advocated, and the meeting gave full expression ti its views.

The convention was regarded as a necessary preliminary to a Dominion contest.

Advantage was taken of the occasion to learn the views of the Dominion members present, and all were optimistic as to the results, should an election be brought on.

HOUSEWIVES COLUMN

I never know before what a difference size makes in the grocery business. I was up in the office just now where the Dominion Stores' expert buyers talk to the salesmen from Canada's big food makers.

No wonder Dominion Store prices are low! These salesmen know they were talking to men who were buying for 800 stores —and a million customers a week. They were glad to cut their prices to the bone, to sell the tremendous big quantities this organization buys.

That's where size comes in. I never thought of it that way before, but these important salesmen came from all over because one sale so big as that was better than a lot of little sales at a higher price. Indeed, most of those salesmen would not even bother to go around to 800 separate grocery stores. It would have been too expensive. They would sell the "middlemen" and the middlemen would sell the little grocers, and you would pay both profits.

I'm glad I have this chance to find out all about Canada's largest grocery organization. It's interesting and surprising.

Miss Allen's TESTED RECIPES No. 68

"Two-Loaves" White Bread

(Miss Allen's favorite recipe for home-made white bread. A recipe which always comes out right)

(All measurements level)
½ cake compressed yeast (at night)
½ cupful water
2 cupfuls scalded milk or half milk and half water
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco
2 tablespoonfuls sugar
1 teaspoonful salt
about 7 cupfuls flour

To milk, or milk and water, add Crisco, sugar, and salt; when lukewarm, add yeast mixed with the half-cupful of liquid and the flour. Use an earthen bowl and mix with a knife to a dough. Knead until elastic. Let rise in a temperature of about 75° F. The shelf over stove is not a suitable place. When doubled in bulk, shape into two loaves. When again light, bake about one hour. If you prefer to mix your bread in the morning and bake it in the early afternoon, use one whole cake of yeast instead of ½ and follow above method.

Whiter Teeth in 10 Days

Make this free test. Combat the film

This is how countless people get the whiter teeth you admire. They combat the film that makes teeth cloudy. Millions do it daily. And so will you when you make this test and see what it means to your teeth.

It hides the luster

Film is that viscous coat you feel. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it, so much of it remains. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also ruins teeth. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Few escape such troubles when they brush teeth in the old ways.

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Now careful people of some 50 nations use it every day.

Watch it act

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will always be glad that you made this test. Cut out coupon now.

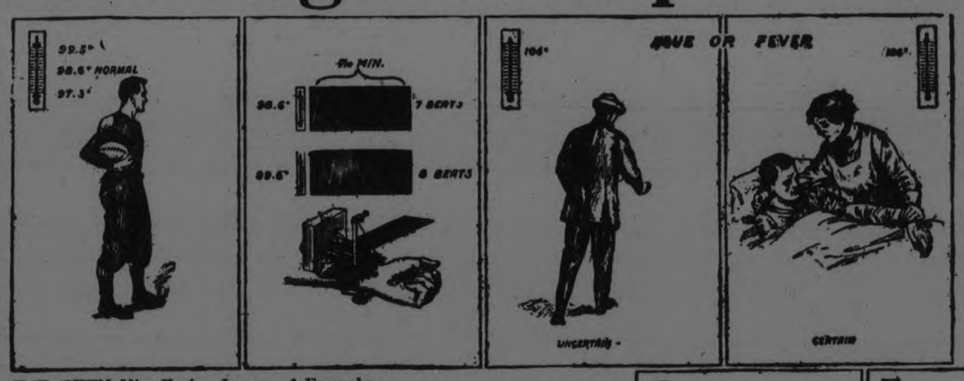
New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

How High a Temperature Can the Human Body Endure?



A Temperature of 110° Generally Results Fatally, Yet the Same Temperature Due to Sunstroke Seldom Causes Death. Very High Temperatures Have Been Recorded. A Tetanus Case Developed 113.8° Before the Patient Succumbed, Whereas a Patient Having Various Temperatures in Different Sections of the Body, Registering More Than 114° and Less Than 94°, at the Same Time, Survived.

WHEN Miss Evelyn Lyons, of Escanaba, Michigan, became known throughout the country as "the girl with a temperature of 114 degrees," she had medical scientists studying her case as one of the most extraordinary in the annals of the profession. Physicians who first examined Miss Lyons were baffled by the abnormally high temperature which a thermometer registered when held under the arm by the girl. The ordinary clinical thermometer will read to 110 degrees, and is not graduated beyond that point, although it will require a temperature of approximately 114 degrees to cause the mercury to reach the end of the capillary tube. When Miss Lyons placed the thermometer under her arm it lasted a few seconds, and was then cracked by the expanding mercury. The Weather Bureau had to come to the physicians assistance with longer range thermometers for the tests.

Medical men from all over the country were trying to find out why Miss Lyons' fever was so high. She had an unusually good appetite, was loath to remain in bed, and, according to reports, she even ran out and lay down in a snow bank in order to cool off. Then it was discovered that Miss Lyons was fooling some of the best physicians in the country by means of an ordinary hot water bottle which she cleverly concealed under her arm.

And so Miss Lyons' fame quickly dropped to zero, but her trick aroused a general desire to know just what are the effects of high temperatures in or on the body.

"The normal temperature of the human body," explains Joseph H. Kraus, a medical expert, writing in Science and Invention, "is 98.6 degrees F., which varies a few tenths in either direction in different climates. Should there be a persistent elevation or depression in the temperatures above 99.5 or below 97.3, both in degrees F., one may feel certain that a diseased condition is present.

"Supposing that a person of good habits and who only a few hours ago was perfectly healthy, develops a temperature of 104 degrees F. It is an almost positive sign that he has developed an attack of ephemeral fever, or that ague is coming on. This temperature may further increase to 106 degrees when malarial fever might be indicated. If the temperature should rise on the first day to 106 degrees, we know definitely that the patient has not developed typhoid fever, because typhoid seldom produces a temperature of over 104 degrees in the evening of the first day.

As Shown Above the Body Has a Normal Temperature of 98.6° Which May Vary Between 97.3° and 99.5° F. With an Increase of Temperature of 1°, the Pulse Shows Ten Beats More Each Minute, as Indicated in the Second Illustration. A Person Can Walk Around in Seeming Health with a Temperature of 104, but When the Temperature Reaches 106, He Invariably Finds It Necessary to Go to Bed.

"On the other hand, should the temperature be below 102 degrees it would indicate the commencement of convalescence or a relatively mild attack of this disease, and should the temperature increase above 99, but without attaining 102, and should the patient exhibit signs of pneumonia, we know that there is no soft infiltration of the lungs. A temperature of 104 in pneumonia cases indicates a severe attack. The same temperature in acute rheumatism is something to cause the individual to be anxious.

"Generally when the temperature rises steadily to about 106.3 to 107, the prognosis is very unfavorable, and a temperature of 110 is almost certain to prove fatal in diseased conditions. Nevertheless, there have been some remarkable reports which would tend to disprove the above statement. In cases of sunstroke, 110 degrees is quite frequently found. In scarletina a case has been reported in which the patient developed a temperature of 112 degrees, and in tetanus at the time of death a patient has exhibited a temperature of about 114."

The effect of high temperatures on the human body has been determined by actual tests made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, under the Division of the Bureau of Mines of the Department of the Interior. An increase of 3 degrees was recorded in test conditions in cases where still air or moving air of 100 degree F. surrounded the subjects of the tests. Even at a temperature of 95 degrees, more than 2 degrees F. rise in temperature was exhibited. Under these test conditions, and remaining at rest in the room, having a temperature of 95 degrees, the body temperature was increased; the pulse rate increased; sweating was very profuse, the clothes being saturated with perspiration. Dizziness was experienced and an increase in depth and rate of respiration was found. Chilly sensations were developed in some subjects. If the air in the room were agitated, there was a slight rise or no rise in temperature, with a corresponding action on the part of the pulse. Sweating was profuse, but not sufficient to wet all clothing. No other untoward symptoms were produced.

At 100 degrees F. the following effects took place. The temperature of the body increased, reaching even 102.3 degrees F., which is 2.3 degrees higher than surrounding air. The pulse-beats varied and in some cases were 152 to more than 183 in others. Sweating was very profuse, the shoes being partly full of water. The test was very trying, dizziness and weakness being present, which symptoms lasted for about an hour after the test. Even at high air velocities there were no beneficial effects from the rapidly moving air at this temperature. One can readily understand why some subjects collapse when the thermometer registers 98 degrees in the shade.

All subjects agreed that but little work can be done at a temperature of 100 degrees F. If the subjects had remained at this temperature for one full hour, they were positive that absolutely no work could have been done at the expiration of the time.

Prehistoric Traits Man Still Has

MAN to-day still possesses evidences of the traits of his prehistoric ancestors of millions of years ago. For example, man of a far-distant past boasted of three eyes, evolutionists contended. They say that millions of years ago nature gave mankind a third eye. It was not a success, so she gradually discarded it. Its stunted remains are to be found in the half-finished eye which exists in everyone's brain just back of the depression below the upper part of the middle of the forehead. This hollow was once an eye-socket.

Another peculiar thing about eyes, according to the same theory, is that man once had a transparent third eyelid such as birds and reptiles possess. It could be lowered as a protector when our ancestors were passing through dense undergrowth. The remains of this extra eyelid can still be seen at the corner of the eye if you raise the top lid.

When you are at the mirror look at your ears. Just over the entrance to each is a little pointed flap which can be made to close the ear if pressed back with the finger. This, it is claimed, was once an ear-shield which protected our ancestors in water and on land. A few persons can still move their ears. In most of us, however, the muscles whose duty it was to turn them in the direction of sounds have fallen into disuse.

Just where the lower jaw meets the neck are two deep grooves. They mark the place where man once had gills—like a fish. Our pointed teeth are the remains of great tearing teeth or tusks. Animals molt in Spring and Autumn. Many people lose some hair at the same time. When a dog or cat meets an enemy its hair or fur stands up. Though really frightened it wants to look fierce. In the same way a sudden start will make us feel that our hair is standing on end.

The cuticle at the base of our nails is a reminder that our nails were once sheathed when not in use. Man is the only animal that has been able to develop the fifth finger (thumb). The pads at the base of the palm are those upon which we walked when we went on all fours. Even to this day man has a little hooked bone at the end of his spine. This is all that remains of his prehistoric tail. The muscles with which he used to wag it are still there, though shrunk to tiny remnants through long neglect.

When WOOD RESISTS FIRE BETTER Than STEEL

DO you know that in a burning building wooden beams will resist fire longer than unprotected steel columns, when under full working load?

Do you know that concrete is the best all-round fireproofing material?

Uncle Sam has supplied these and many other illuminating facts that will help cut down the nation's annual half billion dollar fire bill, through a series of severe fire and water tests applied recently to 106 different kinds of building columns.

How the conditions that would exist in a burning building were reproduced as accurately as possible in the tests, are described in Popular Science Monthly. Each twelve-foot colmun was placed in a furnace and slowly heated to a maximum of 2300 degrees F., while a hydraulic ram applied to the top of the column a working load or pressure of 100,000 pounds.

Pyrometers and deformeters measured the temperatures and the manner in which the columns became distorted under the combination of heat and pressure. If the column still remained undamaged after an hour, a stream of water was turned on it while it was still at white heat.

Tests were made on unprotected steel, cast iron, concrete-filled pipe, and timber columns, and also on columns where the metal was partially or completely covered by concrete, hollow tile, brick, gypsum block, and single or double layers of metal lath and plaster.

The furnace and accessory equipment used were specially designed. From the moment the gas flames were turned on until the point of failure, temperature and deformation measurements showed that concrete covering was the best fire resistant because it both insulated the metal beam against heat and helped to carry a portion of the load. As the fire started, the beam first expanded until it bore the entire weight. Before long, however, the metal, softened by the rising temperature, was compressed by the hydraulic ram until a constantly increasing portion of the load was borne by the covering.

The resistance of unprotected wooden beams was extraordinary. They usually held out for 25 minutes. This record equals that of a cast iron column or pipe filled with concrete capable of bearing the same load, and far exceeds the fire resistance of structural steel, which failed within ten minutes after heat was applied.

A Paint That Resists Action of Gasoline

THE tremendous value to American business of the work of college chemists experimenting in their laboratories is demonstrated again by the discovery by Dr. Allen Rogers, of Pratt Institute, of a paint which resists the action of oil and gasoline.

The value of this discovery in the preservation of iron and steel containers of gasoline is incalculable. Gasoline is transported by land and sea in steel tanks. Gasoline eats steel and iron. After eight or ten years of carrying gasoline a tank steamship is rendered almost unseaworthy because scaling and corrosion have eaten into the ship's sides. The steel hulls of vessels are preserved from rust and corrosion by sea water by frequent painting. No paint, however, can be applied to the inside of the tanks because gasoline is the best known paint remover.

Like most chemical discoveries the Rogers oil-proof paint was accidental, since the chemist was in search of something rather different. The big oil companies were sceptical at first when the scientist informed them of his discovery, but about a year ago the ship Radium was offered for experiment. One of the huge tanks of the Radium was covered on the inside by the new composition; the oil company, in the interest of science, being willing to risk the paint coming off and discoloring the gasoline in the tank so as to make it unfit for commercial purposes. Nothing of the sort happened and the new paint has survived a year of constant contact with gasoline, made more potent by the rocking and tossing of the ship in storms at sea.

A Bug That Can Fly Faster Than Eyesight Travels

WITH a speed approaching 300 miles an hour the airplane is considered the present-day marvel for swiftness of locomotion, but there are insects that greatly exceed airplanes in the quickness with which they can transport themselves. The dragon-flies and gadflies probably move more rapidly at times than any bird or airplane. One insect at least can fly so swiftly that, according to an accredited writer in Nature Magazine, human sight cannot follow it. While in flight it appears to make absolutely no record on the retina of the eye.

A time ago, while examining streams and animals in them, with reference to pellagra in mountains about Pineville, Kentucky, the scientific observer encountered a small black beetle about a fifth of an inch long that puzzled him greatly by its mysterious appearances on rocks of rapids in a local waterway. One moment it was present on a rock before his eyes and the next appeared on another rock some distance away. Without devoting any time to it on this occasion it was assumed to slip quickly into the water, and swimming with the rapid current, to emerge suddenly in another place. Several of the strangers were captured by quickly throwing a cloth net down on them when they were at rest. They proved to be what scientists call Psephenus lecontei, and on looking up the literature relating to the species it was found that other people had noticed its peculiar ways, and had reached the conclusion that it changes its position by flight.

The writer says that subsequently he carefully watched the insect's flight, and though his sight is rather better than the average, he was forced to admit that he had at last encountered an insect that was too quick for his eyes. He simply could not see it while it was on the wing.

Psephenus lecontei is a frequenter of rapids of mountain streams in the eastern United States. Its larva is believed to live in the water. The family Parnidæ to which it belongs, contains about a dozen other American species, all of them slow-moving and living in the water in all stages of their development. This beetle is an exception to its family in that the adult moves swiftly and lives in the air. It is not to be said that its flight in any measure approaches the speed of light, but "it is fair to say that it flies with something like the speed of a bullet." Even so, it is difficult for the writer in Nature Magazine to understand how it checks the velocity of its flight in a fraction of a second and manages as it does to alight right side up and in the possession of all its faculties.

This Bug, a Native of Kentucky, Is Hailed as the World's Champion Speedster in Aeronautics, as It Is Said to Be Able to Fly with the Speed of a Bullet.

Where AMBER Is Burned as INCENSE

THE wearing of amber beads and necklaces is as old as antiquity itself. This valuable substance was well known and much appreciated in olden times. It was the first of all the gem-like substances to be used for personal adornment, and was always considered very valuable.

Amber has always been prized in the East, and China still imports great quantities. It is crushed into powder and then burned as incense in the temples.

Homer mentioned it in his writings, and it has been found among very ancient specimens of Etruscan jewelry.

Both the Greeks and Romans used amber, and the Greeks used to call it "Electron," from which comes the modern word "electricity." The Romans made little figures and statuettes of amber, which fetched even greater prices than did living slaves.

The manager of the great gladiatorial combats during Nero's reign sent a special representative to Germany to obtain large supplies of this substance to be used in ornamenting all the weapons used by the gladiators. Even the litters on which the vanquished were borne off were studded with amber.

Many valuable specimens of amber ornaments have also been found in Roman treasure urns, together with other precious stones.

In Shakespeare's time amber was considered fashionable for personal ornamentation, and the great poet himself wrote of "amber bracelets."

During the Renaissance period of history this substance was extensively used by famous craftsmen for making jewel caskets and other valuable articles.

It is found in beds of lignite almost all over the world, but the greatest and most valuable deposits are found in East Prussia, between Memel and Konigsberg on the Black Sea.

Amber may be found at times on the seashore, particularly at some of the East Coast towns. Danzig and Hamburg are two of the greatest centres for the manufacture of modern amber goods, including cigarette holders and beads.

All DISEASES Are Not Due to GERMS

MANY persons believe that germs are a direct cause of sickness. But, says a prominent physician, this is not so. One may have germs burrowing in the system for a time and yet experience no symptoms of real sickness. On the other hand, a totally unexpected accumulation of germs may make one seriously ill. The germs may remain in one little spot and yet make the carrier sick all over. This physician explains that germs multiply with great rapidity and in the process of multiplication they manufacture poisons called toxins. Each species of germs, he says, manufactures its own kind of poison or toxin. This poison is absorbed into the blood and forms the condition known as "poisoning of the blood."

In run-down conditions of the system the germs do get into the blood, but as a rule it is the poisons or toxins manufactured by the germs that do the mischief and not the germs directly. In some instances these poisons can be separated from the germs and used as toxins. One of the most striking examples of this practice is found in the treatment of diphtheria. The toxin of diphtheria germs is isolated and is inoculated into animals, then the serum taken from the infected animals is used as a vaccine for the cure of the disease in the human subject. It is reported that under this practice mortality from this disease has been reduced 45 per cent.

How ANIMALS Act as PROPHETS

THE senses of animals differ enormously from those of human beings, naturalists have found. For instance, a cuckoo, five months old, which has never been five miles from the place where it was hatched, can find its way, unaided, from this country to Africa.

As all fishermen know, trout go off their feed before rain. They cannot see the sky, yet they know hours in advance when a change in the weather is coming.

It is said that animals can tell in advance when a bad earthquake or volcanic eruption is about to occur. In Sicily dogs showed great uneasiness two days before the eruption of Etna. Cats carried their kittens away from houses, and hares seemed stupefied by fright.

Similar knowledge is said to have been exhibited by animals before the great Valparaiso earthquake of 1906, but in this case horses and cattle as well as dogs were desperately uneasy for twenty-four hours before the big shock. Dogs howled all night, and cattle lowed.

Before the Messina earthquake of January, 1915, birds were noticed to be flying in flocks, evidently greatly disturbed, but it is an odd fact that there were no such signs before the sudden and dreadful earthquake which destroyed San Francisco.

One explanation of this sense possessed by dumb creatures may be that animals, having finer powers of hearing than man, may detect underground rumblings or quiverings which man cannot sense. Or it may be that there is some electric tension which affects them. At any rate, there is no doubt that they do know many hours beforehand when an earth convulsion is about to take place.

How LONG Can You Hold Your BREATH

THE Hindu fakirs attribute their miraculous powers to their ability to hold their breath. Modern investigators claim that holding the breath generates a poison in the system which causes the seemingly supernormal visions which these Hindus delight to describe.

How long a fakir can hold his breath is a matter of doubt by the Western world, though the Eastern writers claim that he can hold it for days.

Doctors Bourgeois and Binet of France have found that normal adults are capable of holding their breath from forty to fifty seconds. This count varied often, however, since the average person is able to hold his breath for a longer time while lying down than when he is expending muscular effort sitting or standing.

The doctors found that patients suffering from pulmonary emphysema or from chronic bronchitis were unable to hold their breath for more than approximately twenty seconds. If the lungs were affected with tuberculosis, the time was even shorter and was often reduced to fourteen seconds.

Certain people troubled with heart trouble were able to hold their breath for a considerable time, though not so long as the normal person. If the patient was suffering with a heart condition known as "compensated" he could hold his breath for about thirty-five seconds, but those whose hearts were not "compensated" and whose affection was hyposystolic were able to go only nineteen seconds without breathing. In general, the more serious the trouble, the shorter the person could hold his breath.

LAKEFIELD TEAM ARE COMING BACK STRONG

Only Intermediate This Week is Booked for Tuesday Night at Brock Street. Full Line Up Will Be Sent Against Visitors.

BRINGING ROOTERS.

The only intermediate O.H.A. fixture this week will be staged at Brock Street Rink tomorrow night, when the Lakefield crew will try conclusions with the Peterborough intermediates. Although the Petes won in Lakefield on Friday, the northerners are the trying kind, and they claim they will make a much better showing on the local ice box than they did at home. In the past they have had a habit of doing that very thing, and the Sabatino-Blewett-Ridpath crew declare that the Petes will not be able to do any loafing tomorrow night if they want to stay at the top of the heap in the group race.

A bunch of fans will be down from Lakefield to see the battle and the visitors will not lack support. They would just as soon trim Peterborough as win the O.H.A. title, and every manjack will be out there tomorrow night giving the last ounce he has to turn the trick. The blue and white squad are not underestimating the Cementville delegates and will have their strongest line-up in action.

As this will be the last intermediate game here for perhaps two weeks, the fans cannot afford to overlook the fixture, and there promises to be a big crowd out.

RANDOM NOTES ON SPORT

Two Hockey Games And Boxing Bill Comprise This Week's Programme For The Fans. City Leagues Will Be Started.

Early guesses that Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough would win their local groups and furnish much of the excitement in early February still holds good. All three teams are well away and stand undefeated. The Petes, of course, are not out of the woods by any means. With fast ice, hard games may be expected at Lindsay. Belleville looks to be the weak sister, Ed. Thomas being without Len. Crooks and the Holway team of last season.

—o—

The Petes have a pair of games here this week. The intermediates meet Lakefield on Tuesday night, and the juniors entertain Lindsay next Friday night. With a boxing bill sandwiched in, the sport calendar for the week should be satisfactory to the fans.

—o—

Capacity crowds are being recorded from all parts of the O.H.A. circuit, from which it would appear that the winter game has lost none of its popularity. Petedborough gave the intermediates a great opening crowd, and it is hoped that similar patronage will be accorded the juniors next Friday night. The Jackson-LeBarr squad present a formidable line-up, and the men behind have done a lot of hard work in preparing the team for action.

—o—

Clubs and fans along the Trent are taking their hockey seriously. Hastings with a very strong team promises to make the race decidedly interesting. With two divisions going strong and a play-off after the regular schedules, the open-air rinks will see a lot of excitement.

—o—

Junior and Juvenile City Hockey teams will be called together this week to organize. The O.H.A. teams having been selected, there remain a large number of youthful and promising players to be cared for. Clubs and individuals willing to help along the good work should round up their teams this week.

—o—

Billy Cutt is very much in the limelight these days, and his victories at the International Tourney at Buffalo will add to his reputation as a skilful boxer. Al. Williams, the Peterborough boy who meets Cutt at the C.W.V.A. Hall next Wednesday night, has been training hard and saying nothing. Williams has met some clever boxers in his somewhat lengthy ring career and he expects to make a good showing against the Rochester lad.

Stoneman of the Giants believes baseball would derive a great moral benefit from a world's tour. ..... Stoneman, having been indicted in a bucket shop scandal, is well qualified to speak on the subject of morals.

Hockey Player Killed by Puck

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Harold B. Reese of Cedarhurst, L. I., a member of the Princeton freshman hockey team, died in the McCosh Infirmary Sunday from an injury which he received on Saturday when he was struck in the head by a hockey stick in the course of a game between the Princeton freshmen and a team representing the New York branch of the Canadian Royal Bank.

Reese, a star member of the team, was struck in the temple in a scrimmage for the puck and fell unconscious.

HAMILTON LET VICTORY SLIP

Had Senators Blanked With Four Minutes to Go But Lost Out by 2 to 2.

HAMILTON, Jan. 13—For fifty-six minutes of Saturday night's H.H.L. fixture here Hamilton outplayed and outscored the fast Ottawa team by a score of 2 to 0. Then the bottom fell out of the Thompson machine and in less time than it would take to tell it, Nighbor and Boucher tied up the count. This necessitated over time and after fourteen and a half minutes of play Broadbent bulged the twine for the leaders, giving them a 3 to 2 verdict.

It was a bitter pill to swallow, but the sixty three hundred fans, a record crowd, that saw the performance, are consoled in fact that it was the fastest and most interesting game staged on local ice in several years. There was not a dull moment From the time Referee Art Rose dropped the puck between Burch and Nighbor to start proceedings, until the game was won, there was action galore. Ottawa, noted for their clean play, did not take kindly to the fact that they were being outplayed and not one member of the squad passed up an opportunity of using the body or stick to good effect. However, Hamilton handed back one for every one received so there was little to complain, about in this respect.

It all happened so quickly that those who looked away from the ice for a few seconds will be unable to tell how it happened. Hamilton was sailing along two goals in front and only four minutes of playing time left. Those who had loosened up the overcoats early in the game began to button them up. They felt certain that the Bengals would be returned winners, and Manager Thompson was of the same opinion. He pulled Burch Roach and Prodger from the forward line and sent the Green Brothers and Corbett Denneny in to hold the fort. They proved unequal to the task and victory was turned into defeat before one could realize just what had taken place.

MAY ORGANIZE JUNIOR LEAGUE

Effort Started in Trent Group to Give the Younger Players A Chance to Break Into Hockey.

HASTINGS, Jan. 14.—A movement is on foot to organize a junior hockey league, comprising the following towns: Campbellford, Warkworth, Keene, Hastings and Norwood.

A meeting was held in the Spellman House Tuesday evening and W. Wellman was elected manager.

This league would consist of all boys under the age of 20, but would be full of lots of ginger, as the younger boys play on the same ice as the intermediates.

The juniors of this year would probably help fill in the vacancies of the 1925 team in the intermediate series, and they are deserving of recognition and encouragement.

Hastings is sure of a crack junior team, as all of 1923 juveniles who won the honors of Eastern Ontario O.A.L.A. are still in town and can play hockey as well as they did lacrosse in the past summer.

Marathon Cyclists Win Grind By a Lap.

CHICAGO, January 14 (Canadian Press). — Oscar Egg, of Switzerland, and Alfred Grenda, of Tasmania, won the six-day bicycle race which ended at the Coliseum here at eleven o'clock on Saturday night.

The winning combination travelled 2,434 miles and 5 laps.

Hy. Kockler and Carl Stockholm, both of Chicago, were second, and were a lap behind the winners.

Egg and Grenda took a lead of one lap last Wednesday night, and they held it until the finish.

During the final hour of sprinting last night, when every mile was a sprint and every sprint counted 72 points, the leaders made no attempt to forge ahead, but contented themselves with keeping up with the field.

JACK WILLIAMS QUALIFIED EOR CENTRAL LEAGUE

Belleville's Southpaw Swayed by Promise To His Wife—"Chuck" Allen Applies for Umpiring Job.

COBOURG UNDECIDED

OSHAWA, Jan. 14.—(Special to Examiner).—After reading all the newspaper despatches on the bronze colored portsider, Jackie Williams of Belleville, and his big "movie" stunt which covered all towns in the Central Ontario Baseball League, Ottawa, Toronto, Baltimore and St. Thomas, information was received by the Secretary of the Central Ontario League on Saturday morning that the bronze colored curve ball artist qualified under the league's and Ontario Baseball Amateur Association's residence rule of "on or before January 1st" by having his New Year's Day dinner in the Quinte City at the residence of Ray Carr, the railroad man who was sponser for the introduction of the good left-hander to the Central Ontario League two years ago, but while Jackie hangs his hat up in or around Belleville he is as elusive as the big game in the woods around Verona, for it is known that he carries around tempting offers to jump to the "per month" class, but from reports his better half whom he promised to love and cherish until death does part refuses to leave the land of the "Maple Leaf." and loyalty on both sides is likely to prevail in the interests of the Quinte City during the coming season.

Allen's Application.

The first application for an umpire's berth in the Central Ontario Baseball League for the coming season was received on Saturday morning from Charlie "Chuck" Allen of Toronto, who was utility man for Lindsay in 1922, playing the infield, outfield, and also worked from the left side on the rubber. "Chuck" writes that "being unable to play regularly, the next best thing is umpiring," and believes he could fill the position O.K. The applicant expects to locate in Sandy Lockington's town during the summer months and would be centrally located to all points in the league and available at opening of season. His references includes the past presidents or managers of any teams in the Central Ontario Baseball League.

Cobourg's Position.

Although no definite information has been received, Cobourg are wavering as to senior or intermediate baseball during the coming season, and it is likely a meeting of the Central League Executive will be called in the near future to hear Kingston's appeal for a second consideration as to their admission for the season 1924.

BOTH BOWMANVILLE TEAMS PROMINENT

Intermediates Leading Their Group With Victory in Trenton an Advantage. This Week's Games.

OSHAWA, Jan. 14.—With just enough hockey in intermediate group No. 3 and junior group No. 4 of the O.H.A. to give the different teams the once over, "Ginger" Edger's Bowmanville crew of intermediates look like the team to beat for group honors, for their win in Trenton gives them the jump on other teams as having won a game away from home and a total of two wins and one loss, the latter being in Oshawa, when the element of luck played a prominent part in their defeat. The Edgerites have a sweet working outfit from goal out, with youth and experience, all having graduated together from the junior series. Port Hope and Oshawa will likely be chasing the leaders close, but the latter will need strengthening at right wing and on the defence before they are considered serious contenders. The present standing of the intermediate group is;

	Won.	Lost.
Bowmanville	2	1
Port Hope	1	0
Oshawa	1	0
Whitby	1	1
Trenton	0	2

Games This Week.

Jan. 15—Oshawa at Whitby; Trenton at Port Hope.

Jan. 18.—Port Hope at Bowmanville; Whitby at Trenton.

The Junior Group.

In the junior series Bowmanville are again out in front with two straight wins, one at home and away, with Oshawa in second place, having beaten Cobourg in the Motor Town, and Cobourg third with one win and one loss. These three teams hook up this week—Oshawa goes to Cobourg on Monday night and Bowmanville to Oshawa on Wednesday. Oshawa gets the real acid test within the next seven playing days as they are schedule for four games, one at home and three away, and as the Motor Town fans are all hit up with their junior organization since the victory over the Ferry Town team, all ways of transportation will be in demand the next week, and when the seven days of excitement are over the chances of the spark plugs for winning the junior group will be practically known.

American Banks on His Speed In Skate Events.

VALENTINE BIALAS.

America pins much of its hopes to the steel shod strides of Valentine Bialas in the coming Olympic tests. Bialas is the speed king of the Lake Placid regions, and is expected to star in the international contests at Chamounix, France, the latter part of January.

SURPRISES IN SOCCER GAMES

The Corinthian's Defeat of Blackburn Rovers was Greatest Upset of Week-End. Weather Was Unpleasant.

LONDON, January 14 (Canadian Press Cable). — Play in the first round of the English Football Association Cup on Saturday was considerably handicapped by the elements. Strong, gusty winds added to greasy fields made several of the contests extremely indifferent exhibitions of football.

The menacing weather, however, did not affect the gates to any appreciable extent, and nearly three-quarters of a million people paid approximately a quarter of a million dollars to see the teams in action.

The tilt between The Wednesday and Leicester City, played at Sheffield, attracted the record crowd of the series, about 40,000 spectators being present to cheer the downfall of Leicester by a 4 to 1 score.

Eight cup ties were played in the Metropolis, and these attracted nearly 200,000 fans. As usual, they yielded a good crop of surprises.

Will Tour Canada.

The greatest upset of the afternoon was the victory of the Corinthians over Blackburn Rovers. As a result of this the Corinthians, who are slated for a tour of Canada this year, are the only team of amateur standing to be left in the running. Their visit is exceedingly popular and some there be who predict that the amateurs will go still further in the contests.

The downfall of Tottenham Hotspurs at the hands of the Second Division club, Crystal Palace, was utterly unsuspected, but of the defeat of Sunderland by Oldham Athletic it can only be said that it is simply astounding.

The London clubs had a fairly good day all told, but it is considered that unless there is a material improvement in the all-round standard of play, there seems little prospect of teh trophy being brought back to the Metropolis this year.

A Thrilling Game.

How the Corinthians will stack up against the best sides they may be called upon to meet can only be conjectured.

But Saturday's performance was sufficiently meritorious to give hope of their continuing for some time yet in the competition. Their game with Blackburn Rovers, the doughtiest of cup fighters, was packed with thrills. It was clean, brilliant and vigorous football, especially in the opening fifteen minutes, when the amateurs could not keep the ball away from their goal mouth, and constant changes in their fortunes were the outstanding features of their play.

Blackburn persisted in the short passing game, which was never effective.

On the other hand the Corinthians swung the ball well out from wing to wing, and interspersing this with quick combined movements of the inside trio, they were always more dangerous in front of the goal.

The match between Newcastle United and Portsmouth was remarkable inasmuch as the men from the naval city were leading by 2 goals at the interval. Yet, Newcastle turned the tables on them, and the end of the second period found the game standing 4 to 2 in favour of the Tynesiders.

Stoke, who were up against Leeds United, lost the services of Clarke when the game was only five minutes old. This player was carried off the field with fractured leg. At that, however, they held down the Yorkshiremen to 1 to 0.

Player Dismissed.

Queen's Park Rangers completely outplayed Notts County, yet they managed to lose the game. The tilt was unpleasant all the way through, and was featured by the constant sounding of the whistle for penalties. These culminated in the dismissal from the field of Copp, the Notts County half-back, in the second half.

In The Wednesday-Leicester City game three penalties brought two goals for the Sheffield men, while the other one was saved.

Bradford was down three goals at half-time. They changed colours at the interval, but could not change their luck. Swindow sook them into camp by 4 to 0.

TRIS SPEAKER EFFECTS DEAL

Traded Four Players For Three From Boston Red Sox, Who also Get Beach of Detroit.

BOSTON, January 14 (Canadian Press). — President Robert Quinn, of the Boston American League Club, has confirmed reports of two deals which he said would "materially strengthen the Red Sox behind the bat, in the infield, and in the outfield."

To the Boston Club will come Bobby Veach, outfielder, from the Detroit Club, and Catcher Steve O'Neill, Second Baseman Wambsganss, Pitcher Boone, and Outfielder Connolly, from Cleveland; Georme Burns, first baseman; Wilson (Chick) Fewster, second baseman, and Al. Walters, catcher, leave the Boston Club for Cleveland.

President Quinn, in his announcement, said that the acquisition of Veach was through an outright cash deal with the Detroit Tigers, but the amount of money involved was not made public.

The Cleveland deal, he said, was a trade with no cash figuring in it, merely an exchange of three Red Sox players for four from Cleveland.

Burns, who came to the Red Sox from Cleveland several seasons ago, is thus returning to his former haunts. He was one of the mainstays of last year's Red Sox, and ranks high in the American League as a batter.

Fewster and Walters both came to Boston from the Yankees in deals during the Frazee regime at Fenway Park.

Billie Cutt Won Buffalo Honors

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press)—Billie Cutt, amateur boxer from Rochester, won premier honors here Saturday night in the Intercity Tourney between Buffalo, Rochester, Hamilton and Toronto. Cutt defeated Jeston Briggs in the first bout, and in the finals defeated Al. Green of Hamilton. Briggs is from Buffalo.

Green defeated Bobby Booth of Toronto in the preliminaries, and Cutt and Green fought in the finals.

Both of Cutt's victories were decisions.

FIRST GAME OF SCOTTISH CUP

Partick Thistle Easily Defeated Dunkeld. Scores Indicate Keen Fight.

GLASGOW, January 14 (Canadian Press Cable). — The first game of the Scottish Cup play this year took place on Saturday, when Partick Thistle met and easily defeated Dunkeld, an obscure amateur aggregation.

The first round proper opens on 26th January.

In the League games of the First Division, Glasgow Rangers, the leaders, struggled through their contest with Dundee with a one-goal draw, which taken with the defeat of the top-notchers last week at the hands of Ayr United, would suggest that there will still be a fight for the leadership of the Scottish League.

Airdrieonians had an easy win over St. Mirren, and hence crawled up one point nearer to the leaders.

Celtic improved their position by defeating Third Lanark, but Raith Rovers located their jinx again when once more they succumbed to the Hibernians, their second defeat by the Irishmen from Easter Road for the present season.

Clydebank, who for lon have reposed in the League cellar, emerged from it on Saturday, and turned the place over to Queen's Park. Clydebank did well in registering a 3 to 2 win over Kilmarnock, while the Queen's Park team succumbed 5 to 2 to Heart of Midlothian.

Only seven games out of ten were played in the Second Division.

IRISH SOCCER.

BELFAST, January 14 (Canadian Press Cable). Irish football Association results in the first round of the Antrim Shield on Saturday were as follows:

BOWLING

LEADS FOR LADIES PRIZE

Miss W. Coon is still leading the ladies for the beautiful boudoir lamp which is being given to the lady rolling the highest single Miss Coon's score is 161.

WINS FIVE PIN PRIZE.

Joe Mardsen won last weeks' five pin prize for the high three games. Marsden rolled 683 for his three games.

COMES CLOSE AGAIN.

Bill Smithson again came close to rolling the perfect score in ten pins. Smithson rolled a wonderful score of 298, just two pins of the perfect score. Smithson a short while ago rolled 299, just one pin off the perfect. Smithson rolled 11 strikes in a row and on his last ball he got 8 pins, giving him 298. Smithson has rolled some nice scores in ten pins, having rolled twice now within 2 and 1 pins off the perfect score, and also hung up a record for a high average for 15 consecutive games.

Miske's Estate 2,450, Benefit On Tuesday.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Conadian Press).—An estate of $2,450, of which $2,250 is in real estate, was left to his widow by Billy Miske, St. Paul pugilist, who died New Year's Day. His will was filed for probate Saturday.

Plans for the Miske testimonial boxing program here next Tuesday neared completion yesterday. Several prominent boxers, including Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, and Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, are among the stars to appear on the program, the proceeds of which will go to Mrs Miske and her three children.

English Jockey Dies From Injury In Field.

LONDON, January 14 (Canadian Press). — After having been unconscious for sixteen days, Captain G. H. Bennet, England's premier gentleman jockey, died yesterday from injuries received in a fall from his horse during the Otely Chase at Wolverhampton, on 27th December.

An operation was performed on Saturday in an attempt to relieve a blood clot on the brain.

Last year Mr. Bennet rode the American horse Sergt. Murphy to victory in the Grand National Steeplechase, England's classic race over the hurdles.

HOPPE RETAINS TITLE

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press)—Willie Hoppe, of New York retained his world's 18.2 balkline billiards championship Saturday night by concluding his three-night, 1,500-point match with Welker Cochran of Los Angeles, with a 1,500 to 1,189 victory. Hoppe's score for the final 500 point block was 500 against Cochran's 346. The champion had entered the final block with a lead of 157 points.

HAD GOOD WORKOUT

Coach Alan Whyte had the Examiner team out for its first workout Saturday. The boys were in pretty fair shape for the first time out, and the prospects of a good fast team is assured. A few of the boys out were: Gordon Long, Bob Baker, Harry Dugan, Bill Collins, Roy Taylor, Harry Clarke, Ralph Holyman, Leo Choinard, Harry Dewhurst, Leonard Hayward, "Red" Franks, Wes Clarke and Coach Whyte himself.

INTERNATIONAL CURLING.

UTICA, N.Y., January 14 (Canadian Press). — The Gordon International Medal Competition, the blue ribbon event of the curling world, will be staged in this city on 2nd February.

Leading rinks of the United States and Canada will compete.

It is expected Canada will send 10 or 12 rinks for the competition.

HOW MANY THREES CAN YOU MAKE IN EIGHTEEN-HOLE MATCH?

By JOE WILLIAMS

Normally a golfer is perfectly satisfied with himself when he gets his full quota of threes in an 18-hole match. The average course offers two three holes on the first nine, and two on the second, with perhaps one or two other holes where a tee shot of uncommon length will come close to the rim of the green, thus making possible an additional three or threes.

However, a golfer is stepping at high speed when he scores more than four threes during a round, and this goes for the stars as well as the duffers. Just what is the record if any, in this respect we are not qualified to say.

We witnessed one performance of "threes or no count" several months back and have an authenticated record of another which we are willing to accept as extraordinary golf if not record breakers. Bob Jones, Atlanta amateur and present open champion, and Emmet French, an Ohio professional, were the two young gents who put Messrs. Par and Bogey to utter rout.

French scored threes on nine of the 18 holes; Jones went him one better with eight threes and a two It strikes us that this is particularly brilliant golf. If you dissent, go out some day and try to score nine threes on the first nine holes at your course.

French's Great Sport

French, teamed with another Ohio pro, was playing in a best ball match against Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood over a new course at Madison O. The course is 6300 yards long, and a stiff enough test of golf for anybody. French scored successive birdie threes at the first, third and fourth holes. The seventh and ninth are par three holes and he got his threes there, giving him five for the first nine. The tenth is a par five hole and he scored it in three, an eagle. A birdie three at the twelfth a par three at the fifteenth and another at the seventeenth igves him a total of nine for the round.

Jones' performance is more than a year old. It was recorded over the East Lake course in Atlanta in a friendly foursome. Every putt was holed and every tee shot played from the back tees. This gave the course a championship distance of more than 6500 yards.

Jones' Best Golf

Jones started with 3-2 beating par at each hole by a stroke. At the sixth and eighth holes he scored par threes. This gave him four holes in trees or better at the turn. He scored a par three at the eleventh and a birdie three at the twelfth. Next a breathing spell and then a startling finish, three threes in a row, birdies at the sixteenth and seventeenth holes, and even par at the home hole.

This constitutes a record for Jones, eight threes and a two during one round, and if it's a record for him, it comes close to being a record for the world.

Jones' score for the round, incidentally was 63, nine better than par French was not so spectacular in this respect. His score for the round was 68, four better than par. An astonishing feature in connection with French's spurt is that he was able to score as low as he did, for his card also showed a profusion of fives, no fewer than six, to be exact.

HON. BIGGS WILL NOT ACCEPT A LEADERSHIP

HAMILTON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press)—Hon. F. C. Biggs will not accept the leadership of the farmer-labor group in the Provincial House. When interviewed on Tuesday, the former Minister of Public Works stated he would have a definite answer in a few days. When spoken to at his home yesterday, he announced that he would not accept the party's offer "I am out of the running," he said.

Hon. Mr. Biggs added that he did not know who would be the probable choice.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — United Press —Frank B. Kellogg, American ambassador to the Court of St. James, presented his credentials to King George at Buckingham Palace today.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

DANNY SIMONS, PETERBORO OLD BOY HEADS VAUDEVILLE BILL AT ROYAL

Danny Simons, comedian, born and raised right here in Peterboro is the featured vaudeville attraction to-night at the Royal. This fact alone will tax the seating capacity of any local theatre, but for good measure two other clever acts are on the same program "The Village Four" Kings and Queens of Harmony and Davies and Norton comedy skit "A Quarter to Ten." All vaudeville presented at the Royal is chosen by their Detroit representative and many big acts are listed.

The photoplay end of to-night's program is worthy of more than passing mention. James Cruze's latest comedy "To the Ladies," with Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Louise Dresser etc. If you like pure wholesome comedy you'll revel in this one.

ROBERTS FINELY CAST

Theodore Roberts with his ever-present cigar is a featured player in the cast of the James Cruze Paramount production, "To the Ladies," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre to-day to remain for three days. His role is that of John Kincaid, millionaire piano manufacturer Edward Horton, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser are also feature in prominent roles. The story, an adaptation of the stage play of the same title, is an absorbin comedy of the bright side of small-town factory and social life. Walter Woods wrote the scenario and Karl Brown did the photography.

AT THE GRAND.

REX. CO. IN "ENIMIES."

A Splendid Production At The Grand for the Week-End.

The play which the Rex Stock Company produced at the GRAND Opera House on Thursday evening was 'Enemies,' and it was splendidly acted. Mr. Snelgrove is usually seen in a comedy role, and perhaps this is because he things that this is the part that is the most popular and perhaps those are the parts he likes best to play. However, there are some of us who realize that Mr. Snelgrove does some of his best acting when in a character on make-up role, and the performances of last evening verified this.

Miss Ethel Van Orden as "the mother," does some very clever acting, and handled the role in a very charming manner. William Yule, as "Henry" is real good. He impersonates a good many different characters, from time to time, and he is splendid in very one Miss Vaughan as 'Marie,' was her own charming self, while Herbert Lewis came into the full limelight for the first time, and handled his part in a most capable manner. The balance of the cast were well chosen and did themselves credit.

There were two vaudeville numbers betewen the acts. Fred Dampier entertained with one of his special songs, and a most splendid recitation, while Seymour and Williams, who are always well received, did full justice to their art of making fun for the audience.

Mr. Snelgrove announced his play for next week, which will be "East Lynne." This is an old favorite and should be a large drawing card. It will be produced in five acts and something like ten scenes. Also on Friday evening of next week there will be an amateur contest, which should prove very entertaining.

—Kingston Standard.

Dante, the famous European conjurer, wonder worker and illusionist, will appear under the management of Thurston, "King of Magicians," at the Grand Opera House, for three days, beginning Thursday, January 17th, Matinee Saturday.

Dante has been the reigning sensation of continental countries for past decade. Thurston has been endeavoring to get him to come to America for several years and has at last succeeded.

On the occasion of a dinner given to him in New York shortly after his arrival Dante had this to say regarding masculine versus feminine psychology:

"Men are far more emotional than women. Women 'give way' to their feelings more often than men, principally because they consider it their privilege to do so.

"Men are more apt to cry out in an emotional crisis than women. In sudden emergency, in real danger, women always shine.

"The average woman is three times as game as the average man when it comes to real suffering."

"Man's coolness and apparent nonchalance on exciting occasions is seldom more than skin deep."

"Men are more easily flattered than women. Women are used to flattery and take it as their due. Men so seldom receive it that when they do it usually 'bowls them over.'"

"I would never think of inviting a committee of ladies to come up on a stage and witness my experiments or illusions at close range. They, I assure you, are far too keen."

Among the illusions and mysteries which Dante is presenting in his coast-to-coast tour are. "The Ghost Woman," psychic phenomena of the age. You may ask her any question. She is said to be unequalled as an exponent of mental telepathy.

Alvin's Six Musical Wizards, a sextette of merry melody makers, augmented by Dante's travesty impersonations of famous conductors.

The mysterious Chinese Fountain, of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient oriental splendor. Also such enthralling wonders as Creation, the Phantom Woman, the Miracle, the Great East Indian Rope Trick, Vanishing Piano, the Lady and the Lion the Spirit Cabinet and a score of other weird, mystical effects bordering on the supernatural.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS IN "TATTEERLEY."

Another of the double-role efforts in which Bransby Wiiams evidently delights, and in which his talent shows to such good advantage, was his offering for the Saturday night performance at the Grand Opera Opera House of 'Tatterley." a domestic play in four acts. Intensely English in atmosphere, staged in the coaching days of old England, with its women in ringlets and fichu'd dresses, its men in high stocks and mulberry coats and tight trousers, "Tatterley" was like a Bulwer-Lytton novel. It abounds in soliloquy. Much of the action is explained to audience by the actors themselves, as they occupy the stage in turn and recount their desires and hopes and fears in monologue.

Bransby Williams is Caleb Fry, an old misanthope, who his alienated from himself all his relatives, and, with the exception of the old servitor, Tatterley, has not a friend in the world. Caleb has a magic touch that doubles and trebles his money, and is possessed of much wealth. Because his nephew, Donald Brett, a part played by Leslie Barrie persists in painting pictures and in marrying a young girl whose father has been ruined in business by Caleb, he dis inherits him, and makes a will in favor of a cousin, Hector Kindon. As the dashing Hector, the actor's tall son Eric Bransby Wiliams, has a fine part, enacted splendidly. He is the conscienceless handsome young rake who wishes to part Donald and his wife, the lovely and loyal Ella Tarrant, whose character is well portrayed by Nina Gerard.

The old servant pleads with his master for Donald, and is refused by the grim old man. He dies, and when Caleb discovers him lying in his own chair, remorse takes hold of him, and he decides to impersonate Tatterley and allow himself to be thought dead, so that he may watch the reaction on his relatives and heir.

And the ensuing scenes is played out the grim farce, with the tyrranical old man appearing as the meek old servant. His changes of heart and character are acomplished with tragic swiftness, and a later scene sees him pleading in the same fashion.

The changes wrought in the character Caleb, and the manner in which his old-time fire springs out occasionally through the mask of servitude, are wonderfully done by the versatile actor. The influence of his art on what might have been a draggy vehicle in other, less-skillhands was evidenced in the manner in which life and action seemed to spring into the play on his apoearance in the middle of the first scene a somewhat prosaic and commonplace affair before his arrival.

Progressing through intervals that sometimes promise a tragic finale, the play has a charming ending, with the real character of Caleb revealed to his young relatives, who have befriended the aged Tatterley as a matter of kindness, and the rascally nephew cast out. A touch of comedy is introduced in the impersonation of a fussy and tittering old maid, Miss Mille Prynne, played by Miss Ida Millais, and in the henpecked uncle and his wife, Hopworth Mallows and Mrs. Mallows, enacted by Charles Leighton and Minnie Watersford. Fred Forrest takes the part of the kindly Irish-voiced physician, Dr. Curnock; George Temple is Mr. Bird, a clerk and Douglas Iyes is a solicitor, Mr. Keightly. The role of the old servant, who dies in the first act, is played by Percy Baverstock.

On the afternoon, Mr. Williams once more entertained his audience which, like the evening, was a small but intensely appreciative one, in the role of the great French detective, Vidocq, an entirely different part which served to emphasize once more the actor's great versatility, and gave him scope, in his delineation of six different characters, for his outstanding talent.

In the evening, curtain calls followed each other in rapid sucession after each act. At the finale curtain, Mr. Williams appeared for a brief speech. Alluding once more to the fallacy of the idea that Canada wanted English plays and players, he thanked, in sincere and hearty fashion, all who had patronzied his plays in Peterboro, and spoke of a tenative arrangement in the making which may bring him back to the city within a few weeks for an evening of poems, monologues and readings.

"As an actor, I say 'thank you,'" as a man, I say "God bless you," was the friendly final word of this English actor, who, despite small audiences, still retains his cheerfulness and has made a host of friends for himself and his art during his two visits to the city.

PRESENTATION AT COUNCIL MEETING

Gold Medals Will Be Presented to Peterboro's Life Saving Squad.

A unique ceremony will take place at to-night's meeting of the city council, when gold medals for life saving will be presented to four citizens of Peterboro, and the Governor General's medal will be presented to one.

The gold medals, donated by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., will be presented by the mayor to John Murphy, J. Abraham, Bernard Graham, and Frank Whitehouse, Jr.

The Governor-General's medal will be presented to H. Durland Allen. G. N. Gordon will probably make the presentation.

All council meetings are open to the public, and it is pointed out that to-night the presentations form an added reason why there should be a representative attendance of citizens. The presentation will take place at 8 o'clock.

HAPPY ENDING SEEN FOR ACTOR, NOW 60

Heir ot Fortune Won't Speak Until He Hears Cue

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 14.—Blosser Jennings for many years acted in plays where the poor boy suddenly finds himself heir to a fortune. When he was not acting he worked as a barber in Milwaukee shops. Today he is one of seven second cousins who claim an estate which, it is estimated, may total $8,500,000.

The actor-barber, now 60, has filed claims in Chicago on the estate of a second cousin, Edward B. Jennings, who died in California recently.

Jennings now has a little shop where he will continue to shave and give hair cuts until the fortune materializes.

The old actor is widely known in Milwaukee. For many years he worked in front of the footlights with the Shubert and Garrick stock companies.

When asked what he would do with his money, the old actor replied, "I never speak till I get my cue—and the cue will be when I am handed the money."

Mr. Jennings is married. He has no children.

HE GOT THE CAKE

"When I was in India," said the London club bore, "I saw a tiger come down to the water where some women were washing clothes. It was a very fierce tiger, but one woman, with great presence of mind, splashed some water in its face—and it slunk away."

"Gentlemen," said a man in an armchair. "I can vouch for the truth of this story. Some minutes after the incident occurred I was coming down to the water. I met this tiger, and, as is my habit, stroked its whiskers. Gentlemen, those whiskers were wet."—Tit-Bits.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

SANDWICHES

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

If the bread knife be sharp and the butter well creamed there should be no difficulty in making sandwiches.

All kinds of bread can be used for sandwiches, alone or in combination. The bread cuts better if a day old.

The purpose for which a sandwich is needed determines the size. A boy's school sandwich will reach proportions very different from a dainty afternoon tea sandwich. A picnic sandwich is something else again and the luncheon sandwich answers another purpose.

The fillings for sandwiches are much the same for any occasion. The size of the sandwich chiefly varies.

A sweet sandwich is as desirable in the lunch box as on the after-tea cart and a piquant meat filling is always good.

No matter what the mission of the sandwich it must be neat and symmetrical. The crusts should be removed and the butter in such a creamy state that the bread will not be torn in the spreading.

Many fillings are made smooth and creamy with butter. If this is the case the bread need not be buttered. Ordinarily a thin, even coating of butter prevents the bread from absorbing the filling and if sandwiches are to be packed for any length of time they will be more satisfactory of buttered bread.

Tea sandwiches can be made in the morning, wrapped in oiled paper and kept fresh in the bread box until needed.

This combination filling is timely after the Sunday dinner or at any time when left-over chicken is at hand. If used in the school lunch box the filling should be perhaps thicker than for the tea sandwich. The filling in a tea sandwich provides piquancy, rather than nourishment.

Combination Filling

Five tablespoons butter, 5 tablespoons minced cold boiled ham, 8 tablespoons minced cooked chicken, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Work butter to a cream with a fork. Add remaining ingredients and mix smooth. Spread on thin slices of bread and press firmly together.

A sandwich is often garnished in a most appetizing way. Sandwiches made of nut bread, thinly sliced and spread with butter can be made more attractive to look at if a whole half of a nut meat is placed in the center of each sandwich. Hold the nut in place with a bit of butter.

Jelly Sandwiches

Cut thin slices of bread in round shapes with a doughnut cutter. Cut the same number of slices with a round cutter the same size but without the center of the doughnut cutter. Spread the whole rounds of bread with creamed butter. Fill with jelly and cover with the ring of buttered bread. The jelly should be beaten until it spreads easily and finely chopped nuts can be added if desired.

Pimento Sandwiches

Pimento sandwiches are shaped in the same way that the jelly sandwiches are. Spread the circular pieces of bread with pimento butter, press the rings of bread in place and put a thin slice of olive stuffed with pimento in the hollow of the ring.

To make pimento butter, work four tablespoons butter to a cream with a wooden spoon. Rub two canned pimentos through a fine sieve. Work into butter, beating until smooth. Season with salt to taste.

Brown and White Bread Sandwiches

Cut thin slices of brown and white bread and shape to match. Spread with creamed butter and fill with cream cheese, minced olives and nuts worked smooth with a little cream. To two tablespoons cream cheese add one tablespoon each of olives and nuts.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. — Wall street displayed no concern over the proposed fight in the sur-tax schedule in the Mellon program and remained confident that the administrations strength would face a satisfactory solution.

Stocks favored in the early trading were issues helped by week end developments. The oils were strengthened by gasoline price advances averaging two cents in the territory served by the Standard Oil of New Jersey, which were followed by similar increases in Texas Company's districts.

Tide water oil made a new high on the move at 140 against last week's low of 121 7-8, anticipating an early betterment of the present $4 dividend rate. Tide water was one of the few oil companies which showed satisfactory 1923 earnings. Maracaibo led the low priced oils at 28 5-8, the best price on the movement. The steels were also buoyant.

Speculative sentiment was disturbed by the bad break in cast iron pipe which tumbled precipitately to 68 1-2 against last week's high of 84 5-8 as stated recently, insiders have been quietly liquidating holdings of this stock on the advance from 55 which was conducted under pool auspices. Officials of the company believe there is little prospect of continuance of the favorable rate of earnings enjoyed in 1923 when approximately $20 a share was shown for the common.

Another factor which promoted irregularity in the general list was the demoralization existing in French Exchange which experiences a further sharp drop along with a tumble in sterling and Belgian francs. Some houses advised the lightening of long committments because of the posible effect on the situation on economic conditions in this country. However, it was pointed out in banking circles that so far the only result of the depreciation on foreign currency has been the stimulation of investment in American stocks.

Francs at 1130 were quoted at $.043 1-2 off; $.0026 12 for a new low.

THE RELIGIOUS CONVENTION WAS OPENED TODAY

The Luncheon Today in the George Street Methodist Church Was Attended by About Thirty Ministers, Superintendents and Officers.

REV. DR. HAYWARD

The one-day Convention of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Religious Education Council, which is being held to-day in the Murray St. Baptist Church, opened with a noon session in the Sunday School Room of the George Street Methodist Church, where luncheon was served by the ladies of the church. The luncheon, which was for ministers, superintendents and officers, was attended by about thirty members of these branches of the Sunday School, and was addressed by Rev. Dr. Hayward of Toronto, on 'Our Greatest Need in the Field of Religious Education."

"Our task is this," said the reverend speaker, "to make the Christian religion, through the various agencies of the home, the pulpit, and the Sunday School, such a vital permanent and effective part of the experinece of boys and girls, as well as of men and women, as will make it an effective instrument in the world, for the saving of society and the establishing of the kingdom."

"I imagine that the work of your ministers would take a great step forward, if next Sunday, for instance, all those people who are on the fringe of your congregation, those whose "religion is inarticulate," who have a fundamental sympathy for everything you preach, but yet to whom religion is not a vital thing in their lives, because they don't know how to get themselves fitted in, if all those people were to suddenly become active members of the church, you would find your church greatly increased in effectiveness."

The trouble with such people, declared the speaker, was because when young they did not have, in their religious life, 'a natural, wholesome, satisfying, and self-chosen experience." This experience, as described, was what Dr. Hayward considered the paramount necessity for every living being, and the lack of it, he thought, was the reason that so many people particularly the young, became embarassed when questioned on religion. Their religious experience in the past has been embarassing, unsatisfying and unpleasant.

Three Implications

Three implications of this theory and the practical application of it in teaching the young, were given; firstly; the recruiting and equipping of the right sort of leadership in religious education in the home as well as the Sunday school, with particular attention given in the latter to the problems of young married people with small children; secondly: the cogging and fitting in of such religious education with the needs and developing stages of child life, in which connection the speaker illustrated the wrong idea, the adult idea of God as a hard and unsympathetic authority, held by the child who was foribdden a certain pastime on Sunday, and told her grandmother that she had asked Jesus if it was all right, and He had given her permission, but warned her not to let God knows about it; and thirdly; the inclusion in regular Sunday-school work of some of the character-forming, free and spontaneous activities of the mid-week lessons.

Objection Raised

Following the address, Rev. Mr. Manning, one of the ministers present, objected to the speaker's advice on the ground that it contained no reference to the influence of the carnal mind, or the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit, laying all stress on education and environment Mr. Joseph Wearing, rising to express his satisfaction with the address, considered that Rev. Dr. Hayward had not time to cover every phase of the question in the short period at his disposal, a contention repeated by Dr. Hayward himself, who emphasized his belief in both points brought forward by Mr. Manning, and reiterated his main idea as being the practical working out of such regenerating power by the men and women engaged in the work.

Mr. Wearing also moved a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies who provided the luncheon and also voiced a eulogy of the work of Mr. John Edgar, president of the local branch of the Religious Education Council.

Among those present from Toronto were Rev. C. W. DeMille, Rev. Mr. Hinks and Miss Allison, all leaders in Sunday school work, who will take part in the closing session at Murray street church this evening.

LONDON.—Engine drivers — they call them engineers in the U. S. A.—are coddling their iron steeds too much to suit British railway officials. Their affections, 'tis said, have disrupted schedules. Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

Autointoxication is believed by many laymen to refer to poisoning of the blood stream by absorption of waste matter from the intestines. This, of course, brings up the condition of intestinal obstruction, or a severe case of constipation.

In reality this is not true. There are rare cases, perhaps, when conditions of this kind happen and produce trouble, but not real autointoxication. It is possible in severe cases of strangulated hernia (complete bowel obstruction) or in rare cases of peritonitis. Even then it is doubted by many leading physicians if the poisoning of the system may be attributed to absorption from the intestines.

In my observation, the poisoning is due more to septic matter, which is the result of putrefaction in the gangrenous tissues of the system.

That there is such a condition most medical men admit. The real scientific definition of this condition is rather vague. It may therefore be described as a kind of self-poisoning, which occurs in the body when certain processes interfere with the system's growth and repair (metabolism). Diabetes will cause this condition, also certain acid conditions of the blood. Blood condition, partial coma in advanced stages of diabetes, uremic poisoning, all have the symptoms of what is usually called self-poisoning or autointoxication.

The real scientific conception of this trouble does not lend itself to any fixed cause, definition or particular treatment. There is always present, in any case where autointoxication may be said to exist, a lack of oxygenation. If the self-poisoning is due to this agent, or rather lack of it, one can readily avoid it by proper exercise and open air in most cases.

PARLIAMENT OPENS IN FATEFUL SESSION TO HEAR KING'S ADDRESS

Labour Gave the King an Attentive Hearing—Reference to the Protection Issue.

UNEMPLOYED PARADE

LONDON, Jan. 15. — (By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.—The fateful session of Parliament which may see the accession to power within a week of Britain's first Labor Government, was opened in state to-day by King George who delivered a speech from the Throne.

As His Majesty's address was read to the assembled House, there were crowded at the bar of the House of Lords, whither the commoners are summoned for such occasions, nearly two hundred Labor M.P.'s who expect, this time next week to be occupying the front benches with Ramsay MacDonald as Prime Minister.

Elbow to elbow with them were the more familiar figures of Parliament, former Premiers Lloyd George and H. S. Asquith, leaders of the Liberal party and their followers, and Stanley Baldwin and Robert Horne and the Conservatives, whose day in power has just about run.

There was a tendency to listen attentively to the King's words. It is on approval of the speech that the vote of confidence in Baldwin's Government will be taken. Among foreign affairs touched upon in the speech from the Throne, King George declared:

"My ministers, together with the Dominion representatives, have been anxious to remove the difficulty regarding illicit importation of liquor into the United States and have made proposals for an agreement which is on the eve of conclusion.

"This should further strengthen the happy relations prevailing between the two countries and peoples."

Protection Issue.

The much mooted question of how the Baldwin government, in view of its overwhelming defeat in the recent election on protection, would handle that subject in the King's speech at the opening of the new Parliament was settled to-day when the speech from the Throne candidly referred to the country's rejection of tariff proposals and indicated their abandonment by the government.

Mr. Baldwin thus faced the situation squarely in what is regarded as his swan song, as political experts see nothing but defeat for him in

Germany Anxious For Foreign Help

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—With the prospect of a foreign loan to help in the settlement of Germany's obligations becoming fainter, the question of financial aid from abroad in connection with the Government's effort to rehabilitate the national currency is again becoming acute. Such outside aid, even if given in expression, would prove an important factor in the Governments' determination to hold the mark through the present stabilization process until it has sufficient gold reserve in sight for the purpose of floating a gold-basis currency in the opinion of Berlin banking circles.

These circles estimate that a gold backing to a total of 600,000,000 marks guaranteed abroad would enable the Government, with the aid of the Reichsbank's present reserve, to launch safely an issue of two billion marks, which would have a 50 per cent. covering.

BRITISH COURT GREETS LEGATE

Frank B. Kellogg, New United States Ambassador, Received By King George at Buckingham.

LONDON, aJn. 15. — The new United States Ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg, was initiated into the formalities of the Royal Court today when he presented his credentials to King George at Buckingham Palace.

Soon after breakfast the Ambassador donned full evening dress, with the exception of a black waistcoat instead of white, and waited at his hotel for the Royal carriages which arrived with horses prancing and footmen in long scarlet coats seated on the dickeys.

Major General Sir John Hanbury-Williams, Marshall of the Diplomatic Corps, brilliantly uniformed, cock-hated and with a blaze of medals on his breast, escorted the sombrely clad United States envoy to the carriage, which was followed by two similar conveyances bearing Counsellor Post Wheeler, Secretary Frederick A. Sterling and other members of the embassy staff, also the naval and military attaches.

The procession clattered through the Mayfair district, held up traffic at the busy Hyde Park corner, swung up Constitutional Hill an disappeared through the arch into the inner courtyard of Buckingham Palace.

Court functionaries escorted the Ambassador's party to the waiting rooms, while Mr. Kellogg, with the marshall of the diplomatic corps and Sir Eyre Crowe, representing Foreign Secretary Curzon, went directly to the audience room, where the King, who was in full uniform, met the new ambasador and warmly grasped his hand.

After the formal introduction the officials withdrew and left His Majesty and the representative of the people of the United States alone in conversation for about 15 minutes.

The Ministers from Colombia, Ecudor and Salvador later presented their credentials to the King.

POLICE REPORT CONFESSION BY FOREIGN MINER

Austrian Alleged To Have Confessed Murder of George McLeod In Quarrel Over Bottle of Rum In Lethbridge Mine.

ARRESTED THURSDAY

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 15.—Dick Lopus, an Austrian, arrested by the police last Thursday, is alleged to have confessed yesterday to Sub-Inspector Scott of the Alberta Police, to the killing of George McLeod in the early hours of January 7.

The killing took place in the North American Coal Mine at Coalhurst, across the river from Lethbridge. Lopus, in his confession, the police say, admitted that he hit McLeod over the head with a heavy pipe wrench following a quarrel over a bottle of rum which they had been drinking.

The men had gone down into the mine with some others Sunday night to prepare for the next day's work and were looking after some pumps. Lopus and McLeod, who had worked together for thirteen years, were alone. A quarrel developed. Lopus says McLeod hit him and then he hit McLeod twice over the head. He knew McLeod was dead when he left him lying there.

CABINET AWAITS FORMAL REQUEST

St. Lawrence Power Development Scheme Must Be Brought Formally Before Federal Government—Still Non-Commital.

TORONTO, January 15. Canadian Press. — The Ontario Government at a Cabinet meeting yesterday, formally authorized the Provincial Hydro Electric Commission to apply to the Dominion Government for permission to undertake the St. Lawrence power development project.

The Ottawa Government has discussed the project rather thoroughly with Sir Adam Beck, his engineers, and other officials of Ontario, but has it is said, been non-committal in the matter of actual co-operation which it will lend to the scheme. The formal application of the Hydro will place squarely before the Dominion Government the necessity for definite action in the matter, as the necessary water treaty with the United States, which will have to be concluded, comes within the scope of the Federal government.

The basis upon which the Ontario Government is proposing to the Federal government that work be undertaken, is one whereby the Dominion government contributes approximately $7,500,000, and the Province $30,000,000. The remaining $37,500,000, which will be necessary to complete the work, is to be paid by the United States as its share of the enterprise.

The St. Lawrence situation at present is such that a dam in the vicinity of Morrisburg is necessary for the maintenance of navigation levels The construction of such a dam which would not be suitabl for power purposes would cost the Dominion government $7,500,000.

The suggestion of the Provincial Government now is that this sum should be paid over to it, that it add $30,000,000, and that a dam suitable for the St. Lawrence power scheme should be constructed.

Old Wines and Rich Viands Were Paris Chefs' Tribute to Experts

PARIS, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Catering to the members of the expert reparations committees at their first official luncheon, the chefs of one of Paris' most renowned restaurants delved into their authorities on cooking and the wine stewards extricated ancient vintages from their cobwebbed nests, in an effort to show the foreign experts that there was one phase of life in which France, despite her admittedly difficult situation, was still supreme—namely good eating and drinking.

The Reparation Commission's guests opened the proceedings with hors d'oeuvres and poached eggs de la Henry the Fourth; lobster Theodora following. The first three dishes were washed down by Bordeaux wine, just a half century old. Chicken a L'Americaine, came next, accompanied by Musigny wine of 1878. Flemish salad and Norwegian, Souffle. A dessert of fruit concluded the menu with Glace Porto of the year 1848, then cafe, liquers and cigars.

The repast cost the reparation Commission, 110 francs, or about $5 at the present rate of exchange, per plate.

DIDN'T RECEIVE LIQUOR MONEY

Former Premier Sir Richard Squires of Newfound land Denies Allegations Of His Book-keeper.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. Jan. 15.—That the first phase of the investigation into alleged wrong-doings which led to the resignation of Sir Richard Squires and his colleague, Hon. Dr. Campbell last summer, is nearing a close was made evident when yesterday afternoon Mr. Howley, for the defence put the former Prime Minister on the stand. Sir Richard denied "in toto" the allegations made by Mrs. Harsant to the effect that of the moneys she received from J. T. Meaney, then Liquor Controller, at least half were paid to him personally. It was impossible for him he stated to confirm or to deny Mrs Harsant's statement that the balance of such advances of departmental funds by Meaney had been used in connection with his law office because he had absolutely no knowledge of such alleged transactions and because the law books of his firm in the custody of Mrs. Harsant during the period under investigation were in a "hopeless mess."

Sir Richard also testified that when he was leaving this country for a trip abroad in 1920 he left with Mrs. Harsant, then Miss Miller a series of blanks signed promissory notes for use should a financial emergency arise during his absence.

Direct Contradiction

This was in direct contradiction to Mrs. Harsant who had sworn that on this occasion Sir Richard had instructed her that should a need for funds arise she should seek the money first of her brother, J. J. Miller, of the British Empire Steel Corporation plant on Bell Island and as a last resort should endeavor to obtain accommodation of J. T. Meaney, the Liquor Controller. He showed that he was abroad during practically the whole period covered by these transactions.

Asked by Counsel, Sir Richard stated he had been through his bank accounts and could find no agreement between deposits made to his credit at various times and the amounts concerned in the various check and I. O. U. trasactions on which the charge against him was based.

Debt Was Surprise

Sir Richard confirmed Mrs. Harsant's story that an amount of four thousand dollars had been repaid the Department of the Liquor Controller on his return from one of the trips abroad. He had done this at the advice of Miss Miller that the amount was due. He had had no prior knowledge of the transactions which created this debt. It was a surprise to him and an obligation that he hastened to discharge. Sir Richard was on the stand for one hour when closing time arrived. His examination was resumed by Mr. Howley to-day.

The factory was stocked with harness for the western market. The Beal tannery, which was located in another part of the town, will not be affected.

ANOTHER QUAKE STRIKES TOKIO

The Second Great Earthquake Disaster to Strike in This Vicinity in the Last Five Months.

TOKIO, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Fifty persons are believed to have been killed in Tokio-Yokohama and outside districts in the second great earthquake disaster in five months to strike two Japanese cities and vicinity this morning.

Six persons are dead and nearly two hundred are injured in Yokohama and four are dead and at least twenty injured in Tokio.

One report stated that six hundred houses had been demolished in Yokohama.

Odawar, a city on Kawatsu Bay, 75 miles south-east of here, suffered the greatest damage from the tremblor. The water mains were ripped from their places and the water flooded the streets and hundreds of homes in the two cities following the shock. Cabinet went into session immediately after the earthquake to consider relief measures.

AID GERMANY TO GET WELL FIRST DAWES ADVISES

Chairman of Reparation Experts Opens First Session With Frank Summary of the Problem of Determining Germany's Capacity to Pay.

Didn't Mince Words.

PARIS, aJn. 15.—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, U.S.A., chairman of the first committee of experts appointed by the Reparations Commission to consider the resources and capacity of Germany looking to a solution of the reparations problem, delivered a straightforward, hard-hiting speech at the opening of that body yesterday.

The United States plan, as briefly outlined by the chairman, consists of stabilization of German currency and balancing the German budget, and, he declared: "As the economic processes of Germany under a stable currency and with a balanced budget are revived there will be demonstrated the capacity of Germany to pay. Let us first help Germany to get well."

A member of the British delegation of the Reparations Commission, commenting on the opening of the conference, said: "The experts got off to a breezy start." This expresses the general sentiment in reparations and diplomatic circles on the beginning of the work of the experts.

General Dawes' "legendary energy," as M. Barthou put it, seemed to send a draft of fresh air throughout Reparations headquarters, which never appeared to shelter so much activity since the Commission was organized.

Agreements Blocked.

Briagdier General Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the first expert committee on reparations, began his address to the committee by saying that the average citizen did not understand why the common sense agreements which characterizes Allied policy come about so slowly.

Barriers to such discussions, he said, were national pride, the pride and self interest of the different Allied officials, and by incessant misrepresenttaion and interjections of the nationalistic demagogues of all countries, "who would exploit their pitiful personalities out of common misfortune."

General Dawes referred to the great war. The principle of inter-allied co-ordination was realized at the beginning of the war, he said, but not until the German army broke through the British and French armies on March 21, 1918, was a central command under Foch established.

"What brought about the complete Allied co-operation in time of war?" he asked. "Nothing but an overwhelming emergency."

Rule of Common Sense.

"What is the question of to-day? Upon what does the success of this committee depend? It depends chiefly upon whether in the public mind and conscience of the Allies and of the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally and Europe unless common sense is crowned king.

"As an American citizen, invited to this place by the Reparation Commission, I can speak neither for the Government of the United States nor for the American people, but as an individual I can say that I have read in shame and humiliation the outpourings of the American nationalistic demagogues who undertake to lecture Europe in order to lift themselves into some petty office or to gain political popularity.

"Surely I have as much right as they to express my individual opinion of the attitude held by the great inarticulate mind and conscience of my people. Mr. Young and I will endeavor to express it in our actions upon this committee."

Conditions Changing.

Referring to the situation confronting the committee General Dawes said:

"This is not time to mince words. What to-day, at the inception of the work of this committee, have we found? In the first place we see an impenetrable and colossal fog-bank of economic discussions based upon

British Empire Fair the Biggest

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—Speaking of the coming British Empire Fair to be held at Wembley, near London, from April to October of this year, E. R. Bruce, director of exhibits, of the Canadian Pacific Railway who is here on a flying visit from England, said yesterday that the exhibition will be the biggest thing of its kind ever yet attempted. The promoters of the Fair have increased their estimate of attendance from 15,000,000 to 25,000,000 persons said Mr. Bruce. There are at present a working force of ten thousand men on the job and to see that lining up for pay was a most impressive sight.

The Fair will be open April 15.

FRANC SUFFERS WORST DECLINE

Dropped to Lowest Price Within Memory While Italian Lire Gained on Exchange. Millions Unloaded.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Millions of French francs were thrown into the London, Paris, Amsterdam and New York markets yesterday by European speculators causing the demand rate to break 38 points to 4.27 cents, the lowest price ever recorded. Subsequent short covering carried the rate to 4.40 again in the late afternoon.

Sharp breaks also took place in Sterling, guilder and yen exchanges. Demand Sterling dropped nearly four cents to 4.22 1-4; Dutch guilders broke 60 points to 36.80 and Japanese yen slumped more than one cent to 43.30 cents. All made partial recovery later.

Selling of French francs was based on the unfavorable publicity given French finances and measures adopted by the French Government with the announced intention of checking the decline and General Dawes' admonition to forget politics at the opening meeting of the Reparations conference. The threatened labor disturbance in Great Britain also was a factor.

Confidence Shaken.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The first meeting of the experts' committee on reparations coincided with the most sensational fall in the value of the franc within memory and thus quickened the hope that the committee's task would be completed at the soonest moment possible and form the basis of a concrete plan which will restore confidence.

One of the leading newspapers, La Liberte, heads its editorial dealing with the financial crisis with the word—"Panic!" It ascribes the situation to a fear on the part of the French public thta the Socialists are coming into power in England and that there will be a breaking off of relations with France.

French pride was especiallly hurt to-day by finding that one hundred Italian lire were worth more than 100 and one francs, being an advance of eight points. The Belgian franc moved from 89.90 to 90.31, while the peseta gained twenty and one-half points. Dutch florins reached 8.45 from 7.94.

Italians Jubilant.

ROME, Jan. 15.— Joy reigned in all financial and commercial circles here yesterday as everyone, from messenger boys to financiers watched the undulations of the exchange market until the Italian lire placed itself at par with the French franc.

The franc opened this morning at 102. Then it began slowly to waver until the afternoon, when it reached a low level of 100, to even with the Italian lire. There was cheering on the local Bourse when this point was reached.

PARIS, Jan. 15. — The French Cabinet acting to-day in the financial crisis caused by the phenomenal fall of the franc, decided to increase all taxes, direct and indirect, by twenty per cent. It also decided to reduce the recoverable budget in 1924 to five billion francs, which will be met by this new taxation.

Asked That Sales Tax Be Abolished and That Every Worker Have One Day's Rest in Week Detention of McLachlan Makes Hero of Him.

Dislike The Senate.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The release of James McLachlan from Dorchester Penitentiary where he is serving a term for seditious libel was urged by members of the excutive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada who conferred with Premier King and other members of the Cabinet, yesterday afternoon in regard to organized labor's annual legislative program.

That imprisonment for such an offence as McLachlan had been convicted of, made heroes of that type of men and threw discredit upon the more rational leaders in the Labor movement, was the consensus of opinon expressed by the representatives of the Trades Congress' executive. They urged McLachlan's release upon parole pointing out that the law had been vindicated and that his continued incarceration would but add fuel to the agitation which was waged in his favor.

Abolish Sales Tax

In the memorandum which was presented to Premier King and his colleagues a considerable number of legislative enactments and amendments favored by the Trades and Labor Congress were set forth. One of the outstanding suggestions was the abolition of the sales tax. This attracted the attention of Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise, whose department must collect the revenue raised by the impost.

"What would you substitute for the tax " asked Mr. Bureau of President Tom Moore, chief spokesman for the Labor deputation.

Mr. Moore intimated that there might be an increase in the income tax or that more revenue might be secured from some articles subjected to customs tariff.

He said Labor representatives would be glad to take up the question with Mr. Bureau at a later date when they had given more thought to the problem.

Would Curb Senate

The Labor deputation also urged abolition of the Senate or curbing of its powers to veto legislation passed by the House of Commons. They favored such changes in the Bank Act as would ensure depositors against loss and they urged upon the Government the advisability of giving effect to many of the decisions reached by the International Labor Conference.

Speaking in support of a request for legislation setting aside one day in seven as a rest day, President Tom Moore said that many Labor men were not much enamoured of the Lord's Day Act because in some instances discrimination was shown in its enforcement, the big corporation escaping and the poor violator being punished. But he believed every men should have one day of rest out of seven and in this country Sunday was the logical day.

Mindful of Labor

Replying to the Labor deputation Premier King thanked the Trades Congress executive for the moderate and concise manner in which they had presented their case. He remined ed them that the Government had not been unmindful of their interests and pointed to the appointment of a Labor representative on the Canadian National Board of Directors and adjustment of the long-standing

NEW MAYOR IN INAUGURAL TOUR OF CITY

On Suggestion of Mayor Turner the City Council Visited Institutions Yesterday.

EXPRESSED PLEASURE

Mayor J. J. Turner with several of the aldermen made a tour of inspection of the city works and institutions yesterday afternoon, the mayor conveying New Year's greetings to the city employees and passing a cheery word to all whom he met.

Aldermen Robert Morrison, Nagle Phelan, M. McIntyre, J. O. Fife, M. J. Maher and R. N. Jones were in the party with City Clerk S. Armstrong and City Engineer R. H. Parsons.

At the Isolation Hospital Mayor Turner told Miss Price, the city appreciated the work being done in that institution, and gave her a word of encouragement.

Donning the regulation white smocks that temporarily turned them into a semblance of a Ku Klux Klan delegation rather than a party of staid City fathers, the visiting Mayor and Aldermen were conducted on an inspection of the hospital. In the first ward visited were two little girls, almost recovered, who appeared quite cheery and evinced no desire to leave their pleasant surroundings. One of them is Beverley Hendren, whose home was burned down yesterday morning, and the other is a daughter of Constable Graham Bromley. Little Miss Hendren told the Mayor she is having "a pretty good time."

Dr. T. W. H. Young, Medical Health Officer of the City, who happened to be in the building showed the delegation the various improvements that have been made during his tenure of office. Comment showed that the visitors were impressed favorably by the neatness and cleanliness evident in all the appointments. The walls of the building were painted last spring a pleasing buff color and appear fresh and well kept. Fire hose and extinguishers are in good condition, the superintendent said, and are periodically examined by the Fire Chief.

Dr. Young said the hospital is giving the best of treatment and it is the city's policy to encourage those suffering from contagious diseases to enter there immediately the disease develops. In a case of scarlet fever, he said, where the patient is sent to the hospital, the house is placarded only ten days and the breadwinner is allowed to live at home and attend his work. On the other hand if the patient remains at home the minimum period during which the house will be placarded is five weeks.

Seek Affiliation

An important change now meditated, Dr. Young said, is the affiliation of all the hospitals in the city. This would enable nurses in training to pass from one to the other and thus gain an all-round experience which they now lack. A graduate from Nicholl's Hospital or St. Joseph's Hospital, he said is not trained in infectious diseases, and those who pass through the Isolation hospital have not the training in general hospital work. Without the two branches of training a nurse cannot qualify as a registered nurse and is denied the privileges extended to graduates in the complete training.

Several minor improvements were suggested by Dr. Young, such as the repair of the eave troughs, the re-flooring of upstairs balconies, the providing of awnings and small interior structural alterations.

His Worship The Mayor expressed great satisfaction with all he saw in the hospital and commended the staff on its excellent work.

At The Fire Hall

Fire Chief George Gimblett was highly commended on the administration of his department, improvements in which have been made during the past few weeks. A second pole has been installed to speed the passage of the firemen from their sleeping quarters to the apparatus floor below, and a hardwood floor has been laid in the watch room. These improvements were made by the firemen themselves.

The rebuilt hose wagon which the fire hall staff constructed on a chassis last spring was admired, and the Chief gave a good account of its service.

The Outfall Sewer

At the Park street sewer the visitors were impressed with the magnitude of the work and the speed with which it is being carried out under great difficulties. Mr. Parsons explained the project and pointed out the advantages in the monolithic concrete style of sewer in this locality. As the men worked in the bottom of the excavation they constantly uncovered springs, which bubbled up around them, and sometimes flowed in a strong stream. The advantage of having a continuous construction rather than a jointed pipe sewer in land of this kind was stressed by the engineer, the possibility of seepage being practically non-existent in concrete type now being built. Quicksands make the work more difficult and almost continuous pumping is necessary.

At the Incinerator

Mayor Turner and his Aldermen were made acquainted with the difficulties facing the men who carry on the little known work at the city incinerator. John Murphy opened the lids of the furnaces and showed the flickering flames far below, reminding one of the visitors of Dante's "Inferno." The material coming in at this time of year, Mr. Murphy said, is half snow, and he has not yet learned the secret of burning snow and ice. He carries on the work without a supply of wood other than that which comes in with the garbage, and has great difficulty in making his fires effective.

Several improvements were suggested here, such as a coat of paint for the smoke stack and new planking for the runway at the entrance.

At the city stables, which were in a neat condition, Mayor Turner suggested a coat of whitewash for the interior, and it was pointed out that paint would preserve the outside of the building.

The bridge over the creek at Townsend street will be rebuilt, City Engineer Parsons said, utilizing the long girders from the old Hunter street bridge. Concrete piers and a concrete slab over the girders, with the bridge wide enough for two lines of traffic, is the plan now held by Mr. Parsons and endorsed by Mayor Turner.

MEDALS PRESENTED BY MR. G. N. GORDON

Five Peterboro Men Publicly Lauded for Heroic Deeds--One Medal From Lord Byng.

A unique ceremony took place at last night's meeting of the City Council when five young men were presented with medals for life saving H. Durland Allen was presented by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, with the Governor General's medal for life saving under particularly dangerous conditions.

Five gold medals donated by G. N. Gordon were presented by Mayor J. J. Turner to John Murphy, J. Abraham, Bernard Graham, Frank Whitehouse, Jr., and H. D. Allen.

Mr. Gordon said the attention of the Boy Scout Association had been drawn to the heroism of Durland Allen, and His Excellency Lord Byng had been pleased to grant his silver cross to this Boy Scout who had been instrumental in saving life under unusually heroic circumstnaces.

Regarding the other medals, Mr. Gordon said he considered it his duty as a citizen to present to the Mayor for presentation to these persons, medals which mark the city's appreciation to their services.

Mayor Turner replied, saying the city is forutnate in having a champion of such a large heart as Mr. Gordon and such young men as those to whom the presentations were to be made. "It would have been easy to raise a popular fund for the reward of these deeds of heroism, but you Mr. Gordon, have always been and always will be, a public benefactor, and irrespective of polltics, we never had a staunch er friend or a stronger advocate of the city of Peterboro than Mr. Gordon."

In presenting the Governor General's medal, Mr Gordon gave credit to C. W. Wiggins for drawing his attention to the heroic deeds of the recipient, and said that Mr. J. H. Burnham had also advocated a system of public recognition of such deeds. "Rovalty itself,' he said to Durland Allen, 'has recognized your heroism, and through Lord Byng has presented you with this official recognition of your acts.'

Rev. W. R. Courage thanked Mr Gordon and Mayor Turner for their kind words to Boy Scout Allen. The act of Mr. Gordon in making the donations and presentations, he said, is only one of many, and the City of Peterboro should be proud to have such a man. "Mr. Gordon's generosity is simply wonderful," he said.

Three cheers were heartily given for the recipients of the medals, led by His Worship the Mayor. The gallery of the Council Chamber was filled with spectators for the occasion.

APPEAL BOARD IS IN SESSION HERE

Three Local Appeals Dealt With by the Board

The Federal Appeal Board, consisting of commissioners appointed by the Federal Government and the Department of Justice, to consider appeals against decisions made by the Pension Board of the D.S.C.R. was sitting in Peterboro this morning, at the City Hall. The two members of the Board, whose judgments constitute a final award in each case, were Col. C. W. Belton of London, Ontario and Capt. C. W. Meath of Toronto.

The Board, which will sit in Peterboro from time to time as cases accumulate, considered to-day three local appeals: those of F. C. Guthrie, appealing against decision of the Board of Pension Commissioners; of Frank Smith, appealing against decision of the D.S.C.R. refusing treatment, in both of which cases udgment was reserved, and of H. B. Matthews, appealing against decision of the D.S.C.R. refusing orthopedic appliances. The last case was decided in favor of the appellant Matthews.

J. V. Conroy, Official Soldier Advisor for the District of Toronto, was also present this morning at the Appeal Board's sitting, acting as counsel and pleading the casesof each appellant.

MAYOR MEYERS SOUNDS PROGRESSIVE NOTE FOR CAMPBELLFORDCOUNCIL

Reminds Colleagues Of Their Duties to the Citizens as Guiding Thought For Year's Work. John F. McGregor Permanently Appointed The Town Clerk.

WOMEN AS AUDITORS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15.—"Campbellford First" was the motto which Mayor Meyers submitted to the members of the new Council at the inaugural meeting on Monday in an address in which he sought to impress his colleagues with a high sense of their responsibility to the people, recommended strict attention to business and the improvement of the town as finances warrant. If the councillors follow the advice of their presiding officer they will play good cricket throughout the year.

John F. McGregor, who for the past five years has been acting Clerk, during the illness of the late E. C. West, was confirmed in that position after Mayor Meyers had spoken highly of his efficiency and his devotion to his duties. Mr. McGregor was also voted an increase in salary of $50 a year, on motion of Deputy Reeve Dorie.

A new departure wes the appointment of two ladies as auditors for the year, the fortunate applicants for the position being Mrs. C. W. Turner and Miss Nellie M. Hoover.

When the Mayor allotted the seats to his colleagues Reeve Davidson was given the place of honor on his right, while Deputy Reeve Dorie took the corner on the opposite side of the table. The councillors were arranged on either side according to their standing at the polls, Councillors Abernethy, Cole and Johnston sitting on the right, and Councillors Kingston, McDonald and Redden on the left.

The Mayor's Address

Rev. C. F. McIntosh opened the session with a brief prayer after which Mayor Meyers, who is beginning his fourth term in that office, delivered the following address:

"We are assembled here today by virtue of the mandate of the citizens of Campbellford. A majority of the electors of our town have said by their votes that we are the proper men to be entrusted with the management of our civic affairs for another year.

"I hope that we have all resolved to do our utmost to deserve the confidence of our citizens and to serve their interests, which are also our own faithfully and well.

Fair Play For All

"We are elected to office to serve the people and in serving them let us always bear in mind that it is our duty to consider the rights of all classes and the rights of all sections of our town in order that we may not discriminate unfairly and unjustly.

Serious Problems to Face

"We have some serious problems of finance and construction to face this year and we will be expected to devote whatever time may be necessary for a careful consideration and solution of these problems.

"Campbellford's business is our business. No man should allow his name to go before the people for a place on the municipal council board if he does not intend to give whatever time is necessary to the business of the town.

"Campbellford First"

"Campbellford First' should be our motto. The greater number of our citizens have all their worldly wealth invested in Campbellford. Their stake is here. To a large extent it rests with us as a council to determine whether that stake will enhance or depreciate in value during the year which is before us.

"Let us endeavor to make of Campbellford a town in which people will take pleasure in living. If we work with that end in view I believe we will be enhancing the value of the investment of every man in Campbellford."

Committees Appointed

It was decided to proceed with the business instead of adjourning until the evening and the appointment of the various committees was then taken up. This was done by the Council instead of by the Mayor as was the custom for some years past.

The chairmanships of the two important committees, finance and roads and bridges, went respectively to Councillors Kingston and Cole. The latter held the same position last year and got through with a surplus.

The personnel of the various committees is as follows:

Finance—Kingston, McDonald and Redden.

Roads and Bridges—Cole, Deputy Reeve Dorie, Abernethy and Johnston.

Police—Reeve Davidson, Kingston.

Charity—Deputy Reeve Dorie and Redden.

Inquiry—Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson and Kingston.

Petition For Water Main

A petition from residents on Grand Road asking for an extension of the water main on that thoroughfare was received. As further information was desired the consideration of this matter was postponed until the next meeting.

A copy of the Municipal World will be sent to the Town Clerk and to every member of the Council.

Mulhearn For Assessor

There was no competition for the position of assessor and on motion of Reeve Davidson and Councillor Cole, M. Mulhearn was reappointed for his third term at the same salary, $275 a year.

Other Appointments

On motion of Councillors Cole and McDonald, John Gay was appointed member of the Board of Health.

A. J. Jenkins, on motion of Redden and Cole, was appointed to the Library Board for three years.

Jeffs For School Trustee

The first split came when the Council took up the appointment of a school trustee. Reeve Davidson moved, seconded by Councillor Cole, that D. J. Lynch be re-appointed.

Deputy-Reeve Dorie and Councillor McDonald moved in amendment that John J. Jeffs be given the position. The amendment carried, being supported by Deputy-Reeve Dorie, McDonald, Redden, Johnston and Abernethy.

Trustee Lynch has served the town in that capacity for over 20 years and the support which he received for reappointment shows that he still enjoys the confidence of the people. Mr. Jeffs, the new trustee, is a prominent business man and has been a resident of the town for about 12 years. He resides on the west side of the river.

Ladies For Auditors

The following residents applied for positions as auditors: Albert E. Smith, Mrs. C. W. Turner, F. J. Smith, E. C. Dolman, J. D. McEachern, Miss Nellie M. Hoover and H. Coxwell.

Deputy-Reeve Dorie and Reeve Davidson moved that Mrs. Turner and Miss Hoover be appointed.

Councillor Kingston moved the appointment of Messrs. Dolman and McEachern, but failed to get a seconder.

Councillor Cole, backed up by Councillor McDonald, moved that the Auditors for 1924 be Mrs. Turner and F. J. Smith. The latter held the position last year. Councillor Cole asked for a roll call and the result was as follows:

For the appointment of Mrs. Turner and Mr. Smith:

Yeas—Cole, Johnston, McDonald and the Mayor.

Nays—Reeve Davidson, Abernethy Redden, Kingston and Dorie.

For the appointment of Mrs. Turner and Miss Hoover:

Yeas—Dorie, Kingston, Redden, Abernethy, Reeve Davidson.

Nays—McDonald, Johnston, Cole and the Mayor.

Mrs. Turner and Miss Hoover were accordingly declared elected. The position entails a vast amount of work and the compensation is $75 for the year.

Skating For Children

Last winter the town expended about $75 in preparing open air skating rinks for the benefit of children whose parents were not able to stand the expense of the covered rink, at least it was for such children that these places were designed.

Walter Covert, proprietor of the skating rink, appeared before the Council and offered in consideration of $75 to allow the free use of his place five nights a week, from 4.15 to 5.15, to all children under 11 years of age. Nothing came of the offer. Mr. Covert refused the Reeve's request, that he raise the age limit to 12 years. Councillor Cole believed that the young children should have places to skate where they would be free to go at all hours. Saturday, he said, was the most important day of all as it was then that the mothers were anxious to have their little ones safely employed.

On motion of Reeve Davidson and Councillor Cole, Bandsmaster R. T. Cowell was re-engaged in that capacity at the same salary, $50 a month.

It was decided that no accounts be paid unless they bear the O.K. of the head of the department interested.

Mayor Meyers and Clerk McGregor were authorized to advertise for tenders for the last issue of High School debentures amounting to $28,800. Two private offers have been received for these, one for 99 and the other at par with accrued interest, but it is felt that a rate better than either of these can be obtained.

Clerk McGregor

John F. McGregor, who was formally installed as town clerk after acting in that capacity for the past 12 years, has the reputation of being one of the most hard working men in Campbellford. He is thoroughly familiar with his duties which are heavy, as he is also clerk for the Water and Light Commission, and is an authority on municipal law and parliamentary procedure. He is noted for his courtesy to all doing business at his office and his permanent appointment will give general satisfaction.

Favors Bathing Places

Councillor Kingston said during the session that it was more important to provide safe swimming places for young children and teaching them to swim than it is to furnish them with facilities for skating. He intimated that something along this line should be done next summer.

HAD A GOOD MEETING OF HASTINGS LEAGUE

Service in Charge of Miss Mae Hinton—Missionary Night.

HASTINGS, Jan. 15. — The Epworth League service of the Methodist church was held in the basement on Monday evening. The service was in charge of the Missionary Vice-President, Miss Mae Hinton and opened with the singing of a hymn and the pastor, Mr .M. L. Hinton, leading in prayer. The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss K. Simpson, and were adopted. The scripture lesson was taken from the parts the first lesson being read by a nubber of little girls, and the second by a number of little boys; a duet was rendered by the Misses Ada and Madeline Bonds. Mrs. W. Waye gave a reading entitled "The Magic Garden A solo was sung by Mr. N. Mac donald.

It being missionary night the topic for the evening was Dr. W. Grenfell's missionary work, and a paper on Dr. Grenfell's life was given by Wilbert Simpson. Business was then discussed and the executive is called to meet at 7:30 p.m., next Monday evening to plan for a social in the future.

A fair attendance was present and the Forward Movement subscription was taken up. After the singing of another hymn the meeting closed with the Mizpah prayer.

TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE GET STARTED TO-NIGHT

KEENE, Jan. 15. — The first hockey match of the season in Group B of the Trent Valley League will be played to-night at Keene, when Charlie Davidson's puck chasers of Campbellford will journey to Keene.

The Keene boys have not been saying much, but practising hard.

is that of rural credits. The banking committee took the matter up last year to some extent and recommended further inquiry. Since then, President H. M. Tory of the University of Alberta has been engaged by the Dominion Government to make a report on rural credits and it is expected that he will at any rate a partila report for consideration of Parliament.

Redistribuation which was before the House last session will once more be under consideration. Decisions of th Imperial Conference and the Imperial Economic Conference and the attitude of Canadian representatives at these conferences; Church Union; Cival Service superannuation; Canadian National Branch Lines; the purchase of the Hotel Scribe—these it is expected will give rise to extended dis cusssion. It is also likely that a bill will be brought down to amend the Militia Act in regard to the calling out of militia in aid of the civil power in case of strikes and that amendments to the Dominion Elections Act will be proposed.

Taken altogether, there is every expectation of a busy session.

AID GERMANY TO

premises of fact which have changed so rapidly as to make the bulk of them worthless, even if they were in agreement. Meantime, while immense libraries— for they can be called by no other name—of legal arguments, of more or less obsolete statistics and of economic discussion were being laboriously compiled for five years, the foundations of economic Germany have well-nigh crumbled away and with them the productivity of Germany.

"Again, as the world has seen the economic life of Germany ebbing away, the credit of all the European Allies has felt a preliminary shock, because the world realizes that if the German people lose their capacity for work ,Germany loses her capacity to pay those reparations which are so great an element in European solvency.

"We are entrusted with considering means of balancing the German budget and measures to be taken to stabilize the currency. If without fear or favor we suggest a plan for the stabilization of the German currency and the balancing of the German budget which the Reparations Commission deems fit to ratify, we will at least have done this— we will have suggested that which has enabled the Reparations Commission to start Germany toward productivity, and the re-establishment of German productivity is the starting point of European prosperity.

Help Germany First.

"As the economic processes of Germany under a stable currency and with a balanced budget are revived, there will be demonstrated the capacity of Germany to pay. The basic and controlling facts will then appear. Any common sense individual can estimate the distance a well man acn run. Fifty medical experts gathered around the bedside of a dying patient will give fifty estimates of how far he can run if he gets well. The Reparation Commission and the world, upon the question of Germany's capacity to pay, have been listening thus far to the medical experts. Let us first help Germany to get well.

"Now that we are members of a committee having a definite and authoritatively defined object in view, we are less concerned for the moment with the present capacity of Germany to pay than with the present capacity and courage of this committee to act. What is the use of deferring plain statement or for this committee to waste time in formalities and meaningless courtesies and conventionalities?

Stabilize Currency.

"Let me make thus early one practical suggestion. Under President Harding I established a system of executive control set up by executive order under which the first budget of the United States was prepared in accordance with our recent budget legislation. I hesitate to call myself an expert on budget matters lest I put my reputation for common sense under suspicion; but how could anoyne, expert or non-expert, suggest anything worth while about the German budget if the money collected through taxes and dispersed under the budget would not buy or pay for anything?

"The first step which we should take ,it seems to me, is to devise a system of stabilizing Germany's currency so we can get some water to run the budget mill. Let us build the mill after we find the stream to turn its wheels."

ANNUAL LEGISLATIVE

claim for payment of pensions to Grand Trunk employes as evidence of the administration's good-will toward Labor. Premier King touched upon the amendments to the Industrial Disputes Act, which had been drafted and which had met defeat in the Senate. He said the Government was again prepared to press for this legislation but admitted the possibility of the Upper Chamber again using its veto. Referring to a suggestion from one of the Labor men that there should be some restriction of the Senate's powers to void measures passed by the Commons, he intimated that repeated refusals of the Upper Chamber to sanction some act favored by Parliament for several sessions might in the end strengthen arguments for qualifying to some extent, the Senate's power of veto.

In concluding the Premier informed the Labor representatives that the Cabinet had already taken up several of the matters mentioned in the memorandum and that the other questions would receive careful considera tion.

Members of the Labor Congress at the conference were: Tom Moore, president; F. M. Draper, secretary-treasurer;; H. A. Crawford, Toronto; R. F. Pettypiece, Vancouver and J. T. Foster, Montreal, vice-presidents of the organization.

LAST NIGHT'S PRESENTATION.

Last night's ceremony in the City Council Chamber when medals for life saving were presented to five Peterborough citizens was a public recognition of the presence of mind and bravery of the recipients who when they saw a fellow-being in danger unhesitatingly went to the rescue.

Mr. Murphy, who received one of the medals presented by Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P.,—for whose interest in the matter there should be general thanks—has figured in more than one rescue, and it has been a source of regret that his courage has not long since been officially recognized.

The Examiner on several occasions called attention to this neglect, but it seemed impossible to get the proper bodies at work, and nothing was done until Mr. Gordon came forward and himself furnished gold medals for presentation to Mr. Murphy, and to Messrs. J. Abraham, Bernard Graham and Frank Whitehouse, Jr., who saved a girl from drowning at Inverlea Park last summer.

The latter rescue was a most gallant one and undoubtedly averted a tragedy at the city's swimming beach.

It is well to have acts of this nature publicly recognized—if only to call attention to the fact that Peterborough possesses citizens who are ready to risk their lives to save others.

THE WORKS CHAIRMANSHIP.

It is unfortunate that the 1924 Council should have commenced its year's work with a quarrel over the chairmanships, and it is even more unfortunate that a majority of the Aldermen considered it necessary to make a change in the chairmanship of the Board of Works, by which Ald. Stocker, head of the board for two years, was turned down.

Probably the chief reason for the change was a feeling among the members of the Council that these honours should be passed around.

That, however, is a very unbusinesslike way to deal with such a matter.

It would not be thought of in private business, nor should it be allowed to interfere in the administration of the city's affairs.

As chairman of the Works Board for the last two years, Ald. Stocker had proven his worth, and there is a general feeling that he has done excellent work as head of the important committee.

The chairmanship of the Board of Works is really a whole-time job, which is another excellent reason why Ald. Stocker should have been the first choice of the Council in this particular selection.

There is no other member of the Council in a position to give the time to the duties that the former chairman has devoted.

Ald. Stocker was always closely in touch with every detail of the work of his department, and has been on the job early and late, in season and out, for the two years of his term as chairman.

These things, however, evidently counted nothing with the majority of his colleagues yesterday morning.

THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Turner's inaugural address yesterday was an interesting survey of the various civic departments and of the problems with which this year's Council will be concerned.

His Worship is to be congratulated upon his grasp of the situation and upon the thorough manner in which he reviewed the matters in which the civic administration is interested.

Mayor Turner made a number of suggestions that are worthy of consideration by his colleagues around the Council board.

The desirability of adding several more members to the Board of Health, the necessity of an active campaign for more industries, the need of an improved lighting system, the possibility of an old boys' reunion for Peterborough, the future of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition and other similar matters were touched upon in the inaugural address, and the Mayor will undoubtedly see to it that these constructive ideas are kept before the Council.

Mayor Turner has started well.

His address shows that he has made a study of local conditions and indicates that he has plans for city development that he will lose no opportunity of pushing forward to completion.

Leadership in such matters is always of prime importance, and while the Mayor is only one of eleven members of the Council, there is much that can be done by him if he has progressive ideas and the energy and willingness to press them.

Peterborough's present Mayor has all these things, and with the assistance and co-operation of the Aldermen should be able to carry Peterborough forward during his term of office.

THE POLICE COMMISSION DECISION.

The verdict of the Appeal Court in the cause celebre of Newhall vs. the city of Peterborough will have a very important effect upon the relationships between Police Commissions and City Councils throughout Ontario.

The decision of the court that the Consolidated Municipal Act of 1922 gives the City Council power to say how much money shall be paid for police protection provided that the force shall not be reduced below the number reported by the board to be absolutely necessary, will undoubtedly be taken advantage of by Councils everywhere in the Province.

It has been the lament of Aldermen, not only in Peterborough, but in every Ontario city, that a very large proportion of the civic expenditure was beyond the control of the Council, and the opportunity offered by the decision in the local case will not be lost sight of.

Police Commission estimates have in the majority of cities been passed without anything more than a mild protest hitherto, but the pruning knife will now come into its own as City Councils gleefully slice down the police appropriations.

Of course, they cannot, in view of the decision, dictate to the Police Commission how many policemen should be employed. The commission's power to set down the number of police considered absolutely necessary seems to be confirmed by the verdict.

But estimates can be trimmed so that other items will have to be reduced and possibly lower salaries adopted in order to maintain a force at the strength recommended by the commission.

From the viewpoint of the City Council, the new status will be eminently satisfactory; it leaves the Police Commission, however, in any awkward position, and it may be taken for granted that the whole matter will have to be revised by the Legislature before a really satisfactory readjustment takes place.

The way is open at present for yearly bickering between the two bodies.

THE OUTLOOK IN THE WEST.

There are evidences of a revival of confidence in Western Canada. The railways have moved the crops economically, farmers have been enabled to meet their obligations and millions of dollars are being circulated throughout the Prairie Provinces.

Mr. John Bracken, Premier of Manitoba, points out that in twenty years the wheat acreage of the Province has increased by less than 20 per cent., while the oat acreage has more than doubled and rye has become an established crop. The number of horses has increased two and a half times. This is true also of cattle and pigs, while there are five times as many sheep, and in poultry the increase is still greater. Corn growing is established, sunflowers are largely used for silage, there are hundreds of beekeepers where there were none twenty years ago, and it has been discovered, according to Mr. Bracken, that "the prairies are the best bee pasture of the Continent." So the growing of small fruits, berries and apples has become general in Manitoba.

There is, the Premier contends, a steady trend towards more scientific utilization of the great fertility of the soil, and he adds: "The people of Manitoba are doing their share of the productive work on which the national welfare depends. They have been doing so in adverse conditions which are a rigorous testing of the fibre of character. They are carrying on with steadfast faith in the future of their Province. They can look back over a record which gives proof of their intelligence, vigor, courage and devotion to their duties and responsibilities as Canadian citizens. We must press on, looking backward only for warning and example, and looking forward with confident hope. We are citizens of a young and vigorous nation. Our highest purpose should be to make ourselves worthy Canadians."

Premier Greenfield of Alberta declares that despite low prices, "the very abundance of the remarkable crop has served to introduce considerable new money and has put heart into the farming population." He finds that farmers are bringing greater concentration to bear upon the solution of the problems of marketing and of more remunerative methods of farming, which are vital to the permanent prosperity of the industry. "The New Year," Mr. Greenfield says, "will bring its problems as well as its rewards, but we have every reason to believe that Canada, and particularly the Western Provinces, are approaching a new era of prosperity which will come about with the development of a more stable basis of agriculture, and the opening of our great wealth of natural resources."

Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan speaks with like confidence and with equal knowledge of Western conditions and prospects. He emphasizes the fact that a Province with three-quarters of a million of people produces enough food to feed thirty millions. The year's yield from the farms of Saskatchewan was 250,000,000 bushels of wheat and over 450,000,000 bushels of all grains of a total estimated value of $210,000,000. The Province also produced mixed grains, beans, peas, clover, hay, alfalfa, corn, potatoes, roots and other field crops to the value of $10,000,000 and dairy products, wool clip, game and furs, poultry and garden products to the value of $30,000000. The live stock of the Providence has an estimated value of $175,000,000, while the total value of live stock and farm products of Saskatchewan for 1922 is put at $505,313,960.—Montreal Star.

TOO MANY BULLETS.

Mabel Normand, moving picture star, pleads for a square deal, says the London Advertiser. The reason is that she is threatened with being banned from having her pictures shown in the theatres.

She has been more or less mixed up in two shooting escapades, one of which was fatal and the other nearly so.

Mabel Normand is putting up quite a scrap or a plea for a square deal. She is trying to hang on to the favor of people who have the good sense to drop off when the pace gets too fast or the shooting too close together.

It may be that she is innocent, but if so, she has been peculiarly unfortunate in the selection of the spots in which to spend her spare time, as well as the people she has around her.

At any rate she does not make a very pathetic figure posing as a martyr.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With industrial troubles on the increase in England, it would be an excellent time to let Labour try its hand in office.

Hon. Mr. Biggs, Ontario's former road builder, declines to lead the Farmer-Labour group in the House. Nobody seems to want that job.

More immigrants from the Hebrides are coming to Canada. The first party made good, and there will be a hearty welcome for all those sturdy settlers who care to come.

Something ought to be done about the prediction of Sir Bertram Windle that we are in for fifteen years of cold damp weather.

MOMENTOUS SESSION IS FORESHADOWED BY SOME OF PRSOPOSED MEASURE

Fielding and Gouin Are Considered Virtually Lost To The Cabinet. Government Faces The House in Minority of Four.

AGENDA IS BULKY.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press). — Parliament will open on Thursday, February 28. Announcement of the late of the opening was made by Premier King at the close of a Cabinet meeting last evening. The date is almost a month later than that of last year when Parliament assembled on January 31. In contrast to last year, when the opening was on a Wednesday, the time-honored custom of meeting on Thursday will be observed this year After the opening ceremonies and the delivery of the speech from the Throne, adjournment will probably be made until the following Monday when the real busines of the session will commence.

Session this year will be momentous. Not only will important questions such as redistribution and the banking system be again before the house but the proceedings of Parliament will be of special interest in their bearing on the political situation.

Since the Government took office two years ago—having at no time any effective majority over all parties combined—it has always received sufficient Progressive and Independent support to enable it to carry its measures through the House. In the coming session, unless there are unforseen developments the dependeence of the Government on a measure of support from the Left of the Speaker will be intensified.

Minority of Four.

The Government, after a Speaker was elected first met Parliament in a technical minoritiy of two. It finished last session with the House technically dividing exactly even. As a result of the two recent Conservative victories in Maritime Province byelections it will meet Parliament in the coming session with a minority of four. Hence much speculation as to what ways and means the Government may be inclined to adopt to secure Progressive support.

Conversations last week between Premier King and Hon. T. A. Crerar, formerly Progressive leader, gave rise to reports that Mr. Crerar might enter the Cabinet and bring with him across the floor of the House some Progressives. But Mr. Crerar did not enter the Cabinet. Subsequent to the conversations, Mr. Crerar announced that there had been discussion of political questions but that he had not been invited to join the Government.

Speculation now turns on how far if at all, the Government will modify its legislative proposals in order to secure Progressive support. There is talk of possible reductions in the tariff especially on agricultural implements and fertilizers. But the reports lack anything in the nature of official confirmation.

Has Lost Strength.

So far as fiscal policy is concerned, piquancy will be lent to the situation by the absence of Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance. By reason of ill-health, Sir Lomer has left the Government. Mr. Fielding is still in the Cabinet but his health is such that he will hardly be able to take active part in the work of the coming session and the budget will in all probability, be brought down by Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance.

In the work of session, the banking situation bids fair to be put to the forefront. Last session the bil to revise the Bank Act and extend the charters for ten years passed after weeks of discussion in the Banking Committee and after an abortive attempt from Progressives to have the charters extended for one year only. Since then, the failure of the Home Bank and successive amalgamations of banking insitutions have given added point to demands for further investigation of the banking system. It is further significant that of notices of motion already forwarded by members of the House, nearly everyone touches on the banking situation.

BENEFIT CONCERT AT CAMBBELLFORD

Help for the Hockey Team —James Cassidy Died Last Night.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15. — The Trent Valley hockey team, who play their first league game of the season at Keene to-night, were given a benefit entertainment in the Regent Theatre Monday night and the result must have been encouraging to Manager Charles Davidson and his young players, who have undertaken to uphold the athletic reputation of Campbellford this winter. The theatre was comfortably filled, but the attendance was no indication of the number of tickets sold, as a large number who had secured admission tickets were kept away by counter attractions or for other reasons. The picture shown was "The Prisoner of Zenda," filmed from Anthony Hope's thrilling novel of that name. The Northumberland Regiment Band donated their services for the evening, rendering an excellent programme which added a welcome attraction to the entertainment.

The same bill be repeated to-night and in addition Herb Leonard will sing and this is certain to prove a drawing card as Mr. Leonard is one of the favorite vocalists of the town. The band will also be heard again. There will be a special matinee at 4.30 and large crowds are expected afternoon and evening. Manager Davidson and his players can enter the fray to-night confident that they have the home public behind them.

Police Court Case.

Walter Covert, proprietor of the skating rink, had a young fellow up in police court Monday on a charge of using profane language to Mrs. Covert during hockey practice in the rink. The defendant had a number of companions who testified that nothing out of the way had been said and accepting this evidence, Magistrate Payne dismissed the case.

James Cassidy, who fell on the sidewalk on Sunday and was injured ,died last evening. He was seventy-four years of age. Funeral announcement later.

Personals.

Capt. and Mrs. Hyland and family spent the week end at their former home in Belleville ,in which city their daughter, Miss Muriel, still resides.

T. S. Baker has returned from a business trip to Peterborough.

At the Regent.

Wednesday and Thursday—Clara Kimball Young in "The Bronze Woman"; Harold Lloyd comedy; Ruth Roland in "The Timber Queen."

Friday and Saturday—"Universal Jewel"; "Trifling With Honor"; Brownie, the Dog Comedian.

EXPERT COMMITTEES ON GERMAN FINANCE

Opening Session Held in Paris To-day—Refuse Reimbursement.

PARIS, Jan. 14. (By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)—Experts committee No. 1 which is to recommend means to restore the German financial system, and balance the German budget, met in the hotel Astoria to-day for its opening session. Louis Barthou, presided, welcomed the delegates and outlined the committee's jurisdiction.

Charles Dowes, former director of the United States budget, who is to be chairman of the committee responded.

When the committee met, Le Journal said that the American delegates who besides Dowes, are Owen D. Young and Henry Robinson, will occupy the position of referees in the discussions.

To affirm their independence of the reparations commission, under whose auspices the committee is meeting, the Americans have refused to accept any reimbursement for their services, Le Journal states. The newspaper comments make their position strong.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—The prices paid for export steers ran from $7.25 to $7.75 a cwt. Butchers cows were steady, but few brought over 5 cents. Medium cows sold at 4½ cents. Trade was slow during the morning, and will need to brighten up to make any kind of a clearance.

Calves remained quite steady and firm with the demand again running to the choice ones, which sold at 13 cents a pound. Good calves were 11 to 12 cents and mediums about 10 cents. Heavy calves brought around 8 cents a pound.

Real light lambs were scarce. One package over 100 lbs. each sold at 13½ cents, but these were close woolled. Stale lambs on the market since Thursday, sold at 12½ and 11½ cents and the culls from them at 9 and 8½ cents. Sheep are steady.

A much lighter run of hogs prevented any further cut yesterday. The packers claim to be well provided, and the market promised to be about steady at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. for the thick smooth. Packers are still talking a drop to $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Although the prices bulged in the grain market to-day with corn and oats reaching the topmost values this season, heavy profit taking brought about a setback. Simultaneous with the reaction, estimates were current that the amount of live stcok on frams is smaller than was the case a year ago and that the actual consumption of corn is slightly below the normal. Wheat closed weak at ½c to 3-4c and 7-8c net decline; corn unchanged to ½c and 5-8c lower; oats varying from 1-4c off to a shade advance and provisions unchanged to 17c dow.

CANADA HAS ROOM FOR MANY WHITE IMMIGRANTS

BROCKVILLE Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Canada has room for every healthy bodied, healthy minded white man who will be content with the moderate income obtained from tilling of the soil or the development of natural resources and no obstacles should be placed in the way of his entry into the country by authorities. Such is view of immigration question expressed here to-day by Hon. B. Pattullo Minister of Lands for British Columbia. He estimated that Canada could absorb three hundred thousand immigrants of such type annually.

Good Health in Happy Old Age

THE chief concern of elderly people is their health, and that is best assured by regular daily bowel movement. There is no truth, however, in the notion that because you are old you need a "strong physic." In fact, just because you are old a mild laxative is better for you. The trouble with purges and cathartics and physics is that they shock the system and weaken it and make the muscles of digestion flabby. Mr. John Muse, 128 Prince Edward St., St. John, N. B., says Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine on earth and Mrs. George Luth, Pope, Man., who is in her 79th year, has found it easy to take, gentle in action and entirely satisfactory.

Does Not Gripe

You can be sure of satisfactory evacuations every day if you will take a spoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at night when you retire. You will not need to take it very long as a few doses will soon encourage the bowels to act for themselves. The popularity of this wonderful family remedy has become so great that it is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Because of its mildness and freedom from griping it is especially ideal for the extremes of ages, for children and for elderly people.

Effective at Small Cost

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at any drug store. The formula is on the package, and the cost less than a cent a dose. Take it when you feel heavy, sleep poorly, have headache or sight cramps, for these are also symptoms of constipation. Give it to the children when they are restless, feverish or have a cold. Laxative Syrup Pepsin will keep you and your family free from constipation, a condition that lowers the vitality 25 per cent and raises the blood pressure 28 per cent. Freedom from constipation lessens the pain of kidney trouble, neuritis and rheumatism.

Glimpses of Paris

Illustrated Address By Professor McKellar in University Extension Course at Marmora.

MARMORA, Jan. 12.—On Friday evening the fourth lecture in the series of the University Extension Course was given by Professor McKellar on some "Glimpses of Paris."

The Rev. D. R. Clare was the chairman of the evening. The Marmora trio entertained the audience with their music for some time before the speaker arrived.

Professor McKellar, before beginning his lecture read Drummond's poem "The Habitaut." His rendering of the poem was so realistic that one could picture the Habitaut standing there instead of Professor McKellar.

In order to make clearer the slides which were to be shown the lecturer gave a brief outline history of France and Paris.

The Romans conquered Gaul about 2000 years ago and forced the Gauls to take their language so the French cannot trace their language back very far without coming at length to the Latin.

At that time there were some fish rmen's huts on the islands in the Seine River. There huts were the beginning of the city of Paris.

Paris grew more and more until now the Seine runs for seven miles within the city. On the left bank of the Seine stands the Latin quarter composed of universities, studios, etc.

The right bank of the Seine is the business section of the city.

Kings ruled in France for about 1000 years, but they became oppressive and selfish. In 1789 the people resolved to endure no longer the tyranny of these kings.

The Bastille prison had been the prison to which the royalty had been able to send anyone whether guilty or innocent. It was a huge fortress with wall 10 feet thick.

The people stormed this fortress which stood at the eastern entrance of the city and on July 14 it fell. The fall of the Bastille represented the gaining of French freedom so France has ever since kept July 14 as a national holiday.

Bonaparte's Epoch

The first Republic of France was formed after this. In 1789 Napoleon Bonaparte was 20 years old. He soon gained power and seeing his chance he had himself made French Consul. Later he changed the constitution of France so that it became an Empire. Following his coronation as Emperor Napoleon was successful in his wars until 1814, when he was captured and sent to Elba.

By the end of 1815 he was back in France again. The people gladly flocked to his side but on the 18th June the fateful battle of Waterloo was fought and Napoleon was banished to St. Helena.

The brother of Louis XVI, Louis XVIII, came to the throne and ruled now for 10 years. Charles X then came to the throne but in 1830 when he restricted the freedom of the Press a rebellion called the July rebellion broke out.

On Bastille square is a column erected in memory of those who were killed fighting in the revolution of 1830. This column called the "July Column" stands on the square where the fortress of Bastille formerly stood.

Louis Philippe, the "citizen king," ruled for 18 years, but in 1848 when he restricted the freedom of the people a second rebellion arose.

The second Republic was formed and Napoleon III, nephew of Napoleon Bonaparte, tried to follow his uncle's footsteps and succeeded in 1852 by forming an Empire.

At the end of 18 years of prosperity during which the army became demoralized the Germans entirely defeated the French in 1870.

A third Republic was formed. This republic has remained till now, the French form of government.

Views of City

The slides showed first Concord Square. This square was an open space in the heart of the city before the French Revolution. At that time it was called the Square of Louis XV. During the revolution it was called the Square of Revolution. Here the guillotine was erected. Later the name was changed to Concord Square.

On the south bank of the river lies the Chamber of Deputies as the French call their House of Parliament.

The large boulevards of Paris have their origin in the walls or bulwarks of the former smaller city. When Paris grew too large for the first wall that was built to encircle it, this wall was destroyed and the walls were built further out. The place where the former wall had stood was made into wide streets, called boulevards.

Later the second wall had to be demolished and the second set of boulevards was formed.

Several bird's-eye views of the city were shown on the screen.

Notre Dame Cathedral was shown from many different angles. This cathedral was built over 700 years ago. It is one of the oldest pieces of Gothic architecture which remains. It is so old that there have to be supports to strengthen the walls.

Palace of Justice

The Palace of Justice is the site of the old Royal Palace of the French kings. The present building is not very old because the former palace and then the first Palace of Justice were both burned. However, one small chapel has been preserved for 650 years. There are two parts, an upper and a lower part. The upper part was for royalty and the lower was for the servants to worship in.

The portraits of Louis XV., Louis XVI., who was guillotined at 39 in the Palce de Revolution and Mary Antoinette guillotined at age of 38 were shown.

Many pictures of Napoleon, eac one illustrating some characteristic of his were given. For instance, the picture of Napoleon's coronation as Emperor, shows him putting the crown on his own head. At 27 he married Josephine, one of the royalty. He erected a column commemorating the memories of his own victories. In 1840 his remains were brought to Paris and buried in the tomb adjoining the Hotel des Invalides.

In 1836 the arch of triumph which was begun in 1806 for Napoleon, was finished.

The portraits of Moliere, one of the greatest writers and actors o France, and Victor Hugo, philanthropost and writer, were shown.

Slides were shown of many of the other palaces as the Palace of Louvre, Luxembourg and Versailles, but these were all just as beautiful as the others.

The last slides were of the Church of St. Gervais, which stands behind the City Hall. During the war it was struck by a German shell and the church was left in ruins.

The entire lecture was most interesting and instructive. Rev. Father Traynor moved a vote of thanks to Professor McKellar and Dr. D. Thomson seconded it.

DEBATES ATTRACT LARGE AUDIENCE

Negative Won by Three Points—Bailieboro News

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 14.—The first debate held in the U. F. Y. P. O. debating league was held in the U.F.O. rooms, Centreville, on Friday evening, at the regular fortnightly meeting, between the Peterboro and South Monaghan teams.

Before the debate a splendid programme was enjoyed as follows: Address by President, Douglas Deyell; solo, Keith Barnard; solos, Wesley Bradshaw; violin solos by Wilfred Johnston, (accompanist Miss Grace Johnston); address by Rev. A. H. McConnachie.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved that the use of labour-saving machinery has on the whole not been in the interest of the labouring classes in the city."

The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Houston and Hancock, of Peterboro, while the negative was taken by Mr. Harold Dawson and Miss Connie McConnachie of South Monaghan. Both sides stated that it was extremely difficult to obtain points on this subject.

While the judges were making their decision music was provided by the young ladies and Mr. Wilfred Johnston, assisted, helped to entertain the audience by playing several selections on the violin.

The judges were Miss Ackison, of Peterboro, for the affirmative and Mr. H. Campbell for the negative.

Mr. Tarvis as neutral judge gave the judges decision in favor of the negative. The debate was a very close one and the negatives won by three points.

There was a splendid crowd of both young and old present, to enjoy the debate and programme, while seven new members were added to the club.

After the judges had given their decision a satisfying lunch provided by the ladies, was served by the members of the club.

At the next regular meeting which will be held on January 25th, the Indian River team will be present to challenge the home team. The debate will be: "Resolved that the reading of newspapers and magazines are of more value than the reading of books." The home debaters will be Misses Rose Kidd and Loretta Barnard.

The young people also intend challenging the senior U.F.O. club sometime in the near future, and the subject will be "Resolved, that party politics should not be brought into the local U.F.O. clubs.

Plenty of Snow

Although Thursdays and Fridays thaw settled the snow some little, there is still plenty left on the roads to make good sleighing.

It was thought that it would be impossible for motor cars to make their way through the deep snow o the Provincial highways, but one man driving a large Toronto moving van, made its way from Peterboro through this village towards Port Hope on Friday afternoon, after having spent about six hours coming sixteen miles. After this a high powered Sedan also made its way through the snow.

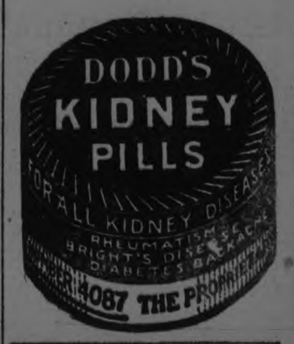
Personal Mention

Messrs. Wm. Dawson, of Otonabee, and Willis Hall and Stewart McGill left last week for Guelph, where they intend taking a course.

Dr. R. Summerville, of Toronto, spent Sunday with friends at Bailieboro.

Mr. Laurence Dawson is attending the Peterboro Normal School.

Mr. Roy Rutherford, who is attending the Normal School in Peterborough, spent the week-end at his home in South Monaghan.



AN AWFUL ATTACK OF PIMPLES ALL OVER HIS FACE

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conrad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes:—"A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

GOSSIP.

Blood and fire are but small servants of destruction in comparison with Gossip.

Gossip has caused more heart ache and has done more damage than all the oil speculations since Titusville was a farm.

To gossip is always a clear confession that you either harbor malice, or that you are downright ignorant of the wishes of respectable people who do not care to hear it.

Through gossip, business organizations are frequently upset, neighbors are made enemies for life, reputations ruined.

Gossip would stop before well started if we would always remember this quotation; "It is only before those who are glad to hear it and anxious to spread it, that we find it easy to speak ill of others."—The Silent Partner.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Everybody who takes any interest at all in another life and who is not wholly bound up in either amusement, crime or business, is asking: "What's going to be the end of it all?" Of all what? Of the attack of the Bible.

Perhaps some of your readers may think that I might have included Church Union. But while union or non-union may appear to be a big issue to us it really can in no way affect our relationship with God since He deals with humanity individually and selectively and not collectively. We can't play any "community tricks" on Him. These new movements which enthusiasts are always uncovering and advertising (so long as it pays) fall down dead when the sheke s cease to come in—and then something new is started, always, of course, being touted as the "will of God." These movements come and go and "leave scarce a wrack behind." But God remains It shows how little we know when we mix up human conceptions, human plans, human movements with the name of the Eternal. God does His own planning necessarily. And when we see people going wild over some new cure—all of their own conceiving, there's nothing left to do but to lament or to laugh at it. Just think for a moment. If the Bible were really considered by these "Critics" to be the actual and inspired message of God to man, would they dare to "criticize" it? You answer "No." Of course not. It is therefore because they do not believe it that they venture criticism. How long does it take the rising generation to take note of the fact that the Old Story is now considered just a story after all and that "we're here because we're here," and nothing more. And of what use is Church Union or any other union under those circumstances? Why waste further time over it? If a church has no authority upon which to found itself but guesswork, why pay all these fancy salaries and waste money on it? How little reliance, after all, people place on the Creator of all things. As it would be ridiculous to say that God did not know what He is doing the truth becomes apparent. People are ceasing to believe in God at all. How they can think that they, with their own highly-advertised remedies, are going to save the world is beyond belief. Just think of it, a people who can't even be sure of staying alive for ten minutes together are jerking the world about as if it were a human creation. How is it that we run into these excesses? It must be that we confuse the infinite with the finite that we are unable to distinguish our own limitations from the acts and doings of the Deity.

How long will this nonsense last? Just about long enough to afford the devil a good laugh. But think of the damage it is doing. And what better is one kind of unbeliever than another? What better is the self-satisfied one who sets himself or herself up where God alone can be than the gay and giddy or for that matter the vicious and criminal? What better are they in relation to the life that is to come? They appear to be better. They think themselves better vastly, but after all, what better are they? They are actually worse. It is all very disappointing and sad but, of course, it matters little to God Who, I think, we may fairly presume will continue to reign and rule the Universe when these poor creatures have long since crumbled into dust.

J. H. BURNHAM.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Suppose the Government were to pay the Home Bank depositors the other 50c. on the dollar, they would immediately walk across the street, and deposit it into another bank, with the possibility of a repetition of the Home Bank disaster a few years hence, when they would again clamour for Government relief.

Now there is no chance whatever of the Government doing this, because the people would not consent to a continuation of that sort of thing.

Better judgment on the depositors' part would be to persuade the Government to remove the $1,500.00 limit on P. O. Saving deposits and make the rate 5½% instead of 3%. This would nearly save the situation for the Home Bank depositors so far as income was concerned, and in addition would be of immense benefit in almost doubling the income of the million other savings depositors.

For this act, and assistance, the other million depositors benefited thereby might, and I believe would, extend their sympathy and influence with the Government for the assistance of the Home Bank unfortunates, in consideration of the splendid public service they would have accomplished, in addition to preventing any possible future repetition of the chain of savings disasters in the past.

The Government owes it to the people to provide absolutely safe accommodation for saving deposits, at the best possible rate of interest they pay to any person, and especially so when it would not cost the Government or the country either a dollar, but on the contrary, pay the depositors 40 million dollars annually of increased interest thereon.

Think it over seriously Home Bank depositors, and direct your efforts along the line, that has some chance of success.

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS

To the Editor of The Globe: In your issue of January 7 there appeared the substance of a resolution sent out by the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce, protesting strenuously against the proposal to bring 3,000 German families to settle in Saskatchewan. I cannot refrain from taking exception to certain statements contained therein.

The resolution states that "it is not part of the duty of the people of Canada to assume into their national life an inditgestible mass of Teutonic culture." This is quite true, if it be shown that German immigrants are "indigestib.e." Observations in Canada show the converse to be true. Of all immigrants from Continental Europe, those of Teutonic blood have proved to be most capable of assimilation. German settlers have proved to be capable, industrious, thrifty, and willing to abide by the laws of the land. They learn our language readily, accept our public school system, and shoulder their share of national responsibility, accepting Canada as their home, instead of a stepping-stone to the Republic to the south. In Western Canada especially, they have endured great hardships in building their homes, and in Eastern Canada their industry and enterprise has created one of the most thriving cities in Ontario. Furthermore, statistics show that they were thoroughly loyal to the country of their adoption in the great war. This would appear to be very satisfactory on the part of this "indigestible mass of Teutonic culture."

Scandinavian and Danish settlers were suggested instead, but these people also belong to the Teutonic race which the resolution desires to oppose for a lengthy period. We need and desire both Scandinavian and Dane, but these countries support a limited population which does not admit of wholesale emigration.

This resolution certainly throws an obnoxious and unfair stigma upon Canadian settlers of Germanic extraction, and certainly does not assist in producing unity in the Canadian nation. Maybe the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce expects this influx of German settlers to be followed by the annexation of Canada to Germany! The wailings of this small corner of Ontario must be extremely amusing to the people who live in Saskatchewan and are not so violently prejudiced in their views.

G. O. DUNCAN.

Re garbage collection. First let me say that I have nothing against the collectors, poor or otherwise, as I believe they have done the work satisfactorily and from their standpoint are justified in trying to hold their contract.

But I also believe in civic efficiency and economy and I still believe that the contract system for a job of this sort is the most expensive, that it could be done cheaper and just as efficiently by direct labor.

I estimated for two teams because I believe they were sufficient at least most of the time and although Mr. Withers says there are five teams, he does not convince me that there is continuous work for them, any more than he can that $800.00 is a reasonable charge for the collection of garbage from twenty houses.

A multiplicity of hands do not always mean more work, a lot of men were employed on the Hunter Street bridge, but it is a question whether two-thirds as many could not have done the work in less time and with far less cost to the taxpayer. When a boy working on a farm, my boss found me one day away from my job playing with another boy. I have never forgotten his words as he escorted me back to my work, he said, "One boy a whole boy, two boys half a boy, three boys no boy at all." This is sometimes the case with older boys also.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. LEADER.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Buying stocks on margin is usually a good example of "biting off more than you can chew."

If a person wanted $500 worth of stock and could pay only $100 down,he would have to borrow $400, and give the stock as security for the loan.

The buyer's ownership in the stock is called his margin. It is determined by subtracting the amount of the loan from the market price of the stock. In this case it would be $100.

If the market price falls more than $100, the customer will have no margin at all, and the loaner or broker would not be able to sell the stock for enough to recover his $400. To guard against this, more money must be brought in as the price declines, or the broker may sell at the market price, pay himself the $400, and turn over the balance, if any, to the customer.

In buying on margin, the customer usually gets more stock than he can conveniently handle. Consequently a small dip in the market wipes out his ownership, and he loses money because he tried to make big profits too speedily.

RED-HEADED GIRLS HAVE HOT TEMPERS

It Has Also Been Discovered That Red-Headed Girls Are Bow-Legged

It seems to be a commonly accepted maxim that red-headed girls have hot tempers. But it has remained for the distinguished Committee on Artists' Models of the distinguished Charcoal Club, of Baltimore, to make the new and hitherto unsuspected discovery that red-headed girls are bow-legged.

The announcement appears to be based upon considerable investigation on the part of the committee. But why it should be true that ninety-four out of every hundred red-headed girls have bow legs, as they assert, they do not undertake to explain. These artists are pioneers in making the great discovery—science, in its patient laboratory researches, will have to explain the phenomenon.

Art has its discoveries, as well as science; and it came to pass that the Baltimore Charcoal Club, composed of a group of earnest young artists who work in that medium, wanted some models. Naturally, before any girls were accepted they had to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the examining committee that their figures were worth copying on paper, and artists were notoriously from Missouri. One by one the girl applicants disrobed, posed and were rejected; and presently a few curious facts became apparent.

The first was that almost all of the brunette models were knock-kneed. This was a puzzling surprise.

Some merely bulged a bit; some sagged, and others swelled inward so far that they actually knocked together when the model walked up and down the model stand. Out of 642 brunette applicants examined in the course of three hours, more than 500 had baggy knees, an extraordinary proportion in view of the commonly accepted tradition that brunettes have very symmetrical limbs.

The statistics gathered by the examining committee of the Charcoal Club seem irrefutable. Here were almost 300 red-haired girls and all but a dozen or so of their number were as bow-legged as cavalrymen.

"It got so that we could determine the arc on which the girls' legs would be bowed by a glance," said Mr. John McGrath, the artist in charge of the examination. "The redder the hair, the greater the bow. The girls having a deep bronze head of hair have reasonably straight legs. They begin to sag a bit in the auburn-haired types. They bulged out a good three inches when the hair is terra cotta, and the lower extremities of a 'carrot-top' girl look like a barrel hoop."

Mr. McGarth hastens to mention that the lavish natural charms of the red-haired girl more than offset the trifling misfortune of her bow legs.

"Almost always her figure is far superior to that of the blonde and brunette type," he continued. "As a rule her torso is almost perfect, and there is an invariably beautiful curve where the neck joins the shoulders. That is what makes her bow-leggedness seems so sad. I can only conclude that nature is jealous of her gifts and will not bestow all charms on any one type of beauty."

There is a remedy for bow legs, as Miss Ruth Gordon demonstrated a few years ago when she felt that her misfortune in this matter was interfering with her career on the stage. Miss Gordon, who played the "baby-talk lady" in Booth Tarkington's play, "Seventeen," persuaded a Chicago surgeon to chisel holes almost through the bones of her legs, which were then cracked like candy canes; all because the little actress wanted to have a pair of straight legs like those of her friend, Marilynn Miller. —From "The Canadian Barber."

HOW TO COMBAT SCOURS IN CALVES

Like all diseases of cattle, prevention is the best method of combatting scours. Ordinarily scours, as distinguished from white scours or calf cholera, can usually be traced to overfeeding, irregular feeding, dirty pails, cold milk, sour milk, or old milk, and any one or all of these are due to carelessness on the part of the feeder.

Constant vigilance is the price of healthy calves. As soon as trouble is detected, the feed of the calf should be reduced at least half. Administer a dose of castor oil in warm milk by means of a small drenching bottle. This will tend to remove all irritating substances from the bowels. Feed should then be gradually restored to the normal account, and formaldehyde solution should be added to the milk at the rate of one teaspoonful per pound of milk. This solution should be made up of one part of formalin (40 per cent solution of formaldehyde) to thirty-one parts of water. If prompt improvement does not follow this treatment, repeat the dose of oil, and accompany it with another reduction in the feed.

Calves are always greedy, and for this reason overfeeding should be avoided. This is true particularly when alfalfa is being fed, as it is exceedingly palatable, and the animal is apt to gorge itself.

ADVANTAGES OF BEEKEEPING

Bees can be kept in town or country, by young or old, rich or poor. For one entering the business on a large scale with more than one apiary, the country, of course, is necessary where larger sources of nectar are available. A few colonies can, however, be kept on a small town lot or even on the roof of a house for the bees will fly to a distance of two or three miles for nectar. Bees can be kept in situations which are useless for any other enterprise.

There is scarcely a spot in Canada where a few colonies of bees cannot be kept profitably. An abundance of nectar secreting flowers with a high average of favorable weather for the secretion and gathering of nectar makes Canada an excellent country for beekeeping.

Almost anyone can keep bees, and without investing in land or expensive equipment a man or woman who has the aptitude can learn to produce an article of food that is unsurpassed for quality and which will keep in good marketable condition, even from year to year. It is difficult to state the amount of honey that will be obtained from an apiary, as this will vary in different locations and seasons. Most localities, however, will be covered if it is put at from 50 to 150 pounds per colony in an average season. With proper management one or two colonies will yield enough honey for the average family.

Beekeeping affords a pleasant outdoor occupation during the best season of the year. As a hobby for office men it provides a profitable and interesting recreation. For teachers and students it offers an occupation for the summer vacation, which is educational and remunerative. Many students have paid their way through college by keeping bees during the summer. Many are finding it a profitable auxiliary to other lines of work. As an exclusive business, many find it well worth while.

Beekeeping not only gives one a crop of honey and a little wax, but fruit and seed growers are also benefited by having bees in the vicinity of their orchards and fields. Larger crops of fruit and seed are obtained by cross-pollination of the blossoms, and honey bees are important agents in this work.

MANVERS RIFLE CLUB SHOOTING

Young Men Make High Scores in Third Match. Cavan Man Buys Black And Silver Foxes.

CAVAN, Jan. 14.—The young men of Manvers, in the vicinity of Bethany, have organized a rifle club to furnish sport for the winter months. They held their third match Wednesday, January 9th, on the premises of Harold Russell, Eighth Line, Manvers. There was good shooting, the score being very close. The high score was 97, Offa and Charles Staples being ties. They shot off and Charles won.

Harold Russell and Bruce Ryley made the highest score at the match two weeks previous.

Next match will be held at Harold Russell's, January 23rd. Good prizes are given.

Sunday Sermon

Rev. R. T. Richards preached an excellent sermon in Cavan church on Sunday night. His text was the first clause of verse 20 of Psalm 147: "He hath not dealt so with any nation."

He emphasized the wonderful privileges which we enjoy as citizens of Canada and the obligation resting on each one to do his part.

Miss A. Kelly is in Dr. Turner's Hospital having her hand attended. Several weeks ago, while visiting in Windsor she made a cut on her fore finger while opening a can. Blood-poisoning set in and it has occasioned her a great deal of pain and inconvenience. It is now improving.

Has Wood Contract

Mr. Harry Lang has been given the contract of putting in six cords of hardwood for use in S. S. No. 7, at ten dollars a cord.

Mr. C. Smith will put in a cord of cedar for five dollars.

Church Lights Failed

On Sunday night the lights in Cavan church failed to work. Something was wrong with the generator and just as service was about to begin, lamps had to be brought in.

Fox Hunting

After the light fall of snow on Sunday night several hunters were out, bright and early on Monday morning over Cavan hills, fox-hunting.

Brought Foxes

Mr. J. Byam, Millbrook, has purchased several valuable foxes—one black and one silver, probably intending to commence fox farming.

Sawing will commence in L. Graham's lumber camp on Tuesday. So far the work has been cutting down and limbing trees and skidding up the logs.

Mr. Wm. Pudsy spent the week-end at Claybo, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morton, Miss Lillie Pudsy, who has been making a prolonged visit in Manvers will return with him.

Mrs. Lloyd Sutton had the misfortune to slip on the steps and injure her side. Her friends will be glad to know that she is improving.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair britle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is beter than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

ITEMS OMEMEE AND DISTRICT

Well - Known Character Passed Away. A. W. M. S., Meeting.

OMEMEE, Jan. 15.—Mr. Harry Stark, who for many years has carried on a junk dealing business in Omemee, passed away on Wednesday in a Jewish Hospital in Toronto, at the good old age of 78 years.

A quaint old figure known to young and old of the whole countryside, Mr. Stark will be missed by all.

True to his Jewish religion, he never missed a Jewish festival in the city and was very faithful to his church. The old gentleman was well versed in the Scriptures and it was ever a keen delight to him to engage in a spirited debate with the local clergy.

Mr. Stark kept abreast of the times in reading the daily papers and his own Jewish paper and talked intelligently on the news of the day.

The funeral was held on Friday in Toronto. Interment taking place in the Jewish cemetery. The chief mourners present being a son from Battle Creek, Mich., and a nephew T. Kramer, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A W.M.S. Meeting

The first W.M.S. meeting to be held this year in the Methodist church was held on Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School room, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Rowland, the meeting was in charge of the pastor. Following the devotional exercises, the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. (Dr.) Earle and on motion approved. Mrs. T. C. Ivory, the treasurer, gave a report of the bazaar proceeds.

A new programme committee, who will act for the months of February, March and April, was appointed in the persons of Mrs. Poast and Mrs. William Earle.

During the month flowers were purchased with funds from the birthday box for Mrs. H. Laidley, Mrs. Dornon and Mrs. I. Glenny, for which letters of appreciation were read.

The devotional leaflet was given by Mrs. William Earle. The President's message by Miss Eva Rice.

Mrs. Widdis gave a very interesting synopsis of chapter five in the study book, "Emigrants from South Eastern Europe," in which much knowledge was gleaned of the type of new Canadians settling in our Western provinces. These readings interspersed with several rousing missionary hymns brought to a close a most helpful meeting.

Mrs. (Dr.) Earle was the hostess for the meeting and a social half-hour with dainty refreshments served was enjoyed by all.

Joseph McConnell

Another old and esteemed resident of Emily township, in the person of Mr. Joseph McConnell, passed away at his home in East Emily on Sunday evening, at the ripe old age of 88 years.

RADIO NEWS

The two circuit tuner described recently is changed into a three circuit tuner when an inductance coil is placed in the plate circuit. This inductance, often called the "feedback" or "tickler" coil, does not constitute a separate circuit although it is called one.

The plate circuit is that part of the hookup between the socket binding post of the detector tube marked "P" and the telephone binding post or jack. The insertion of a coil of inductance in the plate circuit causes a transfer or feedback of energy from the output of the detector tube back to the imput circuit of the tube. The energy that is thus transferred is again passed through the tube and amplified, resulting in a greatly increased signal strength as compared with the two circuit non-regenerative set.

A fixed tickler is not used to any great extent due to the fact that this inductance must be tuned for each change in tuning of the primary and secondary circuits. A great amount of tickler must be used as the inductance of the tuning circuit is increased. For this reason the tickler usually consists in whole or in part of a continuously variable inductance such as a variometer.

The relation of the tickler coil to the primary and secondary inductance is a matter which you will probably determine by experiment. If the tickler coil is placed too close to the other inductances in the set or has too many turns, then too much energy will be transferred back to the grid circuit. This will cause the set to oscillate and signals will be distorted. If too few turns are used on the tickler, or it is placed in non-inductive relation with the primary inductance then it will be impossible to bring the set into an oscillatory state, just below which is the proper place to receive signals.

The chief complaint against the single circuit tuner is that it is too broad in tuning and is not selective enough. One broadcasting station is all that is desired at one time, and that without interference from code transmitting stations. The three-circuit tuner has the advantage of being able to select the station to be received without so much interference from other stations, but this advantage is gained at the sacrifice of simplicity of tuning.

In addition to the three controls given yesterday for the tuning of the two-circuit receiver, the primary and secondary inductances and the coupling control, there are two additional adjustments necessary. The three-circuit tuner has the plate or tickler circuit and the detector rheostat to adjust, and these are very important in distant work.

When tuning, place the plate variometer or tickler coil at minimum and tune the primary circuits in the same manner as for the two-circuit tuner. When a station has been tuned in with the primary and secondary inductance controls, ad-vance the tickler until the volume is satisfactory or the tube commences to oscillate. The reception while the tube is oscillating will not be good on account of the muffled quality of the music or speech. The proper reception point is that just below the oscillation point. This may be reached by turning back the tickler adjustment or the detector rheostat slightly until the tube ceases to oscillate, and then turning either control on again to the point just before the tube will again oscillate.

A record of the settings of the plate variometer and the detector rheostat will be of little value due to the fact that a variation in one, changes the setting of the other, and to the fact that the filament battery changes from day to day so that a record made one night will not be accurate for successive nights.

THE GREENE PIANO CLUB
Again Proves Its Popularity

The Sixth Greene Piano Club has proven again that this unusual selling event is appreciated by people who are looking for real value.

A very large percentage of the 20 Club Pianos were sold on the club's two opening days. This is a practical evidence of the substantial good-will behind this outstanding event.

A large number of callers are amazed at the exceptionl value and the liberality of this offer.

We invite you to call, though you may be under the impression that there are some "strings' 'attached to the value and the advantages offered, to give us the opportunity to prove to you that all the features are exactly what they are represented to be in every particular, without a single thing hidden or unexplained.

Under the Club plan, anyone can purchase a new and fully guaranteed Piano on payment of $6.00—with weekly payments of only $2.00. This includes a one-year exchange privilege, a relief insurance clause, and a stool to match. The regular value of the instrument is $450.00. The Club price is $337.00. Thus it can be seen that in addtion to the remarkably easy terms, there has been a generous reduction in price, which, in view of the special privileges and features, makes this Club a truly extraordinary opportunity.

"Well, I'll confess I made that up just to get a rise out of you." She looked at him speculatively. "But about Janet—well, you see, I know you for a gay deceiver—mother is always using those old expressions that were the fashion in her—and Mary Ogden's—day. I hear you even made love to our fair hostess until you found out the truth and then you dropped her like a hot potato—or a cold fish. I was surprised when she told me you were coming here tonight, and asked her at once to seat us three together so that Anne and I could save you from feeling embarrassed—not that I told her that, of course. I merely said we were such old friends we would naturally have a thousand things to talk about. She didn't turn a hair; I'll say that much for her. But perhaps she thinks she's playing you on a long string. She's playing several poor fish who are here tonight."

Should he tell her? He really could stand no more. He hadn't a doubt that the same rumor that had driven Janet to her crude attempt to compromise him and then blast her rival with naked words, had reached these two older and cleverer, but hardly subtler girls, and they had joined forces to disenchant him and make him feel the misguided young man they no doubt believed him to be. He hated them both. They had that for their pains. He'd never willingly see one of them again.

He longed to blurt out the truth. But his was not the right. He glanced over at Madame Zattiany, who sat in the middle of the table's length, receiving the intent homage of the men on either side of her and looking more placid than any other woman in the room. . . . It occurred to him that the rest were animated to excess, even the wives of those two men, to whom, it was patent, they were non-existent. He would have given his play at that moment to be able to stand up and ask the company to drink his health and hers.

For a few moments he was left to himself, both Marian and Anne being occupied with their neighbors, and during those moments he sensed an atmosphere of hostility, of impending danger. He caught more than one malicious glance directed at Mary, and once a man, in response to a whispered remark, burst into uncontrollable laughter. Had these women come here—but that was impossible. Even New York had its limits. They might be icily rude to a pushing outsider, as indeed they had every right to be, but never to one of their own. Still—to this alarmed generation possibly Madame Zattiany was nothing more than a foreign woman who had stormed the gates and reduced them to a mere background. The fact that she had belonged to their mother's generation and had abruptly descended to theirs was enough to arouse every instinct of self-defence. He quite understood they must hate her, but in spite of that common enmity his sensitive mind apprehended, they'd surely commit no avert act of hostility. Like all their kind, they were adepts in the art of "freezing out." He had no doubt they had come here from mere curiosity and that he would shortly hear they had ceased to entertain or receive her. But he wished the dinner was over.

He was soon enlightened.

Marian Lawrence leaned across the table. "Oh, Madame Zattiany! Will you settle a dispute? Harry and I have been arguing about Disraeli. Your husband was an ambassador, wasn't he? Did you happen to be at the Berlin What-d'you-call-it?"

"Oh, no," replied Madame Zattiany, with open amusement. "I was still Mary Ogden in eighteen-seventy-eight."

"Oh! The seventies and eighties are all one to me, I'm afraid. I'm shockingly ignorant. But we've all been saying that you ought to write your memoirs. Thirty-four years of diplomatic life in Europe! You must have met every one worth knowing and it would be such a delightful way for us youngsters to learn history."

"Oh, I kept a diary," said Madame Zattiany lightly. "I may publish it some day." And she turned pointedly to the man on her right. Why had she invited the little cat?

"Oh, but Madame Zattiany!" exclaimed young Mrs. Ruyler, whose black eyes were sparkling. "Please don't wait. I'm so interested in German history since the war. You must have known four generations of Hohenzollerns . . . too thrilling! And Bismarck. And the Empress Elizabeth. And Crown Prince Rudolf—do tell us the truth of that mysterious tragedy. Did you ever see Marie Vetsera? I never heard of it until the other day when some of mothers friends raked it up, and I've been excited ever since.'

"I hear you even made love to our fair hostess until you found out the truth. . . ."

"Unfortunately my husband was an attache in Paris at the time, and I never saw her. I am afraid your curiosity will never be satisfied. There was a general impression that if Vienna ever became the capital of a Republic the archives would be opened and the truth of the Meyerling tragedy given to the world. But all documents relating to private scandals must have been destroyed." She spoke with the utmost suavity, the patient hostess with rather tiresome guests. "People in Vienna, I assure you, take very little interest in that old scandal. They are too busy and too uncomfortable making history of their own."

"Yes, it must be a hideously uncomfortable place to live in." Mrs. Leonard, another daughter-in-law of one of Mary's old friends, gave a little shudder. "No wonder you got out. I was so glad to subscribe to your noble charity, dear Madame Zattiany. But"—and she smiled winsomely—"I think we should get up a subscription for those wonderful scientists in Vienna. Every once in a while you hear the most harrowing stories of the starving scientists of Europe, and it would be too awful if those miracle men in Vienna should pass away from malnutrition before it is our turn to need them."

"Ah, dear Mrs. Ruyler!" exclaimed Madame Zattiany with a smile as winsome as her own. "You forget they will probably all be dead by that time and that their pupils will be equally eminent and even more expert. For that matter there will be experts in every city in the world."

But Clavering, watching her anxiously, had seen an expression of wonder dawn in her eyes, quickly as she had banished it. It was evident that whatever the secret spite of these women, this was the first time they had given it open expression. He glanced about the table. Young Vane's face was crimson and he had turned his back pointedly on Marian Lawrence, who was smoking and grinning. She had started the ball and was too indolent to take it out of hands that seemed to be equally efficient.

Clavering leaned forward and caught Mary's eye with a peremptory expression, but she shook her head, although too imperceptibly for any one else to catch the fleeting movement, and he sank back with a humiliating sense of impotence. He wished she were not so well able to take care of herself.

"But this is abominable," murmured Anne Goodrich. It was possible that she was not in on the baiting. "Abominable. What must she think of us? Or, perhaps they don't really mean to be horried. They look innocent enough. After all, she could tell us many interesting things."

"Oh, they mean it," said Clavering bitterly. "They mean it all right and she knows it."

"You speak as if you were even more interested in her than poor Harry Vane." The indignation had faded from Miss Goodrich's lofty countenance. "Are you?"

"Yes, I am, if you want the truth. I'd marry her tomorrow if she'd have me." This was as far as he could go.

"Oh!" Her mouth trembled, but she did not look wholly unprepared for the statement. "But—Lee—— You know how interested I have always been in you—how interested we all are in you——"

"What has that to do with it? If you are so interested in me I should think I'd have your best wishes to carry off such a prize. Have you ever seen a more remarkable woman?"

"Oh, remarkable, yes. But—well ——" And then she burst out: "It seems to me unspeakably horrid. I can't say all I'd like to——"

"Pray, don't. And suppose we change the subject—— They're at it again, damn them."

A critic went by request to hear a certain politician make a speech.

"Well," said the politician, after he'd got through — "well, how was it?"

"Sound—very sound," said the critic.

"Yes," said the politician, and then, hungry for more, he beamed and added, "Sound—and what else?"

"Nothing else," said the critic.—Los Angeles Times.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

THE LOST TWEEDLES

"Oh, I'll be ever so much obliged," exclaimed Misse Tweedle.

Nancy was out shaking her doormat when Missez Tweedle called across the street. "Did you see my boys anywhere? I sent them out to play and now they're gone and I can't find them."

"No, I didn't see them," Nancy called back. "I just came out. But wait, I'll ask Nick. He's playing marbles with Tom Tinker out in the back yard."

But in a minute she came back. "Why, they're gone, too!" she said. "I don't see them any place."

At that, Missez Sprat, who lived next door to Missez Tweedle, stuck her head out of her second-story window. It was a very unmannerly thing to do, but poor Missez Sprat was so fat, it was very difficult for her to go waddling up and down stairs for every little thing. So she called out, "I know where they are as sure as anything. I saw them looking at the circus posters and I wouldn't be surprised if they had gone down to the circus grounds, the whole four of them, to see the circus come in."

"My goodness! Do you think so?" cried Missez Tweedle. "Why the very idea! Here I've been hurrying to get through with my work so I could have lunch at half past 11 instead of 12 and take those two little boys of mine to the 1 o'clock show. Mister Tweedle was going too. But if I have to stop and hunt for them I can't finish my work and we can't go."

"I'll go for you," offered Nancy at once as she laid the neat little doormat in place above the top step. "I'm all through with my work. I've hurried, too, for Daddy Gander promised to take Nick and me."

"Oh, I'll be ever so much obliged!" exclaimed Missez Tweedle. "Dum has on a blue stocking-leg cap and Dee has on a red one, and they both have on little brown shoes with the toes out, and they are sure to have dirty faces."

"I'll find them," said Nancy. "Don't worry."

So she got her hat and away she skipped down Broom Street as hard as she could go.

Right on the corner of Wheelbarrow Lane she caught up with Nick and Tom Tinker. "Did you see the Tweedle Twins anywhere?" asked Nancy.

"Nope!" said Nick. "What's happened?"

"They're lost!" she answered. "And Missez Sprat thinks they've gone to see the circus come in."

"Come on then," shouted Tom Tinker. "That's where we're bound for, too! All three of us can look for them."

And away they ran.

HASTINGS TOWN COUNCIL MEETS

Municipal Officers Appointed and Other Business Transacted.

HASTINGS, Jan. 14.—The inaugural meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council Chamber Monday morning at 10 o'clock when the following were sworn into office:

Reeve—W. M. Fowlds.

Councillors—T. A. Coughlan, L. E. Kelby, F. Dodd, S. Hatherly.

The reeve in a short and snappy speech wished to think the ratepayers for electing him reeve by acclamation for 1924. He expressed his desire that the Council would give him their co-operation in the town's affairs.

The most of the money that the Council had to spend was on the streets and schools and he expected the Council would have to build a new cement culvert on the outskirts of the town.

Moved by Hatherly, seconded by Dodd that E. M. Tate and H. B. Wilson be appointed auditors for 1924 at a salary of $7.50 each.

Moved by Dodd, seconded by Hatherly, that J. M. Baker be appointed Treasurer for 1924, at salary $60.00.

Moved by Kelly, seconded by Coughlan, that H. Scriver be appointed constable for 1924.

Moved by Hatherly, seconded by Dodd, that A. E. Chapman be appointed Assessor at a salary of $60.00.

A. B. German applied for the position of Assessor a t a salary of $40, but did not receive a motion.

Committees Struck

The Reeve appointed the following Committees:

Street Committee—S. Hatherly, (chairman), L. E. Kelly, T. A. Coughlan.

Finance Committee—T. A. Coughlan (chairman), F. Dodd, L. E. Kelly.

Property Committee—L. E. Kelly, (chairman), S. Hatherly, T. A. Coughlan.

Charity—Reeve Fowlds, Clerk A. Wilson, F. Dodd, L. E. Kelly, T. A. Coughlan, S. Hatherly.

Board of Health—A. Wilson, Dr. J. A. McDonald, W. Warner.

Fence Viewers—A. Atickles, T. Grady, A. B. German.

Pound Keeper—W. Boyle.

Town Solicitor—G. N. Gordon, M.P.

Petitions

Moved by Kelly, seconded by Hatherly, that Reeve Fowlds wire $100 to Mr. Clarke, of Toronto, re advertising the town.

RADIO NEWS

The two-circuit receiver had two or three tuning controls in contrast with one control with the single circuit tuner. These are: the primary inductance control, the secondary inductance control, and the coupling control between the inductances. This makes tuning a little more difficult at first but is more than recompensed for by the greater selectivity of the two-circuit tuner.

When first tuning in a station it is best to have the coupling control at its maximum setting and the primary inductance about half way. Now tune carefully over the scale with the secondary inductance control. If no signals are heard change the setting of the primary and again carefully tune with the secondary control. When a signal is heard turn the primary inductance dial slightly and return with the secondary dial.

When the loudest results are secured in this manner the coupling dial should be tuned back slightly and the primary and secondary controls readjusted in order to secure a louder signal. You will find that the further the coupling dial can be turned in the minimum direction the greater the selectivity or ability of the set to tune out undesirable signals will be, and it is usually possible to tune out all but powerful local stations in this manner.

Changing any one of the controls will require readjustment of the remaining controls and for this reason it is a very good plan to make a chart of the various settings of the dials for the wavelength of each station you are accustomed to receiveng. The record of the setting of the secondary inductance dial is of the most importance, as adjustment of the primary inductance and the coupling can be made to it very quickly. The rheostat should be adjusted to the point where the signals are heard the loudest.

WINTER ECZEMA
'CHAPS' & COLD-SORES

KEEN wintry weather brings a host of skin troubles. Cold-sores, chapped hands, unsightly face-sores and blotches, become a source of discomfort and annoyance. To end the trouble and make your skin clear, healthy and flexible, give the face, arms and hands, a nightly dressing with pure herbal Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk instantly soothes the smarting irritation, it kills disease germs, and quickly heals all soreness, roughness and chafing which, neglected, often develops into eczema or other chronic skin disease. Use also Zam-Buk Medicinal Soap and enjoy real skin health.

TO SHIELD YOURSELF Against SKIN DISEASE APPLY Zam-Buk TO THE FIRST ITCHY SPOT OR ERUPTION

This was an obstinate case.

Mrs. Henry Amey, 42, Lyall Avenue, Toronto, says:—"My daughter's face and neck were a mass of eczema. Her doctor prescribed treatment for over two months, but to little avail. I was about to call in a skin specialist when I heard of Zam-Buk treatment rescuing other sufferers from this dread disease. So I got a box of Zam-Buk and a tablet of Zam-Buk Medicinal Soap. In a few days these wrought a decided improvement. Day by day the sores gradually healed, and within a month my daughter's skin was thoroughly cleared of the terrible disease."

FREE SAMPLE BOXES of this great skin remedy! Send 1c. stamp (for return postage), Give name and date of paper, and address Zam-Buk Co., Dupont St., Toronto. 50c. box, all dealers.

HAND-SHAKING

Physicians and practical observers have come to the conclusion that 85 per cent. of contact infection is by means of the hands.

The physician or nurse is careful to thoroughly sterilize every article or instrument with which the hands, in treating a patient, come in contact. Think, then, how great the real danger is among the general public by hand contact and carelessness. We do not know among those we meet just who is infected and who is not. We do not think anything about it, as a rule. Five per cent. of persons are careful, the other 95 per cent. are careless, and are risking health and happiness by promiscuous hand-shaking.

It is true kissing is a more direct means of contact, but it is not so common as the hand-shake, and is also confined to the exchange of nasal or oral discharges. Outside sources, such as contaminated clothing, handling of animal pets, handles of doors, tools, or articles in common use, make the danger from hand infection great.

The general public is slow to break away from custom and habit. But a gradual training against the common greeting by hand-shaking is possible. It is one of the things given special emphasis in the great program for public health. It will surely reduce the danger of disease-transfer and infection in the long run.

Persons with colds, carry danger in their hand-shake from handkerchief contamination. In the case of influenza, hand-shaking must be abolished. Careless and unclean persons are more dangerous in their hand-shake than from any other source of infection.

The cheery smile, combined with the military salute, is a suitable substitute for the infection hand-shake.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons).

PRUNE RECIPES

Does your family refuse to eat plain every-day stewed prunes?

Then try these recipes for luncheon or dinner and "slip one" over on them. The very fact that the time is out of the ordinary for serving prunes will aid the housekeeper. "While John may say sternly, "You know I don't eat stewed prunes" at breakfast time I'll warrant he'll eat this prune cocktail at dinner time without a murmur.

In the winter when succulent vegetables are high, and in some localities hard to get, prunes are an important part of the diet. They should be used often in some form or other.

Prune Cocktail

Choose fine large prunes. Allow three prunes for each person to be served. Wash well through several waters and let stand in cold water to cover over night. Bring slowly to the boiling point in the same water, reduce heat and simmer until the water is absorbed and the prunes are tender but not mushy or broken. Let stand in the liquid until cool. When cool cut in halves and remove stone. Cut each half in two and put in cocktail glasses. Add one teaspoon lemon juice, one teaspoon sugar and two tablespoons orange juice to each glass and chill. Serve very cold.

Ring of Prunes

One pound prunes, ½ cup sugar, 4 teaspoons granulated gelatin, whipped cream, candied cherries and citron.

Wash prunes well and let stand over night in cold water to cover. In the morning stew slowly in this water until tender but not broken. Drain and measure juice. There should be two cups. Soften gelatin in one-quarter cup cold water and add to boiling prune juice and sugar. Stir until dissolved. When cool dip each prune, with the stone removed, into the liquid and place around a ring mold in rows. When firm to the touch add the jelly. Let stand in a cool place until set and cold. Turn out on a large plate, fill the center with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla, garnish with the cherries and thin narrow strips of citron and serve. This will serve eight persons.

Spiced Prunes

One pound brown sugar, 1 cup cider vinegar, ½ cup water, 1 tablespoon peppercorns, 2 tablespoons broken bits of stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 orange, 1 lemon, 2 pounds prunes.

Make a syrup of sugar, water and vinegar. Add spices tied in a cheesecloth bag, orange and lemon sliced and seeds removed and boil 20 minutes. Steam prunes until tender and add to syrup. Cook slowly an hour longer. Remove spice bag and pour prunes and syrup into sterilized jars and seal.

Salad Prunes

Scrub prunes and wash through several waters. Cover with boiling water, cover bowl tightly and let stand until cold. Drain and remove stones. Mix one Neufchatel cheese with two tablespoons finely chopped nuts and enough cream or olive oil to make moist. Fill prunes with mixture and serve with head lettuce salad with French dressing. This amount of cheese and nuts will fill 16 large prunes and serve four persons.

Did you ever wash prunes well, remove the stones and fill the cavities with peanut butter? If you like peanut butter you will like these prunes better than candy and find them an excellent sweetmeat for the kiddies.

Prune Pudding

One-half pound prunes, 2 cups cold water, ¾ cup sugar, juice 1 lemon, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 1-3 cups boiling water, 1 inch stick cinnamon.

Wash prunes through several waters. Put in stew pan, add cold water and let stand one hour. Boil until soft in this water. When cool enough to handle remove stones. Add prune juice, boiling water, sugar and cinnamon and simmer 15 minutes. Mix cornstarch with enough cold water to pour easily and stir into prune mixture. Cook five minutes. Remove stick of cinnamon, add lemon juice and pour into a mold. Let stand on ice or in a cold place for two hours. Unmold and serve with plain or whipped cream.

SAD MISTAKE

It was dusk, and the ticket inspector went to the young couple on the back seat of the 'bus.

"Where?" inquired the youth.

"At the pawnbroker's." — Exchange.

Teach your child internal cleanliness

Washing Cleans Only The Skin

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life of her little one.

It must be remembered that an infant is helpless, unable to tell that constipation is making its life miserable. Consequently the mother must be able to recognize signs of constipation in her baby. Convulsions, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, feverishness, fretfulness and such symptoms—any of these may indicate that poisons from baby's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body.

In older children biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite warn the mother that constipation is present. Constipation, unchecked in youth, may lead to serious consequences. In constipation, according to intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Only Aggravate Constipation

The mother should not resort to laxatives. A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly—and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol yourself as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

RUSSIA CLOSES BRANCH OF "Y"

Bolsheviki Use Childish Way to Wipe Out Institution at Vladivosto-

VLADIVOSTOK, Siberia, Jan. 12.—(By Mail).—The closing of the American Y. M. C. A. at Vladivostok is another sign of the determination of Russian authorities not to permit any interference in their programme for molding national life and thought as they wish. The most significant aspect of the matter is that the communists thought it necessary to camouflage their action. In place of closing the association by police decree, as they had full power to do, they adopted a round-about process of the most childishly simple kind.

When the American expeditionary forces landed at Vladivostok in the summer of 1918 it was accomplished by the Y. M. C. A.

When the expeditionary force left Vladivostok in March, 1920, some of the "Y" men remained to use their organization in the interest of Russian young men.

A Clean Spot

They made a success of the job. The Vladivostok "Y" had about 1,000 members and students. Its dramatic club was the most popular in the city. Its art studio was the only one in the far east. Its gymnasium and summer camps, its bands and classes were among the most hopeful clean sports in the festering and melancholy life of Vladivostok under the "whites."

The place had a turnover of $23,000 a year and paid 60 per cent. of its running expenses. America met the balance. The work in its final stages was managed by a young Cleveland man, Brackett Lewis. Working as his colleague was a fine young Russian, trained in the University of Chicago, Ivan Yaroslavtzev.

At first they were not disturbed. Classes continued; the summer camps were formed and nothing was done against them. In order that the authorities should have no reason for action, religious teaching was abandoned. Under Soviet law it is illegal for an organization like the "Y" to spread religion.

Asks Registration

The "Mayark"—the "Lighthouse"—to give the "Y" its Russian name, applied for registration. Its application was ignored for many months. Then an official came long and said that it would be necessary for the "Y" to reorganize. Mr. Lewis at once agreed. He had resolved to make a sincere effort to fit in with the Bolshevik administration.

The new constitution was drawn up. The communists demanded that they have a majority on the board of directors. They were given five out of nine. The head was to be a Russian and not an American. Mr. Lewis had the Russian waiting in his colleague Yaroslavtzev.

At last the new agreement was signed and the autumn work was begun. Students flocked in. There was one group to whom this was gall and wormwood, the rival communists. They wanted the equipment of the "Y" for their work and resolved to get it.

That Ended It

The meeting of "Y" directors was summoned to discuss routine business. Up to that time the communist directors had come very seldom. On this occasion they all came and came on time, a sure sign that something was brewing. When the routine business was over one director got up and suggested that his colleagues should consider whether the "Mayark" was really necessary. Was it not duplicating work already done by the government institutions? He thought it was, and he moved that it be closed and that its property be liquidated. Another seconded the motion. The five voted for it. The "Y" was wiped out.

Feels Like A New Person

Ontario Lady Satisfied With Results Received From Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Lachapelle tells how Dodd's Kidney Pills helped her.

Dill Siding, Ont., Jan. 14.—(Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me feel like a new person since I have been taking them. I suffered a lot from backache, and could hardly do my housework, but now I feel quite well." This statement is made by Mrs. J. E. Lachapelle, who lives in this place.

Backache, bearing-down pains, dizziness, headaches and depression are early symptoms of kidney weakness, too often misunderstood.

Weak kidneys go from bad to worse through wrong treatment or neglect. There is always danger of rheumatism, sciatica, dropsy and stone in the kidneys and bladder.

The moment you suspect your kidneys use Dodd's Kidney Pills to strengthen and restore them.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have built up their reputation as a kidney remedy by the relief they give. Insist upon having Dodd's, the kidney pills your neighbors use.

A Little of Everything

PREJUDICES

In 1797 a man was arrested for wearing one of the first silk hats, in London. He was charged with wearing a tall structure having a shiny luster apt to frighten timid people. The magistrate considered this so menacing that he bound over the dude in the sum of $2,500 not to wear his silk tile again.

Seems improbable. London Daily Mail, however, digs the story from ancient records of the courts. A hundred years from now, many of the bitter prejudices and bones of contention of today will seem as ridiculous as the silk hat episode of 1797 seems to us today.

AFTER

Star students—Phi Beta Kappa men—of 10 years ago are out in the world now and earning an average of $3,000 a year apiece. The best mixers among their classmates—the ones most active in campus and social activities—are averaging $10,000 a year. So reports a professor at University of Michigan.

The star students, nevertheless, probably are more genuinely successful than the mixers. Success is not altogether in money, not by a long shot. Income is not the only outcome.

MIXERS

Not surprising, that students who are "good mixers" have found it easier to make big incomes than men of mental superiority. It doesn't read this way in the platitudes, but personality and influence are as important as natural ability, in getting ahead.

A grouchy or otherwise disagreeable disposition is as much a handicap as being born with something lacking in the upper story. The lovable characters who afil are in the minority. And then their only failure is financial.

POWER

H. G. Wells recently wrote in the American Magazine, that he considered Lord Northcliffe, the mighty newspaper owner, a failure. Northcliffe rose from next to nothing. He got the power, all right. He failed, Wells argues, in not knowing what to do with the power after he got it.

Power carries with it responsibilities and a code of honor as to using or abusing the power. That's why Providence entrusts power to so few people. Giving power to some would be like sharpening a wolf's fangs or putting a bull in a china store.

SUCCESS

What is success? It is doing the best we can with our abilities and opportunities that are made available to us. Yet, no matter what he may accomplish in life in a material way, no man is really successful unless he can look back at the close of life and say: "I have improved myself. I leave this world a lot better person than I was when I matured sufficiently to become sensible."

These two thoughts, for the person whose New Year resolutions are slipping.

POLITICAL

It's taking a lot more stage-setting and clacking, on the part of the political bosses, to srit up enthusiasm over the coming national elections than was the case four years ago.

Each election, people seem less interested in politics than the time before. If you doubt this, consult any old man who recalls the torchlight processions and red fires of years long since.

The people have already been ballyhooed into the same sideshow many times and are ready for a new act. They usually go in, expecting a new act, and find it's the same old Dog-Faced Boy.

GO TO THE FARM NOT TO THE CITY

(By GEORGE BRITT)

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Your true cosmopolite these days isn't the polished city dweller but the farmer. The city dweller's outlook often is bound by the walls of his own office or apartment. The farmer, with attention forced to far away lands by his dependence on export trade, is necessarily a world citizen.

Authority for that statement is Gray Silver, farmer from Apple Pie Ridge, near Martinsburg, W. Va., the Washington representative of the American Bureau Farm Federation, just returned from observing European conditions at first hand.

Agriculture Against Isolation

"Isolation" summarizes all that Silver, speaking to and for his farmers, does NOT want. Such is the message in his report on the trip abroad, and the tenor of his conversation while visiting farm bureau headquarters here.

"The export market consumes about one-third the production of the American farmer's land," says Silver.

"Take away that market and the farmer would have to reduce his output by one-third. This would mean a third of the farmers would go completely bankrupt, or else a third of each farm would revert to weeds and brush. The farmer simply has to watch his market.

We're in Same Boat

"Now, we are faced by a decline of prosperity in Europe, a slump in purchasing power and a falling off in output of manufactured goods. My observation convinces me that unless industrial Europe can get to work again at full speed and efficiency, our markets there are bound to keep dwindling. We are in the same boat with those countries over there.

"Furthermore, the interest of agriculture in the export market is the common interest of the American people. The rest of the people in the long run smile or moan with agriculture.

Reparations are the kernel of the whole problem, according to Silver, with the tariff and credit requiring adjustment to avoid isolation. The object is to help Europe buy what America has to sell.

Advocates Settlement

"Settle the German reparations debt at any figure you choose, and they will begin doing business," says Silver. "With all internal debts paid off by cheap marks, Germany can begin to make her factories hum as soon as there is stability as to what she'll have to pay. My personal belief is that America can help toward that object without risk of any harmful entanglements.

"On the point of tariff and credits, the farmer is not asking anything more than other citizens have received. The theory of those systems is that they are to help the needy fellow, and right now the needy fellow is the farmer. There will be no end to the shameful anomaly of a surplus of farm products in the western hemisphere and starvation and nakedness in the eastern until we resume business on a friendly basis."

Latitude and longitude were first determined by Hipparchus of Nice about 162 B. C.

JANUARY WHITE SALE

Bargain Annex Registered

When a quality store reduces prices on high-grade merchandise, thrifty women appreciate the buying opportunity. It is impossible for our advertisement to describe or even mention all the distinctive merchandise and attractive things for the home which are very much lower priced during this Buyers' Purchase Sale. A visit to the Store will disclose bargains in every department that will meet your mid-season needs

Yard-Wide Blue Shirting, 19c Yard

This sturdy fabric is exceptionally suitable for the making of men's shirts and women's house dresses and aprons. One color only, which is Copen. blue. The entire lot has been cleared from the mill at a mere fraction of its former price. 19c a yard is much less than you would pay for like material buying it in the regular way.

BARGAIN ANNEX.

Women's and Misses' Scotch-Knit Wool Gloves, 19c Pair

REGULAR 50c

Our buyer was quite fortunate and secured the entire lot at a price much below regular value. They are seamless knit, and colors of white, black, grey, red and beaver may be had. Sizes 5½ to 8 in the lot, but not all sizes in each color—only a few of some shades, which only goes to emphasize the fact that early shopping is necessary.

STREET FLOOR AND BARGAIN ANNEX.

9 a.m. to 10.30 a.m.

Six Hundred Yards of Printed Crepes

For Ninety Minutes 12½c Yard

Lengths measure from ten to twenty yards, and every piece in this lot has been cleared from the mill by our buyer at an unbelievable price. Patterns are neatly printed on durable crepe and are mostly floral and checked effects. Colorings are quite attractive. Not more than 10 yards to one buyer. We will cut any length less that you desire. No telephone orders, please.

LAW ASSOCIATION ELECTED OFFICERS

G. N. Gordon President of the Association -- Income Tax Amendment

The Annual Meeting of The Peterborough Law Association was held at the Chamber of Commerce. Reports were presented from the Executive Committee, Librarian, Board of Trustees and Treasurer. Among other things the Report showed that at the close of the year 1923, the Association had a membership of nineteen.

The meeting considered the amendment to the Income Tax Act making unpaid Income Tax a charge against land prior to the claims of Mortgagees and and Purchasers. In view if the importance of the matter the Association decided to hold a special meeting within the next few days to consider the matter.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, G. N. Gordon, K.C.
Vice-President, B. D. Hall.
Secretary, J. R. Corkery.
Treasurer, W. F. Huycke.
Librarian, Miss M. E. Moore.
Trustees, R. R. Hall, V. J. McElderry, J. A. O'Brien and the Treasurer.

TRINITY ANNIVERSARY CONCERT

(By Jeannette).

On his second appearance in the city, Cameron McLean, the Scottish Baritone from Detroit, singing at the Anniversary Concert of the Trinity Methodist Church last evening, duplicated the favorable impression which he made on his first visit to Peterboro, with the Male Voice Choir offering, in April of last year. At half-past seven o'clock last evening, the big church was filling up, and there was a large and representative audience present when the choir sang the opening number. The soloist was also assisted by Mrs. George King and Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland.

Mr. McLean may said to be one of the most satisfying artists heard here in some time. Combined with a voices of wide range and flexibility, whose rich, smooth tones are equal to long-sustained, legato runs and brisk, staccato intervals alike, he has a versatile platform personality that gives varying expression in turn to plaintive and happy numbers, and a sound, virile musicianship that never slurs or forces a single note. The impression gained from a recital by himself and his wonderful accompanist, Mrs. Mabelle Howe Mable, is one of technical skill raised to such a height that the music heard is one of effortless skill from both. Outstanding is the interpretive power of the singer.

With the exception of five numbers, three of which were encores, Mr. McLean's lengthy programme was entirely new to his audience. The bizarre 'Song of the Flea" was repeated, the Russian music of the accompaniment completing the odd illusion of mordant cynicism which startles an audience in this selection, with its mad, cackling laughter and its uncanny, prophetic atmosphere.

Perhaps, the most beautiful of the singer's offerings were those of the Scotch group Here again the artist's power of imposing on his audience the background of his songs was very evident. 'Wi' a Hundred Pipers' stirred the blood, and brought an encore which resulted in a repetition of the number. Marching feet to the roll of the drums advanced to the 'march past" and retreated in the dim distance in the increasing and dimishing cadences of the unbroken martial swing. The flexible voice was sweet and tender in "Mary, Kind and Gentle is She' it lilted through "Lassie wi' the Lips Sae Rosy,' and it brightened to misthful briskness in the story of "Leezie Lindsay," sung by request. Another lovely Scotch number was the perfection of "Annie Laurie," with its flowing music.

As in last year's programme, Mr. McLean opened with Italian songs, singing "Cara Selve," a selection in which his power of control and of sustained melody was amply exemplified, and "Il Lacerate Spirito," a sonorus, somewhat sombre number.

The second group included three brief pieces: Strauss' "Night," soft and velvety, "The Mouse Trap," swiftly humorous, and the impressive 'Thy Warning is Good," by Greig.

With a roughish brogue, the singer gave, as an encore, the jolly "Ballymure Ballard." Another charming number in a later group was "The Leprechaun," a descriptive bit about fairy gold, of the sort in which Mr. McLean seems to excel.

The final group had three songs of the romantic type; 'Retreat,' a beautiful song which uncovered all the bell-like resonance of the rich voice; "The Heart of a Rose," softly sweet and tender, and the appealing lovelines of 'That Night' The fourth song in this group was a decided change, 'Winter Storms' bringing out to its fullest the interpretive powers of the artist, whose accented enunciation created an atmosphere of biting winds and swirling snow, against an appropriate accompainiment. Into "Lassie o' Mine," the final encore, the singer appeared to throw all his accumulated resreves of wistful- minor tone, holding his audience spellbound until the last tender note.

The assisting artists and the choir helped wonderfully in making a delightful programme that was just of the right length and eminently satisfying. Mrs. George King although suffering from a severe sold, sang in excellent voice, the pretty "Dream of Home" (Id Baccio), receiving applause which brought the gay 'Whistle and I'l Come to You, My Lad."

Mrs. Hazel Davidson McCelland made a real hit with her audiences. Her work which is always bright and entertaining, seemed to be imbued with even more life than usual and she received hearty applause after each appearance. Mrs. McCelland's numbers were mainly of the "kiddie' 'type in which she appears to splendid advantage, including "Friday Afternoon in a Primary School," which illustrated the various types of 'pieces" recited by young scholars, and several brief little encores of the same order. "Peace Night' included various characterizations in dialect, and "Two Scotch Courtships" was the recital of how two old Scotch ladies were courted and won.

Trinity Church Choir made a splendid impression last evening. Full-voiced and rythmic, with marked attention given to instant attack and release the concerted voices, under the direction and acompaniment of Mr. George H. King, swelled out in the majestic opening number, "Zadok the Priest," and showed their appreciation and command of soft tones in the second number "A Slumber Song."

Mr. McLean's accompanist, Mrs. Mabelle Howe Mable, who also repeated the very favorable impression recorded on her audiences at her former appearance here, proved once again her mastery of her instrument. Through a long and exacting programme, without, notes, she played for Mr. McLean, whose individual interpretation of his songs requires constant, unflagging attention. A perfect complement to the singer's work was provided by the brilliant work of his companion at the piano.

At the conclusion of the Concert, Mr. McLean and Mrs. Mable were entertained by the choir at a social hour, when refreshments were served. The singer addressed the choir at some length, setting forth in attractive fashion the ideals which inspire him in his work, a splendid informative talk that was much appreciated by his hearers.

Chatham Mayor Finds Too Much Pessimism.

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 15. — Mayor C. D. Sulman at the inaugural meeting of the Chatham City Council this morning appealed to citizens of Chatham to overcome the spirit of pessimism and settle down to business. He also urged closer co-operation between the civic departments. That necessary steps be taken to make the Chatham police commission an elective body, and a new bridge to span the river from North Chatham to William street, were matters urged by the Mayor.

UNIVERSITY SENATE DISAPPROVE ACTION

McMaster Leads Vote Censure of Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Shortly after midnight last night, the Senate of McMaster University expressed by resolution its unqualified disapproval of the conduct and methods of Rev. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church in connection with Dr. Shield's recent reference to Dr. W. H. F. Faunce, president of Brown University, and to Chancellor Whidden, Dean Farmer and Professor McCrimmon. The resolution was followed by approval of a statement to the effect that the conferring of the Degree of Doctor of Laws upon Dr. Faunce to which exception was taken by Dr. Shields, was in harmony with the traditions and principles of McMaster University.

In the preamble to the resolution contained in statements issued following the meeting of senate says that Dr. Shields, though a member of the Senate, was absent from all the meetings at which plans for the installation of Chancellor Whidden were discussed and remained entirely silent about the matter.

Approximately 25,500 persons are employed in the manufacture of pianos in the United States.

Sarnia's New Council Hears Former Mayors

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 14.— Mayor Geo. Andrew expressed complete confidence in the ability of the 1924 city council to guide the civic ship during the difficult period ahead, when aldermen took declaration of office at City Hall this morning.

Ex-Mayors T. H. Cook, R. E. Lesouer, Wm. Nesbitt, John McGibbon, Dr. Wm. Logie and J. B. Dagnon addressed the councillors.

GRADED POTATO FARMERS' HOPE

Standardization Alone Can Keep Michigan's Crop on Market, Say Experts.

Potatoes are going to be produced in the future by men who use their brains. Unless the 'small' farmers become efficient and learn to co-operate with each other, they will be forced out and the growing of potatoes will become a highly specialized, large-scale industry in which machinery will be extensively used and which will be carried on by men with plenty of capital."

Such was the reply of J. D. Robinson, of Pellston, a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, when asked for his opinion concerning the future of the potato industry in Michigan. Mr. Robinson graduated from the law course of the University of Michigan and began his career as an attorney. For health reasons he turned to bee-keeping in Northern Michigan. Several years ago he was induced to become manager of the Levering Co-operative Market Association and he held that position for four years. Now he grows both bees and potatoes.

Co-operation Needed

"Of course, I can't say what the outcome will be," he said. "But I do feel sure that the small farmer can not pit his brains alone against the rest of the world and expect to survive. He must wake up and take advantage of the information the agricultural extension men have to give him. He must learn to work with his neighbors.

"In every other industry besides farming, goods are standardized to a certain quality. That is true of tobacco. That is true of motor cars. The farmers are the only ones who get rid of a lot of poor stuff on the market. When we try to persuade them to practice grading, they refuse because they want to sell everything they grow.

"While I was manager of the Levering Co-operative Association, I found it etremely hard to sell cars of potatoes on the road, especially on a declining market. Because the potatoes were not properly graded, the buyers could almost always find an excuse for rejecting a car if the price fell after they had agreed to buy. They simply took advantage of the chaotic condition of the market that the growers themselves created.

Standardization Lacking

"As individuals, farmers can never receive top prices even if the quality of their goods is high. Take as an illustration two women who sell dairy butter. One has butter superior to what the creamery turns out. The other has butter of an inferior grade. The grocer pays the same price to each and both receive less than does the creamery for its butter. Why? Because the creamery has graded and standardized its products. These two women have not. The same is true of potato growers. The man who sells potatoes of uniformity good quality gets no better price than the man with low grade stuff.

"Under present conditions, with farmers selling independently of each other, a lot of scabby, undersized misshapen potatoes that nobody wants are shipped. It costs just as much to ship them as it does to ship good potatoes. Who pays the freight? Some one, surely. The farmers themselves probably pay most of it. In many cases it is a social waste.

"The only way I know by which farmers can keep the poor stuff off the market is by co-operation with each other. I don't know whether the farmers are ready to take that step. Many of them fail to understand what co-operation can do for them. They judge it by immediate returns. If someone else offers them a nickel more a bushel for their potatoes, they take him up. They fail to realize that if the co-op had not been in existence, they would never have been offered that nickel more.

Small Growers in Danger

"The benefits from co-operation are not simply in increasing the price to the farmers through eliminating the middlemen. Perhaps middlemen will be eliminated if better market machinery is established. But there are other things farmers can do together. They can co-operate in standardizing quality and variety. They can prepare and pack their goods uniformly. They can co-operate in using machinery.

"I don't know how soon farmers will realize that they must solve their problems together. But I am convinced that unless they do the small farmers will be forced out and agriculture will become an industry in which crops will be grown on a large scale by men of capacity and with plenty of capital.

"This, it seems to me, is undesirable for society at large because I think the small farmer is more useful as a citizen in the country than he would be tending a machine in the city. We need a strong group of middle-class people in the country to insure the future of the race."

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF THE VERY LATEST MEXICAN REVOLUTION

Policies That Dictate the Reactionaries, Reds, Counter Revolutionaries and Others Who Appear In Daily News Explained.

(By CHAS. W. ERVIN)

The average citizen of this country would be much interested in what is going on in Mexico if he could only find out what all this fighting is about. He reads a lot about "revolutionists," but it is hard to find out what they are "revoluting" for.

He reads about "reactionaries," "counter-revolutionists," "Reds," "Bolshevikis," and he wonders how part of Russia slipped into the country south of the Rio Grande.

It is true that there are "reactionaries" in Mexico, the same as there are in the United States and all other countries. As for the "Reds" and "Bolshevikis," in the Russian sense, there are not enough in Mexico to form the proverbial "corporal's guard."

The truth is that the fight in Mexico is between the Conservatives and Progressives and that a part of those who were with the Progressives in 1920 when Obregon was elected president have deserted to the ranks of the Conservatives, though calling themselves "Co-operatistas." De la Huerta, formerly in Obregon's cabinet, has become their leader.

The Progressives believe that the industrial and agrarian provisions placed in the Mexican Constitution in 1917 should be put in force. These provisions recall somewhat the "Industrial Justice" plank in the platform of the Progressive Party of this country in 1912, and the "right to use the earth" gospel proclaimed by Henry George and agitated for in this country by the Single Taxers.

While Obregon and his sincere supporters seem to have made an honest effort to put the Constitution into practic?, many of the state governments still in the hands of the Conservatives have prevented the carrying out of its various provisions.

Calles Opposed

Calles, who is one of the candidates to succeed Obregon whose term expires next year, was formerly a member of his cabinet and also governor of the state of Sonora. In both positions he tried to carry out the industrial and agrarian provisions of the constitution add brought down upon himself the wrath of the conservatives. They are therefore opposing his candidacy and have revolted against the Obregon government, claiming that the president is favoring Calles.

Both Obregon add Calles are anti-militarists. While they both have "general" attached to their names in the dispatches, this title was earned in the people's revolution against the tyranny of their rulers. Obregon was a farmer, like many generals during our revolutionary era and Calles was a school teacher.

The frst thing that Obregon did after becoming president was to cut down the size of the army. Oae hundred thousand soldiers were sent back into civil life. Many of the generals who had not come out of civil life and hundreds of colonels, majors, captains and lieutenants, who led an easy life at the expense of the people, opposed this very much, but as the money saved from military expenses was immediately transferred to the upbuilding of the school system, the people backed up the government in this program of military retrenchment.

Army Officers Involved

The army officers who were let out have, however, never ceased to intrigue against the Obregon government and many of those remaining in the military establishment belonging to the conservative and aristocratic class have joined with them. It is these militarists, joined with the professional politicians, whose looting has been interfered with, who are trying to overthrow the Obregon government.

De la Huerta, who was formerly as much trusted by Obregon as Benedict Arnold was trusted by Washington, will probably not accomplish his ambition to be president of Mexico, even should the militarists succeed in overthrowing Obregon. In the event of their triumph they would undoubtedly impose one of the "old guard" Conservatives as president.

The news from Mexico indicates the enlisting of a new army by Obregon composed of farmers and industrial workers, a citizens' army, such as that which fought at Lexington and Bunker Hill. If Obregon can keep the militarists at bay until this new army can swing into action, the attempt to maintain a democratic republic to the south of us may succeed. If not, Mexico will again become the prey of armed factions, all the sacrifices of the last 12 years will have gone for naught, and one of the richest countries of the world in natural resources will sink into the mire of misery and poverty.

MERRY MAKERS SENT TO THE WORKHOUSE

MUNICH, Jan. 15 (Associated Press).—Wine, women and song have been banned by Commissioner von Kahr, who has started a campaign to rid the Bavarian capital of high-rollers who enrage the public by giving champagne parties while so many persons are without bread. Private wine-rooms in leading restaurants are being raided nightly, and war-profiteers who are trying to spend their earnings in riotous living are having a hard time.

In a recent round-up of luxurious restaurants which were catering to roisterers who violated closing hours, the police arrested a number of over-dressed and be-diamon merry-makers who were transferred immediately to the workhouse and put at hard labor.

Scientists declare the temperature of the star, Betelgeuse, is approximately 18,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

RUSSIAN PRESS IN BAD WAY

By F. T. HARRIS.

(The writer of this article is an authority on domestic and foreign economic conditions. He is on the executive staff of the largest manufacturing company of its kind in the world.)

Notwithstanding that the general economic situation in Russia shows slight improvement under the stimulating influence of the new economic policy of the Soviet Government, newspapers and other periodicals are not only in a precarious position, but are gradually suspending publication. The comparatively liberal freedom of action which the Government under this new policy has accorded to industry, has not been extended to the press and as a consequence the latter is vainly struggling under the same oppression which stifled industry after the revolution, before the adoption of the new policy in 1921. In the arbitrary manner in which it controls and dictates the news and editorial policy of the Russian press, the Soviet Government immediately discloses to the observer the weakness of its principles and its fear of allowing them to stand on their merits.

In January, 1922, in all Russia there were 805 periodicals with a production of 2,661,000 copies. By August, 1922, this had dwindled to 300, but by January, 1923, the number rose to about 450. Data furnished to the press conference held in Moscow on Feb. 6, of this year indicated that there were then a total of 639 publications of all kinds, of which 131 were dailies, 345 bi-weeklies and 163 weeklies. The total circulation was computed to be 1,882,000.

In June of this year this number had shrunk to 545 periodicals. Of the 174 dailies contained in this number, those with the largest circulation were the "Izvestiya" ("The News"), the official organ of the Soviet Government, with 180,000; "Rabotchaya Gazeta" ("The Workers' Gazette"), 145,000; "Gudok" ("The Factory Whistle"), 100,000; Petrograd "Pravda," 80,000; "Krasnaya Gazeta" ("The Red Gazette"), 74,000; "Rabotchaya Moskba" ("The Moscow Worker"), 67,000; and "Komunist" ("The Communist"), 52,000.

The latest data obtainable from Moscow shows that there are to-day only 299 papers with an aggregate circulation of 993,000 copies. This is an average of one copy to every 150 inhabitants.

The insignificance of the circulations shown above is indicated by comparison with that of the Russkoe-Slovo, which prior to its suspension by the Soviet Government in 1918, was published in Moscow, was one of the leading daily newspapers in Russia, and had a circulation of 1,200,000.

When the first revolution came in 1917, the government immediately planned the extinction of every paper which did not agree with either its policies or principles. The independent papers were first forbidden to carry advertising, and if they then still persisted in the face of the loss of the chief source of their revenue, their columns were subjected to a rigid censorship. In 1918, the independent papers which survived these insurmountable difficulties were practically annihilated and their printing establishments confiscated.

One of the most heroic and least known pages in all journalism was being written while those who directed the policies of the independent press were fighting against overwhelming odds.

The first revolution came in February, 1917, the Bolshevik revolution in November, 1917. At the close of the latter month the Bolsheviki were publishing only the "Izvestiya" and the Moscow "Pravda," the official organs of the government. As newspaper plants were confiscated and nationalized, the government used them for its own purposes and there immediately sprang up a host of papers filled with panegyrics of the government and all that it stood for.

Subsidies by the government are scarce and very difficult to obtain. Under the economic policy which followed the revolution, the Soviet Government became the owner of all agricultural produce, products of industries, etc., over and above the amount absolutely necessary for the livelihood of the farmer or manufacturer, and undertook to supply the needs of its people.

Whenever a worker wanted a newspaper, for instance, he obtained it gratis from the government. This service was limited to the working class, although a great many idle people were fed, clothed, and supported by the government because of the difficulty of establishing a close definition between those who were actually working and those who were not. In return for the nationalization of manufactured products, the Soviet Government obliged itself to keep the industries going by securing and paying for labor and material, etc.

Newspapers were posted in great numbers in plazas, on street corners, in every place in fact where readers were likely to be found. The production of newspapers and other periodicals was enormous, since there was every inducement to quantity production, and journalism as a profession was in the ascendancy.

When the Soviet Government inaugurated its New Economic Policy in 1921, paternalism was withdrawn, industries were forced to work out their own destinies independently, and a kaleidoscopic change occurred. Newspaper plants, for example, were allowed to sell their papers, but had to pay for all their raw materials, other expenses, and overhead. Now, whoever wants a newspaper has to buy it. Newspapers and other periodicals in some cases find themselves facing bankruptcy because of their high production costs and their inability to secure higher prices for the papers they sell.

The Soviet Government does not tolerate any divergence of political opinion, and freedom of speech and of the press, which Russians in past ages have fought to wring from their Czars, are still unknown. The government says that in a country run by workers for workers, only workers may therefore enjoy freedom, and that this freedom cannot be permitted to those of whom it is known in advance that they will use it to the detriment of the workers. Freedom of the press, it is apparent, would weaken the Soviet Government. It is thus interesting to note that the Russian press, which has had a censored existence of 200 years, has for its chief concern to-day, in a country now "free," the suppression of independent thought.

One of the pieces of official recognition which the press of Russia received for its support of the Soviet Government, occurred on Feb. 6, of this year, in the Kremlin at Moscow, when a conference of the representatives of the Soviet press was held and Bukharin, representing the Central Committee of the Communist Party, delivered the opening address in which he said:

"Thanks to our press, which has always furthered the recruiting power of our slogans and made the exalted nature of our ideals clear to the masses, we have been able to develop our power and to strengthen the Soviet system."

The significance of the singleness of thought of the Soviet press is further apparent when it is realized that no ordinary person may enter the Kremlin, and that it was assigned by the Soviet Government as the meeting place of the press representatives. There were present over 400 delegates from every province of Russia.

The newspapers of Russia are produced and delivered under considerable difficulties, as would be naturally supposed. Because of excessively high cost of production, correspondingly high subscription and advertising rates follow and consequently only a comparatively few people are able to buy a daily newspaper. Poor transportation facilities, too, play their part, and it is said that between 50 per cent. and 60 per cent. of papers posted to subscribers never reach their destination.

The decline in the circulation of papers has so alarmed the heads of the Soviet Government that many arbitrary and unpleasant measures have been adopted to maintain and bolster it up. In Nagorsky township, for instance, every peasant owning a cow must subscribe to a Soviet newspaper, whether he wants to or not. To insure the payment of his subscription his cow, if he owns one, is taxed 500,000 rubles. If he is fortunate in having more than one, the additional cows, if the necessity arises, are taxed proportionately in excess.

It is said that some of the "nepmen," the name for those who have become wealthy through the new Russian economic policy, subscribe for two or three copies of Russian newspapers, so that if it were not for these duplications, the circulations of the dailies would be considerably less.

Commenting on the situation today, "Izvestiya" says: "Even the circulation of our best papers is miserably and ridiculously small. It is no wonder, for our papers are filled with such matters that readers got sick and tired of it once and forever."

The Russian press has thus come to have only the lightest hold on its readers and consequently makes no continuous contribution to the formation and maintenance of public opinion.

All magazines of course disappeared during the revolution. A few have been revived, but none of their former distinguishing characteristics appears. The "Vsemirnaia Illustratsia" ("Word Wide Illustration") and "Niva" ("The Field"), for example, are again being published, although the name of the latter has been changed to "Krasnaia Niva" ("The Red Field"). In their contents the various magazines without exception carry leading articles extolling the Soviet Government and usually accompanied by photographs of its leaders. Then comes a symbolic cartoon on the beneficence of the Soviet system, followed by heavily censored pictures of current events, fashions for the women, and other harmless features which are found in magazines in other countries.

The reviews, which are largely monthlies and bi-monthlies, are voluminous affairs, sometimes running as high as 400 pages. Their individual circulations are round 10,000 copies. Aside from the usual praise of the government in various forms, pictures, cartoons, and so on, they contain academic discussions on art, literature, the stage, etc.

The book-publishing business is monopolized by the State Publishing House, an organization developed by the Soviet Government a little over two years ago. This year this arm of the government is planning the production of 310,000,000 copies of books comprising 2,250 titles which are naturally very carefully selected.

Newspapers are no different from any other industry, has even been the parent same economic laws. Government subvention, monopoly, or interference in any manner, either in newspapers or in any other industry, has ever been the parent of confusion and will continue to be as long as the world endures.

As economists are beginning to recognize that the material advance of a people is measured very accurately by its consumption of paper, it is interesting to note in this connection that the present consumption of all kinds of paper in Russia now amounts to only about one pound per capita per annum, while in the United States there is being used this year between 45 and 50 pounds per capita of newsprint paper alone.

Finds Relief From Neuralgia

Nova Scotia Lady Uses Vicks With Excellent Results.

Mrs. Edward Troke, of Little Lorraine, Nova Scotia, says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub for neuralgia and colds and have obtained excellent results' I cannot speak too highly of Vicks, and gladly recommend it to my friends as a valuable household remedy."

Vicks VapoRub, the discovery of a Southern druggist, is a combination in salve form of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc.

Absorbed htrough the skin and at the same time inhaled as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately inflamed, congested air passages.

It is the modern, direct treatment for all cold troubles, the successor to goose grease, camphorated oil, liniments, poultices and plasters.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for adults and for skin inflammations, such as cuts, burns, bruises, bites, stings, etc.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

LAKEFIELD SCHOOLS CLOSED BY ACCIDENT

Scholars Get an Extra Holiday When Boiler Goes on Strike.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 15.—Owing to an accident to the boiler the Public and High Schools have not re-opened but it is expected that all will be in order for this morning. The pupils have enjoyed the extra holiday, a goodly portion of the time being spent in skating and coasting.

The youngsters have employed some of the leisure which the prolonged Christmas vacation has given them in making backyard rinks; these are carefully flooded and are in almost constant use. The small boy who possesses one of these attractions is exceedingly popular.

The annual meeting of the Lakefield Agricultural Society will be held in the Council Chamber on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Officers will be elected and other business attended to.

BARNEY GOOGLE WRITER FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 15 (United Press).—Perpetration of musical atrocities upon an innocent world must not prejudice a jury in a liquor case, Judge. A. B. Adderson has ruled in Federal Court here.

John Sadler of Chicago was on trial charged with violation of the Federal prohibition laws.

"He told me he wrote 'Barney Google,' " a prohibition agent testified.

"H?'s not on trial for that," Judge Anderson said.

Despite the judge's admonition to the jury it took just six minutes to find Sadler guilty.

PASTOR BOSS CARPENTER, CAN'T GET PAY FOR BOTH.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 9.—A minister can not be a pastor and carpenter at the same time, the State Supreme Court held in ruling on the case of the Rev. Ethan N. Rogers, who sued the trustees of the Wolf Summit Methodist Church for $1,363.75 for services at the rate of $10 a day as "boss carpenter" of the church parsonage.

Mr. Rogers carried his case to the Supreme Court and it was decided that he must stick to his theology if he wants his pay, and that without a binding contract for his services in carpenter work he can obtain no compensation.

A Throne or the Movies For Little Prince Otto?

"Cruelly cheated of the millions in jewels and great estates that are rightfully hers, unhappy ex-Empress Zita must continue to live on the world's charity, unless ambitious young Otto can find a way to repair his family's pathetic misfortunes"

Poverty-Stricken Zita, the Former Austrian Empress, Puzzled to Know Which of Two Widely Different Careers She Should Let Her Son Choose

The late ex-Emperor Charles of Austria and his bride on their wedding day

The ex-Emperor's widow as she looks to-day

THE LOT of Prince Otto, eldest son of the late ex-Emperor Charles, is very different from what it would have been if his father had not been kicked off the throne of Austria-Hungary and sent to die in exile.

And yet, in spite of the poverty and hardship which he and his mother, ex-Empress Zita, and his seven brothers and sisters are facing in the little Spanish fishing village where they have been given refuge, he is in one respect a very fortunate youngster.

Still a mere boy, he has open to him two careers, either one of which seems to offer a good chance of repairing his family's misfortunes and making himself one of the world's great men.

The opportunities are both so alluring—that is what is so perplexing to his mother and her advisers who have to make the decision for the little Prince.

Shall he ascend the throne of Hungary and undertake to rule this remnant of his dead father's empire as soon as he is old enough?

Or shall he accept the offer an Austrian group of motion picture magnates is said to have made for him to become the only star of royal birth in the movies?

Austria is a republic and unlikely ever to want a descendant of the ill-fated House of Hapsburg for its ruler. Hungary, however, is still a monarchy, ruled by a regent, Admiral Horthy, until such time as a king is chosen.

Many Hungarians favor a Hapsburg for their ruler, and little Prince Otto is the titular if not the real head of the house which formerly ruled Austria-Hungary. He has already been proclaimed "King Otto" by the Hungarian monarchists, and political experts think there would be little difficulty in setting him securely on the throne.

In strange contrast to the career which the young Prince might have if arrayed with the pomp and power of Hungary's throne is that which would be his if his mother should yield to the persuasions of the movie producers and let him undertake to rival some of America's child prodigies of the films.

The little village near San Sebastian where the ex-Empress Zita and her children now make their home is a rather primitive place, but it has its movie theater and the shining stars of the American film world are almost as familiar figures there as here.

The villagers have taken a strong liking to Prince Otto not only because he is such a bright, good looking, lovable little chap but also because they think they see in him a marked resemblance to a famous American boy film star. Since they got better acquainted with the Prince they insisted on calling him "Jackie," after the young hero of the movies.

News of the nickname that has been given the Prince put into the head of a Vienna business man the idea that a motion picture producing company with a son of the late ex-Emperor Charles for its leading man ought to prove a big money-making proposition.

He interested a number of his wealthy friends in the plan, formed a stock company and sent an agent to Spain to broach the idea to ex-Empress Zita.

According to rumors that have reached Paris and London the liberality of the offer made the ex-Empress is proving a great temptation. It is said to involve enough money as an advance payment to solve the financial difficulties of her poverty-stricken family for a long time.

But she hesitates to disregard her husband's dying wishes that his son Otto be trained for the Kingship of Hungary and assert his claim to the throne whenever the time is ripe.

It is, of course, a most difficult choice for the mother to make. The plebeian movies and perhaps a fortune—the glittering throne of Hungary and perhaps a long and successful reign as king—which ought she to choose for her little son.

Something must be done soon, for the family's affairs are reaching a critical state. Besides the ex-Empress and her eight children the household includes no less than thirty servants and former members of the Austrian court who are penniless and simply cannot be turned away.

It takes every penny poor Zita, never a good financial manager, can scrape together to feed all these mouths and provide clothing for herself and the children. With eight boys and girls growing up and their education to provide for, of course the expenses are all the time growing heavier.

Luckily for the worried ex-Empress the modest villa in which she lives is her own, so there is no rent to pay. It was bought for her by a popular subscription which King Alfonso headed soon after she reached Spain from Madeira.

Friends of the former Empress are making desperate efforts to recover some of the millions of dollars' worth of crown jewels out of which she and her late husband are believed to have been cheated by dishonest courtiers. But, although scores of these almost priceless gems are known to have been pawned or sold all over Europe, there seems small likelihood of getting many of them back.

When the revolution broke out with terrifying suddenness Emperor Charles and his wife did not at once flee their country as Germany's Kaiser did. Instead they retired first to one of their estates in Hungary and later to a secluded castle in Austria.

Only when the situation became desperate did they consent to let themselves be spirited away to Switzerland by two British army officers who had been specially delegated by King George to see that they escaped the fate which overtook the Czar and his family.

There had been ample time to gather together most of their jewels, including those which the Emperor had inherited as the head of the House of Hapsburg. They carried with them into Switzerland a collection estimated to have been worth almost if not quite $50,000,000.

Among the most valuable of the articles that filled their treasure boxes was the huge diamond known as the "Florentine" and an exquisite diamond necklace made in the early part of the eighteenth century for Empress Maria Theresa. These two things alone were worth enough to maintain Zita and her children in luxury as long as they live.

Some of these jewels were used as collateral for the loan raised by Charles to finance the first of his two attempts to regain the throne of Hungary. Just before his second attempt he intrusted all his remaining jewels to retainers in whom he and his wife had every confidence and sent them to negotiate as large a loan as possible in Paris or London.

Before they had time to make the loan and bring back the proceeds Charles had been captured and shipped off on a British man-of-war to Madeira, where soon after he died.

Now it is said that in the confusion following the exile and death of ex-Emperor Charles his widow received from the supposedly trustworthy retainers who had been sent to negotiate the loan only $125,000. This amount, they declared, was all they had been able to realize from the sale of jewels believed to have been worth at least $10,000,000.

At this late day the late Emperor's only brother, the Archduke Maximilian, has taken the matter in hand and caused the arrest of Baron Bruno Steiner, confidential private secretary and keeper of the privy purse of the late Emperor Charles, and also of his wife.

The Steiners are charged with having conspired with other members of the imperial household and an unscrupulous international syndicate of jewel brokers to put into their own pockets the millions that the last precious remnants of the Hapsburg crown jewels were undoubtedly worth.

Through all the ex-Empress Zita's trials one of her best friends and advisers has been King Alfonso. He is particularly fond of little Prince Otto and undoubtedly his advice will be heavily relied on in deciding the boy's future.

Not long ago the Prince was invited to be Alfonso's guest at the royal palace in Madrid and the King ordered the guardsmen to give the young Prince the royal salute. This interested the Prince greatly and the King explained that the salute was given in honor of the boy's dead father.

Later on the King was highly amused to see Prince Otto dodging in or out of one of the palace entrances whenever he got the chance, just for the fun of seeing the stern-faced guards salute him.

Prince Otto is described as a manly little fellow who is really a great help to his mother in managing her large and often well-nigh penniless household. He sleeps in the same room with his mother and when she gets unusually downhearted tries to cheer her up by telling her that she will soon get used to "roughing it."

He is an earnest student and when some one asked him why he was always working so hard over his books he replied:

"I have to work hard. My father is dead, we have no home and my mother has eight boys and girls to raise."

All these interesting little bits of information about the Prince are received with enthusiasm by Hungary's monarchists and make them the more determined to make this boy their king.

Also they make the motion picture magnates of Vienna still more eager to induce ex-Empress Zita to permit the exploitation of her son on the screen. Their palms itch for the millions they are sure could be made with such a drawing card as Prince Otto, eldest son of Austria's former Emperor, heir to all that is left of the proud House of Hapsburg's glory.

The governments of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary and Poland owe the ex-Empress Zita a good sized fortune for the estates and other purely private property of herself, her children and her dead husband which they confiscated at the time of the revolution in 1918. But thus far every effort to make them take pity on the widow's distress and pay their debts has proved unavailing.

LURING THE GAMEY FISH IS A SPORTSMAN'S SPORT IN PETERBOROUGH LAKES

The Scenic Beauty of These Far-Famed and Matchless Waters Is Unrivalled in All of Canada

SPLENDID TRIBUTE.

Bleak January winds and snow that compel him to hug the chimney corner conjure up in the fhind of the angler pictures of lakes as placid as glass, rivers of silver and streams that wind in and out through field and fen—the lakeland district of which Peterboro' is the hub.

There are many places in Canada which lay claim to the title of the premier scenic beauty spot of the Dominion, but none surpasses and few can compare with that panorama of nature's charms which is on summer display from Rice Lake to Georgian Bay.

From the fisherman's point of view the lakes and streams surrounding Peterboro' are unequalled. As the most prolific of all poets, Anon says:

Many anglers now abed
Dream of lakes where fishes teem;
Fishing through the winter night
In their mem'ry's deepest stream.

Many an enthusiast is looking back this month to days of unalloyed pleasure and sport on Rice, Bottle, Stoney, Pigeon and Balsam lakes, and forward to the first day of the 1924 season. Many a man dreams of the whopper he landed or nearly landed and even in his sleep lays plans for a return visit to the lair of the big fellow this year.

"Dreams of the Whopper"

T. A. Richardson, of Cleveland, who spends a vacation every year at Stoney Lake, paid a rare tribute recently when he said: "I have been a globe trotter for half a century of my life and during that time have visited practically all the beauty spots in both continents. The Alps are gorgeous, the Rockies grim and grand, the Riviera a setting for a parade of the youth and beauty of the two hemispheres. At one time I thought that the San Joachim valley, California, with its miles and miles of roses, jonquils, hyacinths and countless other species of flowers, forever blooming, was the choicest spot on the earth, but for the past ten years I have spent the best part of every summer at Stoney Lake, which is a certificate as far as I am concerned, that this beautiful district holds first place in my affections."

The Lure of the Lake

The chief attraction of the district—to the angler at any rate—is its well-stocked lakes, abounding in dark limpid pools around their shores, lazying in the depths of which all summer long is to be found a wide variety of the gamiest of game fish.

Many a stiff fight has been waged in the waters around Peterboro', and 1923 saw the greatest influx of anglers in the history of the district.

Hundreds of visitors from all parts of United States came expressly for the fishing, and their ranks were swelled by hundreds who took the short trip from Peterboro' for a week or a week-end. That it is not necessary even to leave the city to catch the big fellows was shown by Leo Tobin, who on July 4 landed a lunge at the waterworks which measured 52 inches. Unbelievers may inspect the mounted fish in the Chamber of Commerce.

Of course, as Charles Kirk, of Buffalo, said when he had pulled out seven good sized maskinonge in a row, "there are some fellows who couldn't catch fish if they put on diving suits and went down to the fishes' front door."

"Put on Diving Suits"

Fish don't run in schools in Peterboro's lakes and give college yells when they see a fisherman looking for them, but they are there just the same for the man who goes after them.

How They Do It

Freak bait is not popular with fishermen in this district for the simple reason that it is not popular with the fish.

This is a controversal subject, but safer here than in a salmon district where scores of flies are offered, such as Silver Grey, Jock Scott, Silver Doctor, Black Dose and Durham Ranger.

Peterboro' fish, perhaps on account of their being raised so near a packing plant, are partial to plain, everyday pork rhind, sometimes served with an attractive shiner or spoon but more often "just plain."

Many a man has arrived from the "other side" with a big stock of fancy bait only to throw it away after a fruitless trial and make a bee-line for the nearest dispensary of locally suitable bait.

The humble worm is much sought on summer evenings and sometimes it appears the entire population is combing the lawn grass in search of earth's humblest denizen. When the worms refuse to come to the surface many a man's back garden is digged that would otherwise bear nothing but tin cans.

Minnows, traded in by small boys who alone of all human creatures appear fast enough to catch the darting little specks, are favourite bait for trolling and have provided many a banquet for daring and experienced 'lunge.

If the angler in these waters would catch anything but old boots or a cold while waiting for a bite he must eschew super fancy baits.

Old fishermen hold that the ways of the black bass are past fathoming. Today he will rise almost savagely and snap at any bait you drag across him while tomorrow he will refuse to even glance at the baitiest bait or shiniest shiner that ever followed the swirl of a boat or floated downstream near shore.

Tricks of the Trade

One of the oldest anglers in this district who never cast a line to troll in his life, told of a few tricks of the trade in discussing the varying qualities of bait.

One day last summer, this man said he fished Stoney Lake from early morning to dewy eve with never a single strike as solace, although the big fellows were rising all over the lake, sometimes coming to within ten feet of him where he stood on a pier.

"John A——— came down to me to see what luck I had. After hearing my story he said: 'The water is too warm. They have become loggy and will not rise until after there has been a rain.' He suggested another spot, and pointed out a submerged log in the shade of which was a beautiful black bass. He explained the system to me and, somewhat after the fashion of a dry fly caster drying his lures I swung my line until I had the exact distance. Then I dropped the bait directly over the lunge's nose. There was a swirl, a splash, and the quarry was hooked. The only way to catch that fellow was to drop the bait on his nose and make him mad."

Plumbing the Depths

What greater disappointment is possible for the amateur angler than to hook a fish, and after playing him ten minutes find the line loose and the quarry gone?

There is none. Such a happening is the apex of misery, although not so mortifying perhaps as the awakening of the drowsy angler who has let the fish nibble his bait while he slept.

A canvass of experienced fishermen in Peterboro' shows that Rice Lake, at Roche's Point, is conceded the best fishing ground for black bass; Mud Lake at Herrington's Island, is favored for green bass, and Rice Lake and Pigeon Lake divide honors for 'lunge.

"There is no lake or river in Canada better than Rice Lake and the Otonabee River for bass and 'lunge," declared an expert in fishing and protecting fish in this district. "Farther up the lakes, the channel between Chemong and Bobcaygeon is the best ground for black bass." Stoney Lake, this man thinks, is only fairly good as a lunge fishing ground.

Reverting to a discussion of bait, the concensus of opinion in this district is that live bait is the only suitable bait for bass, although devotees of fly fishing have had success too. Minnows, frogs, crawfish, and dew worms are the baits used. Lunge are caught with spoon bait, phantom minnow and wobblers.

Whatever some people claim, the men with the silver plated instruments have not all the pull with the fish, although there is a happy medium Whoever heard of a 30 pound lunge being landed on a bent pin?

"Trolling from a motor boat is not sportsmanship," declared a city man who has had experience from coast to coast. "A man can troll every yard of a lake in a day without effort."

Another man said if bass and 'lunge are to be propagated in Peterboro' waters the government must close the season for pickerel during the same time as bass and lunge. This should be from December 1 to June 15, and should extend from Trenton to Georgian Bay.

As it is now the overseers are handicapped by the fact that a man caught fishing between these dates may say he is fishing for pickerel and yet catch bass and lunge.

"While He Slept."

Yet another said the propagation of fish in the Otonabee River would be helped by the scientific disposal of sewage. While many experts, however, believe pollution of the water is to blame for loss of fish, anglers believe the greatest loss is in their dropping off the hooks.

Peterboro's lakes and streams will, this summer, be visited by hundreds of anglers. May the dreams and aspirations conjured up during these winter months be realized!

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A WORD TO THE WISE

DRESSING THE FEET

By Helen Granville Butler

You may spend any amount of time and thought on the bathing and massaging of the feet and still suffer from foot troubles unless you dress them properly. Shoes and stockings are the root of all the pain and worry caused by the feet. In order to avoid trouble it is necessary to know what is best for the health of the foot and then obtain it.

Stockings first. Be sure that they fit properly. Too short a stocking is as bad as too short a shoe. It cramps the foot and doesn't give the toes room to move. Moreover, a stocking that is too small wears out twice as quickly as one that is the right size. However, don't fail from one error into another and get them too long. Too long a stocking fills up your shoe and causes pressure which in turn causes callous places. Never wear your stockings two days in succession without washing. Form the habit of rinsing them out at night when you take them off. Not only is it good for your feet but it keeps the stockings in good condition and makes them wear longer. Be careful of dyed stockings. Always wash them out in salt and water before you wear them in order to set the dye and prevent any infection.

Now a word about shoes, which are of great importance. Never sacrifice the good of your feet to a fad. If you do you will pay dearly for it and be condemned to ugly feet for years. Long vamped shoes with pointed toes and high French heels are bad. They throw the weight forward and force the toes down into the narrow points. As a result the arch is weakened and falls and the toes are distorted. No heels are almost as bad as too high ones, as the weight is thrown backwards. Get a shoe with a medium-spring heel that allows the weight to come where it is intended to, on the ball of the foot. The shoes should follow the natural lines of the foot and allow room for the free play of the muscles and toes.

Shoes should be changed frequently. Have two pairs of walking shoes and alternate them. Don't wear your shoes until they are run over at the heels and spread out of shape. Always put your shoes on trees at night and take them to the cobbler at the first sign of run-down heels. It saves your shoes and keeps and keeps your feet properly shod. Change your shoes when you come home in the evening, but be sure that your house shoes are in good condition.

Shoes that are good for the feet are not of necessity unattractive. All that is required is a shoe that suits your foot, is properly fitted and is not of an exaggerated cut.

CHAPPING

(By HELEN GRANVILLE BUTLER)

With the approach of winter the question of how to avoid the discomfort of a chapped skin is uppermost in the minds of most. As a child I used to dread the winter because of the suffering I was caused by rough hands and face.

Occasionally chapping is unavoidable. If a person is in a run-down condition and the skin in consequence more sensitive than usual, chapping is almost inevitable. In such a case the treatment must be internal and every effort made to build up the general health. In the majority of cases, however, it is the result of carelessness and can be avoided easily.

Protect your skin against sudden changes from a very warm to a very cold temperature. Try always to avoid a very warm room or house. Heat makes the skin more sensitive. Above all, never go out without gloves. Before going out rub a light vanishing cream over the exposed skin and then dust with powder. This treatment will do much to prevent chapping.

Much of the discomfort caused by rough hands, the knuckles in particular, is a result of careless washing. When washing the hands use warm water and a pure soap, be sure you wash them absolutely clean, then rinse them in cold water. The cold water closes the pores and tones up the skin. In drying do not use a rough towel and pat the face dry. The same method should be employed for the hands. Friction, although stimulating, is also irritating, and should be avoided during the winter if you are going in and out a good deal. It is advisable to use a hand lotion after washing; honey and almond cream or glycerin and rose water are excellent.

If you have allowed your hands to chap or get rough, wear gloves to bed at night. Clean your hands well, cover them with cold cream or vaseline and then put on a pair of loose cotton gloves. This treatment is necessary in extreme cases and need only be continued until the skin again becomes smooth.

The skin on the legs is also sensitive to extremes of temperature and causes real suffering if allowed to chap. Treat the skin of your legs as you do that on your hands. If you wear spats or high shoes be sure that they are not tight around the top. Pressure stops the circulation and chapping ensues. Some peope cannot wear a wool stocking with any comfort and yet want something warmer than the sheer silk. Silk and wool or silk and lisle are warmer and less irritating to the skin.

The lips are peculiarly apt to become rough in cold weather and should be very carefully protected. Split lips are not only unsightly but very painful. Never wet or bite your lips. Use camphor ice or night and a white lipstick during the daytime as a means of protection.

Remember to protect your skin and avoid sudden changes of temperature and you will avoid chapping.

Had Suffocating Feeling

Stomach and liver in terrible shape till Dreco came to tone and regulate them back to healthy working order.

"My stomach and liver had been in bad shape for several years," says Mrs. Ethel De Long, of 170 Perry St., Peterboro, Ont. "My food never seemed to digest properly. It caused gas attacks, heartburn and a suffocating feeling. My liver was sluggish, spots would float before my eyes and my nerves were so bad that after going to bed at nights I had to get up and walk the floor before I could calm down sufficiently to go to sleep. I was also troubled with constipation and my whole system became so weak and run down that I felt miserable.

"Dreco has brought a wonderful change in me. I have only taken one bottle, but my stomach is much better already and I felt stronger and more energetic in every way. My bowels are regular, I eat heartily and my sleep is sound and refreshing. Dreco is certainly a wonderful medicine and I can recommend it highly from my own personal experience and satisfaction with it."

One splendid feature of Dreco is the rapidity with which it goes straight to the root of your troubles. It corrects and regulates the action of each digestive organ and builds them back to normal health and strength. It is a reliable remedy, comprising scientific proportions of the very herbs, roots, bark and leaves that Nature herself has provided for such troubles. It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there today and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold as follows:

Sees Greater Influx of U. S. Manufacturers.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 14. — T. Mueller president of Mueller Metals, Limited, Port Huron, Mich., addressing the Sarnia Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Club this afternoon, expressed opinion that Canada would see greater influx of manufacturers from the United States within the next ten years than in all previous time. He declared unbounded faith in natural resources of the country which he said was also held by most of the big men in the Republic. He was convinced that the location of Sarnia was such as to assure its future industrially.

RAILWAY HEAD BARS POLITICS

Sir Henry Thornton Says C. N. R. is Not to Be Sport of Politicians—Need Immigration.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Our system has been bought by one government, fostered by another, and, so far as I am concerned, I am nurse of the child which has been turned over to me for development. It is not to be a sport of politicians or a football of politics, irrespective of criticism or of assault. The present administration hopes to run the railways for the benefit of all people and for no section whatsoever. When the day comes that cannot be done, I will have nothing more to do with the property, for any other policy would be suicide. Perhaps it may be just as wel to refer to this in view of event that may come upon us before the year is out."

This was the statement of Sir Henry Thornton at a banquet tendered him by the Brockville Board of Trade last night attended by 200 represenjative citizens including Mayors and Boards of Trade representatives from Belleville to Cornwall.

Sir Henry confessed frankly that Canada was overbuilt with railways especially as to mileage, but this fault had its advantages, as railways must precede development of the country, which, he claimed, was one of the most favored in world. He further stated that, as the railways are built, we cannot get rid of them, and we would be cowards if we tried to, in face of what Canada has to offer.

"What we lack," said Sir Henry, "is a sane immigration policy. I do not mean welcoming every individual, irrespective of his physical and mental condition as we have example to the south of us of the results of an unrestricted policy in that regard. They may call themselves an Anglo-Saxon race, but in reality the majority are of a mixed European class."

Northern Navigation Officers In Session.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 14.—Nearly two hundred railway and steamship executives and officers are gathered here to-day for the annual meeting of the staff of the Northern Navigation Company, which opened at the Chamber of Commerce to-day and concludes Wednesday.

Officers of the company, official steamship lines and Canadian National Railways are present from every important railway and steamship centre in Canada and the United States. Plans for operation of lake steamers next summer were under discussion, following a review of one of the heaviest shipbuilding years in history of lake boats.

HOW VITAL NERVE FORCE WINS THE JOYS OF LIFE

It Keeps Our Bodies Filled With Energy and Rekindles the Fires of Strength.

A boy wakes and hustles out of bed. He has had enough of bed; he's got to get out in the world and see what's going on—and make something go on. His long, sweet sleep has renewed him, restored his vital energy. The only way to keep him in bed is to tie him there.

The boy is on the run when he hits the floor. It takes the whole family to hold him long enough to tie his shoes. The boy has what many men and women lose when they ought still to be young; the vital force and energy that make a man a real man, a woman a real woman with all the charm and full physical vigor.

The boy has all of his vital nerve force. It has not been impaired by illness, overwork, worry or mental strain—so he is filled with energy that will not be denied. In some men and women the vitality of youth lasts all their lives. They do not know what it means to have a weak or shattered nerves, to have undernourished bodies, to lack strength and purpose.

Such men and women are everlastingly joyous. In work or play, business or pleasure they succeed because of the vital force that is in them.

When our systems no longer respond to Nature's strength building processes we must look to our nerves if we wish to restore ourselves. Our nerves are the positive forces of our lives. We must nourish our nerves, feed them the elements they require. If we suffer from general physical weakness, poor appetite, impoverished blood and nervous depression; if we are too thin, pale, anaemic looking we should begin at once to rekindle the fires of strength.

Such men and women ought to go to their druggist's without delay and begin the home treatment of Wincarnis, the nerve restorative and blood builder. Wincarnis nourishes the nerve system. In twelve days see the improvement this home treatment brings. Wincarnis treatment costs less than ten cents a day. You will no longer worry over failing strength and exhausted nerves.

British Rail Dispute No Nearer Settlement.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The railway dispute was no nearer settlement last night. The Trades' Union Council ,at its meeting yesterday, reached no decision; nor did it appoint a mediation committee. The London members of the Council simply resolved into an emergency committee, which was not authorized to act in a mediatory capacity, but to be in readiness for any developments.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

BUSINESS SMOOTHLY DISPOSED OF AT REGULAR MEETING OF COUNCIL WITH MAYOR TURNER AT HELM

Alderman Stocker is Appointed Chairman of Senior Committee--Several By-laws Passed and Appointments Made.

MAYOR ENTERTAINED

A strenuous day for the City Council ended last night in its first regular meeting of the year and an impromptu supper, at which the aldermen were the guests of the Mayor

The impasse into which the retirement of Alderman Stocker plunged the council at noon was broken last night by the Mayor's intimation that Alderman McIntyre had retired from the chairmanship of the Fire, Water and Light committee and Alderman Stocker had consented to accept that position. Alderman McIntyre takes the chairmanship of the Unemployment Relief and Fuel committee, vacated for him by Alderman Maher. Alderman Stocker was in his usual seat last night.

Alderman Meyers introduced a by-law to appoint a member to the Publib Library Board, and on motion of Alderman Phelan and Jones, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner was returned to the position.

Alderman Fife introduced a by-law to appoint members to the Board of Health. Alderman Crowe said the Board has important functions and its personnel is worthy of careful consideration. "I think the positions should be handed around," he said. "There are a number who would like to serve on the Board, and since Mr. Mason has withdrawn I suggest that this is a good time to give others a chance."

Alderman Crowe proposed Claude Rogers, W. R. Breyfogle and J. J. Duffus.

Alderman Maher suggested Dr. C. H. Amys to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Mason. "Members of the Board say Mr. Lynch is a valuable member, and I suggest that he be retained."

Alderman Phelan said the Board is functioning well and giving satisfaction, and G. H. Duncan and James Lynch should be appointed again. The third member, he suggested, should be ex-Mayor A. A. McIntyre.

Alderman Crowe: "There is ex-Mayor Taylor to consider, too."

Following a fruitless ballot on three combinations of names, in which all were defeated, the names were voted on separately. Claude Rogers drew a 5 to 5 vote and Chairman J. O. Fife, presiding at the reading of the by-law in committee, cast the deciding vote in favor of his appointment.

James Lynch and G. H. Duncan drew almost unanimous votes for reappointment.

The Police Case.

Alderman Phelan announced that information had been received indirectly through the newspaper reports that the city had been given a judgment in the appeal of the Newhall case, with costs against the Chief. A resolution was passed by last year's council to pay the policemen for December on receipt of the judgment. As for payment of the two weeks' salary for which they sued, they will have to withdraw their cases now in Division court before payment will be given.

Mayor Turner—"Don't you think we are just as much indebted to the Chief as to the men?"

Alderman Phelan: "No. I wouldn't go as far as that. I think we should have the judgment in black and white before we pay the Chief."

Alderman Maher: "We should carry out the resolution and stand behind the Finance chairman."

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing said the men are entitled to their December pay at any time, and if they continued the Division court action for their November saalries the city would be bound to win, since judgment must follow the Appelate Court decision.

Aldermen Maher and Stocker moved that the Finance committee be given authority to pay the policemen except the Chief of Police, for the two weeks previous to December 1 for which they sued in Division court, on their withdrawing the action, and to pay the other officers of the department.

Immediately on the passing of this resolution there was a general exodus of spectators from the gallery of the Council Chamber, which had been comfortably filled.

J. E. A. Fitzgerald Heard.

Alderman Stocker introduced a by-law to consent to the continuation of a railway siding on the east side of Bethune street, north of Simcoe and running to Hunter street, for the accommodation of J. E. A. Fitzgerald, who proposes to build a coal yard on the waterworks property which he has purchased. Alderman Maher pointed out that citizens in the vicinity raised objections to the locating of a coal yard in that district. Alderman Stocker said this is an industrial section and no objection should be raised by Council.

Alderman Maher replied that the understanding was the plans were to be submitted to the Council for its consideration.

Alderman Crowe suggested that J. E. A. Fitzgerald, who was present, should give at outline of the proposed work.

Mr. Fitzgerald said all he asked for at present is a siding. He knew the plans for the buildings would have to come before the Council for approval. "I can't tell what buildings will be there," he said. "I had intended building concrete silos, but I have information since that there are more up-to-date ways of handling coal."

Alderman McIntyre said a committee was appointed to investigate the proposed building and report back. "Why didn't it report?" he asked. "I want things done in a business-like way."

City Engineer Parsons said he had been taken over the ground and understood the coal bins will be near the Adam Hall foundry at the rear of the lot. Personally, I don't see there can be any great objection," he said.

Alderman McIntyre proposed the by-law be passed on the City Engineer's report, and the by-law carried.

About Deputations.

Aldermen Phelan and Jones proposed that the Mayor have authority to send deputations to other places when he deems it advisable, and that the expenses be paid on certificate of the Mayor.

Alderman Crowe moved as an amendment that all accounts for deputations come before the Finance Committee.

The original motion carried.

F. J. A. Hall Appointed.

Aldermen Phelan and Jones introduced a by-law to appoint a member to a committee for the distribution of charitable funds under the will of Elmira Grover Foley.

The late Sheriff James A. Hall was the member, and on the motion of Aldermen Maher and Stocker, his son, Sheriff F. J. A. Hall, was appointed in his stead.

Thanks to E. F. Mason.

In a letter to the Council, E. F. Mason requested that his name be omitted from the Board of Health roster this year, he being fully occupied with his other public business.

On the motion of Aldermen Turner and McIntyre, the Council went on record as tendering sincere thanks to Mr. Mason for his years of service as a member of the Board of Health.

Alderman Turner reported on his attendance in Otawa as a delegate of the City Council to the deputation that waited on Premier King on Friday regarding the St. Lawrence development. He spoke of the leading part taken by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., in their entertainment and in the presentation of the deputation to the Premier. "It would mean a lot," Alderman Turner said, "to have power from Morrisburg flooding into Peterborough."

Miscellaneous Business.

The chairman of the Finance Committee was authorised to procure a typewriter for the City Assessor's office.

Alderman Fife drew attention to the fact that the snow plough does not clean the east side of Monaghan Road between Frank and Chamberlain Streets.

Alderman Crowe submitted a report of his activities of the Fire, Water, and Light Committee under his supervision, which showed a substantial saving. He drew attention to the good work done in that committee by ex-Mayor Taylor, ex-Aldermen Gainey, Holloway, and Hamilton, committeemen in previous years. He suggested motorising the ladder truck this year in the same way that the hose waggon was modernised last year.

A communication was received from the Chamber of Commerce congratulating the Mayor and aldermen on their election, and assuring the City Council of the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce.

On the motion of Aldermen Phelan and Jones a request from the Board of Education for $10,000 was allowed as an interim grant to carry on the work of the Board pending the drafting of the yearly estimates.

Communications Received.

Men's "St. George" Heavy

Fire Chief Gimblett reported 28 fire alarms during the month of December and a loss of $6,156.14.

The Public Library Board reported on the work of the year, and stated that $9,000 will be required this year.

City Relief Officer Miller reported 43 cases treated in Nicholls Hospital during the year at a cost to the city of $2,288; and 30 cases in St. Joseph's Hospital at a cost of $2,246.50. This is the city's payment for indigent patients.

A petition was received from persons owning lots on Smith Street, requesting the City Council not to pave the street between George Street and Water Street. Such a proceeding, they claimed, would raise the taxes beyond the value of the land.

An invitation was received from Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, in which he requested the presence of the Mayor and Council at a municipal service in St. John's Church.

This was accepted, and the date was left to Rev. Mr. Blagrave.

A notice was received from the Council of North Monaghan asking for a report on sewer connections with that municipality.

A bill was submitted by Alderman Phelan for $15.00 due T. C. Ephgrave for appraising the C.G.E. plant in the recent appeal from the assessment.

On the motion of Aldermen Morrison and Crowe it will be paid.

WHAT THE CITY COUNCIL DID

Decided to pay the Police Force, except the Chief, for the period in November for which they sued, on withdrawal of the action now in the Division Court.

Appointed Alderman Stocker chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and Alderman McIntyre chairman of the Unemployment Relief and Ftel Committee.

Appointed H. R. H. Kenner to the Library Board.

Appointed Claude Rogers to the Board of Health.

Appointed Sheriff F. J. A. Hall to succeed his father, the late Sheriff James A. Hall, on a committee to administer the charitable funds bequathed by Elmira Grover Foley.

Gave permission for the extension of a siding on Bethune Street.

Went to supper with the Mayor.

Clerk Lancaster, delegate for the village of Havelock, who with Reeve Breckenridge of Belmont, Dalton Johnston, M.P.P., J. A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P., James Thompson, former local representative and others, visited the Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of Public Highways, asking that the present Government undertake to complete the work on the road between Havelock and Trent River started by the late Hearst government, when in power, reports that an agreement was entered into between the Municipalities of Havelock, Belmont and Methuen on the one part and the Province of Ontario, under the administration of the Hearst government, whereby the piece of road from the railway crossing in Havelock, to the boundary line between Belmont and Seymour was taken over by the Provincial Government for the purpose of building a piece of highway as a sample for this section of the country. This work was not completed when the Hearst government went out of power. The Drury administration completed the grading but left the surfacing unfinished and the result is that the road is rapidly going to pieces. The Havelock delegate reports a favorable reception of the Commission and expressed himself as satisfied that the present government would undertake to complete the work and that both the Minister and his Deputy favored surfacing with rock from the Ontario Rock Company's quarry east of our village. The Commission, pointing out that this would be the most economical course to pursue on account of the short haul for material and the great wearing quality of the rock.

Mr. S. Armstrong, of Otonabee, addressed the Council drawing attention to the work that had been done on the County Provincial Highway running through Peterborough County from the City of Peterborough eastward, Mr. Armstrong, with the assistance of maps, endeavored to show the expenditure on the road during the past year was entirely a waste of money, and favored united effort of the municipalities to have a definite plan of the work made by disinterested engineers so that when opportunity offered to continue the work it would be performed along lines that would give the greatest results for the money expended.

Municipal officers appointed by by-law:

Auditors—Harrison Wing and Ray Williams, at a salary of $20 each.

Assessor—Wellington Wilde, salary $100.

Member of Board of Health—Harrison Wing.

Member of Park Board—Thos. Wood and Alex. Plunkett.

Pound Keeper—Frank Parcels.

Caretaker for Hall—Chas. Dewey.

Sanitary Inspector—Fred. McAdam

Council adjourned to meet every first Monday of each month.

BEER DISAPPEARED

WINDSOR, Jan. 15.—Three men are under arrest following the theft of 460 cases of beer from a railway siding.

NEW DEVICE PROVES HORSE CAPABLE OF CARRYING CIVILIZATION'S INCREASED BURDENS IN COMPANY WITH RIVAL AUTOMOBILE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. — "My strength is the strength of ten," would be a comparative boarst for a pedigreed draft horse, properly trained and conditioned.

For "Pete' 'and "Bob" champion draft horses of American by virtue of their survival of tests by the newly invented tractive dynamometer, the phrase would be an understatement of their powers. The result of the tests must be a revivsion of conceptions of what is a "horsepower," acording to Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America.

Pulling Against Odds.

"These two horses exerted a tractive pull of 2450 pounds continuously for six seconds moving their load 12 feet," says Secretary Dinsmore.

"Tractive pull is the measure of energy expended in pulling a load Now let me translate that performance into familiar terms. Here in Chicago a load of coal weighing ten tons with the wagon is ordinarily drawn by three horses. It takes a tractive pull of 1600 pounds to start such a wagon; but in less than a second, when the wheels begin turning, the energy required is greatly reduced.

"These champion horses, two of them as compared with three hitched to the coal wagon, exerted a pull half again as great as the loaded wagon, and kept it up without slackening for six painful straining, fighting seconds."

Contrivance is Automatic.

The horses owned by th Sheffield Farms, New York, set their record in tests conducted by the horse association in New York. There were similar tests earlier this fall at the Iowa State Fair, folowing invention of the dynameter by Professor E. V. Collins of Iowa State College.

The machine looks much like a farm wagon. Its wheels may be blocked by hydraulic power, not to be released until a certain pull is exerted. Whenever the pull is reduced, the wheels lock again.

"John Coffee, driver of th wining team never touched them with a whip, or even cracked it at them,' says Dinsmore. "As an accelerator he had three pebbles in a tin can, and when he wanted to stir their best effort he rattled the can. He is one of the best drivers in the country."

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (United States.) — French francs rallied in the early market dealings to-day but further unsettlement took place in stocks owing to the successful effort made by the House Democrats and Radicals to force the repeal of the Underwood rule limiting debates and amendments, which action the Republicans fear may cause a filibuster on the tax bill.

Most of the industrial leaders were active around the low levels of the movement but the list steadied after the initial selling had been absorbed reflecting important buying prompted by the thought that technical conditions within the market had been a more important increase in Monday's reaction than outside developments.

Additional crude oil and gasoline price advances were announced this morning, affording a still better underpinning for the petrolem stocks.

Stocks experienced further recovery in the first hour under the stimulus of special buying of Can. stocks reflecting the belief that earnings this year will maintain the highly favorable rate of 1923.

Continental Can, rebounded to practically the best levels of the current rise while American Can. rallied over a point from the low of the previous session..

Maracaibo Oil continued its rapid rise, reaching a further now high at 33 1-4 against Monday's low of 28¼ on the prospect of important developments in the Venezulan fields, where the company has large acreage in the Lake Maracaibo district.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

CARING FOR EYELIDS

A clear, clean eye, together with its protecting lids, is one of the real marks of health and good looks. You can have perfectly healthy eyelids and not be subjected to looks of unfriendliness and curiosity by others.

The eyelids are very delicate. The upper lid is adjustable to a certain extend and moveable. The lower lid is practically stationary. The loose tissue of the eyelids is frequently inflamed and swollen, sometimes by acute eyestrain, blows or diseases which attack its tissue in such a way that the lids are entirely closed.

The construction and color of the eyelids is also a good indication of general health and circulation. If reddened or tinged with rather a bluish shade of the lid tissue, it indicates a poor circulation. The physician frequently judges your blood condition and circulation by eyelid condition.

To have perfectly normal eyelids one should be careful not to read in a waning light or in the glare of the sun. Both cause eyestrain and induce red and distorted lids. If you work facing a window always wear a green eye-shade. There is a battle going on between the rays of bright light to close the pupil and the strong stimulus of required work to keep it open. The result is constant muscular lid friction and reddened, irritated lid tissue.

In swollen or diseased lid condition there is practically no virtue in a poultice, except from its heat. Local applications are also of little value. Yellow oxide of mercury ointment is sometimes good to reduce temporary soreness. Bathing the eyes and lids with boracic acid solution is helpful.

The real cure for red or swollen and puffed eyelids must be found in proper conditions of blood supply and proper habits. Remedy these by carefully following a physician's advice.

THIEVES ENTERED A SECTION HOUSE.

Took Gasoline Pumper and Left It on Side of the Track near Peterboro.

OMEMEE, Jan. 15.—On Sunday night, the C. N. R. Tool House, of which section foreman Bradley has charge, was broken into and the gasoline pumper taken out. The loss was not discovered until Monday morning and on investigation was found on the side of the track just on the outskirts of Peterbofough. It is the general supposition here that the men who looted three places of business in Lindsay on Sunday night travelled this direction and used this mode of transportation to points east.

Struck by a Car

While waiting for a street car in Toronto, the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Matthews, of Toronto, formerly of Downeyville, were struck down by a car which skidded just as it was about to stop. The two older children, although badly shaken up and suffering from shock, are progressing favourably, but the younger one is still in a critical condition in a Toronto hospital. Miss Morrisey, of Downeyville, is an aunt, and much sympathy is felt for she and her brother in their anxiety.

Evelyn Skinner

News of the death of Miss Evelyn Skinner, second daughter of Florence and Joseph Skinner, of Vancouver, B. C., reached Omemee on Friday. The young lady, who was a granddaughter of the late Major and Mrs. Evans, of Omemee, and niece of Mrs. R. J. Cornwall and Mr. Fred Evans, of Omemee, contracted typhoid fever while teaching school at Maple Creek, Sask., and although under treatment in the hospital there, she passed away on Monday, Dec. 31, shortly after the arrival of her mother from Vancouver.

The sympathy of Omemee people in general is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Skinner and the Evans' family in their very sad bereavement.

MEN OF ST. PAUL'S HAD GOOD MEETING

"Know Each Other" Organization Heard Interesting Address.

At last nights inaugural meeting the men of St. Paul's Presbyterian church of this city, showed their determination and willingness to make the new organization—"The Men of St. Paul's" a complete success. Between a hundred and a hundred and twenty-five men were present to partake of the bountiful repast supplied by the Ladies' Aid. The supper which was so heartily enjoyed by all was interspersed with music supplied by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. M. B. Chenhall, as well as with popular choruses led by Mr. Douglas Carlyle. The "Men of St. Pauls" showed that they were no mean singers and the one long table of men vied with the other to demonstrate its vocal attainments. Immediately after supper, Mr. Melton rendered in splendid manner a rousing vocal solo which was followed shortly by an equally appreciated number by Mr. Harold Snelgrove.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. R. R. Hall, had an extremely interesting and pertinent subject to deal with under the heading, "Ontario's relationship to Quebec." Mr. Hall held the attention of his audience all through his address in which he pointed out how we, in Ontario, should view the Quebec question and how a better understanding between the English and French Canadians could be brought about. Mr. Hall's talk was very much enjoyed by all and thoroughly appreciated.

After the address a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker, soloists, orchestra and last but not least to the Ladies' Aid who certainly deserve great credit for the trouble which they went to in making preparations for and in serving the supper.

Mr. Wallace, the President, then brought before the meeting the general aims of the organization. The constitution and by-laws were submitted and adopted without any opposition or revision. The meeting was closed, after the transaction of business by the singing of the National Anthem.

"The Men of St. Paul's" while still in its infancy, shows great promise of becoming one of the strongest and liveliest organizations in the city as its Executives and members are certainly of the "booster' class.

The programme for the next meeting, Monday, January 28th, is well under way and the members are assured of a very interesting and enjoyable meeting.

Neill Curling Tourney Played Here Tomorrow

Many Rinks From District Clubs Are Expected To Compete. Open Bonspeil Date Fixed For Tuesday, January 29.th.

TANKARD TO-DAY.

The Robert Neil Trophy competition starts at the Charlotte street rink Wednesday morning. The Lake field Club has announced its intention of sending five rinks, Millbrook three, and others are expected from Campbellford, Hastings, Keene and Norwood. Peterboro will likely be represented by ten or twelve rinks.

This is the first major event of the curling season and will likely bring together many of the district curlers.

Open Bonspiel

The date of Peterboro's open bonspiel has been set for Tuesday, January 29 and according to precedent will likely continue for three days. This has been the premier curling event in this district and the Club and Committee hope that the entries will be as heavy as usual. Four trophies are offered with accompanying prizes of exceptional value.

Tankard in Lindsay

Two Peterboro rinks are in Lindsay to-day playing in the first round of the Ontario Tankard games. The personnel follows:—R. L. Dobbin, H. F. Foote, A. W. Archibald, and R. P. Best, skip.

Alex. Dick, F. C. Weber, J. N. Bacon and J. W. McDermid, skip.

Alex. Kay had been appointed a Tankard skip, but he is attending the New York Motor Show in charge of the Government Exhibit.

LAKEFIELD ICE HAMPERS RINKS

Only Few Scheduled Curling Games Played. Need Cold Spell.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 15—Owing to adverse weather conditions only one of the curling ices is available for use and that one is very heavy. A few days of the weather of the White River Brand would be very welcome to the Curlers at present and would be invaluable to Rink Manager Morin in getting the ices in order.

Only a few schedule games have been played up to date with the following results.

Galvin, 11; Chittick, 9.
Dench, 8; Dr. Moore, 7.
Jory, 12; Sutton, 9.
Crawford, 11; Ridpath, 9.

Rink is Popular

The popularity of the Rink is even greater than ever this season and in spite of the mild weather the ice has been in fairly good condition Rink Manager Morin has spared neither time nor effort to have good ice and it is hoped that conditions will be improved. Lakefield is not behind other towns in this regard as the mild weather appears to be general in Central Ontario. Saturday night continues to be the night of nights at the Rink and an especially large crowd attend.

GOLF STARS SLUMP ON PACIFIC COAST

Sarazen, Havers and Black Turn in Pon Cards in Tournament.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 14.—Heavy slumping on the part of international stars and consistent shooting by MacDonald Smith, of San Francisco, who turned in a card of 68, marked the opening day of the California open golf tournament on the Los Angeles Country Club courses here to-day. Smith played on the south course. Par on this course is 71 and on the north course 72.

John Black, of Wichita, Kansas, could do no better than an 82 on the north course. Gene Sarazen had to be satisfied with 75 on the same course.

Arthur Havers, British champion, another victim of erratic putting, turned in a card of 82. Havers was strong with the driver and mashie but weak with the putter.

Of the other stars, with the exception of MacDonald Smith, a similar tale was told. Joe Kirkwood, California champion and noted trick shot, hung up 83; Fred. Wright, member of the Walker Cup team, had 88; J. Ockenden, French champion, 84, and Willie Hunter, 82.

HOPPE TO MEET JAKE SCHAEFER

Will Defend Billiard Title At Once. Arranges Dates For Sessions Next Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.— Willie Hoppe will defend his title of world's champion 18.2 balkline billiard title against Jake Schaefer, the only man ever to wrest the crown from him, in Chicago, January 21, 22 and 23, under the provisions of the annual championship tournament, which provides that the players finishing second, third and fourth may challenge the winner.

Schaefer, who finished third in the tournament, to-day telegraphed a challenge to Hoppe, announcing he had deposited a forfeit, and the champion immediately accepted. The winner of their match, of three blocks of 500 points each, will be challenged by Edouard Horemans, Belgian champion, who finished fourth in the tournament.

INQUIRY INTO BOXER'S DEATH

Frankie Jerome, Of New York, Bantam - weight, Died From Hemorrhage Of The Brain Following Knockout.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.— District Attorney Banton last night summoned "Bud" Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., to appear in the Homicide Bureau of his office to-day at the investigation into the death of Frankie Jerome, New York bantamweight boxer, who collapsed after the bout with Taylor at Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

Chief Medical Examiner Norris rendered a verdict of accidental death after performing an autopsy. The autopsy revealed that Jerome died from the effects of a blow on the right side of the head which ruptured a blood vessel and caused a hemorrhage between the skull and the base of the brain. The Medical Examiner said he knew of but two similar cases in the past five years.

Jerome's death aroused widespread expression of regret in ring circles, where the game and aggressive "Bronx Spider" was regarded as a logical contender for the crown held by Joe Lynch, of New York.

In some quarters there was apprehension that the tragedy might re-kindle the hostility of those who have urged anti-boxing legislation, particularly in view of recent agitation over alleged gambling and dissatisfaction with decisions in several prominent contests. There was no definite evidence, however, of any after-effects of this sort.

Assertion that Jerome was not in condition to withstand the beating he sustained at the hands of Taylor, who scored a knockout in the twelfth and last round, were denied to-day in a statement issued by the State Athletic Commission.

Taylor, who, with his bride of a few months, had intended to leave for Chicago to-day, but when informed of Jerome's death, cancelled this plan in order to attend the boxer's funeral, which will be held on Wednesday or Thursday.

Taylor was not told of his opponent's death until to-day by Eddie Long, his manager. Visibly moved by the tragic climax to one of the most important bouts of his career, Taylor visited the State Commission's office with Long, but was told that no blame was attached to him.

YEAR 'ROUND SLEIGHING ON SNOWLESS ISLAND

NEW YORK, January 10.—Madeira is perhaps the only place in the world where people go sledding every day of the year—without snow. A wickerwork body on wooden runners, with a canvas canopy and chintz side curtains is the vehicle used in this hilly country. A team of oxen is the motive power and the "sleighs" ride in perfect comfort over the small shiny cobbles with which all the streets are solidly paved.

The "chauffeurs" have to be strong-lunged for they run miles, uphill and down, guiding the oxen and lubricating the runners with an oily rag. One exciting experience that Madeira offers is a four-mile slide down the mountain side, says Dwight Elmendorf in The Mentor for January. Part of the time the basket-like affair on runners crawls along the side of a deep ravine. Overhanging the pathway are giant geraniums, huge poinsettias and a gorgeous array of blossoms. The last half mile of the slide is taken at breathless speed.

FISHING LESS PROFITABLE THAN BEING PHOTOGRAPHED

NEW YORK, January 10.—At Capri there is a white haired "fisherman" who haunts the landing where tourists disembark, says Dwight L. Elmendorf, the famous world traveler and lecturer in The Mentor for January. This fisherman has not cast a net or line for many years, owing to the demands of tourists for poses—which requests he graciously grants for a small consideration. These requests have been so numerous that this old man has found it more profitable to grant tourists' requests than to go out fishing.

Mrs. Peckham happens also to be a devout baseball enthusiast, and although her husband is no longer a big leaguer she is anxious that he remain in the game. "I can get just as much fun out of seeing you win the Southern League pennant as a major league one," she told him. Nunamaker promised to win it for her.

BOWLING

In the Westclox Ladies League last night at Solomon's Alleys, the Orioles took two out of three from the Owls. The "Beauty Queens" were in great form and some lovely scores were rolled. Miss M. Houlihan rolled a beautiful score of 355 for her three games, while Miss J. McIlwain also rolled a nice score of 338 for her three games. Miss Houlihan had the high single of 150. All the rest of the bowlers rolled dandy scores and there was not a weak bowler on either team. Following are the scores:

MOHAMMEDAN ARCHITECT EXECUTED—FOR BUILDING CUNEIFORM MOSQUE

NEW YORK, January 10.—On the main square in the city of Algiers is a mosque with a gloomy story connected with it. The architect who designed the mosque, says Dwight Elmendorf in The Mentor for January made the mistake of laying out the ground plan in the shape of a Greek cross. For incorporating this hated Christian emblem in a Mohammedan mosque the architect was put to death.

"EMPIRE" STYLE FURNITURE COPIED FROM EGYPTIANS

NEW YORK, January 10.—The "Empire" style of furniture which Napoleon instituted in Europe was not an original design but one copied from the early Egyptians. It did not appear in Europe until after Napoleon's Egyptian campaign. That the style was not original is proved by the fact that in the Cairo Museum there are three chairs over four thousand years old which out-Empire the socalled Empire furniture, says A. Hienicke in The Mentor for January.

"LUNCH CART" DECORATIONS ORIGINATED IN SICILY

NEW YORK, January 10.—The practice of painting pictures depicting historic scenes such as Washington crossing the Delaware and the battle of Bunker Hill most likely originated in Sicily, says a writer in The Mentor for January. In Sicily, the two-wheeled "carrettas" made of oak are carefully cared for, and handed down from father to son. Their bodies are beautifully carved and their panels are covered with pictures representing the island's history, landscapes, and even holy pictures.

FOOTBALL HERO WORKS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Eddie Tryon, Colgate's great halfback, is one of the outstanding football stars of the east He is the regular college hero type.

With Colgate, the big game of the year is against Syracuse. During that game Colgate students were constantly cheering Tryon for his spectacular play. His work was largely responsible for one of the biggest football upsets of the year, the 16 to 7 defeat of Syracuse.

Now for a peek at Eddie Tryon off stage, the football season being a thing of the past.

Tryon is working his way through Colgate. He keeps the Colgate gymnasium clean in return for his lodging. Tryon, with four other athletes, occupy a room that adjoins the gymnasium.

These five athletes cook their own meals and Tryon is the authority for the statement that they are past-masters, all of them, in economic science. The five of them, all good eaters, live on less than 20 cents per meal.

During the spring and summer, Tryon has the refreshment privileges at the Colgate games He says he

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 14.—Messrs. D. Conlin, James Conlin, Arthur Conlin and Edward Cooney, all of Peterborough were in town yesterday attending the funeral of their uncle, the late Patrick Flannigan. Deceased was probably the last surviving member of the old Cobourg Rifles, who were called out to active service in 1866, at the time of the Fenian Raid. He later served with the old 40th Regiment and received his long service medal. Mr. Flannigan had been in poor health for three or four weeks previous to his death. He is survived by his wife, before her marriage Miss Mary Ann Conlin, by one daughter, Miss Ella Flannigan, and by two sons, Messrs. Joseph and John Flannigan.

Fire Brigade Officers

At the annual meeting of the Cobourg Fire Brigade held here on Tuesday evening, the fire losses for year were reported at $5,425 on an insurance of $29,800. T. J. Turpin was elected Chief and James Campbell assistant chief. A. W. Middleton is secretary and Geo. D. Wood treasurer.

Stutt—Henry

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here on Wednesday afternoon the marriage took place of Elizabeth Jane, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Henry, and Mr. James Ross Stutt of Bowmanville. Rev. D. W. Best, Bowmanville, conducted the ceremony assisted by Rev. W. A. Bremner, pastor of St. Andrew's. The bride, who was unattended, wore a becoming gown of navy Canton crepe with navy and silver hat and carried Ophelia roses. Only near relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Stutt left for a trip to the Northwest, before taking up residence in Bowmanville.

Pleasant Afternoon Spent

The regular monthly meeting of the Cobourg Branch of the Woman's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. Lonsberry and was well attended. A report was given of the Provincial convention recently held in Toronto, which was listenened to with much interest.

The Cobourg Rotary Club is arranging to hold a two nights minstrel show, the proceeds of which will be devoted to Crippled children's and boy's work.

One Hundred Years Old

Cobourg has a centenarian in the person of Mrs. May, widow of the late Richard May, who this week attained her 100th birthday. Mrs. May has spent practically all of her life in Cobourg and in Hamilton township. Up to about a month ago, she was able to be up and about all day, and now is up for a part of the day. Three daughters reside here, Mrs. Davey, Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Dundas. Mrs. May has also twenty-one grandchildren, sixty-nine great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. May is receiving the congratulations of citizens upon attaining this great age.

Concert Band Officers

At the annual meeting of the Cobourg concert band held on Tuesday evening, following officers were elected:

HOCKEY PLAYER WANTS CONSULT HIS PARENTS

TORONTO, Jan. 15. Canadian Press. — Dr. Bill Carson, the former Varsity star, and now member of the Grimsby intermediates agreed to the terms for a three year contract with St. Patricks last week, and it was stated by the St. Patric's officials yesterday that he had signed up with them also. He is said to have accepted money from the Irish to buy new skates.

Now it is stated that he would not sign the contract until he had consulted his parents about playing pro hockey.

Yesterday afternoon Carson showed up at St. Pats' headquarters and informed Secretary Percy Hambly that he had changed his mind about turning, his parents having objected, and he was ready to return St. Pats' money.

Last night St. Pats wired Carson that they expected him to report for practice to-day.

EF ATED MILTON

TORONTO, Jan. 15. Canadian Press.—Osgode Hall came from behind to defeat Milton 4 to 3, in ten minutes overtime, in an intermediate O.H.A. game at the Arena last night. The visitors were leading 3 to 1, at the end of the second period, but the Legalites set a dizzy pace during the third twenty minutes of play and scored two goals to knot the contest. And it took them but one minute of first over-time period to net what proved to be the winning goal.

STRATFORD WON.

PRESTON, Jan. 15. — Canadian Press.—Stratford Indians demonstrated their ability as a hockey team here in a senior O. H. A. fixture last night when they defeated the locals in one of the fastest games ever played at the local arena. The game was bitterly fought from gong to gong, and the pace was much more even than the score of 2 to 0 would indicate.

NEWMARKET DROPPED GAME

TORONTO, Jan. 15. — Canadian Press. — North Toronto defeated Newmarket 4 to 2 in an intermediate O.H.A. game at Richmond Hill last night, coming from behind in the last period to win out. Newmarket got the jump on their opponents when they scored two goals in the first two minutes of play.

BASKETBALL NEWS

FAMOUS COACH IS KEEN FOR TYPES IN PICKING TEAM

(By EARNEST A. BLOOD)

Under Whose Direction the Famous Passaic High School Basketball Team Has Established Its Remarkable Record

Watching a game of well played basketball is similar to seeing a perfect machine or piece of mechanism perform. Every part is co-ordinated.

The usual mode followed in selecting a tentative team for a season of games is to choose the best individual players from all those reporting for play.

However, I do not select my teams in this manner.

Individual stars do not necessarily make up the best basketball team. As a matter of fact, personal stars have ruined many excellent basketball machines—because each pulled in an opposite direction, weakening the combined strength.

In choosing my squads I decide what it is I want to accomplish and then pick my men to fulfill the need.

Each man must be an entirely different cog. All must have distinct and dissimilar qualifications. In the proportion as the men on the same team play alike, just so much is the team weakened.

Basketball coaches in selecting their teams might do well to follow the example of motion picture directors and choose types.

For instance: One forward should be a right-handed player, his teammate left-handed. It isn't often that one finds this natural combination, although I have had left and right handed players on several occasions. It is comparatively easy, however, to develop forwards who readily learn to pass and shoot with either hand.

The ideal center, of course, is tall. Yet, one of the most successful pivot men that I ever coached was only 5 feet 8 inches tall. He was Ike Rumsey the only Passic man to make the all-state team. The center must be able to get into the air whether it is by his unusual height or jumping ability. I prefer the jumping ability, for then the player usually is more versatile and can be used in play all over the court.

My guards must be able to get into the air to intercept passes and the floor. They must also be able to pass with either hand and to be a constant threat to the opposition by being efficient shots at long range.

Along with these specific requisites all of the players must have the usual qualities of speed, endurance, cunning and the fundamental qualities of basketball players.

I am not so particular as to size although I do realize that a good big man is still better than a good small one. If I do select any small men, they must be exceptionally good.

On a small floor I prefer big, rangy men and on a big floor small, fast men.

It never is my plan to concentrate on any five men. We always have several teams and any one of the players is capable of being sent into our hardest test.

Billy Evans Says

Next the salary check the ball player loves his base hits. And, after all, base hits and salary go hand in hand, for it is the fellow who gets the base hits who drags down the fat salary. In this connection I recall one of the most unusual protests that I believe has ever been staged on a major league ball field. It was a case where the ball player, while admitting the correctness of the decision, staged a kick that made it seem he was strongly disagreeing with the judgment of the umpire.

* * *

While base hits are prized at any time during the season, it is doubtful if they are ever more relished than in the spring.

* * *

The incident I have in mind came up during the first week of play. The protest, I believe, is without parallel, since the player is hardly expected to kick after agreeing that the umpire rendered the correct ruling. Umpiring on the bases with me in the game in question was a new man on the staff, making his American League debut. The batsman drove to deep left and when the ball left the bat it was certain the drive would be good for at least a double. By fast sprinting the batsman stretched it into a triple, the decision at third was very close but the umpire ruled the runner safe.

* * *

Then things started to happen. In rounding first base the batsman failed to touch the bag by nearly a foot. The omission was noticed by the first sacker of the team in the field and the umpire.

* * *

After the play had been made on the runner at third and he was declared safe, the first baseman called for the ball. Receiving it, he touched first base and appealed to the umpire for a ruling. The umpire declared the runner out. That, of course, erased the three-base hit that he had apparently made. From my position back of the plate I also had noted the failure of the runner to touch the bag and realized the base umpire was correct in his ruling when he declared an out. A long protest followed, the game being delayed perhaps five minutes.

* * *

In the dressing-room after the game I asked my partner what caused the trouble, assuring him that he had ruled correctly. I couldn't see any justice in the protest of the player ruled out.

* * *

"No trouble at all," he replied, "the player admitted he missed the bag, but was sore because I had failed to call him out at third, which would have given him credit for a double instead of merely a time at bat. When told that the umpire had first ruled him safe at third because he beat the throw, the player, peeved at losing the three-base hit because he failed to touch first, still insisted the blame on the umpire.

* * *

"Your rotten decisions are always getting you into trouble," was his parting shot. "I was out at third base instead of safe as you called me. The fielder touched me with the ball before I reached the bag. You can wire President Johnson I have a two-base hit coming to me."

* * *

All of which proves that next to the old pay check, the ring of the base hit pleases the player most. Disappointment over the loss of the base hit was greater than his sense of fairness in the case involved.

CURLING

While there was a good sheet of ice last night on the Curling Rink the club only succeeded in running off four scheduled games on account of some of the players not showing up. R. P. Best and his team mates succeeded in carrying off the honours for having the highest score of the night. His score was 18 winning from his opponent T. Brightman by two shots. W. G. Morrow's quartette also made the high score of 17 and won from R. Hicks by 11 shots. The closest game of the evening was the one played between Gray Copping and R. M. Tonight's Game With Lakefield Promises to Draw Big Crowd.

Dr. Jerry Laflamme will handle the bell in to-night's intermediate O.H.A. at the Brcok street rink between Lakefield and the Petes, which means there will be nothing to complain of so far as the refereeing is concerned. Lakefield expects to give the blue and white crew a hard fight for the honors and a bunch of Lakefield rooters will be here pulling for their favorites to upset the dope and beat the Petes. The latter will have their strongest line-up in action, and are taking the game seriously. The boys of the Children's Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage will be the guests of the Peterboro management at to-night's game. PARLIAMENT OPENS

Speech furnished one of the most extensive lists of proposed measures favorable to Labor that was ever placed in the King's message. In fact the Labor party itself could hardly have issued a more striking pronouncement. Plans cited included proposals for betterment of industrial conditions, provision for much needed houses for workers, amelioration of unemployment and re-adjustment of age pensions.

Referring to the protection issue the speech said:

"While I am glad to note that schemes for providing employment now in operation had an appreciable effect during the last year in reducing the number of those actually unemployed, the number still unable to find work causes me grave concern. My ministers recently laid before the country proposals which in their judgment would have contributed materially to the solution of this problem by affording to industry a greater measure of security in the home market and an improved outlet for its products in my Dominions overseas and in foreign countries. But these proposals were not accepted by the country.

"In these circumstances your assent will be invited to an extension and amendment of trade facilities and export credit schemes to proposal of Imperial Economic Conference for expediting and assisting in the execution of certain public enterprises throughout the Empire by grant of financial aid from public funds, and to an extension of contributions toward the cost of public utility work, whether undertaken by local authorities or promoted by statutory and private corporations."

Marching bands of unemployed tramped toward the Parliament Building with banners and a haphazard collection of musical instruments, just before the arrival of the Royal party. They were quietly but firmly turned back by the mounted police, no demonstration occurring.

After the King and Queen had returned to the palace and celebrities of state in their dazzling array of crimson and gold had left for home in their limousines and carriages unemployed were permitted to carry on their appeal to population through their music and placards. One of the banners declared the time had come when ex-service men were going to obtain work.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says Glass of Salts Helps to Overcome Rheumatism Acid

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

THE REX STOCK COMPANY

The Rex Stock Company is closing its Peterboro run for the season with the presentation of "The Enemies" at the Grand for the first three days of the week so that to-night and to-morrow night will be the last two opportunities for the many local admirers of this fine organization to see their favourites. Their closing bill is one of the most entertaining they have given here and certainly the acting of the cast in this vehicle is the best the Rex Company has given us. The play concerns itself with two German Americans, one of whom is 100 per cent. American in his attitude toward the great war, while the other still sees the situation through German spectacles, he bickering between the two old friends is responsible for gales of laughter but behind it as a dramatic situation that is skilfully developed until the erstwhile German suddenly realizes how mistaken is his attitude. It is a play of mingled laughter and pathos and the Rex company succeeds admirably in putting it over.

First honors go to Ethel Van Orden whose picture of the German mother is most convincingly drawn. Her accent is true to life and she throws a depth of feeling into the part that makes her characterization one of the high lights of the Rex run in Peterboro. Rex himself plays the German father, an unusual role for him but he handles it skilfully and get a lot out of a part that calls for clever work. Wm. Yule is 100 per cent German American and scores heavily while Herbert Lewis is excellent as the son and Zana Vaughan does good work as his fiance.

Vaudeville numbers are given by Fred Dampier and Hazel Williams and Billy Seymour. The former making a bit with his song "On the Trail to Santa Fe" and in the recitation that followed it.

Tonight will be amateur night and an unusually interesting programme is expected.

DANTE, EMINENT MAGICIAN AT THE GRAND.

Dante, the eminent European magician, who has recently come to this country, will be presented under the management of Thurston, famous American magician, at the Grand Opera House, for three days beginning Thursday, January 17.

Though his masterful presentation of Thurston-Kellar mysteries in the capitals of Europe, Dante has won a prestige which no other members of his profession has achieved on the continent. It has won him favor of a wide public and the homage of kings.

King Christian of Denmark, an ardent lover of magic, has invited him to the royal palace in Copenhagen many times, where he has given performances before his royal patron and the members of the court. The king has bestowed several decorations upon him and revived the ancient position of "court magician" (which was abolished in 1756) and appointed Dante to the place.

Dante has also given his presentation of mysteries and illusions before King Albert of Belgium and the members of his entourage at the royal palace in Brussels, before King Alfonso in Madrid and the Prince of Wales and his entourage in London.

Featured among his own marvelous European creations and the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which Dante presents are, "The Ghost Woman," psychic phenomena of the age. You ask her any question. She is declared to be unequalled as an exponent of mental telephathy.

Alvin's Six Musical Wizards, sextette of merry melody makers, augumented by Dante's travesty impersonations of famous conductors.

The mysterious Chinese Fountain of myriad streams, a spectacle of ancient oriental splendor. Also such enthralling wonders as Creation, the Phantom Woman, the Miracle, the Great East Indian Rope Trick, the Vanishing Piano, the Lady and the Lion, the Spirit Cabinet, and a score of other weird, mystical effects, bordering on the supernatural.

AT THE ROYAL.

DANNY SIMONS IS BACK WITH THE BEST VAUDEVILLE SEEN LOCALLY IN MANY MONTHS, NOW AT ROYAL.

Yes, its' the same old Danny back again with new songs and stories and every one a knockout. The large audience at the Royal last night fairly howled itself hoarse. It is no wonder that all Danny's friends were there in full force; they know what to expect. It is not only because Mr. Simons was born and brought up in Peterborough, but here we have a comedian without a peer in his own line. His new act, which he calls "The Raw Recruit," is done in broad Scotch and Danny is certainly a master of that language. Last night's audience did not want to let him leave the stage at all. For the benefit of his many friends we are informed by Manager McGeachie that he has made arrangements to hold him over for the entire week. "The Village Four" is the best harmony singing quartette that the writer has ever heard locally, while Davies and Norton offer a clever singing and talking act. The lady members cornet imitations are a novelty that brought down the house. The photoplay "To the Ladies" is, in our estimation, so good we are reviewing it separately in another part of the paper. Here is one programme you should not miss. The admission prices have not been raised and you certainly get your money's worth.

DELIGHTFULLY HUMAN.

The picturization of the stage success, "To the Ladies," which opened a three days' run at the Royal Theatre last evening, is the most delightfully human picture we have ever had the pleasure of seeing. It is radically different from anything heretofore attempted.

The unromantic locale of "To the Ladies" is the Kincaid Piano Factory. The theme of the story is in keeping with the title and has been acclaimed by critics everywhere as an unexaggerated slice of life. It tells of a young wife's interest in her husband's business affairs and her struggle to obtain his promotion to the position of manager of the Kincaid plant. The scene of the salesmen's banquet in the production is one of the most humorous ever shown on the screen as is the episode in the Boebe home, when men come to remove their piano in front of the Kincaids for non payment of interest due on a loan since invested in a fake farm proposition.

Edward Horton is a riot in the role of Leonard Beebe, while Theodore Roberts runs him a mighty close race for individual acting honors. Misses Eddy and Dresser also give superb characterizations. On the whole, we enjoyed "To the Ladies" to the limit.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A very interesting screen version of the famous play, "Within the Law," which features the favorite star, Norma Talmodge, is the big picture now showing at the Capitol Theatre. The lovely Noma gives a splendid characterization of Mary Turner, the girl who goes to prison for a theft that another girl committed, and turns crook, vowing vengeance on the man who has sent her there. She uses all the ingenuity of a trained mind to thwart the law, and succeeds in mixing things up pretty generally, specializing in involved cases that lead to breach of promise suits.

The leading man, Jack Mulhall, playing the part of Dick Gilder son of the man who is Mary's particular foe, marries her, and through him, she seeks to wreck vengeance on his father. The hero is a handsome actor whose acting is very good, and another fine delineation, both in appearance and acting, is Joe Garson, the forger, who sacrifices himself for Mary. This part is played by Lew Cody.

Although the pretty star poses to a certain extent, as ufsal, in this picture, she does some really good acting, and the story carries itself by its entertainig atmosphere. The conflict between the law and the law-breaker, with the latter always losing out, the various ramifications of life amongst the upper circle of the underworld, the sleek crooks of the black-mailing species, is well illustrated. Eileen Percy takes the part of Aggie Lynch, the black-mailer with whom Mary forms an acquaintance.

It is interesting picture, finely staged, with an excellent cast who give a satisfying interpretation of the well-known drama.

HOW "PLEASURE MAD" RECEIVED ITS TITLE

When Reginald Barker was filming the screen version of "The Valley of Content" Blanche Upright's novel, for Louis B. Mayer-Metro forces, a party of twenty young married couples, recently arrived from the east, visited the studios at Hollywood, and saw the part of the picture that depicts a family breaking up through the hunt for excessive pleasure. So realistic were these scenes and so deeply impressed were the touring pleasure-seekers that they decided to cancel reservations for that evening at a smart cafe, where they had planned an unusually lively and costly party.

"This film is some eye-opener to a fellow who is bound to spend all the coin he can lay his hands on," commented one of the young men "It's all wrong to go pleasure mad."

Director Barker overheard this last remark and it furnished him with the inspiration for a new title for the picture. 'Pleasure Mad" is at the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE REGENT.

"HELD TO ANSWER" SCORES A TRIUMPH.

Metro Picture Proves Thrilling and Dramatic Entertainment.

"Held to Answer," a Metro screen production of Peter Clark MacFarlane's story of the same title, was presented at the Regent Theatre yesterday and met with the hearty approval of a large audience including this reviewer. It may be said right here and now that "Held to Answer" is right good screen entertainment and well worth a trip to the Regent Theatre to see.

MacFarlane has turned out one of his finest stories in "Held to Answer" and it has been brought to the screen in a capable manner. There are numberless highly dramatic scenes, several genuine thrills and the cast could hardly be improved upon.

The plot concerns a young actor who gives up the stage to become a minister of the Gospel. He goes to a small city and is followed by one of his former actress friends. The minister falls in love with the daughter of one of his parishioners and, through jealousy, the actress determines to have the clergyman ousted from his church.

This she almost accomplishes by inducing the girl's brother to steal, the minister being accused of the crime. How he conducts his own defense and the outcome of the trial makes for thrilling drama and it has all been decidedly well done in "Held to Answer."

House Peters is seen to great advantage in the role of the minister Grace Carlyle does the best work of her career as the actress and James Morrison has been well cast as the erring brother. Evelyn Brent, who plays the role of the heroine, is not only good to look at but demonstrates acters are well taken care of by Lydia Knott.

We think you'll like "Held to Answer [illegible] from beginning to end and because it is a story of folks that we meet in every-day life.

GEO. B. BROWN DEAD

The following reference to the death of a former Peterboro man is taken from the Cranbrook Courier, British Columbia:

"The passing of George B. Brown, who for many years has been associated with the business life of Cranbrook, is being felt deeply by a host of old friends of the cities of Fernie and Cranbrook.

Mr. Brown was admitted to the St. Eugene hospital a few days prior to Christmas, suffering from an attack of pleurisy. It was not thought that the patient was in any great danger at first but as time went on the malady developed into pneumonia which carried him off at 9.30 p.m. on New Year's Eve.

The late Mr. Brown was a native of Peterboro, Ontario, and was thought to be just past sixty years of age. Coming west in 1894, Mr. Brown entered the service of George D. Wood, of Winnipeg, a well known hardware man of that period and for whom Mr. Brown worked as a travelling salesman until 1898. In that year, Mr. Brown came west to British Columbia and was associated with the late Mr. Robert Lemmon of Rossland, who had a hardware business in the mining city.

The year 1900 found him in Fernie in the employ of the late J. D. Quail, the pioneer hardware merchant, and later he associated himself with Messrs. Sheppard and Elliot who were also in the hardware business in the coal city.

Mr. Brown left Fernie to come to Cranbrook in 1906 where he had a position on the staff of J. D. McBride, and for whom he worked up to 1910 when he returned to Fernie to re-enter the employ of Mr. Quail. The mining city had, however, lost its appeal to Mr. Brown. 1911 again found him back in Cranbrook as manager for the Frank Parks company, in whose employ he remained until the day when illness struck him down.

The late Mr. Brown was a man of sterling character whose word was as good as his bond. His was the proverbial Scotch honesty that has built up many a prosperous business throughout the world. No customer had ever to complain of unjust treatment at the hands of the late Mr. Brown. His one outstanding business characteristic was his anxiety to do justice to all.

Quiet and retiring in demeanor, few of the deceased's most intimate friends ever so much as suspected the many philanthropies he practiced. Mr. Brown was one of the kindliest of men although one of those rare characters who shrank from making known his many kindly acts. Never did Christmas come that a multitude of parcels did not leave Mr. Brown's hands to cheer some needy home or brighten the day for some child.

Mr. Brown is being missed in the city of Cranbrook. The F. Parks Hardware company is missing him. His many friends about the city do not hesitate to voice their grief at his sudden taking away.

The body was shipped to the deceased's relatives in Vancouver on Wednesday last. Out of respect to the memory of their friends, the employees of the Parks Hardware company conveyed the remains of him to the train. They did more than that. Where the body lay in the MacPherson undertaking parlors, the Reverend E. MacKay, at the request of Mr. Brown's associates, held a service over the remains, offering a fervent prayer for the repose of him whose untimely death was being mourned.

The late Mr. Brown leaves behind him to mourn his loss, his aged father, Mr. George Brown, who has attained the ripe old age of 88 years, and who is spending the evening of his life at Collingwood, a suburb of Vancouver. A sister, Mrs. W. H. Whitney, lives in Vancouver, as does a brother, Mr. Colin C. Brown, who is connected with the B. C. Branch of the Marshall-Wells Company of the U.S.A. Another brother resides at Bellingham, Washington.

All the relatives named will be present at the funeral which will be held immediately on the arrival of the body at Vancouver. The sympathy of the entire community of Cranbrook goes out to the relatives who are mourning the loss of a son and brother."—The "Cranbrook Courier," British Columbia.

CONVENTION WAS BEST MANY YEARS

New Officers for Ontario Religious Education Council.

The one-day convention of the Peterboro Branch of the Ontario Religious Education Council, held yesterday, proved to be one of the best short conferences of the sort held by the Council in some years. The adherents attending were enthusiastic in their expressions of satisfaction at the impetus to Sunday school work received during the gathering.

Yesterday afternoon and evening, meetings, attended by some two hundred people, were held in the Murray street Baptist church. In the afternoon Departmental rallies were held, Mrs. Hinks, Miss Allison, Rev. Dr. Hayward and Rev. C. DeMille, all of Toronto, taking charge respectively of the children's, girls', oys', and adults' divisions.

Supper was served by the ladies of the Murray street church, and provided by the different Sunday schools of the city.

At the evening sessio inspirational addresses on the general work of the Council were given by Rev. Dr. Hayward, who based his address on the words of the poet who adjured the man working in his garden to lift up his eyes to the mountains for encouargement and help, and by Miss Allison of Toronto, who spoke on the Canadian gir's in training programme, and of i s success in developing the four-fold ideal.

Mr. George Robertson, secretary of the Council, gave a report of the year's work at the evening session, showing encouraging progress.

New officers for the Peterboro Branch of the Ontario Religious Education Council were appointed, as follows: Pres., John Edgar, 1st Vice-president; James Maybee, 2nd Vice-President, H. J. McCannon, Secretary, George Robertson.

TOMMY CHURCH GETTING READY FOR PARLIAMENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press)—. L. Church, Conservative member for North Toronto will have series of nations for consideration when Parliament meets. In one he asks that Government should consider some form of immediate and direct relief to Home Bank Depositors and takes the view that the Canadian Bankers Association should assist Government to meet the losses sustained.

In other motions, M. Church urges action at once to prevent illegal diversion of waters of the Great Lakes through the Chicago Drainage Canal and that Government of United States be consulted with a view to carrying out findings of international waterways commission on St. Lawrence Waterways scheme.

Mr. Church, in motions of which he has given notice, further advocates a national coal supply which shall be independent of the United States, his motion on coal adding that coal i in effect a food and should be like food carried on preferential toll basis by the railways.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Switzer and Mr .and Mrs. C. H. Huffman have arrived at Long Beach, California, after a very pleasant trip.

In a letter from Mr. Huffman he states that tre real estate business in California and Long Beach is booming, but prices of lots are exorbitant. A great deal of building is going on and people are going into state by thousands with lots of men glad to get work on any kind of a job, who went to California to get work for the winter and are unable to obtain it readily, and cannot get it; consequently they will take any kind of labour in order to make sufficient money to get back home.

Rev. W. H. Young is in Cobourg for a few days attending the Winter School held by the Methodist Young People's League, during this week.

NEW ANGLE TO CASE OF NINA SANDERSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Robt J. Sanderson, husband of Nine Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, novelist, whose decree of divorce obtained in a Rhode Island court was recently vacated, in formal statement to-day said he had instructed his attorneys to begin an effort "to determine whether grounds exist on which I should bring an action for divorce against my wife."

The brief statement concluded as follows: "In fairness to her, the public should suspend its judgment until the facts are known."

RAMSAY MacDONALD MAKES FORMAL GESTURE OF COMPLETING BRITAIN'S BLOODLESS POLITICAL REVOLUTION

Leader of Labor Party, in Replying to the Speech From the Throne, Says Britain Needs New and Decisive Foreign Policy Especially in Respect to Europe—Declares Government Sacrificed Confidence in Recent Elections — "Press Ravings Have Not Injured Labor Party."

APPEALS FOR FAIR PLAY.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Ramsay MacDonald, Parliamentary Labor Leader, and probable next Prime Minister, in a remarkable speech in the House of Commons yesterday, declared for a foreign policy that would restore the influenc of Great Britain in Europe in favor of peace and order.

"At this moment," he said, "Great Britain stands toward continental Europe with no decisive or effective policy. It is time we had a change in that respect."

It was a very curious and melancholy thing, he went on, that the results of the last election and the prospects of a change in Government had done more to bring Great Britain's influence into the minds of the dominating continental statesmen than the last twelve months of the Government. From a humanitarian viewpoint, what was going on in central Europe was absolutely deplorable.

"We want more skillful handling of diplomacy and more objective observance of other people's susceptibilities, and at the same time, a friendly, but firm, assertion of our own interests. We want a European oulook in the background of it all, and given that, I do not yet despair of Europe.

"We must have a new beginning. We cannot be disregarded; our interest will not allow us to be disregarded, and I am perfectly certain that no nation in Europe wishes to disregard that if we show enough self-respect to impress it upon them."

Parliament Not Obligated.

Referring to that part of the Speech from the Throne dealing with the Imperial Conference, Mr. MacDonald regretted the idea that, if the Dominion Premiers came here and the Government, after conferring with them, decided to recommend something, it meant that Parliament was obliged to carry out that decision.

"This," he said, "is a doctrine subversive of our own rights of self-government which we will never surrender. Acceptance of that doctrine means that if any such conference is held in the future it might aid and abet in passing resolutions contrary to the wishes of the House, and then say that if the House does not carry these resolutions into effect then the House is breaking its pledges to the dominions. It would be a great misfortune were the members to hold that in fiscal mater the vote of the people should determine the conduct of the House to be told that they were not good friends of the dominions.

"That is not fair to the country. Every pledge given by the ministers at the Imperial Conference that matters should be brought before the House will be fulfilled to the last leter, which means that Parliament is absolutely free to carry or reject the proposals.

Returns With Minority.

It might be said that the present government was the strongest party and that Labor ought to refrain from moving a vote of no confidence, he continued. "Mr. Baldwin said last Fall that he had a majority of 80 over all parties but that unless he got the power to impose tariffs he would be unable to carry on the government. Then Mr. Baldwin went ot the country and came back with a minority of 100, and now was saying: "I have changed my mind fundamentally and am prepared to rule with that minority."

This evoked more cheers and ironical laughter.

"There can be no confidence in the Government," proceeded Mr. MacDonald, "after having put the nation to the expense of an election, risked the steady development of European affairs, left offices untenanted and roused all sorts of passions and class hatred in the country."

Submitted Amendment.

In the minds of Labor's opponents was class narrowness and hatred of labor. Premier Baldwin could not now come back and say "We have done all this, but well..... just let bygones be bygones."

"Therefore," MacDonald continued, "I propose to move a vote of no confidence."

He then read the text of the Labor amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, framed at a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor Party prior to the convening of the House. The amendment reads:

"It is, however, our duty respectfully to submit to Your Majesty that Your Majesty's present officers have not the confidence of this House."

The reading was accompanied by cheers from the Labor members.

Mr. MacDonald emphasized that in the present unparalleled situation the House could not merely follow old-fashioned tactics and continued:

"Certain sections of the press have indulged in maniacal ravings of an evil and disordered mind and have been imagining that the Labor Party was keeping back something. These sections of the press have struck at the Labor Party but have done it no harm. They have done the nation's credit and the nation's trade a deal of harm. It was criticism which was mere insanity and fears that were worse than insanity.

Nation's Government.

"What may happen is in the lap of the gods. No party could take the responsibility today without feeling it would rather avoid it if it could because the state of Europe and of affairs at home if so bad ,but the nation's government must be carried on.' '

The Conservatives interrupted with cries of "The Kings' Government.' '

"The King's Government," Mr. MacDonald agreed; "I don't make any distinctions of that kind." (Cheers from the Labor Members).

"Whoever carries on the government under these circumstances is entitled to appeal for fair play and to the sportsmanlike instincts of Englishmen, so long as it does its duty and helps the people of the country."

Lloyd George.

Former Premier Lloyd George, who followed Mr. MacDonald, said the Dominions had no more the right to commit Parliament to any policy, any more than the Colonial Office had the right to commit the colonies.

Premier Bruce of Australia made it clear in his speech that he had no grievance against Great Britain because the British Government could not honor the decisions of the late Government. Another thing, he said, that the colonies and the dominions should realize, was, he said, that preference did not depend on duties.

Regarding the situation in the Ruhr, Mr. Lloyd George said: "We have heard that the Germans surrendered, but what does it mean? Before the French were in the Ruhr the Germans were delivering eighteen million out of twenty million tons of coal Does it mean deliveries are to be resumed and increased, or does it mean the management will be French and the labor German? If it does, it will be inevitable that mischief, disaster and trouble will be unavoidable in the Ruhr, and we have an interest in that.

The former Premier said Great Britain never had refused its consent to any plans for controlling German finance. In fact, in 1922, Great Britain had proposed an elaborate plan which he believed Germany would have accepted. "And as France is under the opinion that we never proposed to do anything," Mr. Lloyd George continued, "I have asked Mr. Baldwin, and he has consented, to publish these documents." He added that he was confident the Allies would have to use these as the basis for their new plan for reparations.

"If French opinion regarding the Ruhr persists there will be no peace in Europe," Mr. Lloyd George declared.

Premier Baldwin.

Premier Baldwin defended himself against Mr. MacDonald's strictures saying that the country had debarred him from putting into the King's speech such proposals to relieve unemployment as he would have done had the country stood by him, and the Government had done the best possible outside these proposals. These drew ironical labor cheers.

Regarding the agricultural problem the Premier said that in a parliament where none of the three parties could govern without support, the only way was a round-table conference to devise a common course. He was not sanguine, but it might be tried. Adverting to the Imperial Conference, he declared that so long as this parliament lasted, whatever was agreed to by the government had to be ratified by the parliament, but it was not binding on parliament. That was a question his successors would have to decide for themselves. There would be no breach of faith if parliament later refused to ratify it.

Slept While Sea Snuffed Gas Flame

MONTREAL, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Alphonse Beauregard, well-known French-Canadian literateur, author of several novels and president of the Literary School of Montreal, died at the General Hospital here yesterday as a result of gas poisoning suffered at his home on 6th January last.

According to the evidence at the inquest yesterday, Mr. Beauregard had placed a pot of tea on the stove and had lain down to rest. He fell asleep, and the water boiling over extinguishd the gas, allowing the fumes to fill the room.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

COURT TO RULE ON TRUTH DRUG

'Confessions' of Five Held For 18 Slayings Under Fire of Physicians.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 16.—The validity of confessions obtained while suspected criminals are under the influence of "truth serum," otherwise the drug scopolamine, is to be tested by the courts in trying the cases of the five persons under arrest to-day as members of a gang responsible for 18 axe slayings that for more than two years have caused a reign of terror here.

Physicians are divided on the efficacy of the drug, and the majority maintains that its use is as likely to cause the suspect to tell lies a truths. But County Solicitor James G. Davis to-day declared "truth serum" to have been the direct instrumentality through which he obtained the confessions, and that the suspected five all repeated their statements when out of the influence of the drug

Four men, Peyton Johnson, O'Delle Jackson, Fred Glover and John Reed and one woman, Pearl Jackson, all negroes are under arrest and are now being held in solitary confinement in the country jail. Police and officials all over the state are searching for the leader and two other mmbers of the alleged gang. They have been indicted for first degree murder and the trials will be held at the earliest possible time, it was announced.

Effect Like Ether

But the state will not likely have the assistance of the medical professions if it depends in the prosecution on the "confessions" induced by the drug.

Were the drug given to an innocent person, and the suggestion of an axe slaying made, several doctors asserted, the suspect very probably would imagine he had committed the crime. While the mind is under the influence of such a powerful substance, suggestions are very easily taken and magination is far more powerful than under normal conditions, doctors said.

Will Speed Trials

The state will proceed against the alleged axe wielders as , quickly as possible. the solicitor announced, and stated that new "confessions" had been made after the use of the drug, so that its efficacy will not have to be relied on.

The "truth serum" was given to the prisoners in jail under the pretext of vaccination, and they readily submitted. Two injections were made in the arms of each, and they were questioned virtually an entire night. The suspects have since in interviews repudiated their alleged confessions.

Scopolamine subdues the conscious mind and allows only the sub conscious to function, it was explained by physicians. In this way a person is not necessarily unconscious. but is merely not aware of what he is saying.

Dr. R. L. House, of Ferris Tex., is not the discoverer of the drug, despite his assertions, doctors said, though he may have been —the first to use it as a "truth serum." It originally came from Austria. and is made from the common belladonna plant. It has been tested in a number of cities on criminals.

CANADIAN RAIL EMPLOYEES ASK WAGE INCREASE

Four Brotherhoods Negotiating With Companies Seek 12½ Per Cent. Advance Over the Present Scale--Object to Counter Proposal.

WOULD BE SET-BACK.

MONTREAL, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Negotiations over wage demands for engineers, firemen, conductors, and trainmen employed on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways made by the "Big Four" railway brotherhoods, embodying the above grades, and counter-proposals by the companies calling for a downward revision of rates, ended here yesterday with an agreement to let matters rest in abeyance in the case of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

In the case of the Brotherhoods of Railway Fremen and of Railway Conductors, the mater will be referred back to the men's committee for further consideration.

Roughly, the four brotherhoods asked an increase of 12 1-2 per cent. in wages, whilst the companies submitted counter-proposals, including abolition of all terminal delays and all intermediate switchng.

The men claimed that the company's proposals would set them back thirty years.

HOMES DAMAGED BY EARTHQUAKE

Japanese Cabinet Had Special Session to Deal With Situation.

TOKIO, January 16. (United Press.) — An extraordinary session of the Japanese Cabinet met to-day to consider the earthquake situation. It was officially announced there had been few deaths in Tokio and Yokohama, and that about 200 persons had suffered injuries in the quake of yesterday morning. The new shock was about one third as severe as that of last September, and it is estimated that nearly 600 houses were damaged.

No foreigners and none of the Japanese royalty were injured.

Sendai, an important market city on the Bay of Sendai, Japan, was shaken at 4 a.m. to-day by another violent earthquake.

Reports reaching here did not enumerate damage, however, and it was not known whether the shock had serious results.

The shake at Sendai occurring less than 24 hours after the violent earthquake of yesterday morning, caused much excitement.

DIED OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN BUSH

Young Man Fatally Injured While Chopping Trees.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—William Green, aged 19, of Winnipeg, died in the General Hospital last night of injuries received while working in the bush last Thursday, near Huntsville. Green was brought to Toronto yesterday morning to undergo an operation. His condition was so serious the operation was not performed, and he died late last night.

Green had been chopping down trees in the bush and his injuries are thought to have been caused by being struck by one of the falling trees.

Crippled Veteran Confesses Murder

MONTREAL, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Delphis Godard, crippled war veteran,confessed that he had killed his wife by strangling her on the morning of 30th December, according to the evidence of Lt. Joseph Lefbvre, No. 13 Police Station, at the preliminary trial of Godard, begun in the Enquette Court here yesterday.

NINA PUTNAM IS VICTIM OF VENOM

Famous Author Took Part In An Election and Certain Politicians Blamed By Her Friends For the Present Trouble.

MADISON, Conn., Jan. 16.—The smoke of battle in the feud of the two bitter political factions here which enmeshed Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, prevented her Rhode Island divorce and finally bruited abroad the Bassett domestic triangle, has somewhat settled.

Whether the voluble first charges of Mrs. Richard Ellsworth Bassett concerning Mrs. Putnam Sanderson, famous author are ever substantiated in a court action there is no longer any doubt in the minds of those here that Mrs. Sanderson was assailed with purpose. One motive was said to be political vengeance and its companion was declared to be the scorn of a romantic intrigue.

Target of Politicians.

Mrs. Sanderson gayly entered a countryside political fight among politicians who take their trade seriously, to whom it is vocation and avocation. She espoused the cause of Probate Judge Marsden, town clerk of Madison, in a struggle that has no especial interest outside this community. Her action plunged her into a veritable maelstrom of politics, pathos, comedy, love and revenge.

The recent developments were all brought about a tip from a prominent person here to a Providence newspaper that Mrs. Sanderson's legal and voting residence was actually in Madison, where it had been for years. The newspaper submitted the facts, as they were later proven to be to the divorce judge.

After the story became public the other woman in the case, Mrs. Bassett, wife of the ex-claim digger, looked on the situation not through political smoked glasses but with the critical eyes of the wife of a handsome young man.

Mrs. Bassett believed the broadsides of charges and notoriety concerning Mrs. Sanderson and young Bassett which came after divorce annulment of a week ago. She still believes them. She is not a politician.

The attacks upon Mrs. Sanderson here have not ceased, though it is admitted that the vivacious one time employer of Bassett has done much for this community. Enemies are now declared to be doing every thing in their power to cause her indictment on a perjury charge at Providence in connection with her divorce.

PARKS RECANTS ON MODERNISM

His Sermon on the Virgin Birth of Jesus Christ Precipitated Schism — Says Fundamentalists Are Right.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The Rev. Leighton H. Parks, of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church, whose recent sermon, in which he questioned the historic fact of the Virgin Birth, precipitated the Modernist-Fundamentalist controversy in that body, Sunday, startled his congregation by definitely joining with the Fundamentalists.

Precipitated Schism.

He definitely praised the Fundamentalist position and lauded the established position of the church in respect to such matters as the Virgin Birth, and the physical resurrection of the body.

It was the sermon of Dr. Parks, in which the questioned the historical fact of the Virgin Birth which precipitated the recent schism in the Protestant Episcopal church.

The sermon came without warning. The Church of St. Bartholomew, a large edifice, was well filled with a congregation that had expected another contribution from the Modernist viewpoint in the church controversy.

Without explanation Dr. Parks launched his denunciation of Modernism .He deplored the fact that it was being taught in the schools and colleges and that the younger generation was being led to believe that the physical birth of Jesus was a myth.

Other Protestant clergymen discussed the question. Should Modernists attempt to remain in their churches or should they found new ones?

Object of Religion.

"The troubles of the present day would vanish if we believed wholeheartedly in the reality of Jesus. I do not think the church will ever again regain the vigor which distinguished the early disciples until we do as the poor woman of the gospel; actually touch the hem of the robe of the living Jesus.

"I believe the key to the rupture in the church to-day is found in the text of my sermons.

"I am sorry to speak in terms of Fundamentalism and Modernism but this seems the only way out. I am sure you will agree that the Fundamentalists are right in their insistence that there must be some Fundamenal fact on which the Christian church can have a foundation .Otherwise it will drift away and dissolve.

"Bill the Barber" Is Declared Insane

REGINA, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Wasil Mackenczuk, widely known as "Bill the Barber," and notorious in the north-eastern sections of Saskatchewan, for his exploits in the fields of outlawry and matrimony, will not face trial for the numerous offences laid at his door.

A declaration holding him insane was received by Provincial Police officials. It was signed by Dr. O. E. Rothwell, Regina jail physician, and Dr. Campbell, Weyburn Mental Hospital.

NEW YORK WINS BIG CONVENTIONS

For the First Time in 58 Years the National Democrats Will Meet There to Select Candidate.

NEW YORK, January 16 (Canadian Press). — The Democratic National Convention is awarded to New York. It will be held in Madison Square Garden, one of the most famous auditoriums in the United States.

With its floor filled with chairs, the main auditorium has seated 17,000 persons.

Twenty-sixth June was fixed as the convention day. Cash was the potent factor in the committee's decision.

In the presntation of New York's invitation its original bid of $150,000 was raised to $205,000 through a guarantee of $55,000 given the committee for convention privileges, such as radio, moving pictures, and other concessions.

Isidore Dockweiler, the California oommittseman, immediately raised the San Francisco bid from $200,000 to $205,000 to equal New York's.

After the three ballots, and with New York having a clear majority, its selection was made unanimous on the motion of Mr. Dockweiler.

The convention given New York will be its first in 56 years, a point emphasised by Acting Mayor Hulbert.

Peterboro' Fish and Game Association Supports Defense of Man Charged With Trespassing—Request Bass Fry.

MORE PHEASANTS

Peterboro Branch of the Fish and Game Association met last night in the Empress Hotel, with President C. B. Coones in the chair, and cleared up its year's business preparatory to the annual meeting which is set for next month.

There was a good representative attendance and the usual enthusiasm in the work of the association was manifested.

Among the business transacted was the passing of a resolution granting $25 to assist in fighting the case of McCannister and the Rice Lake Fur Co. Mr. McCannister is a member of the Northumberland Fish and Game association, and action for trespass has been taken against him by the fur company, which it is said is endeavoring to buy up all rights on the river and to keep everyone off the waters. The Fish and Game Association went on record as believing all hunters and fishermen are entitled to fish any waters and that all waters should be open to the public.

Another matter that received attention was the providing of funds for the governmental supervision of fish and game. It was suggested that if a license was issued to each person owning a gun the returns to the government from this gunner's license would provide revenue with which to assist in the protection of fish and game. A suggestion to this effect will be made to the parent association.

Bass Fry Requested.

Requisitions are being drawn up by the Association for bass fry to replenish Stoney, Rice, Chemong, Pigeon, Gull and Katchecoma Lakes and the Otonabee river. The association is also conducting negotiations to have brook trout placed in some of the streams in the vicinity of Peterboro.

Several members last night signified their intention of going into the matter of raising pheasants by obtaining eggs from the government hatcheries at Eugenie Falls. The last experiment was a success, but was marred to some extent by the shooting of the birds by irresponsible or malicious persons. Some of them have been destroyed by persons who did not know of the trouble to whiech th association had been put in raising them, and it is even that additional precautions will be taken with the second experimental venture.

The association will ask the government to put on extra game wardens in the spring for the protection of fish during the spawning season.

STREET CAR TROLLEY WIRE FELL ON STREET

Shortly before eleven o'clock last night the street car trolley wire on George Street, near Simcoe Street, snapped and spread itself on the roadway. The repair car was promptly on the scene and the repair was completed by 11.30. Constables Bromley and Welch diverted traffic from the area menaced by the fallen wire.

DIRECTORS OF CEMETERY ARE RE-APPOINTED

President's Report Shows Budget is Balanced and Little Lake Company Will Be Self-Sustaining —Elect W. G. Morrow President.

ANNUAL MEETING

The seventy-second annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Board was held yesterday evening, Arthur Stevenson, the retiring President, in the chair.

President's Report.

Taking the years 1913, 1918 and 1923, or five-year intervals, as a basis of comparison, our net receipts and expenditures in those years (excluding "sales of lots" and other capital receipts and expenditrues) were as follows:

	Receipts	Expenditures
1913 . . .	$5,715.70	$6,860.57
1918 . . .	6,953.11	8,130.06
1923 . . .	12,846.90	12,343.93

It will be observed that while in 1913 and 1918 our receipts were overtopped by our expenditures, by 1923 this annual deficit has, for the first time, been overtaken and henceforth the Cemetery will be self-sustaining.

The ordinary revenue for the year is substantially the same as that for 1922, but the "sale of lots" was less than before by about $600, having been $3,654.50 in 1922 and $3,061.20 in 1923. On the other hand the amount deposited by the lot owners for the perpetual care of their lots increased from $880 in 1922 to $1,760 in 1923.

In this connection your directors have thought it wise to make an alteration in the rates charged for perpetual care, whereby the perpetual care of one or two lots is undertaken at $100 each and additional lots in the same plot at $50 each, and your directors hope that lot owners will gradually take advantage of the opportunities so offered.

Of our ordinary expenditure, nothing calls for particular notice except the erection of a new greenhouse costing $1,271.27, and rendered necessary by the increased demand for vases and flowers.

In our "assets and liabilities" the only change has been the addition of $2,000 to the funds deposited with us "in trust," and the purchase of the same amount of debentures.

Good Road Built.

The superintendent's report gives the particulars of the road building during 1923. With what was built in 1922, you have now one road, running completely around the cemetery and connected to both the main and the southern gates, and this road has been so substantially built and drained that it will be capable of bearing any load it may be called upon to sustain. The building of a similar amount of roadway during the two succeeding years will, I think, complete every opened road in the cemetery.

A hill on section "C" offered a convenient place for the erection of private vaults, and your directors have therefore had that section resurveyed and laid out in a manner suitable for this purpose, selling the space on a frontage basis of fifty dollars per foot, each foot having a depth of forty feet. So far one vault has been erected, but as the space is limited, your directors expect that it will soon be exhausted. In order that the beauty of the cemetery may suffer no injury, your directors require that plans and specifications be submitted and approved by them before a deed of the property be given.

Finally your directors trust that you have found the cemetery to be as well kept up and as much an object of pride as it has always heretofore been.

Reports Received.

Superintendent W. James presented his report for the year, which was received. It indicated that extensive improvements have been made to the cemetery property, as follows:

There has been built one thousand one hundred and fifty running yards of roadway, averaging sixteen feet wide, or four thousand six hundred square yards at a cost of $1.90 per running yard, or 48c per square yard, and a total cost of $2,186.70.

The section of road done during 1922 has been given a top dressing of trap rock screenings and a coat of oil, giving the road a good surface.

We have built during 1923 a new greenhouse of iron and concrete construction, 50 feet and 25 feet, at a cost of $1.271.27, including labor and material. This was necessary to supply the demands for plants, for beds, borders and vases for the cemetery. The heating is now being installed.

There has been filled, graded and seeded on section "0" room for 3 ranges, or one hundreds and twelve five-grave lots.

The fence on the west side of the office and superintendent's residence has been re-built with cedar posts and board fence at a cost of $46.51.

A concrete floor has been built in the porch of the chapel, the old wooden floor having rotted out.

There have been during the year 7 lots put under perpetual care, 36 foundations for monuments, 281 interments and 1 mansoleum constructed of concrete and stone.

Treasurer's Report.

The Treasurer, Felix Brownscombe, submitted his annual report showing a large surplus. Special revenue amounted to $4,811, ordinary revenue, $14,122.20. Against this ordinary expenditure totalled $14,623.50 and special expenditures represented by purchase of land for $2,000 and investment in new greenhouse amounted to $1,271.27. The assets of the company total $227,699.81, as follows: Real estate, $6,500; unsold lots, $169,447.73; bonds and debentures, $48,941.31; cash in bank, $2,226.94; cash in office, $12.48, and accounts receivable, $571.35.

Liabilities total $12,252.49, composed of trust funds $12,031.21 and paved roads $221.28. This leaves surplus assets $215,447.32.

Officers Elected.

The following were appointed Directors: A. Stevenson, W. G. Morrow, E. A. Peck, E. H. D. Hall, B. F. Ackerman, B. Shortly, H. Rush, T. E. Bradburn and T. H. G. Denne. At a subsequent meeting W. G. Morrow was appointed President and E. A. Peck Vice-President. Sheriff F. J. A. Hall was re-appointed Auditor.

Mr. Shortly is the oldest in point of service of the Directors.

On request of John Edgar a lot was given the Children's Aid Society.

There were present yesterday: Harry Rush, Arthur Stevenson, J. J. McBain, E. A. Peck, B. F. Ackerman, T. E. Bradburn, E. H. D. Hall, Felix Brownscombe, B. Shortly and T. McFadden.

SAYS UNITED STATES LACKING IN CHURCHES

A Remarkable Discovery Made at a Church Convention.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., January 16 (United Press). — Thousands of communities in the Western and Southern parts of the United States have been discovered to be entirely lacking in churches, according to a report of the Home Missions Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session here.

In Western Washington, out of 573 communities with 1,000 population or less, 379 were discovered to have no churches.

The report adds:

"Vast sections in Kentucky and Tennessee once fairly well churched, have been abandoned. In one of those communities killings are going on at the rate of one a week, in another 12 murders were committed in four days."

THE GERMAN PRESS IS PLEASED WITH RESULT

BERLIN, Jan. 16.— (United Press).—Herr Schact, president of the Reichbank and Controller of the currency in the Marax will leave for Paris to-morrow to report to exports committee No 1.

The committee, which was appointed by the Reparations Commission to examine into Germany's capacity to pay is headed by General Chas. G. Dawes and contains besides French, British, Belgian and Italian representatives, another American Owen D. Young. It was Dawes energetic initiative that resulted in the committee's immediate invitation to Herr Schact to go to Paris and confer on measures that may give Germany a stable currency.

The German Press is pleased at the decisive and outspokenness exhibited by General Dawes at the Committee meetings at Paris—pleased that Americans are taking a leading part in the latest diagnosis of this countrys financial ills.

The Vossche Zeitung says "General Dawes appears to mean buiness.'

The Tageblatt "Europe ought to thank the United States for sending Dawes."

The Deutche Lag Zeitung "General Dawes certainly laid down some thoroughly sensible and economic principles when he desingnated it as the committee's duty to help Germany recover economically.

PRIME MINISTER WILL VISIT TORONTO TO-DAY

OTTAWA, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Premier King, who left last night for Toronto to speak there to-day at the anniversary of the Canadian Club, will make a final survey of the situation regarding the number of Toronto appointments, it is stated by a local newspaper

One of them is a High Court Judgeship and another is the filling of the vacancy in the Canadian National directorate.

Floating Specks Before The Eyes Means Liver Trouble

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything seems to turn black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you can rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and clear away the accumulated mass of waste and poisonous matter from the system.

Mr .Chas. Ayland, Frankville, Ont., writes:—"I used to be awfully bothered with floating specks before my eyes, headaches and sickness to my stomach. I took just half a vial of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and ever since I have felt as well as I ever did. Now I always keep them on hand."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NEWCOMERS WELCOME DECLARES MINISTER

Hon. J. A. Robb Points Out that Britishers Are Not Compelled to Come Here.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Criticisms in British newspapers of fate in Canada of number of British Harvesters has brought forth statement from Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Immigration.

"That British immigrants are welcome," declared Mr. Robb, to citizen 'is indicated by fact that pressure was successfully exerted by Government upon steamship companies to grant them a twenty per cent. rebate in fares, but if British people do not want to come or their press discourages emigration to Canada, it may as well be understood that Canada will seek immigrants elsewhere.'

SIX MEN ESCAPED FROM REFORMATORY

GUELPH, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press). — Considerable excitement prevails at the Ontario reformatory over the attempted escape of six inmates of this institution, who broke away from custody of guards while engaged in working some 500 yards from the main building. Four of the men were captured within a few minutes, after having gone but little more than a mile across the fields. Byron Switzer of Windsor and William McDonald of London are still at large.

Literary Society Met and Provided a Good Program m e -- Missionary Home on Furlough.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 15.—An unusual feature of the last meeting of the literary society of the Continuation School was the presentation of the five-pound box of chocolates won by the junior cadets in the recent rifle shooting competition. Lieutenant I. E. Doxsee was present and distributed the chocolates, the winners being: Walter Sayles, Nelles Rowland, Keith Barnard, George McKnight and Bruce Freelove. The boys carried off third prize, probably fifty teams being entered in the competition.

The programme opened with all singing "The Maple Leaf," followed by the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Jean Burnham. Other items were: Reading, "The Bachelor in Church," by Mildred Brown; Piano Solo, by Alex. Johnston; Reading, "Ma and the Auto," by Elsie spence; Descriptive musical sketch, by Gertrude Gray; Reading, "Is it Anybody's Business?" by Anna Hawthorne; Recitation, "Mike and the Phrenologist," by Miss H. Todd.

On motion of Loretta Barnard, seconded by Eldrich Todd, Foster Russell was appointed editor of the M. C. S. paper, "The Fortnightly Star," succeeding Luella Shaw, resigned.

This was the first occasion when Miss Todd, principal of the Continuation School, recited at a literary meeting and the pupils showed their appreciation by continued applause which was responded by a humorous selections.

The suggestion has been made to the literary society that they follow the example of High School students in other places, and if suitable arrangements can be made, provide a column of school items, editorial paragraphs, original poems, etc. in the local paper each month. This would be of general interest to the public and good training in practical experience for the editor and sub-editors of the school staff.

Elect Officers

Miss Hampton's Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday School held their annual meeting following the regular session on Sunday, the officers for 1924 being:

President—Mr. Hilliard Lang.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. John Rowland.
Secretary—Mr. C. Nattrass.
Treasurer—Mr. G. E. Burnham.

Visiting, membership and social committees were also appointed and the class has every reason to look forward with hope and confidence to a successful year's work.

Miss E. C. Hawken, who before her appointment as missionary-teacher at the Kolokreeka Home and Boarding School, Smoky Lake, Alberta, was principal of the public school, Millbrook, is now enjoying a well-earned furlough after six years of continuous service at the Mission. The report for the year shows twenty-three resident Ruthenian pupils and five day scholars, and for these, through the kindness of friends both in East and West who sent bales and boxes, a most enjoyable Christmas tree and dinner were provided. The children gave the concert and many of the parents came to see the tree and enjoy the programme.

Christian teachers in the Government schools are urgently needed as the Ukrainian teachers, in many instances, are unfavorable to the Canadianizing of the children under their care. Owing to local prejudices many of the school boards employ the Ukrainians in preference to Canadians and these prove a hindrance to the work of the Mission School in the homes of the colony. In School Fair work there is co-operation and last fall one boy from the boarding-school carried off first prize for the best individual exhibit. Mrs. Nellie McClung's Sunday school class at Edmonton is educating a Ruthenian boy named "Peter" and last year contributed $84.00 for this purpose.

The three workers at the Mission last year were Misses E. C. Hawken, E. H. Heather, and M. R. Irwin, and though with so small a force it was impossible to do regular visiting, yet as the people love singing the missionaries occasionally take their folding organ and hold services in the homes.

Miss Hawken, who has many warm personal friends in Millbrook, is at present taking a three months' course in lectures at Victoria College, Toronto. Anyone wishing to communicate with her may do so by addressing Room 410, Wesley Buildings. It is hoped to have her to address a public gathering here in the near future illustrating her talk on life at the Kolojreeka Home and School with a series of lantern slides.

Mr. Willie Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hall, 5th Line, Cavan, left last week for Guelph where he will take up a winter course in stock judging at the Agricultural College.

DIED:—On Thursday, Jan. 10, at the Methodist parsonage, Markham, Elizabeth H. (Bessie) Godfrey, beloved wife of Rev. L. Phelps. The funeral took place on Monday, Jan. 14, from the Methodist church. Interment in Elmwood cemetery. Several years ago Rev. Mr. Phelps served a three- years' pastorate on the Millbrook circuit both he and Mrs. Phelps winning many warm friends while on this charge. Besides the bereaved husband three children survive their mother—one son, Rev. Arthur L. Phelps, of Wesley College, Winnipeg, and two daughters, Winnifred (Mrs. Arthur McKenzie), who with her husband is engaged in mission work in Japan, and Miss Gladys, graduate nurse, who has spent the last few months at home in attendance upon her mother through her long and painful illness.

Messrs. C. Garside and F. N. Alcorn were visitors to Peterboro on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crown, of Reaboro, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown for a brief visit the latter part of the week.

The many friends of Mrs. R. H. Edmunds will regret to learn that she had the misfortune to fall last week seriously injuring her right knee. The accident occurred in her own home and it will probably be some weeks, with considerable suffering involved, before complete recovery takes place.

Rev S. T. Tucker left on Monday morning for Cobourg where he will take charge of a Bible study period for the week in connection with the annual Winter School in the Methodist church of that town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Darling, Peterboro, were guests of her grandmother, Mrs. E. S. Burnham, over the week-end.

Mrs. L. Rea, who has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Weldon, Lindsay, for the past few weeks, has returned home.

Mrs. H. Mulligan, who has been making an extended visit with friends in Toronto, has re-opened her home on Anne Street.

SMITH TOWNSHIP COUNCIL MEETING

Will Haul Gravel During Winter to Repair Roads In Summer.

The inaugural meeting of the Council of the Township of Smith was held in the County Council Chamber, Peterboro, on Monday, January 14th, at the hour of eleven o'clock. After making the necessary Declarations of Office the Council took their seats as follows:

Reeve J. A. Middleton in chair.
Deputy Reeve Brown.
Councillors Simpson, Coons and Mann.

Mr. James Middleton, township collector was present and stated that there still remained a balance of $2,019.29 of taxes to be collected. His time for returning the Collector's Roll was extended until February 16th.

Mr. Thos. H. Graham, township road superintendent was instructed to have gravel drawn during the winter for repairing roads situated long distances from gravel pits.

The Council of 1924 placed itself on record as being opposed to cutting timber on the highways. No permits will be granted unless it can be shown that it is necessary for road improvement.

The following officers were appointed to be confirmed by by-law at next meeting:

C. O. Northey, assessor, salary $200 and postage stamps extra.

Jas. Middleton, collector, salary $200 and postage extra.

J. A. Jobe, sanitary inspector, truant officer, sheep valuator and fence viewer.

Dr. J. A. Morgan, M.H.O.

Reever, Deputy-Reeve and Dr. Morgan, Board of Health. Clerk to act as secretary.

The treasurer was instructed to pay the following accounts:

Merchants Press, Diphtheria cards $8.50; Walter Young, sheep valuating, $1.50; Emily township, boundary road, $32.65; J. W. Hall, tile, $15.68; Fred Mahood, care of Council Chamber, $10; Municipal World, 6 copies of paper, $6.

The Council adjourned to meet on Saturday, February 16, at the hour of one o'clock.

SEYMOUR COUNCIL IN SEVEN HOUR SESSION

Discussed Purchase of Stone - Crusher For the Township But the Price Quoted Was Too High—Officers Appointed For Municipal Work.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16. — Reeve Van Volkenburg, Deputy-Reeve Wilson, Councillors McKelvie, Milne and Peake, members of the Seymour Council, all re-elected by acclamation, were in session for seven hours at their statutary meeting Monday. A considerable portion of the time was taken up on the question of purchasing a stone crushing machine for the township, an expenditure that was recommended at the nomination meeting. A manufacturing firm offered to sell a machine, but the terms were not satisfactory, and no decision was reached.

The officers for the year were appointed, with the exception of an Assessor, for which position there were seven applications. The salary allowed for he work is $200. The selection was postponed, but the appointment will likely be made at a special meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

George Anderson, a farmer near town, was appointed School Attendance Officer at a salary of $5 a month, to succeed John M. Arnold, who did not file an application for re-appointment.

William Cock was appointed a member of the Board of Education, to succeed A. S. Free, who wishes to retire. Mr. Cock has given satisfactory service in the same capacity in former years.

John S. Wallace was appointed a member of the Board of Health.

Part of Lot 1 on the 12th Concession and of Lot 2 on the 11th Concession were attached to S. S. No. 12 at the request of Thomas Brown and Knolton Waters.

Reeve Van Volkenburg and Clerk Hay were authorized to send to the Minister of Highways a signed statement to the effect that the sum of $5,847.31 had been expended on township roads during the past year, and to ask for the usual grant as provided by the Act.

A deputation of residents on the 8th Concession waited on the Council to complain of the condition of that highway and the manner in which work has been done upon it. They were promised that attention would be given the matter.

Accounts Paid.

Accounts totaling $1,037.89 were ordered paid as follows:

Sam Babcock, charity, $5.00. J. B. Ferris estate, rent, $15.00; T. Lowell, supplies, 50c; Percy Township, balance of account and telephones, $938.53; G. A. Hay, collecting fees re telephones, $19.00; Peter Meiklejohn, repairing culvert on Rawdon boundary, $2.40; S. Covert, taking C. Brunton to Cobourg, $10.00; T. O'Rourke, work on roads $1.50; C. Duncalfe, care of vagrants, $14.00; Capt. Hyland, rent of hall for nomination, $20.00; Municipal World, supplies, $11.96.

Having disposed of my business it is imperative that all accounts due me be paid by February first, otherwise they pass from my hands for collection. J. I. Adams.

THE RADIO MOVIE SOON BE IN USE

People Will Be Able to Sit at Home and See Things That Actually Happen at the Same Instant Far Away.

Radio movies will be installed in thousands of homes a year from now, predicts C. Francis Jenkins, who is credited with inventing the first moving picture machine.

He even predicts that people will sit at home and, on a small screen, see events as they actually occur at the same instant far away. For instance, the President being sworn into office, a championship prize-fight, a Dance of the Seven Veils in Port Said, or a battle in the yellow mountain passes of China.

If Jenkins had lived 300 years ago and invented such a contraption, he'd have been burned alive for witchcraft.

Is all this a pipe dream? you wonder. Jenkins already has sent photographs by radio between Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

Jenkins is busy on the next step perfection of a means of sending movies by radio and, further than that, an outright extension of the power of eyesight by radio.

He describes his device in this simple way: "It is merely a long camera, with miles instead of inches between the lens and the photographic plate, and radio for the carrier instead of light."

Jenkins, for one thing, is using his new invention to send messages. He says he can transmit 25 complete messages a minute instead of the 25 words a minute customarily sent by the Morse telegraphic code.

Probably he is too optimistic in predicting radio movies for use in the home in 1925. But it's just a matter of time until we'll have them.

Even this might not be impossible later: A telescopic or other device that would penetrate space and show us what is happening on the surface of Mars.

What would you give, to come back to earth 200 years from now and take in the sights?

GIRL DRAWS CROWDS.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan 16.—(United Press).—A young girl evangelist who holds meetings in her own pulpit in her own church, has come into prominence here.

She is Miss Roberta Star Semple, the 13-year-old daughter of Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist of Angelus Temple. Hundreds of people are turned away every Sunday morning when she speaks.

As well as having her own pulpit, the girl conducts meetings for children in the huge auditorium of the Angelus Temple. Many of the children are older than she is, but she has equally as much power over them.

It is the natural thing for Roberta Semple to be an evangelist as she was born in China, where her father and mother were missionaries. She was her mother's companion in many cross-country tours and early acquired a stage presence beyond her years.

SENTENCED FIVE HUNGRY WOMEN

BERLIN, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—Five old women—all mothers—were sentenced to jail because they were hungry and stole some "wurst" from a profiteering market dealer. One of the women is fifty years old; another is about to bear a child. The court sentenced the leader of the plunderers to one year in prison; the others to nine months each. They will begin their sentences as soon as there is room in the jails.

"CASCARETS" FOR CONSTIPATION

01 Cents a Box! Harmless Laxative For Liver and Bowels

"They Work While You Sleep."

If you feel sick, dizzy, upset, if your head is dull or aching, or your stomach is sour or gassy, just take one or two pleasant "Cascarets" to relieve constipation and biliousness. So griping—nicest cathartic-laxative on earth for Men, Women and Children. 10c boxes, also 25 and 50c sizes—any drug store.

DOWNEYVILLE

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 16.—Mr. Frank Crowley of this place has sold his farm to his sister Mrs. T. J. Perdue of Detroit, Mich., and he intends going to Detroit to live. We regret very much losing Mr. Crowley as he has been Secretary or our U.F.O. Club for the last two years.

Mr. Daniel Flynn had a very sucessful sale of farm stock Wednesday and everything brought fair prices as farm stock of every kind is very hard to sell.

Mrs. Vincent Connell is seriously ill at present and all hope for a speedy recovery. She is under the care of Dr. McCullough of Lindsay.

Messrs. L. Donohue and Joseph Murray of Niagara Falls, N. Y., have returned home after spending the holidays with the former's sister, Mrs. Patrick Harrington.

Mr. Michael Hoolihan had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse last week, the cause of death being unknown.

YOUNG'S POINT

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 16.—Mr. Percy Stennor of Lakefield was in the village on Sunday.

Miss Bertha Robinson of Lakefield visited at her home in the village last week.

Mrs. Wilbert Northey of Smith passed through the village on Thursday.

Miss Kathleen Young of Peterborough spent the week-end at her home in the village.

Miss Clara Young visited friends in Peterborough last week.

Mr. Earl Edward of Lakefield was in the village on Sunday.

Miss Doreen Johnston of Lakefield has been visiting her aunt, Miss Laura McFarlane.

Mr. Dave Webster of Lakefield was in the village on Monday.

Miss Laura McFarlane was in Lakefield on Monday.

DEATH LURKS IN GARAGE.

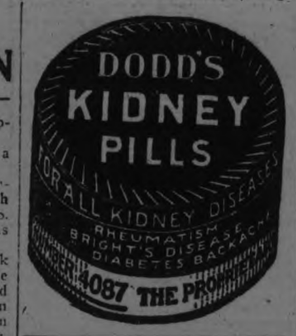
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—Emphatic warning to motorists against allowing automobile engines to run in closed garages is contained in a bulletin issued by the Department of the Interior.

When gasoline is burned in a motor deadly carbon monoxide gas is produced. Four tenths of one per cent. of this poisonous gas will kill a man in an hour and larger percentages in a few minutes.

The practice of running the engine in the garage is more prevalent in winter because many motorists wish to "warm up" their motor before leaving the garage. Motorists are advised to back their car from the garage before allowing the motor to run to warm the oil and water.

SAN PEDRO'S BIGGEST SHIP.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Jan. 12. — (United Press).—The largest ship ever to enter Los Angeles harbor will touch port January 30, when the Cunard liner, "Laconia," stops here on a trip around the world. H. G. De Golia, assistant manager of the Cunard lines, is here making arrangements for the provisioning of the liner.



COUNTRY GUESTS WERE SNOWBOUND

Sunday's Storm Blocked Roads in King's Wharf Section of Emily Township.

KING'S WHARF, Jan. 16.—The worst snow storm of the season was Sunday last and blocked all the roads, and it was late Monday when the people had the roads shovelled out and ready for the public to travel on. Visitors to the various places had to remain over night till Monday.

The Misses Mildred and Lena O'Leary of Lindsay have returned home after spending the holidays at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Leary.

Mr. Patrick Brick, Jr., and daughter Myrtle of Saskatoon are at present the guest of Mr. Brick's sister, Mrs. Wm. O'Neill.

Miss Lillian Condon of Lakefield has returned to take charge of S. S. No. 15, here.

Mr. James Powers is seriously ill, having been removed to the Ross Hospital in Lindsay during the week.

Mr. Merson of Peterborough was a business visitor through here Thursday.

Mr. John Winn was a business visitor to Lindsay Wednesday.

Mr. Moss Killaby of Bobcaygeon called on friends here Thursday.

Mr. Thos. Flynn and sister, Mrs. Agnes McArdle, attended the sale of the late C. T. Flynn in Ennismore Tuesday.

BOYS FEED UNFORTUNATE MATES.

GERA, Thuringia, Jan. 16.—(Associated Press).—Boys of well-to-do families are being urged by their school teachers to aid their more unfortunate school mates. The teachers have asked the boys to bring a breakfast to school each morning so that the boys who have had none may be fed.

RETURNED DEAD TO LAKEFIELD

Donald M. Gordon Buried In His Native Village—Was Working in Oshawa —Only 21.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 16.—The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from the Lakefield Baptist Church of Donald Maxwell Gordon, aged 21 years, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gordon of Oshawa.

Donald Gordon was born in Lakefield, his father being the eldest son of the late Thomas Gordon, one of the pioneers in boat building in this district. When Donald was very young Mr. and Mrs. Gordon moved to Bobcaygeon, where they resided for some years, moving later to Oshawa, where they reside at present. Besides his sorrowing parents, two young brothers survive to mourn his loss. The funeral service was held in the Baptist Church by Rev. T. L. White and attended by a large number of friends. Interment was in the Lakefield Cemetery. Mrs. W. G. Gillman of the village is an aunt of the deceased and the Misses Jane and Sarah Gordon great-aunts. Mr. W. H. Down of Douro is a great-uncle.

Girls' Auxiliary.

The annual meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Church was held at Miss Hampton's on Monday evening, with the rector, Rev. Walter Cox, in the chair. These officers were elected:

President—Miss Hampton.
Vice-President—Miss Grace Watson.
Corresponding Secretary — Miss May Mahood.
Recording Secretary—Miss Helen Everett.
Treasurer—Miss Hazel Crawford.
Dorcas Secretary—Miss Goldie Wannamaker.

The Treasurer gave her report which showed receipts amounting to $40.66 and expenditures of $24.61. Balance on hand of $16.05.

The rector gave a short address to the girls on the power of little things. Refreshments were served.

Correction.

In the report of the death of Mr. William Condon the names of his sons, Patrick and Francis of Lakefield, were inadvertently omitted.

Personals.

Miss Lilia Burgess of Peterborough spent the week-end in the village with her parents.

Charles Gordon of Bobcaygeon was in the village on Tuesday attending the funeral of his nephew, Donald Gordon.

Mrs. Abel Hendren is visiting friends in Welland.

Miss Verna Burgess of Peterborough was in the village on Saturday.

FIX PRICES FOR GRAIN TO AVOID ANY RAPID RISE

Emergency Restrictions Adopted Because of Feverish Condition of Exchange Market — Sugar Deals Prohibited. Attempting Economy.

PARIS, Jan. 16. — Among the government's attempts at economy, the Finance minister announced that he was ready to suppress the state monopoly in matches and restore the manufacture of these articles to private industry, with a possible tax on them.

The Bourse of Commerce yesterday adopted emergency restrictions because of the feverish exchange market. In order to avoid furnishing an official basis for a rapid rise of foodstuffs prices the quotations on wheat and flour will be fixed daily, but not posted officially. The market therefore will technicaly be open but not operative.

The Sugar Chamber will post prices but all foreign dealings have been forbidden except in fulfillment of previous contracts.

The big wheat day is Wednesday, so the Bourse officials, in accord with the government, are waiting to see what attitude the wheat dealers take before resuming operations.

Increase Taxation.

The Cabinet's decision to rush the adoption of the radical measures for increased taxation and the elimination of the recoverable budget through the present parliament caused a tremendous sensation in the Chamber. The majority of the deputies seemed to feel that Premier Poincare has imposed a heavy responsibility upon them on the eve of the elections, compelling them to ask their constituents to dig down in heir pockets.

The Premier's personal prestige in France is such, however, that it is expected the bill will be adopted as most of the deputies on the government side wil vote for the measure in self-defence, being unwilling to separate their political fortunes from those of Poincare.

L. R. STEEL PLANS ARE SUBMITTED.

Proposals to Trustees For Redeeming the Company From Bankruptcy Are Under Consideration.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 16.— The trustees and Referee James W. Persons received yesterday the proposals of the L. R. Steel stockholders' protective trust for taking the $26,000,000 concern out of bankruptcy. The papers were submitted just before the closing of court and Referee Persons adjourned until Friday, so that the trustees may have time to study the plans. They will not be made public until Friday.

An understanding apparently was reached among the representatives of the various committees of stockholders, no opposition to the plans of the protective committee being voiced before the Referee's inquiry.

A present payment to stockholders and a time scheme for paying off the remainder of the indebtedness is said to be the feature of all of the plans submitted. The views of the trustees in bankruptcy on the ability of the protective trust to carry out the scheme of redemption, it was said, will have considerable bearing on the acceptance or rejection of the plans.

Vicks Win Most Enthusiastic Praise

Ontario Parents Like Vicks VapoRub

Skeptical at first about external treatment for cold troubles, Ontario people have been completely won over by the remarkably quick action of Vicks VapoRub.

For Vicks medication takes effect immediately it is applied, in two distinct ways. First, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a liniment, poultice or plaster. Second, its ingredients are released by the body heat as vapors and are inhaled with each breath directly into the nose, throat and lungs. It is an obstinate cold that can resist this direct double action.

Vicks is composed of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine and other of the world's best remedies for congestion and inflammation—whether in the air passages, such as croup, colds, catarrh or bronchitis, or on the surface, like cuts, bruises, burns, sores and stings.

Vicks is a family standby in the States. Over 17 million jars are used yearly. During its introduction in Ontario last winter several hundred samples were given out by druggists to good, responsible families, to be tested out. Alongside are reports from some of these people who have kindly consented that their experiences be published.

A CASE IN PETERBOROUGH

Mr. William E. Payton of 320 King street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I was very bad with asthma one night. I was using a remedy, but got no relief. I thought of Vicks and gave my chest a good rubbing, and inserted a little in the nostrils. In less than fifteen minutes I was relieved and slept the whole night. I recommend Vicks to everyone suffering from a cold or asthma."

REPORT FROM LINDSAY

Mrs. S. M. Barnett of 28 Wellington street, Lindsay, Ont., says: "Vicks is a wonderful preventive for colds. A little applied to the nostrils each night before retiring kept me from having a cold all last winter."

CASTLETON SENDS FOLLOWING

Mrs. Henry Hearns of Castleton, Ont., writes: "I had been bothered with my chest and a nasty cough for a long time. I rubbed my chest with Vicks and it did me a great deal of good."

ANOTHER CASE IN PETERBOROUGH

Miss Noreen McPherson of 450 George street N., Peterborough, Ont., says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub and find it very satisfactory indeed. I used it for cold in the head, also for chest colds, and find it all that it is claimed to be."

OSHAWA "GOOD REMEDY"

Mrs. Samuel Starr of 15 William street, Oshawa, Ont., writes: "I like Vicks. It is a good remedy. We both had bad colds in the head and it relieved us in a few days. We think it is fine and would not be without it."

DEMORESTVILLE "GREATLY RELIEVED"

Mr. J. W. Milligan of Demorestville, Ont., writes: "When I had catarrh in my head, I rubbed my forehead and nose with Vicks and placed small pieces in the nostrils. After the first few applications I was greatly relieved. I will always have Vicks in the house."

COMPLETE JUDGMENT IN POLICE CASE

Copy of Reasons for Judgment of First Divisional Court, Delivered 14th January, 1924

(Mulock, C. J. O., Magee, Hodgins, Ferguson, J..A.)

Newhall vs. the City of Peterborough.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., and Joseph Wearing for defendants, appellants.
R. R. Hall, K.C., for plaintiff, respondent.

Hodgins, J. A.—Appeal from his Honour Judge Ward sitting in the First Division Court of the County of Peterborough.

The action is for one month's salary—that of December, 1923,—of the chief Constable of the town of Peterborough.

The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1922, c. 72, sec. 363 (originally enacted in 1920, 10 and 11 Geo. V, c. 58, s. 9) makes a very profound change in the relations between Police Boards and Municipal Councils. Under R. S.O. 1914, cap. 192, section 363, there was vested in the Police Board power to determine both the remuneration of the police force and the amount which it deemed requisite therefor and for its accommodation, use and maintenance. The Municipal Council, by the same section, was required to "appropriate for and pay such remuneration" and to "provide and pay for" certain other matters which the Police Board should deem necessary. No provision was then made for the submission of estimates, the City Council having no authority to question the requisition of the Board in any way.

The present section, 363 (1) when enacted, completely changed that situation. It read as follows:

(1) "The Board shall, on or before the first day of March in each year prepare and submit to the council for its consideration and approval, its estimates of all moneys required for the ensuing year to pay the remuneration of the members of the police force and to provide and pay for offices, watch-houses, watch-boxes, arms, accoutrements, clothing, and other things for the accommodation, use and maintenance of the force."

The change indicates the intention of the Legislature to withdraw from the Police Board the power to require the municipality to provide what the Board had determined to be necessary, and in place thereof to make the council the sole judge of what the municipality should pay for its police service.

This was subject only to one qualification—that the council should not reduce the police force below the number reported by the Board to be absolutely necessary.

The new section which thus deprived the Board of its original powers makes no provision requiring the municipality to pay over the amount of the estimates submitted. If the council, however, after consideration, approves of the estimates as sent in, then and then only would the Board be enabled to make the amounts specified therein come within the description of "debts of the municipality falling due within the year." In that case they would have to be provided for by assessment and levy.

Here there was no approval of the estimates in their original form but the Council adopted the course of granting the sum of $25,000 in place of the amount estimated by the Board. This was not an approval of the Board's estimates and indeed involved disapproval,—for it rejected the total amount stated to be necessary. In deciding, however, upon $25,000 based, no doubt, upon the detailed services and wants shown in the Board's estimate, the Council may be said to have proceeded under sec. 298 (1) which directs it to prepare estimates of all sums required for the purposes of the municipality during the year. The appropriation of the sum of $25,000 to cover and pay for all the purposes set out in the Police Board's estimates, authorized the Board to incur liabilities up to that amount which the City would be bound to pay, while the grant of a round sum would indicate that the Board was permitted to use and administer the money as it thought best. Practically the whole sum of $25,000 has been paid over to the Board upon its requisitions, and has been distributed leaving the amount claimed herein without funds for its payment.

It was argued that the Council were charged with a duty under the Statute to "approve" or agree to the estimates of the Board as sent in, or at least to maintain the police force at the number reported by the Board to be absolutely required. In this way it was said it had a duty to perform and not having done so the city was chargeable with the amount which the Board asked for. The answer to the first proposition is two-fold. The Statute in using the words "consideration and approval" suggests scrutiny and the right to exercise judgment. If it is to be read as indicating merely formal concurrence and as excluding the right of disapproval, then the change in the language made by the Legislature was unnecessary. It results in producing exactly the state of affairs which existed in 1920. Then why change the wording, if the situation was to remain the same? The other answer is that preliminary "consideration" by the Council of these estimates would be a useless form, if in the end the Council was powerless to do aught but agree. As to the second point, section 359 requires the Police Force to consist of the number of constables, officers and assistants reported by the Police Board to be absolutely required. But it does not commit the City Council to the exact salaries mentioned in the estimates. It prevents the Municipality from reducing the numbers of the police so designated. If bad faith were shown in dealing with the estimates so that it was quite evident that the Board would find itself unable to retain the necessary number, another and different question would be presented. This question, however, does not properly arise here. The action of the Council did not interfere with the number of the police force. At most it indicated that the Board must arrange to retain that number either by reducing other items or fixing somewhat lower salaries. And nothing appears which indicates that the Board could not have done this.

No matter how awkward the situation created by the omission to approve of certain definite items or proportions of items, a course advisable for Municipal Councils to follow in dealing with estimates prepared and submitted by Statutory Boards, the sum of $25,000 was the Council's estimate for this purpose of the Municipality, and the police board and not the City Council is responsible for spending the $25,000 without regard to the difference between their estimates and the grant, in such a way as to produce the present result.

The plaintiff fails to show that his salary of $1,700 was, at that figure, included in the amount granted by the Council to the Board, or in the Council's own estimates under sec. 298 (1). Not having proved either of these things, it is difficult to see how the municipality can be made liable for this particular amount.

Under section 297 (1) the Municipality has power, and is directed, to assess and levy a sum sufficient to pay all debts of the corporation falling due within the year. This particular claim for salary for the month of December, 1923, not having been dealt with so as to become a debt of the corporation as has been pointed out, the municipality has no power or authority to assess and levy for its payment. On the evidence, I think it is quite clear that upon the amount of $25,000 being granted for all the Board's requirements, the matter of what was to be paid thereout was left at large for the exercise of that Board's discretion. The Board having exhausted the money while paying only part of the plaintiff's salary for the year, his action as against the corporation must fail.

The appeal should be allowed with costs.

FIRST DIVISIONAL COURT

Newhall vs. Peterborough

Magee, J. A.—The defendant City Corporation appeals from the judgment of the First Division Court of the County of Peterborough.

The plaintiff is the Chief Constable of the City, and sued for $103.04 salary for the first half of November, 1923, and for $25.05 moneys paid by him for police duty purposes and the judgment awarded him both sums. He has had to sue owing to a dispute between the City Council and the Board of Commissioners of Police as to the control of expenditure for police purposes.

Within certain limits I would be disposed to consider that the control is intended to be with the Council, but I do not think they have been happy in their selection of a case in which to establish their right. The Board of Police Commissioners is one of several semi-independent bodies constituted for the administration of various branches of public business such as Boards of Education, Boards of Health, and Library Boards, each of which is entrusted with direction of expenditure of moneys.

The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1922 which governs the present case enacts in sec. 354 that in cities there shall be a Board of Commissioners of Police to consist of the Mayor, a County Judge, and the Police Magistrate. By Section 359 the police force shall consist of a chief constable and as many constables and other officers and assistants as the Council may deem necessary but not less than the Board reports to be absolutely required. By sections 360, 361, 362 the members of the police force shall be appointed by and hold their office during the pleasure of the Board who may make regulations for the government of the force, and to whose regulations the force shall be subject. In towns, villages, townships, and counties the power of appointment of the Chief Constable, or High Constable, and of constables rests with the Council under sections 364, 365, 368, and The Constables Act, R. S. O. 1914, c. 94.

Section 367 charges the Chief Constable and constables with the duty of preserving the peace, preventing robberies, and apprehending offenders.

It is not disputed that the police force are the employees of the Corporation, and that the City Corporation is ordinarily liable to an action by them for their remuneration although their selection and appointment, and tenure of office rests with the Police Commissioners. It is also to be borne in mind that the plaintiff is suing for remuneration for past services actually performed. It is not a question of damages for non-retention in office.

Now what are the provisions for the remuneration of the force? Previous to 1920 The Municipal Act of 1914 had provided in section 363 that the Council should appropriate for the pay such remuneration to the members of the police force as the Board might determine and should provide and pay for all such offices, watchhouses, watchboxes, arms, accoutrements clothing and other things as the Board may deem requisite, and require for the accommodation, use and maintenance of the force. That left the Council practically no discretion except possibly through the courts. But though the requirement might be by the Commission the payment would be by the Council. The Act in section 224 requires the Treasurer to pay out the moneys of the Corporation to such persons and in such manner as the laws of Ontario, and the by-laws and resolutions of the Council direct. By section 289 the Corporation shall not except when otherwise provided, incur a debt the payment of which is not provided for in the estimates for the current year and section 297 directs the Council to assess and levy each year sufficient to pay all debts falling due within the year. By section 298 the Council shall in each year prepare estimates of all sums required for the purposes of the municipality during such year, and one or several by-laws may be passed for assessing and levying the rates. Under section 299 (1) when the amount collected falls short of the sum required, the Council may direct that the deficiency be made up from any unappropriated fund or if there be no such fund the deficiency may be deducted proportionally from the sums estimated or from any one or more of them and (2) where the amount collected exceeds the estimates the surplus shall form part of the general funds and shall be at the disposal of the Council unless otherwise specially appropriated. This section evidently contemplates that a city may have from such sources as it may have from other sources of revenue a general unappropriated fund available for current expenditure. In making up its estimates the Council prior to 1920 would, under section 363 of 1914, already referred to, have been bound to provide for all the requirements of the Police Commissioners and no estimate by the latter was provided for. But in 1920 by c. 58.9 that section 363 (1) was repealed and a new section substituted as it now stands in the Act of 1922, section 363 (1). It now reads: "The Board shall on or before the 1st day of March in each year prepare and submit to the Council for its consideration and approval its estimates of all moneys required for the ensuing year to pay the remuneration of the members of the police force, and to provide and pay for offices, watch-houses, watchboxes, arms, accoutrements,clothing,and other things for the accommodation, use and maintenance of the force." There is thus an absence of the former preemptory direction to pay the requirements of the Board, and there is not only provision for some previous estimates by it but those estimates are to be for the consideration and approval of the Council. The Legislature, no doubt, expected both bodies to act reasonably as businessmen with due regard to public safety, and to efficiency and economy. If it were necessary I would be inclined to hold that the Council was not left to a mere right of remonstrance, and if that proved unavailing it was not bound to give its approval, and that the ultimate decision on the expenditure with the exception to be referred to would rest with the Council. That exception is this. The amendment left untouched section 359 whereby the police force was to consist not only of a Chief Constable, but of not less constables and other officers and assistants than the Board should report to be absolutely required. The Council was given no discretion as to that. It is not now necessary to consider whether the Council would have any discretion as to the remuneration.

What happened in this case was this. In February, 1923, the Board sent its estimates for the year 1923 to the Council, the total sum being $28,843. This included stated salaries for the Chief Constable at $2,473, and sixteen constables at different amounts and a police matron at $400, making in all a total of $24,173. The other $4,670 for maintenance and upkeep included some printing stationery, telegraphing, telephoning, postage, clothing and other items, and $1,425 for upkeep of a motor car and bicycle, $75 for insurance on motor, $110 for a typewriter, $200 for Chief's expenses attending the convention of Chief Constables, $300 for incidentals, $530 for light and fuel, cleaning and upkeep of police quarters (which in the evidence are said to be in the municipal building). There were evidently debatable items. On March 5 the Council adopted a report of its finance committee that the police department estimates be reduced to $25,000.00; no items appear to have been specified as reducible or unnecessary. The Council Judge and the Police Magistrate attended the Mayor and Council. The meetings and resolutions need not be referred to. The Council on 4 May finally refused to change its decision. It is admitted that the Board reported to the Council that 16 men on the police force were absolutely necessary. That was the number employed in the previous year. There is no suggestion that the number was not in fact necessary. It does indeed appear that at the Board meeting in February the Mayor proposed that the force be reduced by two men, and the expenditure reduced by $3,000.00. Some months later on the retirement of one constable the Board in deference to the Council's desire for economy abstained from appointing a successor, and a considerable increase of offences through lack of patrol is said to have followed. The Board also reported that the other incidentals in their estimates were absolutely essential. That would perhaps include the item of $400 for the police matron. On 5 March the Council passed a by-law to raise and levy $230,436.75 for the year, including $25,000.00 for the police departmentt, $10,700 for administration of justice, and $2,829.93 for "miscellaneous," $1,600 for printing, stationery and advertising. There the matter rested except that on 3 July, 1923, the Council adopted a recommendation that the chairman of the Board be written to that in paying accounts for repairing the motorcar, and motor cycle it must be understood that the City Council is not prejudicing its position in regard to the amount appropriated by the Council for the police department this year.

In the statement of defence it is alleged that the Commissioners made no provision for keeping the expenses within $25,000.00 by pruning salaries, and other items and that they knew they could not within $25,000.00 maintain or hire a motor and the defendant relies on its right by statute to reduce proposed expenditure. Excepting this assertion as to the motor and the Mayor's suggestion for reducing the force and some cross examination of the plaintiff as to necessity for him attending the convention no other items are anywhere attacked as improper or excessive. The Mayor's suggestion did not propose any reduction of pay, but only of number. The pay of the force was the same as had been established in previous years except as increase of $100 each to two constables.

Inasmuch as the statute precludes the Council from reducing the number of the force the defendant cannot be heard to say that they acted illegally and did not provide for the salaries of the plaintiff and the other constables. Even if it be admitted that the fixing of the salaries would rest with the Council (See sec. 245 (1) and sec. 249 (4) they have not fixed any less amounts than those submitted by the Board, and I do not see how the Council could be heard to say in the absence of any sums adopted by themselves that any sum other than a reasonable sum was approved by them. It must be taken on the evidence that the salaries paid authorized by the Board are reasonable even if there was no other fact. But there is this fact that every fortnight, beginning on 15 January, 1923, down to 31 October, the Council has been paying without objection this plaintiff and all the constables the salaries certified by the Board, and on the 15th November paid the other constables at the same rate, and though calling attention to the repair of the motor car making no other comment or caution.

The Board's estimates for the police force salaries including the matron's was $24,173.00. The Council provided for $25,000.00. I do not see how in the facts they can be heard to say they did not provide that sum of $24,173.00 for the police force required by law whatever other sums they might dispute. As a fact I find that only $20,806.67 has been paid out before this action for salaries leaving ample to pay the plaintiff's claim.

The defendants have, it is true, paid out on the certificate of the Board other sums making $24,985.76 paid out, but they have done this of their own motion. Taking their own contention they were not bound to pay anything beyond the reasonable salaries required by statute and if they chose to go on making payments the Board had the right to assume they were acquiescing and paying out of the general unappropriated funds of the city. Their making such payments cannot be any answer to this plaintiff whose employment is required by law, and who is suing for past services at a rate approved by themselves.

The appeal should fail as to his fortnightly salary.

As to his claim for disbursements they were except a trifle incurred in the pursuit of criminals, in repairs to the City's motor, and for hire of another in its place.

The objection made to it is that he had no authority and that the appropriation is exceeded. The defence I take it is really only because the item is found in the doubtful company of his claim for salary. I would be sorry to hold that he the head of the force in charge of a motor furnished to him by the Council and of which the Council could at any time have deprived him, and when in performance of his duty under section 367 had not implied authority to make such small disbursements for his employer. The appeal as to this also should be dismissed and the defendants should pay the costs of appeal.

FOR THE COUGH THAT STICKS

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

CHEAP AND BEST

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phelgm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness. Get Parmint and get better.

EASY TO BARK.

Fault finding is an easy job and thousands of people are working at it without pay. It takes an effort to accomplish things worth while. Isaac McCurdy illustrates it this way: "A dog hitched to a lawn mower stopped to bark at a passerby. The boy who was riding the mower said, 'Don't mind the dog; he is just barking for an excuse to rest. It is easier to bark than pull the machine.'"

"It is easier to be critical than correct. It is easier to destroy reputation than to construct character. Anybody can gamble, criticise or censure, but it takes a big man to go on working faithfully at a constructive task."—Norman (Okla.) Transcript.

SCIENTISTS HAVE FOUND A FORTUNE

They Have Found Enough Gold in Salt Water to Give Everybody Fifty Million Dollars.

MONO LAKE, Calif., Jan. 16.—Gold from salt water?

Mineral wealth from the ocean?

At least two groups of wealthy scientific men think so. Right now, they have research workers at the isolated inland salt water lake here, seriously testing out processes for extracting gold from salt water.

Neither organization is a stock selling scheme. The men doing the work were especially selected. Science is intensely interested in their experiment.

Result of Long Research.

Prof. Herschel C. Parker, world famous as a physicist, geologist, electro-chemist and explorer, is one of the expermenters. If successful, his achievement will crown 30 years of research.

W. L. Morrison, widely known mining engineer and scientist, author of many technical papers, pioneer in electric smelting and active in chrome plant development work during the World War, is at work for the other group. He is working on a process different from that used by Parker—but toward the same end.

Financial men, incidentally, wonder if the processes may not revolutionize the world's business, because—

Ton Worth One Cent.

Gold sufficient to give every person on earth fifty million dollars is in solution in ocean waters, gold experts and scientists aver.

But don't get excited about spending your $50,000,000 yet. Experts estimate a barrel of ocean water contains four cents' worth of gold in solution. Morrison puts the gold cntent at one cents a ton.

And under most favorable circumstances, Prof. Parker figures it will cost 10 cents a barrel to extract the four cents' worth of gold in ocean water.

Mono Lake, however, has a heavier saline solution than the ocean. For this reason, both Morrison and Parker believe the gold content to be heavier.

"I believe the gold content of Mono Lake to be worth millions of dollars," says Morrison. "If the processes now being worked on are successful, at least half this value may be recovered."

Mono Lake is about 6,400 feet above sea level, near the Nevada line. Its water is so impregnated with sodium carbonate and other alkaline salts that no fish or mollusks live in it. Strong winds cause a thick foaming froth along its shores. The lake is 10 miles wide and 14 miles long.

Secret Closely Guarded.

Both experimental camps keep their secrets guarded. One uses a plan of electrolysis. The other has another plan.

While head of the department of physics at Columbia University, New York, Prof. Parker chanced upon the germ of his plan in research work.

Discovery of laws hitherto unknown to electro-chemistry has been one important feature of the research.

QUEEN MARY HOME SCHOOL MEETING

Presentation Of Prizes for Best Essay on Sir Isaac Brock Took Place.

At the meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association on Friday night a good programme was provided. Mr. M. Clarke presided.

The Misses Hemphill, one little lady about eight years and an older sister, gave a Scotch and Irish dance in costumes which were excellent, the Irish Jig being especially good. Miss Pearson and Miss French also gave solos.

Dr .A. W. McPherson addressed the meeting in regard to inoculation of the children against dyphtheria, asking the parents if they did not approve of it, not to oppose it until they knew more about it.

Prizes for the best essays on "Sir Isaac Brock," by the Public School children of the city were given by the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O. D.E. They were presented by Mrs. H. Stenson, Regent of the Chapter, to Miss Margaret McCulloch, Queen Mary School, first prize, and Jack Comstock and Alfred Noftall second and third prizes, both of the Prince of Wales School.

The prizes were books; also a picture of the signing of the "Magna Charta" was presented to the school which presented the best essay. Mrs. Stenson stated that this would be an annual event. A letter of appreciation for the services of Mrs. J. E. Johnston was read. The former president of the Association who had given two years of excellent work was forced to resign through ill health.

The nomination of officers for the year of 1924 were held and refreshments were served.

AFTER NEW RECORD FOR Y.W.C.A. GYM.

Campaign Starts This Week For Another Hundred Members.

Monday began the campaign of the local Young Women's Christian Association for 125 new members for their gymnasium classes. With a total at present of about 375 actual gymnasium members, exclusive of those who belong to basketball and other associations, the objective of the leaders is a membership of 500. The teams are on the red and blue sides respectively of the big thermometer which marks the progress of the campaign, and the personnel is as follows: Majors, Mrs. R. W. Cormack and Mrs. Adam Hall. Ladies' Class, Miss C. Large and Mrs. H. Beal. Advanced class, Miss P. Hall and Miss G. Gimblett. Beginners' class, Miss E. Bradley and Miss F. Legon. Senior School girls, Miss M. Lawrence and Miss H. Stewart. Intermediates, Miss D. Henry and Miss M. Dunlop. Junior boys, Charles Glover and Kenenth Fox. Junior school girls, Miss Ruby Jackson and Miss Hazel Lang. Babies' Class, Sophie Yeotes and Nancy Hopwood. The campaign lasst for over two weeks.

The local Y.W.C.A. gymnasium classes are graded for babies or for grandmothers. There are fourteen classes during the week, in every type of gymnasium work, and two special dancing classes for seniors and juniors, who study interpretive dancing. A little boys class is held every Wednesday afternoon, with special military gymnastics and apparatus work. The babies come in for elementary exercises and fairy pantomime work. Advanced classes take calisthenic exercises, light Swedish and fancy gymnastics, such as club swinging, wand and reed exercises, folk and fancy dancing, softball, light apparatus work, etc.

At the local 'Y', the advanced work class takes its members much afrther than the usual gymnasium course, and every branch of gymnasium work is kept up to date by the injection of the very latest ideas in such things. The 'gym' teacher, Miss C .Littlefield, is popular with young and old alike, and has the faculty of imparting instruction in the very pleasantest manner.

Special reduced rates for gymnasium membership are quoted for the campaign fortnight.

HOW TO FEED A GROWING CHILD IN WINTER.

To keep growing children well in winter, feed them properly.

"Excess Acid" foods are "denatured" white flour, refined cereals, sweets and meats. These make the blood acid and lower the body vitality of the child. The blood gets rid of these food acids through the skin and lining of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach, etc. In winter the skin is sluggish and the linings of nose, throat, lungs, etc., have to do it all. These parts become irritated in the process, and adenoids, tonsils, bronchitis, penumonia, diphtheria, ear disease, etc., find an easy victim in the child fed largely upon "Excess Acid" foods.

Feed your child richly alkaline foods, like Roman Meal, milk, eggs, nuts, beans, potatoes, leafy vegetables and fruits. These keep the blood normally alkaline or non-acid. There will be no acids to irritate the nose, throat, lungs, etc., in winter, and your child will feel better, be better and remain free from disease.

Roman eMal is the most alkaline (opposite of acid) food known. It makes normal non-acid blood, nourishes better than meat, prevents indigestion, positively relieves constipation and "Keeps the Family Fit."

Roman Meal is not only very nutritious, and especially delicious, but it can be made into delightful baked products, as well as porridge, puddings, etc., and with one exception it is the lowest priced cereal sold, and by far the best.

Your child deserves the best and Roman Meal is the best food money can buy. At all grocers.

A PRESENTATION.

On Wednesday evening, January 9, a number of the employees of the C.G.E. Brass Department met at the home of Mr. T. Pacey, 585 Aylmer street, when the following address was read:

Mr. P. Killingbeck,—

It was a pleasant surprise for us to learn that you have embarked upon the sea of matrimony. We trust that you will still be able to give us a little of your time for your sterling qualities of good sportsmanship and your congenial companionship would be sadly missed by us. We fell sure that you have chosen a worthy helpmate and we must congratulate you for having secured a girl with such sterling qualities. We must also congratulate your wife for having such a sturdy man at the helm; and while congratulating you we would ask you to accept these small gifts as an appreciation of your good fellowship amongst us. We sincerely hope that your voyage across the sea of matrimony may be a long and happy one, and whatever troubles you may encounter they may all be little ones.

(Signed on behalf of the Brass Department)

A. E. PREST.
W. BENNETT.

Mr. Killingbeck replied in a few words thanking his shopmates for their kindness.

TENNYSON AND THE GAS BILL.

In a Western town, the attorney for a gas company was making a popular address.

"Think of the good the gas company has done," he cried, "If I were permitted a pun, I would say, in the words of the poet, 'Honor the Light Brigade!'"

Whereupon a shrill voice came from the rear: "Oh, what a charge they made!"

DENTAL HYGIENE MEETING FRIDAY

Prof. A. E. Webster Will Give An Address On Oral Hygiene.

On Friday evening of this week, at eight o'clock, a public meeting in the interests of Dental Hygient will be held in the assembly hall of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute, under the auspices of the Peterborough Dental Society, when a lecture on Oral Hygiene will be given by Prof. A. E. Webster, D.D. S.M.D., of Toronto University.

This meeting will be free to the general public, and will include a musical programme.

The Peterbrough Dental Society is anxious to co-operate with the efforts which are being made, by members of the profession throughout the United States and Canada to disseminate knowledge with regard to health and care of teeth. This is the first gathering of the sort to be held locally, and the Society is extending an invitation to the general public, as well as members of the Board of Education, the Medical Society, the nurses and students of the city, to be present and hear about the very latest ideas in Oral Hygiene from the lips of one of the biggest men in the profession on the continent of America. Prof. Webster is an acknowledged authority in his work, has had seven years' practical experience in dentistry and its at present a member of the teaching staff in this department, at the University of Toronto.

It is a matter of universal knowledge that diseases of the teeth lead, in many instances, to major disabilities in the body, and acquaintance with the care and health of such a vital portion of the anatomy should be a matter of the utmost interest to all, particularly to the parents of the younger children. There is no charge for admission, and the Peterborough Dental Society is desirous of having as large an audience as possible at the meeting.

REGRETS REMOVAL OF REV. MR. GROBB

Ministers Extend Tribute To Departing Rector Of All Saints.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association held Monday the following resolution was presented by Rev. R. Pogue and heartily and unanimously endorsed by all present:

The Ministerial Association of Peterboro learns with regret that it is about to lose an honored member, in the person of the Rev. R. B. Grobb, who is soon to leave our city to accept the work of assistant Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, City of Chicago. For twelve years Mr. Grobb has been the Rector of the parish of All Saints. During all that time he has discharged the duties of his office as a minister of Christ with signal success. He has been known as a scholarly and evangelical preacher, a sympathetic and faithful pastor and an ardent worker among the young. The large and important church which he leaves behind and which has attained its present strength largely through his efforts, is the best testimony which can be borne to the character of the man as well as of the church which he has succeeded in accomplishing in the church of Christ in this city.

As a member of this Association he has been beloved and respected by all. He served for a year as its President, and was frequently on the programme as one of its monthly speakers. His thoughtful contributions on such occasion received the warmest tribute from his brethern. The Association feels, in Mr. Grobb's removal, it is losing a valued member and a true brother in Christian service and fellowship, one whom it was a pleasure to know and whose personality radiated gladness and good cheer to all around.

The members of the Association wish him every blessing in his new field of labor. They also wish him the highest success, and the constant reward of a happy and appreciative people among whom to labor as a minister of Christ.

J. D. RICHARDSON,
Secretary.

YES, THEY READ 'EM.

In a recent report published in Editor and Publisher and from the evidence as obtained by the Des Moines Advertising Club, it is shown that 94 per cent. of newspaper readers read advertisements and 88 per cent. have faith in their truthfulness. These returns were received on a questionnaire answered by 600 shoppers at Des Moines.

Eighty-six per cent. of those who replied thought newspaper advertising the most effective. Truthfulness and clearness are the most appealing elements in an advertisement, attractiveness next, and the opportunity of saving money third, was shown according to the answers. The departments of a newspaper, in the order of their interest to the reader, were indicated thus: Local news, national news, editorials, advertisements, personal or society news, comics and sports. Women represented two-thirds of those who filled out the questionnaire. — Merchandising Co-Operator (Louisville Herald.)

ART ASSOCIATION MEETING SUCCESS

Mrs. F. A. Hodgson Showed a Very Complete and Interesting Collection fo Mexican Curios.

There was a well-attended meeting of the Women's Art Association in their studio at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon, when a delightful paper on "Mexico" was given by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, who also showed a very complete and interesting collection of Mexican curios, pottery and needlework. After the address, afternoon tea was served from a table prettily centred with pink carnations, Mrs. W. H. Pretty and Mrs. Wm. Blackwell acting as tea hostesses. Mrs. Hodgson was introduced by the president, Mrs. F. C. Neal, who also recorded the thanks of the society at the conclusion of the programme, which finished with the rendition of several Mexican instrumental selections by Mrs. Hodgson and the Mexican National Anthem, charmingly sung by Miss Mathilde Masson.

The paper read by Mrs. Hodgson, whose information was garnered from personal acquaintance and residence among the people of whom she spoke, was mainly an extremely interesting description of the manufacture and uses of the various articles on exhibit, also of many of the customs of the land itself, which made the ensuing examination of the exhibit most interesting to her audience.

Of the climate, "there are no fixed rules," said the speaker, and of the language, which was pronounced "one of the sweetest in the world," the use of the letter X in the middle of the word, as in the name of the country, the peculiar enunciation which gives it a sound something like "Maa-hico," was emphasized. A legend woven about the national emblem, that of an eagle siting on a cactus with a snake in its mouth, was recounted. This emblem occurred in many places in the exhibit, on the clay pottery of quaint shapes from Guadalajara and Pueblo, on a beautiful drawn-linen centerpiece, an example of the art of the ecclesiastical schools, and on one of the gaily-colored serapes whose brilliant hues made a splash of color on the walls. These serapes, worn by the men as a mantle during the day and a covering by night, correspond in utility to the rebosa of the women. The colorings of a rebosa on view were, however, far removed from the bright tints of the serapes. The ladies' shawl, with wide lace-like fringe, was of finely-spun black material, resembling a cashmere with silk weave, striped finely in red.

Funeral and courtship customs in the republic were alluded to. Street cars are utilized for hearses, their wheels arranged to ride on or off the regular tracks, mourners in black coaches with white curtains making up the cortege, which proceeds to a vast building a thousand feet long, where the dead bodies are placed in square wall chambers. A young man, becoming enamored of a maiden, follows her home at a respectful distance, walking up and down there after on different occasions for hours, until the fair charmer deigns to give him a little encouragement by looking out between the curtains. Then he follows her to church, and if she likes his suit, she may give him a smile or wave her hand. The next stage comes when she sits on the balcony and he stands conversing with her from the pavement. This is followed by the formal betrothal. The markets, "where one may purchase anything from a red pepper to a second-hand pulpit" were commented on, also the fashion of retaining huge adobe ranges in the kitchens, and the frowning of the native women on modern cooking appliances, the making of pulque, the national beverage, "that looks and tastes something like stale buttermilk and has a slightly rancid odor", that retails from three to five cents a quart, and yet makes a good living for its vendors, who hang such signs as "The Seventh Heaven" and "Bacchus' Delight" over their doorways, and strings of beads recalling the old Aztec system of counting money.

"Despite its revolutions and its dirt, which is covered by roses, Mexico, while far from being a Paradise, is as much like it as one can find on earth", concluded Mrs. Hodgson, whose paper was received with much applause.

Good Exhibit.

Among the articles exhibited in a large and interesting collection were some beautiful examples of fine drawn work on linen; a pulque gourd painted descriptively with the method used in extracting the liquid from the plant; a wonderful tablecloth of deep blue and silver; and pin-pricked leaves depicting the bull-fight, in what is now a lost art amongst its former Indian votaries. The bull-fight reappeared in many places in the flower-wreathed darts which the picador uses to inflame the bull; in the tiny carving showing the animal and the toreador facing each other and in paintings on large, beautiful ivory and paper fans.

A glass show-case contained many examples of finely-wrought silverware, of many-bangled bracelets and miniature carvings. Scattered about the room were brightly-colored bits of pottery and stamped leather, a huge black lace fan painted with a single red rose, an agate painter's palate and a holy water font adorned with colored stones, and on he walls were the fibre raincoats of the county, a Mexican sword and scabbard and novel little paintings which attracted much attention, executed entirely of tiny tinted feathers.

The men were looking very uncomfortable. The women were gazing at their hostess with round apologetic eyes. Mrs. de Lacey, the youngest and prettiest of the married women, had clasped her hands as if worshiping at a shrine.

"It seems too terrible when we look back upon it!" she exclaimed, and she infused her tones with the tragic ring of truth, "dear Madame Zattiany, that for even a little while we thought the most awful things about you. We'd heard of the wonderful things surgeons had done to mutilated faces during the war, and we were sure that some one of them had taken one of your old photographs—how could we even guess the truth? How you must have hated us!"

"How could I hate you?" Madame Zattiany smiled charmingly. "I had not the faintest idea you were discussing me."

"But why—why—did you shut yourself up so long after you came when you must have known how mother and all your old friends longed to see you again?"

"I was tired and resting." She frowned slightly. Such a question was a distinct liberty and she had never either taken or permitted liberties. But she banished the frown and met her tormentor's eyes blandly. She had no intention of losing her poise for a moment.

"Ah! I said it!" cried Mrs. de Lacey. "I knew it was not because you felt a natural hesitation in showing yourself. To me you seem brave enough for anything, but it must have taken a lot of courage."

"Courage?"

"Why, yes! Fancy—well, you see, I'm such a coward about what people say—especially if I thought they'd laugh at me—that if I'd done it I should have run off and hidden somewhere."

"Then what object in invoking the aid of science to defeat nature at one more point? And I can assure you, dear Mrs. de Lacey, that when you are fifty-eight, if you have not developed courage to face the world on every count it will merely be because you have indulged too frequently in unbridled passions."

"Mrs. De Lacey burst into laughter. . . . 'What—what will the poor girls do?' "

"Ah—yes—but you didn't have any qualms at all?"

"Certainly not. I confess I am surprised at your rather strained view of what is really a very simple matter."

"Simple? Why, it's the most extraordinary thing thet ever happened."

"The world is equally astonished—and resentful—at every new discovery, but in a short time accepts it as a commonplace. The laymen resents all new ideas, but the adjustment of the human mind to the inevitable is common even among savages." Her slight affectation of pedantry was very well done and Clavering could not detect the flicker of a lash as her eyes rested indulgently upon her tormentor.

"Well, I don't see what that has to do with it. Anyhow, it must make you feel terribly isolated."

Madame Zattiany shrugged her shoulders. She could make this common gesture foreign, and her accent was a trifle more marked as she answered, "Here, possibly, but not in Europe, where the treatment has been known and practiced for several years. It may interest you to hear that only yesterday I had a letter from a friend in Vienna telling me that an elderly countess, a great beauty some forty years ago, had announced triumphantly that once more men were following her on the street."

Mrs. de Lacey burst into a peal of girlish laughter. "Pardon me, dear Madame Zattiany. We are used to it in your case, now that we have got over the shock, but it does seem too funny. And Europe almost manless. What—what will the poor girls do?"

"Scratch their eyes out," said Clavering, who could contain himself no longer.

Mrs. de Lacey made no attempt to conceal the wicked sparkle in her eyes as she turned to him. "How crude! I suppose it was you who set those dreadful newspapers on poor Madame Zattiany." She turned back to her hostess. "That has been a shocking ordeal for you. You know how we always avoid that sort of thing. We've felt for you—I wanted to come and tell you—you don't mind my telling you now?"

"Your sympathy is very sweet. But I really have enjoyed it! You see, my dear child, when one has lived as long as I have, a new sensation is something to be grateful for."

"Oh, but——" Mrs. de Lacey's bright eyes were now charged with ingenuous curiosity. "You don't really mean—we've had the most furious arguments—couldn't you fall in love again? I don't mean like silly old women with boys, but really—like a young woman? Please let me have my little triumph. I've sworn you could. And then the poor men——"

"Upon my word!" Madame Zattiany laughed outright. "This has gone far enough. I refuse to be the exclusive topic of conversation any longer. I am immensely flattered, but you are making me feel the rude hostess." And this time she turned with an air of finality to the apologetic, almost purple, man at her side and asked him to continue to enlighten her on municipal politics.

One or two women shrugged their shoulders. A few looked crest-fallen, others, like Marian Lawrence, malignant. She had marched off with the flag, no use blinking the fact, and it had been small satisfaction to make her admit what she had already told the world. The "rubbing in" had evidently missed its mark. And the men, instead of looking cheap, were either infuriated or disgusted. Only Clavering, who managed to look bored and remote, was attending strictly to his salad.

One thing more they could do, however, and that was to make the dinner a failure. They barely replied to the efforts of the men to "make things go" and gloom settled over the table. Madame Zattiany continued to talk with placidity or animation to the men beside her, and Clavering started a running fire with Anne Goodrich, who, almost as angry as himself, loyally helped him, on censorship, the latest books and plays, even the situation in Washington and they continued their painful efforts until the signal was given to leave the table.

XXXVIII.

The men did not linger in the dining-room. The women, protesting that they were later than usual for the opera, left immediately after they returned to the drawing-room. There was a cool insolence in their "good-byes" and there was no doubt that they meant them to be final. Only Anne Goodrich shook the imperturbable hostess' hand warmly and asked if she might come some day to tea.

The husbands perforce went with their wives, after farewells that sounded more like au revoirs, and so did the younger men, except Clavering and Harry Vane. Clavering planted himself on the hearthrug, and Vane, scowling at him, lingered uncertainly.

He plunged his hands into his pockets, and, very red, stood in front of Madame Zattiany, who was leaning back in her chair and fanning herself leisurely. "I feel like apologizing for those beastly women," he blurted out.

"Apologize?" Madame Zttiany raised her eyebrows.

"Yes. Can't you see they came here tonight with the deliberate intention of making New York too hot to hold you? So that you'd clear out? They'd made up their minds that you'd changed yours about returning to Europe. They hate you. They're used to being jealous of one another, but this has knocked them silly and they can't get used to it. It's —it's—oh, it's too awful. I almost died of shame."

"I really do not understand. Do you mean to tell me they meant to be rude? I thought they were rather naive and charming."

"Damned hypocrites. They hoped to make you simply expire with embarrassment. But you were splendid. They must feel like naughty children that have been stood in a corner."

Madame Zattiany laughed. "Then I have unwittingly been playing my part in a little comedy. How stupid they must have thought me! But I really hope for their sakes that you are mistaken." She rose and held out her hand. "I am going to ask you to excuse me, Mr. Vane. I have a small commission for Mr. Clavering, who has kindly waited. And I am very tired."

Vane's face fell and he looked resentfully at Clavering, in whom he instantly recognized a rival. But there was nothing to do but go and he went.

When Madame Zattianty heard the front door close she told the footman on duty in the hall to put out the lights and go to bed.

Then she walked down the room to the library door. "Will you put out these lights?" she asked Clavering. "I believe we still have a fire in here."

TO-DAY'S GIRLS NEED WATCHING

Years Ago Young Men in Large Cities Had to be Watched Very Close, But Now It Is the Girls.

(By HARRY B. HUNT)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—America's morals are slipping. The high standard of American womanhood, on which this nation's ideals and development have largely been based is in danger of destruction.

This is a warning for woman by woman. It voices a belief, reluctantly developed through years of social service and investigation, by Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, chief of the Woman's Bureau, Washington metropolitan police.

As an index of the condition confronting the country morally, Mrs. Van Winkle makes the following startling statement:

"Men are no longer the pursuers; they are the pursued!

"The complaints of girls running with boys, and of women seducing men, today exceed by one-third the cases in which boys and men are the aggressors.

"This, police records show, is a general condition—widespread, not confined to a few towns or to the large cities. Where we used to have to watch the boys and men, we are compelled now to watch the girls.

"Not only are the girls getting worse, but they are getting worse earlier. We find them of all ages, but the vast majority under 21. Many are only in their middle teens many in their early teens. We have had a number of cases where girls of only 8 to 12 have had to be dealt with."

Back of this alarming moral decadence, Mrs. Van Winkle finds the chief factors to be:

1. Lack of discipline in home and schools.

2. Sex emphasis and "vamp" films in the movies.

3. Slack regard for law, police regulations, social conventions.

Perhaps the most dangerous factor, she believes, is the attitude that has developed in the "best circles," the wealthy or the socially elite.

"The higher we go the more lawless we find them," she declares. "The attitude in the 'better' homes is that laws were not passed for them. By their position and 'influence' they are enabled to desregard the law or escape the penalties of its infraction. This is boasted of and demonstrated in the home, from violation of the prohibition law, up and down.

Far-Reqching Effect

"These parents begin to get worried just a little too late. The discipline, the respect for laws and properieties that should have been builded during the child's developing years, cannot be applied at once. Behind these must be character, and character is not strengthened by the atmosphere and environment of many of even our 'best homes.'"

To the student of society—the social worker, the police-woman, who is interested in causes as well as effects—the decline of moral character is in no small part due to the fact that schools are no longer permitted to mete out disciplinary punishment to pupils, Mrs. Van Winkle declares.

Urges Return of Rod

"We can feel them slipping—we can see it, in the schools," she says. "We are having constant reports to us from the principals of the schools. But the hands of the wchool authorities are tied—tied by the 'best families' who will 'get the job' of any teacher who should attempt to discipline one of THEIR children. It is the people of position and influence who have shorn disciplinary power from our schools.

"Yet in a large percentage of these very homes there exists a freedom that amounts almost to license. And there are some children who NEED the rod!"

DO HEAVY MEALS BEGIN TO TELL?

Follow Your Meals With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give Stomach the Alkaline Effect That Prevents Gassiness and Sour Risings.

Those old-time husky eaters often fall down on a glass of milk or a doughnut, the stomach is heavy, fills with gas, is sour and woefully dyspeptic. Truth is, it had just such attacks always, but they didn't last. Now the stomach needs help and the best thing you can do is to fortify your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give the stomach the alkaline effect, they help it to digest food, they give it materials to do this with, they absorb the gas, stop acidity, relieve pressure, and no matter whether it is pork and cabbage, pie and cheese, sausages and buckwheats or steak and onions, your stomach works without distress and you have none of those troubles due to indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet at any drug store. Then eat and be merry.

A DECLARATION OF TRUTH.

"We hold paramount the truth that advertising is a covenant with the public, and that the spoken or printed work is as binding on performance as an oath in a judicial tribunal."—(From Code of Ethics adopted by National Association of Retail Clothiers.)

This is the code, written or unwritten, of all modern, successful advertising, wherever or by whomsoever done.

Only truth can flourish permanently.

Honesty and business character are the foundation of reputation.

Early advertisers didn't always know this.

They thought personal and business ethics were two different things.

They looked on advertising as "trick stuff," with which to fool the public.

A few such remain to-day. But they are rapidly being weeded out, both by public disfavor and by the vigilance of the organized business world.

In the long run, mis-statement and exaggeration are not good business, BECAUSE THEY DO NOT PAY.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

It is possible to estimate with fair accuracy whether moving will be financially profitable or not.

"Will it be cheaper to move or pay the increase in rent where we are?"

To answer definitely this perplexing question so often asked this time of the year first get an estimate from the moving company. If they will give you a contract figure, use that; if they submit only a rough estimate, add at least 10 per cent. for possible increase so as to be on the safe side. Add to this other labor costs such as cleaning and decorating. Add also money needed for renewals that pertain strictly to the move—new curtains because the old ones will not fit, and such items.

Get the sum of all this and divide by twelve. That spreads the cost of the move over one year. Add this one twelfth to the proposed monthly rental and see how it compares with the rentals now being paid.

In making this comparison consider also any savings, such as in transportation to and from work, and any advantage to health, happiness or comfort. You will then be able to make an intelligent decision as to whether the proposed move is wise.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY LOCAL ORIENTALS

The officers of Cyzicus Sanctorum No. 24 O.O. H. & P. were duly installed into their several stations on Friday evening last, for the year ending December 31, 1924, by District Deputy Supreme Monarchos Frank Wise, and his installing Sheiks, viz:

G. H.—Walter Byers.
V.G.H.—George Crowe.
Registrar—W. F. Green.
Banker—Edward Norman.
V.F.—C. C. Mowry, P.G.H.
G.M.—S. C. Kerneghan.
G.C.G.—J. A. Vance.
G.H.—J. C. Ellis.
G.H.E.—J Price.
I.K.—G. East.
C. of P.—M. Morgan.
Br.—C. Taylor.

Splendid music was rendered during the evening by Tribesmen Harold Follis and Matt Drysdale, with Tribesman Alex Dick in charge of the singing.

The attendance was large, every seat in the hall being occupied, several of the Tribesmen from the Oasis of Millbrook, having made the trek here.

O.O.H. & P.

Four Neophytes made the Pilgrimage across the Desert during the evening, and having subscribed to all the laws, ancient customs and usages were given the rank of Tribesmen.

D.D.S.M. Frank Wise had a pleasant duty to perform when he called P.G.H. Chester C. Mowry to the front, and presented him on behalf of the Officers and Tribesmen of Cyzicus Sanctorum with a handsome retiring Chief Officers Jewel, suitably engraved.

A "Moon Feast" was then in order, and the Sheiks and Tribesmen did ample justice to the good things provided, after which came cards and billiards, being the end of a perfect treck, having lived up to the motto of the order "We Never Sleep."

JAPAN GETS NAUEN RADIO.

OSAKA, Japan, Jan. 26.—(Associated Press).—An arrangement has been made between a representative of the German Government and the Japanese communications department by which wireless messages from the Nauen station in Germany will be received by the Hirano station near here.

It is understood that the latter station will be used principally to receive German press messages. The Hirano station is purely a receiving one.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

Take advantage of the aavertisements and get real value

THE CANADIAN CLUB MEETING

The Speaker Was Rev. Stuart Parker of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club held yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Public Library, when an address on "Bygone Church Life in Scotland" was given by the Rev. Stuart C. Parker, B.D., rector of Old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Parker, a young, dark Scotsman, with a broad roll to his tongue, gave an entertaining and dryly humorous talk on the manner of worship and some of the old Church customs of the Scotch Church. Alluding briefly to the thousand years of church life in Scotland which preceded the Reformation, when church life was represented mainly by the monastic orders instituted by St. Columba, "those establishments like huge industrial schools where the monks, under the guidance of the abbot, worked and prayed and studied," the speaker passed to the days of the 16th century, when everything that savored of "Popish practices," as they were called, were swept away. The discussions that raged in Scottish churches regarding extempore and "paper" sermons and prayers were mentioned, and the divisions over the use of an organ or "a kist o' whustles" in the kirk, which caused it to be said that more discord was produced in the Scotch church by its harmony than by anything else. In 1807, when St. Andrew's Church in Glasgow introduced an organ into its service, it was cited in protest to the Presbytery, and in 1863, when the pastor of Greyfriars, in Edinburgh, advocated the use of a harmonium, it "was whispered about that he was a Jesuit in disguise."

"For my part," said the speaker, "I look forward to the day when all the arts of man will be put, as they once were, to the service of God."

The "stiff matter" of the old-time sermons, and their length, often exceeding two hours, was considered by the speaker as the undoubted reason for the outstanding mental development and rugged constitution of the Scotch people, and might also, he thought, have been a cause of the sleeping in kirk which necessitated the presence of a beadle with a red staff, who had power to remove "sleepers and greetin' bairns."

The old kirk session had great power and authority, which was exercised rigorously. It was formerly a court of the realm, like the present-day assizes, and such matters as the behavior of the congregation, the dress of the women, snuff-taking by the men, certain amusements, were watched with careful eyes and severe penalties imposed for infractions of kirk rules. Excommunication was the severest penalty, and public penances, such as standing in a coarse cloak at the church door, or standing on a stool facing the congregation, or remaining immured for the space of the sermon in the "jag" at the door, the cage in which an offender was locked by an iron chain, the pillory, the scold's bridle, the tarring of delinquents, were imposed. The prime offence was offering or attending a Catholic Mass, but there were other misdemeanors whose punishment by fine replenished the poor relief funds such as that of a miller milling corn on the Sabbath, or a fisherman mending his nets, a farmer working on his land, or persons idling and gossiping on the Lord's Day. Elders remained away from Divine service for the purpose of visiting homes and finding non-attendants at church, whose fines ranged all the way from six shillings and eightpence for a gentleman to three shillings and fourpence for a servant. Immorality was punished by public exposure and witchcraft by tarring, ducking or even death. Marriage festivities were also regulated by the session, and in some places, the presence of a piper forbidden, and one Glasgow youth of those early times was haled before it for failing to tip his bonnet to his father.

One of the outstanding beliefs of the early church in Scotland, as it still is of the Presbyterian Church, although not observed very generally, was that of giving all publicity possible to infant baptism.

Before the beginning of the 18th century, there were no pews in churches. One brought one's own stool, or did without. When the custom came into vogue, the pew was provided by those desiring it, and a rent paid for the floor space occupied. In 1735, John Porter was fined for pushing James Cobham from his seat in kirk and twisting his nose.

The wrath of the minister often descended in vigorous language on the head of those who failed to make a proper contribution to the collection plate. "Oh, that I could hear the pennies bellowing into the plate with one-half the noise your boots make on the floor of the kirk. Your coppers are strangers in a far country, and as for silver or gold,—oh, let us pray," was the wail of one divine of the time, while another, Dr. Dabster, fulminated against his people: "You're a fine lot. Ask your consciences and they will tell you. Twa miserable shillings and ninepence! Do you think you can pay your passage to Canaan, to the Promised Land, with twa shillings and ninepence, you miserable wretches!"

But it was not for themselves, but for the weaker brethren who might fall a prey to the harsh and bustling times that they asked, declared the speaker, who recited from an old record book of 1617 such charitable entries as: November, "six shillings to a poor man with a sore hand"; April, "five shillings given to a man who had a testimonial that he had been robbed by pirates"; December, "ten shillings to the poor woman called the Daft lady."

A very hearty vote of thanks for a much-appreciated lecture was tendered Rev. Mr. Parker by Miss A. Lancaster, president of the society.

WOMEN FACE TASK OF JAIL REFORM

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Man's invention, woman's cure.

That, in a phrase, is the prospect of prison reform and correction set before women of the country by B. Ogden Chisholm, just appointed international prison commissioner by President Coolidge.

"One of the greatest opportunities for service offered to women, now that they have the vote and can assert themselves politically, is to take up the reform of our prison system," Chisholm says. And he elaborates:

"Prisons are institutions invented by women, and they are shouting for woman's influence and woman's sense of justice and humanity."

His Hobby.

For years Chisholm has devoted his time and a large part of his fortune toward betterment of prison conditions and he is convinced that only when the women of the country awaken to existing abuses will a really worthwhile reform be possible.

"Because man commits a crime is no reason why he should be put on the human scrap heap," he says. "When the State takes him in charge every effort should be made to change him from a useless liability to a constructive asset."

This is what woman can do to contribute her share of helping toward prison reform:

No Sympathy.

"Visit the nearest jail," explains Chisholm. "See the number of boys incarcerated for small offenses. Seven out of every 10 men in jails are under 40—just at the time of life when they should be most productive.

"One glimpse of the dark, smelly cells, and at the unsanitary conditions that prevail would convince a woman that she has a responsibility toward every other mother's son as well as her own.

"The really constructive help will come when every mother will realize her responsibility toard the community and the nation and instill within her children a respect for law and order and the rights of others."

BERNARD SHAW AFTER COLOR FOR NEW PLAY

LONDON, January 16 6(United Press). — So deeply did the recent victory of Labour at the polls impress George Bernard Shaw that the playwright has begun writing a play analysing "The New Demos," as manifested by the growth of the Labour movement.

Shaw is busy gathering material for the pieces, to furnish him with a close-up of the new Labour Sidney Webb, one of the intellectuals of the Labour Party, is giving on Wednesday to Shaw and David Kirkwood, the intractable Socialist member of Parliament from the Clyde.

Shaw expects that Kirkwood, one of the most hard-boiled of the Labourites, will provide him with plenty of colour.

Banks throughout the country have approximately $1,700,000,000 invested in public utilities.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Tongue Shows if Bilious, Constipated

Hurry Mother! Even a fretful, peevish child loves the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

ANOTHER STRIKE IN CAPE BRETON

Follows Wage Cut of 20 Per Cent. by Steel Company.

SYDNEY, N.S., January 16 (Canadian Press). — Whether the present acute industrial crisis in Cape Breton arising out of the failure of the British Empire Steel Corporation and its miners to reach an agreement on wages and the consequent 20 per cent. cut put in force by the company will result in another strike there, depends largely upon the nature of the reply which John L. Lewis will make to the advices forwarded to him by the provisional officers of the Mine Workers' organisation

The majority of the mainland miners, although not affected by the wage cut, either went on strike today or have declared their intention to do so.

In Cape Breton the miners are idle, but it is regarded as merely another "idle day."

Without international support, a strike at this time of the year is regarded as almost impossible, or at least a very hazardous undertaking for the miners.

COAL MINERS CEASE.

SPRINGHILL, N.S., January 16 (Canadian Press). — Twelve hundred miners in the employ here of the Dominion Coal Company, constituent company of the British Empire Steel Corporation, ceased operations this morning, the maintenance men alone being at work.

The Springhill miners were not affected by the wage cut announced yesterday.

HYSTERIA OF JAZZ HAS STRONG HOLD ON AMERICAN GIRL

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—"The most pathetic sight in the present world is the American girl, with her charm and beauty and intellect, groping about for some niche and, failing to find it, throwing all her enthusiasm into a quest for oblivion in jazz and hysteria."

Madame Rosika Schwimmer, lecturer and publicist of international reputation, regretfully delivers this indictment of American young womanhood. Her observations in this country, backed by her experiences with the women of the old world, put her into an authentic position for criticism of her sex both here and abroad.

"The American girl of today," she says, "is a pathetic victim of hypochondria.

"She has the most wonderful advantages of intellect and freedom and opportunity, yet she is so given to hysteria that she can use none of them.

"She is still suffering from the last war and its poisons of hatred and excitement.

Misdirected Energy.

"With educational advantages unsurpassable, the American girl is dissipating her energies in trivialities. Her college life is not the quiet, absorbed period of study and contemplation and simple regime that university life is in Europe. It is a round of frivolity, with spasms of cramming and sleepless nights that wreck her sensitive nervous organism and send her out into the world a hopeless incompetent."

Madame Schwimmer is widely known for her leadership in politics and journalism in Hungary and other European capitals. She has the honor of being the first woman ever to represent her country at a foreign post, having spent several years as Hungarian ambassador to Switzerland.

Yet Madame Schwimmer's renown today springs from her popularity with youth. She led young men and women in her country, and today is nicknamed "The Pied Piper of Chicago" because of the young students and artists who make her apartment a rendezvous.

Who's Independent?

Developing with the idea of economic independence uppermost in her life, she expresses surprise at the American rendition of that phrase.

"We thought we picked up the idea from you," she says. "But we are far ahead of you. It is still the exception for an American woman to pursue a profession after marriage. In Hungary, it is becoming the rule.

"American women have merely played with the idea. They like the sentimental kinds of work, such as social service. In my youth in Hungary, settlement work as a career was already passe. My country-women long ago turned to the learned professions."

AN ITALIAN SCHOLAR FELL OFF STREET CAR

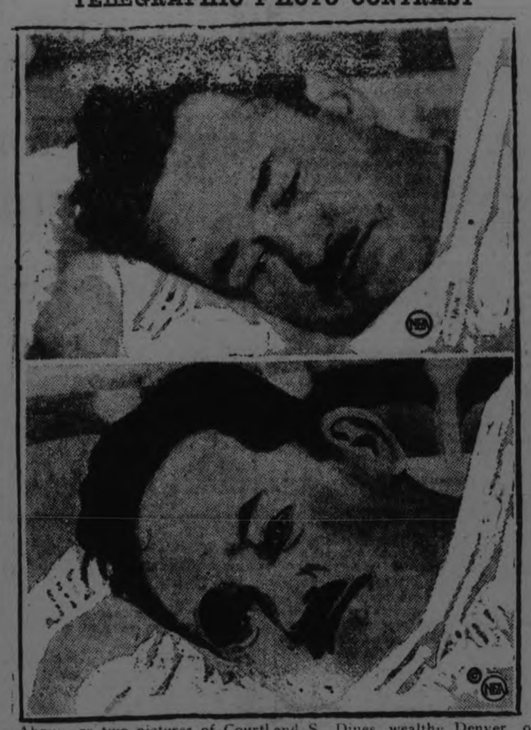
FLORENCE, January 16 (United Press). — Giovanni Papini, Italian scholar, author of the much-discussed "Life of Christ," fell from a street car here, badly injuring a toe on his right foot.

Amputation may be necessary, and Papini's proposed journey to the United States may have to be cancelled.

FOUND PORTIONS BODY STREWN ALONG TRACKS.

SUDBURY, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Portions of the human body picked up by a C.N.R. freight crew near Bayswater on Monday morning have been identified as the remains of a French-Canadian woodsman, named Larose. Pieces of the legs, arms and torso were found near Bayswater, and the skull was found yesterday west of Capreol, almost sixty miles from where the other remains were picked up.

TELEGRAPHIC PHOTO CONTRAST



Above are two pictures of Courtland S. Dines, wealthy Denver oil man, as he appeared on a hospital cot recovering from bullet wounds which police say were inflicted by Horace A. Greer, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, famous screen star. The top picture is an actual photograph received several days after the shooting. It appears in contrast with the view below, transmitted by telegraph by a new process a few hours after Dines was wounded. Note the remarkable accuracy.

SCIENTISTS CAN TELL TIME QUAKE

Not Ready to Give the Secret to the World

ROME, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—The Japanese earthquake of Tuesday was predicted almost to the hour by Professor Raffaele Bendanis of Faenza, who is about to give the world secret of his discovery of laws governing earthquakes.

United Press despatches from Rome Saturday night carried the Italian seismologist's prediction. Italian scientific circles are tremendously excited at the accurate outcome of Professor Bendanis' forecast.

The distinguished seismologist has successfully predicted every important 'quake since that of Avezzana, January 13, 1915.

The discovery is not yet sufficiently perfected so that the exact location of the forthcoming shocks can be practiced, but the Professor has never failed to give the precise time.

For several years now, Italian scientists have been following Prof. Bendani's predictions, and his extraordinary warnings of shocks that have occurred, including that which brought on the great disaster in Tokio and Yokohama last September, since last August have made his fellow seismologists unanimously loathe to deny that he actually has discovered the secret of earthquakes.

They urge him to make public his discovery, but Prof. Bendandis says that were he to do so before he has completed his work, other scientists, with better equipped observatories, would perfect the discovery and rob him of the fruits of years of search.

JOHN QUEEN CALLED IT A VULGAR DISPLAY

Pointed Remark Follows Reception by Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 16. — "A vulgar display of wealth," was how John Queen, leader of the Labor Group, described the reception held by Sir James Aiken, Lieutenant-Governor, at the Parliament Buildings when speaking in the Legislature last night. The problem of suffering in the midst of wealth was one of the most serious of the day, the Labor leader contended, and he maintained that the Labor party justified its existence in fighting to solve it.

BASKET TOSSERS PRACTICING HARD

Two full teams of basketball enthusiasts were on the floor at the "Y" last night and had a good workout in preparation for the big game with Toronto Central on Saturday night.

Langford, who has been laid up with a bad knee, was out again, and should be in shape for Saturday's game.

What with the old-timers showing lots of pep and speed and some juniors coming on nicely, there is plenty of material this year for a good team that should make some noise in O. B. A. circles.

TRIP COST NOTHING FLAT.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—When Frank Smith of Mena, Arkansas, decided that he wanted to come to Los Angeles, he loaded his wife and five children into an old-style covered wagon and started west—with cash assets of 60 cents. The wagon was drawn by a pair of burros. It took him six months to make the trip, and he arrived with his original 60 cents intact, having supported himself and family as a painter and cartoonist.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. AUXILIARY MEETING

Life Membership Certificates Presented to Mrs. Geo. Tremain and Mrs. Johnston.

The ladies of St. Andrew's W.M.S. held their first meeting of the year Tuesday afternoon in the church. Mrs. John, president, presided. A good attendance of officers and members were present, and plans for the year's work were made. Life membership certificates were presented to Mrs. Geo. Tremain and Mrs. Johnston, 435 George Street. Mrs. Stacey took the Bible study. A solo by Miss Engel was greatly enjoyed. Miss Craw gave a short talk on the "Messenger," pointing out the many interesting features of the paper. Mrs. A. McKenzie, of Knox Church, and First Vice-President of the Peterboro Presbyterial, addressed the ladies on home missions and the work of the W. M. hospitals of the Dominion. Her address was most interesting, and delivered in a wonderfully pleasing manner, which made it very enjoyable.

The hostesses of the ten circles were appointed as follows: 1st—Mrs. Geo. Lang and Mrs. Brand. 2nd—Mrs. E. R. Shirley and Mrs. Weir. 3rd—Mrs. R. Lees and Mrs. Kerr. 4th—Mrs. Henry and Mrs. J. Rae. 5th—Mrs. Geo. J. Johnson and Mrs. Wm. Zeihr. 6th—Mrs. B. Barnes and Mrs. A. Greer. 7th—Mrs. Wm. Stevens and Mrs. B. McNeely. 8th — Mrs. J. John and Mrs. M. T. Breckenbridge. 9th — Mrs. Vic. Hamilton and Miss M. Craw. 10th—Mrs. A. Weddell and Mrs. Allison.

Prize Awarded For Name For Drinker.

BOSTON, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The word chosen from more than 25,000 suggestions as the one best calculated "to stab awake the conscience of the lawless drinker" was announced last night by Delcevare King of Quincy, who offered a prize of $200 for the most suitable epithet. The word is "Scofflaw."

Y.W.C.A. ACTIVITIES.

The reds and the blues are having a contest during the next two weeks to see which side can get the most new gymnasium members. Four hundred members now enjoy the gymnasium classes but there is room for more and the aim is to bring the membership to 500. Numerous posters advertising the gymnasium have been placed in store windows. The girls are starting out very enthusiastically and are already obtaining results. This is a good time to join as new work is being taught. You are invited to come in during the two weeks and watch the classes. We know you will want to join.

The Community singing club had a very pleasant evening last week when they met for their first practice. The leaders of the class are anxious to make this class a real help and something worth while. Every girl is invited every Tuesday 7.00-8.00 o'clock.

The Home Nursing class starts this week and will meet each Thursday from 7.30-9.30 for a twelve weeks course. The course is very complete and helpful. Mrs. E. H. Wood will be the leader and will be assisted by doctors of the city. Full particulars can be obtained at the Y.W.C.A. office.

Wednesday—4.15, Boys Gym Class; 5.30, Junior Aesthetic Dancing class; 6.30, Western Clocks Basket Ball; 7.30, Cumjoynus Club; 7.30, Cheerio Club; 8.00, United Club.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE MEETINGS

Aims and Objects Defined at Montreal Gathering

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—To become the strongest arm of the church in Canada by fulfilling the wishes of bishops of clergy, to restore men to discipline and self control and to reconcile women to the home and its duties.

These aims of the Catholic Women's League of Canada as outlined last night by Mrs. W. H. Lovering, of Hamilton, National President of the League, who spoke here before local members. Mrs. Lovering pointed to another goal, farther off, but not impossible, "the coming of that glorious dawn when nation shall no longer march against nation, and federation of the world will consider wrong done to its weakest member as an injury to all."

FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY HELD

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin Celebrated on Monday.

A very enjoyable evening was spent Monday, Jan. 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin, 193 River Road, the event being the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. About thirty-five of their friends and relatives gathered to honor the occasion and an enjoyable time was had by all.

A dainty supper was served, after which music was the feature of the evening. Many beautiful gifts, including flowers and a purse of gold were given with the following address. The presentation was made by Miss Alma Tobin and Thomas Tobin, Jr.:

"Dear Father and Mother,—It is not often that children are lucky enough to be able ot congratulate their parents on the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, but such is our happy fortune to-day, and when I say that we are here to offer you our heartiest congratulations, you will understand our very warmest love and gratitude goes with it.

We could not let the celebration of this occasion pass without offering you some small token of our respect and regard and hope you will accept this purse of gold, not because of any value it may have, but because it is a slight outward sign of the deep respect and love of your friends and relatives.

We are thankful to a kindly Providence for having spared you for so many years to be amongst us, and we all join in wishing you many more years of health and happiness.

Signed on behalf of your affectionate friends and relatives.

Alma and Tom.

After the address and presentation were made, Mr. Thomas Tobin, Sr., made a very suitable reply in which both he and Mrs. Tobin showed their appreciation for the lovely gifts and kindness shown.

SEES SETTLEMENT OF CHURCH FIGHT

HALIFAX, Jan. 16. Canadian Press —Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, arrived here this morning from New York. When interviewed concerning the controversy raging in the United States between the Fundamentalists and the Modernists, he said that "as long as we poor humans are fallible" such discussions would come up. He also said there were many earnest men on both sides, otherwise they would not be as eager as they are. He said that they would eventually settle the matter wih complee satisfacion to themselves and all concerned.

CALLS REV. SHIELDS THOUGHTLESS CRITIC

STRATFORD, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Chancellor H. P. Whidden, of McMaster University, who was in the city last night and addressed a gathering at the Ontario Baptist Church, declared in an interview that Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University, did not propose to deny the charges of Rev. T. T. Shields, of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto.

Dr. Faunce, he said, considers the stand taken by the Senate of the University yesterday as justification of his position.

In Chancellor Whidden's opinion Dr. Shields is more or less "thoughtless critic," desiring the limelight, and apt to become "hot-headed."

HER CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

This is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It starts with fever and cough. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms, vomiting follows, and sometimes there is nose bleed; the child turns livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems eminent till relief is brought on by the "whoop."

Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phelgm and in this way ease the racking cough, and in a short time make is disappear.

Mrs. L. Ambrose, Sarnia, Ont., writes:—"My little ones were both sick with whooping cough. I read where Dr. Wood 's Norway Pine Syrup was good, and I only used two bottles and they were better. I had chronic bronchitis for three years and tried everything until, finally, I got 'Dr Wood's'. I would not be without this remedy."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE MISSING BALLOONS

"Why, you're not the two little boys I gave my balloons to."

Nancy and Nick and Tom Tinker hurried down Broom street past Wheelbarrow lane on down past Jack's new house and the Pieman's shop, and pretty soon they came to the place where the street melted away, you might say, into a sort of big field.

And honestly, it did seem as though the whole world was there to see the circus come in. Certainly nearly everybody in Daddy Gander Land, except the mothers who were trying to get the housework done up so everybody could go to the performance in the afternoon. And, oh, yes, the daddies who were busily working to make enough money to send their families to the performance in the afternoon.

Great golden wagons with marvelous pictures painted on the sides went rumpity, rump, thumpity, thump went rumpity, rump, thumpity, thump! over the bumpy places, teams of black and white horses were being unhitched and led away to be fed, lemonade stands were being set up, and side-shows with pictures that would take your breath away almost, were getting fixed up. The sword-swallower and snake-charmer and knife-thrower and the fat lady and living skeleton and tatooes man were to be in them.

And above all was the delightful terrifying roar of the lions, and all sorts of sounds you could hear, but not see—I mean see what they were coming from. But the elephants were right out in plain view. Nobody could hide them, or the camels, or the last yard and a half of the giraffes, which stuck up and out of their cages, like church steeples. Really it was almost as good as being inside the big tent, and there was so much to see it was no wonder that the three children forgot about the lost Tweedles, Dum and Dee, for a minute or two.

Indeed it was quite by accident that they remembered. It was this way. A balloon-man took Nick and Tom by the shoulders. "Say, there, you two. Where did you put my two bunches of balloons? Have you lost them or sold them out?"

"Lost!" Their errand popped into their heads at the word, and the thought of poor Missez Tweedle at home worrying.

"Why, you're not the two little boys I gave my balloons to, to hold for me!" exclaimed the balloon-man in surprise. "I beg your pardon. I wonder where those two little fellows went? One had on a red stocking-leg cap and the other had on a blue stocking-leg cap. Did you see them?"

"Why, we are hunting for them, too!" cried Nancy. "They're wanted at home."

"Well, well, well!" said the balloon-man. "I gave each of them a big bunch of balloons and I'll have to have them back pretty soon. What do you say if we all go and hunt? Come along! They can't be far away!"

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

MONEY AS A HEALTH ASSET

About 90 per cent of the people don't know why they are really healthy. Making a person healthy is first of all teaching him to thoroughly understand nature's laws.

People do not willfully expose themselves to germs or disease, when they know how to avoid these dangers. One of the first aids to a normal functioning body organism is a contented state of mind.

No one condition, upon which this mental state rests as a good foundation, tends to produce this desired state more than one's finances. The amount of money you have or are saving for a rainy day or old age, the ability to give financial advantages to those you love or in fact the feeling you have within your body that you are on the way to health by the money route, assures your protection in case of sickness.

In other words, it is really true that your health does to a great extent depend on your freedom from the worry of money matters. The poor are often healthier than the rich, but that is not the real question at issue. How many do you know who are half sick or in the doldrums of despair on account of financial worries?

Worry or nervous condition does more to break down your constitution or body health than you imagine. This is not a bank "ad," but a few facts from the U. S. Census may help you get an idea that many of our people are far from good health.

Nineteen out of 20 who are in ordinary business occupations, do not provide for old age. Eight million women in America have to work for a living. Thirty-five per cent of widows are in actual want. Ninety per cent of children who enter school leave for work before finishing the eighth grade. Fifty-four men out of 100 who are working at the age of 25, will be dependent on someone else at 65.

If you value your health, try and put your financial worries at ease. It would be a great health asset.

ROBBED A BANK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. — Canadian Press.)— Six bandits held up and robbed the Lansing State Bank at Lansing Ills., a suburb near Hammond, Indiana, to-day, shot and perhaps fatally wounded John Beckman, lumberman of Hammond, who tried to prevent their escape, and fled with $7,500.

"Serves You Right, Sir William!" Say the Beauties

Why the Famous English Artist Gets Precious Little Feminine Sympathy Over the Rejection of His Very Strange War Painting

Even the charms of Miss Eleanor Boardman cannot make Sir William Orpen change his opinion that there are no really beautiful women

Sir William Orpen's rejected painting, "To the Unknown British Soldier in France," which some critics think an inspiring masterpiece and others pronounce a flippant insult to the nation's fighting men

Miss Virginia Gyberson, an American model, whose claims to anything like perfect beauty the English artist denies along with those of all the rest of womankind

FEW pictures have ever aroused such a stormy controversy as "The Unknown British Soldier in France," the canvas which Sir William Orpen, the great English artist, was commissioned to paint for the Imperial War Museum and which the museum has indignantly refused to accept.

The painting shows the entrance to the gorgeous Hall of the Mirrors at Versailles, where the peace treaty was signed, with two winged cherubs hovering in the air.

On the floor, in the midst of all this magnificence, rests a coffin. It is guarded by two emaciated, ghost-like British soldiers wearing metal trench helmets and ragged, dirt-covered uniforms. They stand with rifles extended on either side of the coffin in strangely unlifelike attitudes.

The showing of this extraordinary painting has split the art world into two bitterly opposed camps. Its admirers pronounce it the noblest of tributes to the sufferings the soldiers underwent and at the same time a powerful protest against the wickedness of war.

On the other hand critics of equal distinction declare the Imperial War Museum was perfectly justified in rejecting the picture. It is, they say, a ridiculous piece of flippancy and a positive insult to every soldier who served his country during the great war.

Millions of women, regardless of what their real opinions of the merits or demerits of the picture may be, are doubtless not at all sorry to hear it roundly denounced and to see Sir William refused the $10,000 he was to have had for painting it.

Particularly those women who are rather proud of their beauty of face and figure will think it serves the painter "jolly well right" to have the work on which he spent nine months of patient effort denied the place of honor it was intended to occupy.

Of all the world's artists probably none is held in less esteem by the beauties of England, America and every other nation than Sir William Orpen. For he is the man who recently had the audacity to state that he has yet to see a really pretty woman.

In view of such an ungallant statement as this is it any wonder that he is getting precious little feminine sympathy in the controversy his "Unknown Soldier" has stirred up?

"In all my twenty-five years of painting," Sir William has said, "I have never seen a perfect model or a really pretty woman. I have seen photographs of the winners of beauty contests and I have paid particular attention to the women of the stage and the films, and I have yet to find one whom I consider really beautiful."

Yet Sir William would admire a beautiful woman as much as anybody if he could only find one, and he is continually searching for a female of the species who approaches his ideals of beauty.

Not long ago he made an extended tour of the United States and Canada largely for the purpose of discovering if possible a really lovely girl or woman. But he was sadly disappointed. He sailed back to England feeling that the reports he had heard of the profusion of feminine beauty that is to be found on the North American continent were grossly exaggerated.

Another model whom almost everybody except Sir William would call a great beauty

He admits that his conception of beauty is a most exacting one, but still he thinks the standard he has set is not at all impossible to attain.

In past generations he believes there may have been almost as many surpassing beauties as the poets would have us believe. But changing conditions of life have steadily decreased their numbers, until to-day, in spite of the earnest search he has made throughout the length and breadth of the earth, he is unable to find even one.

There is a slim chance, he thinks, of woman's regaining the beauty that was once hers so long as automobiles continue to be the popular means of getting about. He believes the automobile is depriving women more and more of the physical exercise which they need in order to look their best, and on its use he blames the steady decline in their attractiveness which he has noted in the last few years.

Constant motoring, he says, is making women less finely proportioned, increasing the size of their waistlines and giving their once graceful rounded shoulders an ugly boniness.

It is easy to see why these frankly expressed opinions should make Sir William Orpen unpopular with all those women whom the rest of the world calls beauties and why they should have chorused "It serves you right, Sir William!" when they heard how his painting had been rejected by the Imperial War Museum.

The French chef who inspired Sir William's brush as he thinks no woman ever could

The question of whether this strange picture is a worthy conception of the great theme with which it deals is one that probably never will be settled to everybody's satisfaction. It is a painting that impresses no two beholders in quite the same way.

In trying to judge the picture fairly it should not be forgotten that the artist himself saw service at the front as an official war artist during the most trying months of the struggle in France.

He says it was because of the poignant memories of his war experiences that he could not bear to fill his canvas with the frock-coated statesmen and gold-braided generals which the Imperial War Museum wanted. He was eager to give the world some adequate conception of the tremendous sacrifices made by those brave lads who now lie on the fields where they fought and to emphasize the duty of making another war impossible.

Sir William is as scornful and angry over the museum's rejection of his picture and the treatment some of the critics have given it as many of the world's women are over his failure to find even one of them beautiful.

"I agreed to paint three Peace Conference pictures for the Imperial War Museum," he says. "Two of them—the one of the conference at the Quai d'Orsay, the other of the signing of the treaty at Versailles—are already in the museum. The third was to represent a room in the Palace of Versailles called the 'Hall of Peace,' the room through which you enter the long 'Galerie des Glaces,' where the treaty was signed.

"It was arranged that I was to group there the politicians and generals and admirals who had won the war. I made studies of them; I painted the room, and then I grouped the whole thirty-nine or whatever number was in the room. It took me nine months' incessant painting; hard work. And then, you know, I couldn't go on.

"It all seemed so unimportant, somehow, beside the reality as I had seen it and felt it when I was working with the armies. In spite of all these eminent men, I kept thinking of the soldiers who remain in France forever. Whether the Hall of Peace deserves its title or not, it must deserve it in future only so far as they gave it.

"So I rubbed all the statesmen and commanders out, and painted the picture as you see it—the Unknown British Soldier in France, guarded by two dead comrades.

"The long dark room behind them is the hall where the treaty was signed. The cherubs? Well, I should not call them cherubs, nor did I feel that they conflicted with the mood of the picture as a whole. But, whether I was right or wrong in that, you must believe that I painted it in all seriousness and in all humility.

"I have satirized nobody, nor did I intend to set any problem. All the meaning is in the title of the picture itself. —'To the Unknown British Soldier in France.'"

But these arguments were incapable of changing the decision of the museum authorities not to give the picture a place in their collection. Sir Martin Conway, speaking for them, said:

"The painting does not show what we wished it to show—the great ones who signed the Versailles treaty. The artist has blotted out the peacemakers and substituted two skeletons of soldiers, guarding a plain pine coffin of their buddy, in the Hall of Mirrors."

Sir William is not at all worried over the loss of the $10,000 he was to have been paid for the painting. He is believed to have received much more than this for some of his portraits of fashionable society men and women. And anyway he says the lesson his picture conveys is worth more than money.

Besides his inability to find a really beautiful woman, Sir William has long been noted for his unwillingness to commercialize his artistic genius.

Only a short time ago a syndicate of art dealers offered to pay him $1,000,000 if he would agree to paint the portraits of 300 American millionaires and their wives. But he refused, saying that not for any price would he bind himself to deal with sitters who might be wholly unsuited to his artistic purposes.

In spite of his radical views on modern woman's lack of beauty Sir William is no woman hater—and neither does he think the women of the present day completely ugly. He is very fond of the sex, and in the faces and figures of many women his discriminating eye frequently sees things to admire. But he has yet to find one who sums up in herself all the ravishing qualities he thinks the true beauty should have.

NORTHERN VILLAGERS' GAME LACKED FINISH

Lakefield Team Tried Hard and Persistently But Failed to Score Against the Petes Last Night—Three Braces of Brothers on the Visiting Team.

SCORE WAS 10-0.

The Peterboro intermediate O. H. A. squad had little difficulty in registering their third straight O. H.A. victory at Brock Street Rink last night, beating Lakefield 10 goals to nil, although the visitors gave every ounce they had and never stopped trying. They checked hard and persistently too, those lads from the north, and the manner in which they bunched around the puck carrier made it a tough proposition for the Petes to work away from them. The superior finish of the homesters and their flashes of snappy combination, however, enabled them to overcome the close-checking of the Northerners and their ten goal margin was earned.

Many of the spectators went away thinking the final score was 11 to 0, but although the Petes did beat Webster eleven times, there were too many blue shirts on the ice when the final tally was registered and the last counter was not allowed.

The Petes were without the services of Joe Dwyer, the veteran goaler being under the weather with a bad cold. Harry Templett, sub net guardian last season stepped into the breach in excellent style, taking care of everything that was hurled at him and making several classy stops of close-in shots.

The game did not furnish brilliant hockey at its best for the Petes started out as if they had no doubt of the final result and they never altogether hit their proper stride all night in spite of spells of fast clever stuff carried them in on top of Webster for counters. The tactics followed by the visitors who made litle attempt to play their proper positions but wandered everywhere after the puck were not conducive to spectacular playing and at times the game was decidedly ragged.

The most effective man on the Peterboro line up last night was Ray Rose, who subbing at left wing and centre, was decidedly useful in both positions, doing some nice stickhandling and shooting fast and accurately. Five of the Petes' goals were scored by him, he also got the disallowed elev..h, and he was dangerous everytime he got the rubber on the Lakefield side of centre. Ranger, Collins, Burgess and McPherson all went well on the forward line, working in some very effective passing and checking to good advantage, while Parker and McMartin were invincible as a defence, although not as successful as usual on the attack, Parker getting the only goal credited to the rear guard.

Lakefield did not lack speed or willingness and they checked hard all the way down the rink. Simpson on the defence was their most serviceable player in last night's fixture as he was in Lakefield. He is a clever stickhandler and even the good poke checking of the Peterboro forward line did not prevent him from getting away for a number of dangerous jaunts. J. Sabatino, his defence mate, used his body to good advantage and his brother Louie at centre was of material assistance. Incidentally there were three pairs of brothers on the visiting line up, the Websters, Sabatinos, and Ridpaths. F. Webster performed nicely in the nets.

The game was admirably handled by Dr. J. W. LaFlamme, who missed nothing in the way of offsides or illegitimate tactics.

The line ups:

Lakefield.

Goal—F. Webster.
Defence—Simpson, J. Sabatino.
Centre—L. Sabatino.
Left wing—Blewett.
Subs—C. Ridpath, W. Webster.

Peterboro.

Goal—Templett.
Defence—McMartin, Parker.
Centre—Collins.
Right wing—Burgess.
Letf wing—Ranger.
Subs—Rose, McPherson.

It was ragged hockey at the start. The visitors were checking close and as the Petes didn't seem to be worrying very much about the ultimate result the first ten minutes produced little excitement. In fact there were only two or three shots on the nets and Lakefield had them from well outside and easy for Templett. It was not until Ray Rose was interjected into the game, half way through the period, that the Petes started to press. He started off by rocking Webster with a wicked shot and came right back with another that beat the Lakefield goalie for the first counter. Scotty McPherson who came on with Rose got Marker No. 2 when he stickhandled through the Lakefield defence, and although tripped, managed to tip the rubber past Webster. Just before the period ended McMartin and J. Sabatino were benched together and J. Ridpath followed for butt-ending Collins.

The second period started with the Petes playing five men to foru but nothing happened until the sides were even again. Then Ranger was chased. Parker scored on a rebound but the play was called back for an offside. Collins drew a penalty for chopping just after Ranger finished his sentence, but playing one man short the Petes increased their lead on a beautiful rush by Parker, who stickhandled in close and scored. Webster stopped the first shot but Parker made sure on the rebound.

Webster pulled off a spectacular stop a moment later on a high shot by McPherson. The Petes were doing the bulk of the attacking at this stage and although McMartin was relegated to the hoosegow for tripping Simpson, Collins put the blue shirts further in front when he sailed down alone and beat Webster with a bullet-like drive from well out on which the Lakefield net guardian did not have a chance to save.

Nothing happened in the next couple of minutes except penalties to Rose for cross-checking and L. Sabatino for slashing.

Burgess made it 5 to 0 after a nice rush by Parker, who skated into the corner and passed out in front to the right wing player who scored easily.

McMartin and J. Sabatino were the next culprits to go to the penalty box.

Before the period ended the Petes rang up two more markers, Rose supplying the final punch in each case. Burgess started the first rush, passed to Collins who transferred to Rose and the latter went in close to beat Webser. On the next play, another Collins to Rose effort, Webster was beaten at short range. As the period ended J. Sabatino crashed McMartin into the boards at the end of the rink and the Petes' defence man hurt his elbow. He was back in the game, however, when the last period started.

Ranger put the Petes eight to the good early in the final period when by neat stickhandling he worked his way into the mouth of the net for a shot that gave the visiting goalie no chance.

Rose made it 9 to 0 two minutes later when he took a pass from Collins close in and scored without any difficulty.

The ice began to get sticky at this stage and the next ten minutes saw indifferent hockey. It began to look as if 9 to 0 would be the final count but Rose ran the score up to double figures by tearing inside on a nice individual effort and slanting one by Webster.

McMartin and J. Ridpath were benched for mixing it and by mistake Rose was sent out by the Petes. He scored again before it was discovered the homesters had too many men on the ice but the counter was not allowed. Time was called immediately after.

Summary.

First Period—
1 Peterboro—Rose, 12 mins.
2 Peterboro—McPherson, 4 mins.

DR. W. J. CARSON NOW BETWEEN TWO FIRES

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. W. J. Carson, star hockey player, did not turn out with St. Patricks, professional hockey team, at practice here yesterday morning, and the last turn to the case is that the local National Hockey League Club intends to take out an injunction prohibiting him from playing with Grimsby O. H. A. intermediate team.

Carson, according to officials of St. Pats, agreed to a three-year contract several days ago and promised to turn out for practice yesterday. He als accepted seventy dollars advance money for equipment. Yesterday he changed his mind and offered to return equipment.

St. Pats have acquainted Ontario Hockey Association with particulars.

HOCKEY NEWS.

Orillia defeated St. Pats Monday night in a fast game of hockey, by the score of 2 to 0.

The game was fast and clean, few penalities being handed out. Both teams were in great shape, and went the full sixty minutes at top speed. The ice was in perfect condition, being hard and fast.

Father Boutler handled the bell to the satisfaction of both teams.

The St. Pats team was formerly called Deanard's team and Orillia was formerly called O'Keefe's team.

EXONERATED IN RING FATALITY

Bud Taylor Freed From Blame For the Death of Frankie Jerome in New York Bout.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The exoneration of Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., bantamweight boxer, from blame in connection with the death of Frankie Jerome, who was knocked out by Taylor last Friday night at Madison Square, concluded the investigation into the boxer's death to-day.

Taylor was exonerated after an hour's examination by Assistant District Attorney Morgan A. Jones, in charge of the Homicide Bureau. Yesterday a verdict of accidental death had been rendered after an autopsy.

Taylor testified that after the eleventh round of the fight, when Jerome was floored for the first time, Taylor's manager, Eddie Long, warned him not to strike any more blows to the head. Taylor said he complied with these instructions, the knockout coming in the twelfth and last round after a series of punches to the body.

LOCAL BASKETEERS PREPARE FOR GAME

A Picked Team From Toronto Here Next Saturday Night.

The good showing of the local basket ball tossers against the strong Chicago team has given a great impetus to the game here. There was a good bunch out to practice last night and some fast team work and shooting practice was put over.

A picked team from the Central Y.M.C. Toronto will meet the locals next Saturday night and from the form of the local boys have shown they should have a good chance to win out.

PORT HOPE WON CURLING GAMES

Ice Became Heavy and Play-Off Was Postponed For Later Date.

COBOURG, Jan. 15.— Colborne, Port Hope, Oshawa and Cobourg Curling Clubs were each represented by two rinks here to-day in the play off of the local Ontario Tankard group. In the first round H. Rosevear of Port Hope, was one down in his game with I. Edwards of Colborne, but W. Oke, of Port Hope, defeated H. S. Fowler of Colborne, by six shots, which gave the Hopers a lead of five on the round. In the Oshawa-Cobourg games, both Horse Show town rink were up on the Motor town for the total of five shots. At the conclusion of these games the ice became so heavy that Port Hope and Cobourg mutually agreed to play off at a later date. The following were the rinks and score by ends of to-day's games:

A SPANIARD IN THE RING

Many Nationalities Represented in Makeup of Fistic Scroll.

Senor Goozeman Makes Progress in Featherweight Division.

BY JOE WILLIAMS.

The prize fighting urge is cosmopolitan. No one nationality has a monopoly on the ambition to swing a mighty left, or duck a vicious right. Panco Villa, for instance, came from the Phillippines to win the flyweight title. Jack Dempsey is Irish, Benny Leonard Jewish, Harry Greb German and Firpo is a South American.

You find few Mexicans and fewer Spaniards in the fighting game. A Spaniard who is making impressive gestures in the ring today is Ernie Goozeman, a 122-pounder, who fights under the colors of Larry Lichtenstein of Chicago, Goozeman, christened Miquel de Gluzmann, was born of Spanish parents who immigrated to California from the romantic city of Seville some some years ago.

Goozeman has twice won the bantamweight championship of Australia, and has beaten many of the tough ones in his class in this country. One of his noteworthy performances was a knockout victory over Joe Sangor, featherweight pride of Milwaukee. Sangor has just won from Sammy Mandell and was very much in the fistic spotlight when Goozeman came along and smacked him to sleep in the first round.

ERNIE GOOZEMAN.

It isn't likely that Goozeman will ever win the title; he is a slam-bang gent who swings from all angles, and with great fury. But being a Spaniard he is at least a novelty.

Joe Rivers, lightweight of note some years back, was always called a Mexican, yet he was mostly Spanish. Probably the greatest Spanish fighter ever known to the ring was Daniel Mendoza, a real old-timer who was part of the early ring history in England. Mendoza fought at 160 pounds. Aurelio Herrera, lightweight, was the greatest Mexican the ring ever saw. Much better than Rivers, the Spanish-Mexican. Benny Chavez, bantamweight, another Mexican, was just a fair fighter.

Joe Azevedo, lightweight, was one of the few Portuguese to attain distinction in the ring. George Chipulonis, better known as Chip, was the only Tetewanian ever to win a title. Chip won the middleweight championship only to lose it to Al McCoy, an unknown, in a round. Knockout Brown of Chicago and Theo Antonpoulis (Aton the Greek) were two Greeks who picked up more than one stray purse in the ring. Rudy Unholtz, a lightweight, was born at Mannheim-on-theRhine.

John Gutenko—you knew him as Kid Williams—came from Copenhagen, Denmark, to win the bantamweight title. Youg Griffo and Bob Fitzsimmons, two of the immortals, were Australians. Joe Walcott, probably the greatest 145-pounder that ever lived, came from Barbadoes, West Indies.

Italian, French and English fighters have been numerous. But Spaniards and Mexicans in the ring have been rarities.

It will be interesting to see how far young Mr. Goozeman goes, or comes, as the direction may be.

JUNIORS LOST LINDSAY GAME LAST EVENING

Score Was Close and the Visitors Gave the Lindsay Team a Bad Scare.

SCORE WAS 3 TO 2.

LINDSAY, Jan. 16.— Hockey fans who went to Lindsay rink last night expected to see their local juniors step into the Petes and give them the short end of a big score, but they witnessed the battle of their lives on a keen sheet of ice when the Peterboro puck chasers managed to hold the Lindsay aggregation to a one goal lead. When the final gong sounded the Petes had the short end of a 3 to 2 score. Although they were beaten by a very fast and husky gang of players they were not out played in any stage of the game. They also had less penalties against them than the grey birds.

Lindsay came along with a clever gang of stick handlers and back checkers, good goal keeper and a fast and husky pair of defence men that seemed tireless. They went home a happy gang and they are confident of giving the Petes a real battle on the Brock Street Rink, while the Petes are confident of winning the next argument on home ice.

One Man Style

During every stage of the game every man gave his best. The Petes started rush after rush but mostly the one man style that does not get very far on the long run. The Lindsay Midgets checked like fiends and broke away frequently giving the Petes net guardian, Lou LeBarr many hot shots to handle.

The Petes defence pair Mulholland and Holland stood up in front of LeBarr like a stone wall and after several unsuccessful attempts to break through the Greybirds changed their tactics and shot mosty from outside the defence, and followed in fast to obtain the rebound. The net result of this method was that they succeeded in getting one of their counters from a rebound. Both goalies played a first class game and saved the day a dozen times when it looked like a sure goal.

The result was that both teams had registered once at the end of the first period and the score stood 3-2 for Lindsay at the end of the second and third perios.

The homesters hit their stride in the second period and showed a little more combination.

Although they combined several times and swept down the ice, Lehane, the Lindsay net guardian, cleared shot after shot and seemed almost unbeatable until 19 minutes of this session was gone when Mulholland made a beautiful rush. He outskated the forwards and stickhandled through the defence and tore into the corner of the net from close in, giving Lehane little chance to save. The Lindsay aggregation were also giving LeBarr a busy time in the nets and their net result when the gong sounded was two counters to the Petes' one, making the score 3-2, where it remained for the rest of the game.

The Third Period.

The third period was fast and furious with both teams giving all they had, but neither succeeded in bulging the twine and the score stood, Lindsay 3, Peterborough 2.

The Lindsay team's best asset was their ability to check. They were all over the ice at once and the Petes found it almost impossible to shake them off. They took no chances to let the homesters run loose and backed up by Lehane in the nets, their close checking was very effective. Offensively the Greybirds were also very fast. Fortier, the big defence man, was very dangerous on his frequent rushes. Piercy, the little left wing man, was the neatest and fastest player of the Lindsay aggregation, while Mills at centre was also very useful.

For the Petes, McDougal, although he did not register, put up a splendid game. He was on the firing line all the time and he gave Lehane a busy night, although he was handicapped with a turned edge on his skate which he received when he collided with Fortier early in the first period. Three different times he stick-handled through the whole Lindsay team and fell when he went to shoot in front of the nets as a result of this skate ,and did not get his shot. McDougal although he is far from being in shape, showed speed and skill in every period of the game.

Mulholland and Holland the local defence men, turned in a good game and their rushes were always dangerous. The rest of the gang also played good hocke yand stayed on the ice. LeBarr in the nets, was a mate for Lehane, both turning in an excellent game.

A fair crowd turned out to see the game, which was handled by Coombs in good style.

The teams and summary:

Peterborough—Goal, LeBarr; defence, Mulholland and Holland; centre, Williams; right wing, N. Collins; left wing, H. Cheu. Subs, McDougal and L. Collins.

Lindsay— Goal, Lehane; defence, Fortier and Anderson; centre, Mills; right wing, Hamilton; left wing, Piercy. Subs, Wildman and O'Leary.

First Period.

Mulholland rushed and shot a fast one from outside the defence, but Lehane cleared handily. Piercy tested LeBarr with a hot close-in shot on which LeBarr made a beautiful save. Five minutes after the opening gong sounded, Williams skated down centre ice and went close in, he made a beautiful pass to N. Collins who batted it in for the first counter. Five minutes later Piercy scored after a lone rush. He carried the puck close in and bored a fast one into the corner of the net. The teams rushed and checked hard and cleverly for the rest of this frame, both teams breaking about even on the play without a score. Score, 1—1.

Second Period.

Hamilton nearly fluked one in from a scrimmage in front of the Petes 'gaol but LeBarr rushed out and saved. Mills and Hamilton combined for a nice rush but they did not get past Mulholland. LeBarr was warned for slashing Mills behind the net. In three minutes Mills scored Lindsay's second counter after a lone rush after he fooled the Peterborough defence pair by a fake shot and then closed in on LeBarr, giving him no chance to saw Anderson was benched for tripping Williams. Williams made a nice rush but missed the net. Holland was chased for riding Wileman. Collins and Cheu combined for a nice rush, Cheu taking a pass from L. Collins, but the goalie saved. After about 15 minutes of battling without a score, Fortier broke away for a rink end rush. He shot a fast one from outside the defence, which LeBarr saved, but he followed in fast and batted in the rebound.

One minute later Mulhollan1 took a long jaunt down the ice and tore one into the corner of the net from close in after he had fooled the defence. Anderson broke away for a nice rush but missed the net.

Piercy was chased for hooking Holland. Mills and Hamilton combined in a nice rush, Hamilton taking a pass from Mills, but he missed the target.

Fortier was benched for tripping L. Collins. Holland made a beautiful rush but he lost puck in front of the net.

Score 3-2.

Third Period.

The third period was the fastest period of the game with the Petes getting a little the best of it. Both goal keepers had plenty to do in this session while their team mates cehck ed hard.

Mills was hurt when Williams' skate hit him in the leg in a collision.

Collins in breaking away crossed in front of the net, losing the puck, but LeBarr rushed out and checked Mills as he went to shoot. Lehane saved the game in this period for Lindsay when he stopped a number of hard shots.

Fortier was chased for bodying Williams against the boards. Williams was chased for tripping. Fortier rushed and shot a hot one at LeBarr from outside the defence, only to have LeBarr block it. McDougall carried the puck down centre ice, circled the defence, and drilled one at Lehane, who saved. Holland and Cheu combined for a rink end rush, Cheu passing to Holland, who hit the goal post. N. Collins made a clever rush but lost the puck when he went to shoot from close in. Anderson took a long jaunt down the ice and ripped one at LeBarr, but missed. When the final gong sounded the score was Lindsay 3, and Peterboro 2.

Score by Time.

JACK RENAULT DECIDED BATTLE IN ONE ROUND

QUEBEC, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press..)— Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight champion, knocked out Al Beneck of New York, in the first round of thir scheduled ten round battle here last night after two minutes and twenty seconds of boxing.

GUELPH DEFEATED.

STRATFORD, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.)— Setting a fast pace during the last few minutes of play Stratford juniors scored 3 goals and defeated Guelph 5 to 2 here last night. During the first two periods of the game play was fairly even, with neither team having any decided advantage.

HAVELOCK WON ANOTHER GAME

Defeated Stirling By a Score of 7 to 2.

STIRLING, Jan. 16.—Havelock won its second game in the Trent Valley League last night by defeating Stirling on the latter's ice 7 to 2. Stirling was held scoreless until the final period when a gallant last stand was made and the twine bulged twice behind the Havelock goalie.

With a fine sheet of ice and a good crowd of spectators the game promised well from the starting gong and developed into a really fine display of hockey. Both teams showed up well, and the fact that Stirling was blanked in the first two periods does not indicate that the team did not play good hockey. Rather the Havelock team had a very little edge on the Stirling boys, and it proved just enough to win.

The play was noted for its cleanliness during the first two periods, but with the growing excitement in the last period the players mixed it up a little. Stirling made a gallant effort to come back in this period and gave Hooper in goal all he wanted to do in the way of saving.

Goal scorers were, for Havelock Armstrong, Quinn and Brennan, and for Stirling Whitty and Waldson.

"Phoney" Shannon of Marmora was referee.

The lineups were:

Havelock—Goal, Hooper; right defence, Quinn; left defence, D. Brennan; centre, Pollock; right wing, D. Wright; left wing, G. Wright; subs, Armstrong and Dawson.

ST. MARY'S SCORED A DOUBLE VICTORY

The Parkdale Canoe Club Teams Were Victims.

TORONTO, January 16 (Canadian Press). — St. Marys O.H.A. teams scored a double victory at the Arena last night when the Seniors outscored Parkdale Canoe Club by 2 to 1, and the Juniors beat the P.C.C. team by 5 to 4 in a game which finished after midnight.

St. Marys richly deserved the verdicts. They outplayed the Paddlers in each engagement, but P.C.C. Juniors rallied in the final period of the second game, and came within an ace of overcoming the lead.

The Saints were backed up in their own end of the rink fighting desperately to hold their opponents at bay. In this frame the Paddlers outscored the winners by 3 to 2.

PETERBORO LOST A TANKARD GAME

Fifteen-Point Drop on the Round in Lindsay Yesterday.

In the first round of the Ontario Tankard games, played by two Peterboro rinks in Lindsay yesterday, both Peterboro rinks suffered defeat J. W. McDermid's rink lost by 5 points and R. P. Best's by 10 points netting them a 15-point drop on the round.

The personnel of the two rinks was as follows: R. L. Dobbin, H. F. Foote, A. W. Archibald and R. P. Best, skip.

Alex. Dick, F. C. Weber, J. N. Bacon and J. W. McDermid, skip.

GALT WAS BEATEN IN STUBBORN GAME

Third Defeat in O. H. A. Senior Series Administered By Kitchener.

GALT, January 16 (Canadian Prses). — In what was probably the cleanest game the Galt and Kitchener teams ever played, the locals suffered their third defeat in the O.H.A. Senior series last night when they lost to Kitchener 2 to 1.

It was a stubbornly contested game, and while the brand of hockey was not brilliant, nevertheless the contest was interesting.

Galt were without the services of Lick Watts and Clarence Woods, regulars who are still suffering from injuries, and in view of this their showing was remarkable.

Josh Belcher made his debut in a Galt uniform, and played well, though lacking condition.

BELLEVILLE WON GAME.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—In one of the fastest games played here this season, Cornwall lost to Belleville 7-1 in an O. H.A. intermediate series. Belleville used a three man passing attack that completely bewildered the opposition. The winners scored four goals in the final period.

WIARTON DEFEATED PALMERSTON

PALMERSTON, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Palmerston O.H.A. Intermediate Sextet lost a hard fought game here last night to Wiarton 2 to 1.

In the first period there was no scoring. One tally each was made in the second. Two minutes after the face off in the third period Wiarton scored the winning goal.

THREE GAMES AT "Y.W" ON FRIDAY

Second Half of Basketball Schedule Begins at Eight —List of Games.

On Friday night the girls begin the second half of the basketball schedule. The standing at the end of the first half was

	Won	Lost
Y.W.C.A.	5	0
De Laval	4	1
Can. Woollens.....	3	2
Normal School....	2	3
Quaker Oats	1	4
Westclox	0	5

As the players are now familiar with the new rules there will be a struggle for top places and it is hoped there will be a good turnout to see the games.

The new schedule is as follows:

Jan. 1.—Can. Woollens vs Normals 8 p.m.; De Laval vs Quakers, 8.35 p.m.; Y.W.C.A. vs. Westclox 9.10 p.m.

PORT HOPS WON FROM TRENTON

Trenton Made a Strong Finish, Reducing Three Goal Lead in Last Period.

PORT HOPE, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Port Hope Intermediates defeated Trenton in an O.H.A. game here last night by the score of 4 to 3.

The Trenton squad made a strong finish, reducing the three-goal lead in the last period.

The locals, however, had most of the play, and had it not been for the extra good work of Newton, in the visitors' nets, the score would have been much different.

Newton saved his team often during the game, and at times it seemed a hopeless task to try and beat him.

Kingston Went Down to Brockville 9-2.

BROCKVILLE January 16 (Canadian Press). — By defeating Kingston Frontenacs here last night 9 to 2, Brockville retained second position in the local group of the O.H.A.

Kingston was dangerous only in the first period at the close of which the score stood 4 to 2.

Another goal was added in the second period, and four in the third, when Frontenacs weakened through lack of condition.

Tigers Lacked Dash in U. of T. Encounter.

HAMILTON, Ont. Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press). — In the O.H.A. Senior fixture last night at the Arena with the Tigers, University of Toronto won by the score of 4 to 1, and this about showed the difference in the play. For about three minutes after the start the Tigers showed something like form, but after that they faded badly. There was a dash to the students play that was in striking to that of the Tigers.

Fight St. Pats' Claims With Help of District.

GRIMSBY, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—"Our hat is in the ring and we will stand behind Dr. Carson to the end," is the slogan that is resounding throughout Grimsby, Beamsville and the whole fruit belt.

Professional men and laborers, merchants, manufacturers, farmers and financiers are united solidly behind the ex-University of Toronto hockey star and will fight with him morally and financially against the claims of St. Patrick's Pro hockey club for his services.

DUNNVILLE HAD FIRST

NIAGARA FALLS, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Before a crowd of 4,000 fans here last night, the local O.H.A. Intermediates worked on the long end of a 2 to 0 score in their game with Dunnville, making the first defeat of the season for the Grand Riverites.

The home team had an edge on the play at most stages.

PORT PERRY WON GAME.

PORT PERRY, Ont., January 16 (Canadian Press). — Last night's Port Perry-Uxbridge game in the O.H.A. Intermediate series attracted the largest crowd ever seen at a game in this town, and resulted in a win for the home team by 3 to 1.

Goalkeeper Deshane of the winning team played a remarkable game.

BRAMPTON DEFEATED GUELPH.

BRAMPTON, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.) —Brampton defeated Guelph in an intermediate O. H. A. game here last night, breaking a one all tie in the first overtime period.

LINDSAY JUNIORS HERE ON FRIDAY

Have a One Goal Lead But Petes Hope to Overcome the Margin.

The fans will have an opportunity on Friday night of seeing the Peterboro juniors in action for the first time this season, when they will clash with Lindsay in the second game of the junior series. The Midgets won on their own ice last night by one goal, but the Petes are hopeful of overcoming this slender lead at the Brock street rink on Friday night and setting up a margin on their own account. The two teams are playing a four-game series, games to count, so that in holding Lindsay to one goal le.. at home, the Peterboro youngsters made a good start. Those who saw last night's game in Lindsay, say that it was a corker all the way, and prophesy an even faster battle here on Friday night, as both teams have plenty of speed and the bigger ice surface iwll give them a chance to get going. The Peterboro management is tickled at the form shown by the youngsters last night and help of loyal rooting from the fans on Friday expect to see the blue shirts pull off a neat victory. It looms up like a game the fans cannot afford to miss.

STIRLING SCHOOL LOST IN MARMORA

Postponed Game in Trent Interscholastic League Ended 4-3.

MARMORA, Jan. 16.—On Monday night Stirling High School team journeyed northward to meet the local youngsters. They met, too, and it was a clean, fast game, our boys ending with a margin of 4 goals to 3. The game was scheduled for January 11, but weather conditions necessitated its postponement.

The first period was fast, but the hockey was poor, as both teams seemed too anxious. The period ended with both teams scoreless, and only one penalty was given, to Auger of Marmora.

Better team-work was displayed in the second period. Brady of Marmora made an excellent shot, scoring the first goal of the game. Stirling then started its battery working on our nets, but only one goal was scored, leaving the score 1-1 at the end of the second period. Wall and H. McGee of Stirling and C. Brady of Marmora received penalties.

In the third period Stirling got another goal, which was immediately returned by Marmora when M. Auger made a neat shot for their nets.

The fourth period was fast and furious, both teams trying to break the tie. Marmora boys had the honor of doing so, as Wells took a shot from centre ice which went right where he wished it to go regardless of the efforts of the Stirling goaly. Bailey tied it with another. With three minutes to go, the score was still 3-3 until M. Auger flopped in the winning goal, ending one of the most exciting games on Marmora ice.

The Cleveland Indians will pry off the lid in Detroit with the Tigers, while the St. Louis Browns will oppose the Whtie Sox in Chicago. The New York Yankees, world's champions, will open in Boston, and the Philadelphia Athletics will meet the Senators in Washington.

DOLLAR BOOTLEGGERS CHASED OUT OF PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 16. — (Canadain Press.)—"Dollar bootleggers" made their first appearance in Paris yesterday hanging around the bourse, banks and the booking agencies, before the opening of the exchange and offering to buy United States' dollars at prices ranging from fifty centimes to one franc above last night's official closing quotation. Plaincolthes policemen are keeping a sharp lookout fof these dealers, all of whom are declared to be foreigners, apparently from somewhere in Central Europe. They will receive free tickets to the frontier, and be escorted thence by husky guardians if they are caught in the act.

Hall promises to attract a capacity house. The preliminaries will start at 8.15 o'clock and the main bouts one hour later. At the request of a large number of fans who have engagements for the early evening, Cutt and Williams will not go on before 9.45 o'clock.

Billy Evans Says

Jim Delahanty, former big league star, who is to umpire in the American Association the coming season, was always very popular as a player. Jim may find it difficult to retain that popularity with the athletes now that he is a judge of play instead of one of them.

During his career in the American League Jim was much in favor with the arbitrators. They like his rough but always honest style.

Delahanty was in his element when he could start a friendly argument. He had a way of working up a discussion and then dropping entirely out of it when the going became heated. Often Jim would mildly protest some decision, just to see if he couldn't come out on top in the battle of wits with the umpire. In particular, Jim liked to pick on the late Tim Hurst, despite the fact that the two were the very best of friends.

I will never forget an episode that took place in the old American League park in New York, with Hurst and Delahanty as the central figures.

Jack Chesbro, the great spitball pitcher, then in his prime, was pitching for New York, Jack Kleinow was the catcher. Delahanty, with Washington at the time, was the batter. Chesbro had a very deceptive spitball that broke sharply in the last few feet it traveled. If an umpire called it too quickly he was always in trouble. With the count two balls and two strikes, Chesbro threw a spitter that Hurst ruled a ball. A couple of runners were on at the time and Chesbro and Kleinow raved at Hurst for not calling Delahanty out on strikes, which would have retired the side. Jim was always a dangerous hitter, highly respected by the American League pitchers. In an effort to Appease Chesbro and Kleinow, Hurst got himself into trouble

"I say the ball was too low," said Hurst, "so sure am I that I am right I will leave it to Delahanty. What about it, iJm?"

In matter of fact way, conveying the impression that he was bored at being drawn into the argument, Delahanty replied: "Why, you blind little bum, it was right through the heart of the plate, six inches above my knee." Delahanty simply so replied to make Hurst rave and succeeded. "Right through the heart of the plate. Well what do you think of that? Get ready, Mr. Delahanty, and take a swing at the next one, it's a strike no matter where i is." Chesbro and Kleinow, knowing that Hurst never backed down took a chance and threw a high fast ball that was a foot over Delahanty's head.

Delahanty started for first, believing he had been passed, only to hear the raucous "strike three" from Hurst. Then it was Delahanty's turn to rave—and he did.

G.W.V.A. INSTALLED THE NEW OFFICERS

Sympathy Expressed With Policy of St. Catharines Branch.

A meeting of the G.W.V.A. was held in their hall when new officers were installed. Dr. N. H. Sutton presided.

The balance sheet for 1923 was read and adopted.

A resolution expressing sympathy with the attitude ot the St. Catharines branch of the G.W.V.A. in their protest against the Federal policy with reference to the immigration of German settlers into Canada was read, also a strong resolution by the local branch against such a policy.

This was adopted unanimously, and a copy of the resolution will be forwarded to the Prime Minister, the Minister of Immigration, and to G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.

J. V. Conroy, of Toronto, official soldiers' adviser of the Federal Appeal Board, and secretary-treasurer of the Toronto District Command of the G.W.V.A., was present, and gave a short address, which outlined a policy for the bringing together of various soldier organisations to secure equitable legislation for the benefit of returned men.

Mr. Conroy maintained that 95 per cent. of the work that had already been accomplished in this connection had been done by the G.W.V.A. organisations. Other offshoot societies were dying a natural death. The G.W.V.A. was the only stable organisation left.

WANT HIGHWAY COMPLETED

OTTAWA, January 16 (Canadian Press). — In an effort to induce the Minister of Highways, Hon. G. S. Champagne will go to Toronto as the city representatives on a big delegation which will interview the Minister at the end of this month on the question.

FIRE COMMITTEE SHOWED SURPLUS

Fire Department Turned Back Over Thousand Dollars--Retiring Chairman's Report.

Under Alderman Crowes' chairmanship the Fire, Water and Light committee of the City Council last year showed a substantial surplus in its principal spending department, the Fire Brigade. The figures were presented by Alderman Crowe to the City Council as follows:

The total appropriation for the year was $38,471 and the total expenditure $38,174, leaving a surplus of $297. This does not appear very large in view of the fact that in only eight items of expenditure did the committee go over its appropriations, and a saving of $235 was effected on uniform and $780.47 on overcoats. But the committee, finding it was ahead of its requirements, purchased in addition to the articles included in the appropriation a brass sliding pole, a chassis on which a new hose wagon was constructed, a hardwood floor and an economizer for the furnace. In addition the drill yard was cemented and the building remodelled.

The committee turned back in cash, after providing all these extras, $213.77, which with $1,323.86 realized from the sale of gasoline, horses and other sources, amounted to a surplus of $1,537.63.

There are 21 men employed in the Fire Department, and Chief Gimblett is progressing steadily toward a fully modern fire protection system.

Alderman Crowe modestly effaced his own work and reported to the City Council on the good work of his committee and their predecessors in office. The Fire, Water and Light committee last year included Alderman Holloway, Turner, McIntyre, Stocker and Maher.

CANADIAN CLUB GUESTS ARRIVE

Premier King to Be in Select Company at Banquet.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—This city took on quite Dominion sub capital atmosphere today with presence here of His Excellency, Lord Byng, Governor-General, Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada and Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of Progressives in Dominion House about whom centre is considerable speculation owing to his recent conference in Ottawa with Premer. Sir Arthur Currie, president of McGill University will also arrive this afternoon.

Lord Byng and Premier are here to attend "meeting extraordinary" of local Canadian Club. It will be non political dinner with many of the ultra Conservatives of Tory Toronto, at the banquet table with Governor-General, Liberal Premier and Sir Arthur Currie. It is not expected that, under circumstances, Mr. King will make any definite political pronouncement. To the Canadian Press to-day the Premier said that beyond some private appointments his present trip to Toronto was entirely in connection with the Canadian Club dinner. There are however, several appointments to be made by the Dominion Government from Province of Ontario, including seat on Toronto Harbor Commission and Canadian National Railway Board, as well as judgeship or two in the supreme court of Ontario.

The Premier said that any conferences or conversations he might have here with regard to appointments to the cabinet, or reorganization of Government, would be along the line of making a survey of the situation, as he had already stated.

Mr. Crerar had conferences with some of his friends here to-day.

AT THE GRAND.

FINAL REX APPEARANCE

This evening will be the last opportunity for Peterboro theatre-going audiences to see the Rex Stock company is action this season. They are putting on as a final offering one of the best of their repertoire in "The Enemies," a dramatic vehicle that calls for some clever acting. The company give an excellent rendition of the play that has for its theme the reaction of two German Americans, unlike in disposition, towards the Great War.

Last night, there was a good crowd at the Grand. After the regular performance, amateur offerings were staged that were exceptionally good in every instance, and caused the judge, Fred Dempier, a member of the Rex Stock Company, a great deal of difficulty before a final decision was made. Applause greeted very one of the acts, which included numbers by the Hemphill sisters, in Irish and Scotch dances, a song and dance, by E. Leonard, selections by Thurston and Ballard, the cork twins, and a female impersonation by Sherman Preston (Miss Rose Shirley.)

The first prize went to Walter Townsend for piano solo numbers, the second prize to Miss Dorothy Cooney, dancing the sailors' hornpipe.

DANTE AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE TOMORROW

Dante, the noted European magician, who will appear under the management of Thurston, famous American magician, at the Grand Opera House for three days beginning Thursday, January 17, matinee Saturday has been investigating spiritualism and things physic for ten years or more. In common with his eminent sponsor, Mr. Thurston, he has effectively exposed the frauds pereptrated by mediums in all parts of the world, many of them internationally famous. He declares that he has yet to meet one who can give him a convincing demonstration of his or her ability to communicate with his departed relatives and friends.

In an interview yesterday, the noted conjurer said:

"After all we have five senses. It is very easy to suppose—easy and logical—that the various phenomena of nature give off or start thousands of vibration too fine for our sense to register. Perhaps in another hundred years we will develop new senses that will open up new worlds of fact and sensation ot us. What they will be can't begin to imagine. Bearing this premise in mind, it is easy to surmise that there may be—probably is—a whole, seething, physic world about us on all sides. Whether it is inhabited by the spirits of those who have departed this world, or is a great subconscious hinterland I am not prepared to say.

Every human being is more or less, a sensitive plant. Some of us are more sensitive than others, and this great psychic realm does register itself—by impressions and curious intuitions—in our minds. No one is sensitive enough, however, to get this registry with any degree of definiteness as yet. If there is a great wonderful realm—at our elbow, as it were—how can we, without human consciousnesses, conceive, in any adequate way, what it is like .

How can a man, born blind, possibly conceive the wonders of sight? It is futile to be narrow-minded about the future.

AT THE CAPITOL.

CAST OF NOTABLES IN "PLEASURE MAD"

Mary Alden, Huntly Gordon and William Collier, Jr., In New Barker Film

One of the most promising pictures of the year is "Pleasure Mad" the Reginald Barker production, coming to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This is Mr. Barker's third picture for Metro and Louis B. Mayer. The other two were "Hearts Aflame" and "The Eternal Struggle" both of which scored immediate success.

Mary Alden, who was recently featured in "The Eagle's Feather", will again appear in her favorite role of a mother, the kind of a role than won her fame in "The Old Nest." Huntly Gordon, famous for his sterling characterizations in "The Famous Mrs. Fair" and "The Social Code" will play opposite her. Other favorites also exceptionally well cast include William Collier, Jr., Norma Shearer, Winifred Bryson and Frederick Truesdell.

"Pleasure Mad" was adapted from Blanche Upright's novel, "The Valley of Content." Dealing with the fortunes—and misfortunes—of a happy family of moderate means which is split up by the affections and indulgences which follow sudden acquisitions of wealth, this book has proven one of the most popular novels of the last year.

Norbert Brodin, who has done remarkable work behind the camera in many productions, is the cameraman, and the scenario was by A. P. Younger, who wrote the screen versions of "Fair and Warmer," "The Walk-offs" and "The Flirt."

Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law" will be shown for the last time tonight.

AT THE ROYAL.

EXCEPTIONAL VAUDEVILLE FOR LAST HALF OF WEEK AT ROYAL

In accordance with their new policy of high class vaudeville the Royal management have arranged for a dancing trio that have make a name for themselves on the Leow and Pantage circuits. Bandy, Fields and Bandy present fifteen minutes of up-to-date singing and novelty dancing. Myers and Sterling have a comedy act out of the ordinary and Peterboro's own son Danny Simons will be held over for the balance of the week. He will present an entirely new act.

VAUDEVILLE POLICY SUCCESSFUL AT ROYAL

Lovers of real harmony are having a treat at the Royal. "The Village Four" is without doubt the finest act of its kind to appear locally in some time while the comedy end of the program is well looked after by our own Danny Simons, with his clever stories and songs. Davis and Norton also are favorites. This vaudeville bill closes its engagement to-night.

FINE DOMESTIC COMEDY

Is the New Paramount Picture "To the Ladies"

James Cruze and Paramount. Again comes this unbeatable combination to the fore, this time with the production of "To the Ladies," which was accorded a well merited reception at the Royal Theatre where it closes its engagement to-night.

Edward Horton Theodore Roberts Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser, the featured players, are supported by Z. Wall Covington, Arthur Hoyt, Jack Gardner and a host of other prominent screen artists. "To the Ladies" is an adaptation by Walter Woods of the Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman stage play of the same title which had such a sensational run in New York City. By comparison it is far superior work and the more we think of "To the Ladies" as a James Cruze production, the more we are convinced that, when it comes to motion pictures at least we have to hand it "to th. men."

OBITUARY

MRS. HARRIET A. WHITE

The death took place early this morning of Mrs. Harrite A. White, widow of the late Joseph White of Warkworth, at the residence of her son-in-law, H. W. Jones, 473 Bolivar street.

The deceased, who was in her 78th year, had been a resident of Peterboro for the past two years. With her husband, who pre-deceased her forty years ago, she was a pioneer resident of Percy Township, where they were both born and spent their lives. The late Mrs .White was a devout Methodist, a woman of sterling character, and Christian kindly qualities, who left behind her the memory of never saying a harsh word of anyone, and who will be remebered as a good neighbor by many in her old home district.

Survivors of a family of six children ,are three daughters and two sons: Mrs. Frank Wilson of Percy township; Mrs. Edgar Rosevear of Port Hope; Mrs. H. W. Jones of Peterboro; Freeman Withe, of Percy, and Irwin, in the Western States. A third son, Trueman, a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police died in South Africa some years ago, after service in the South African war.

Funeral services wil be held at 473 Bolivar street, at eight o'clock this evening, conducted by the Rev. R. Bamforth of the Mark Street Methodist church

The remains will be taken by train to Hastings to-morrow morning, thence to the Warkworth Cemetery for interment, after services at the Dartford church.

MARY SANDERSON.

The death occurred last evening at 7.15 of the late Mrs. J. J. Glass, in her 80th year. The deceased was a well known resident of Peterborough. She lived here most of her life, but for the last few years she has resided in Cleveland, Ohio.

She leaves to mourn her loss her brother, R. J. Sanderson, of Braidwood avenue, who is the only member of the family who survives.

The funeral will take place on Friday, January 18th, in Cleveland, Ohio, where she will be buried.

WILLIAM CONDON.

The death occurred in Lakefield on Friday evening of an old and highly resepcted citizen, in the person of William Condon, in his 72nd year.

The deceased had been in failing health for the past six months, but was much improved the two weeks previous to his death. He was an active church member of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church in Lakefield. He had a host of friends, and his sudden and unexpected death was a great shock to his family and the community.

Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Irene of the Henry Ford hospital staff, Detroit, and Lillian, a school teacher of Downeyville, also four sons, John, William, Francis and Patrick.

The funeral took place on Monday morning to St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, Lakefield, where solemn High mass was sung by Rev. Father J. J. Garvey, and thence to St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

THE FUTURE OF NORTHERN CAMP

Hon. Charles McCrea Gave a Striking Address to the Members of the Windsor Real Estate Board.

GREAT TREASURE

WINDSOR, January 16 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, speaking at the annual meeting and banquet of the members of the Windsor Real Estate Board at the Prince Edward Hotel last night, painted a glowing picture of the future of Northern Ontario as a mineral producing centre, declaring that it was the "world's greatest treasure box."

The production of precious metals would total $25,000,000 this year, he predicted.

Referring to the nickel industry, the speaker said that 85 per cent. of the world's nickel supply was being taken out in the vicinity of Sudbury. There was an inexhaustible supply of this mineral, and the same could be said of nearly all the precious metals.

In 1911, when mining first began in that section $48,000 worth of gold was taken out. Last year more than $22,000,000 in gold was retrieved from mother earth.

ANCIENT CRAFT BEING REVIVED

By MARIAN HALE.

TENAFLY, N. J., Jan. 16. — Weaving, one of the oldest of feminine crafts, is being revived here as a solution of a modern economic problem—commuting. Miss Winifred Mitchell is its reviver.

"My weaving industry," she tells me, "is the outgrowth of a desire to furnish employment for the girls of Tenafly so they need not commute to New York, which is a tedious, expensive and sometimes unpleasant beginning and closing of a day's work.

"I had studied weaving in three of the best schools of England, and I appreciated keenly the beauty it is possible to create with a hand-loom, that cannot be duplicated by a machine product. So I opened a small studio in my garden with just one pupil.

"The public became interested and we took orders for hand-woven products from a handbag to portieres and curtains. And from that modest beginning the enterprise has grown to a building where a score of the latest improved looms are accommodated and 20 women fill orders coming from England, Australia and all parts of the United States."

When the project was well under way Miss Mitchell visited Algiers, Italy, France, England and Scotland to discover improved methods of weaving. By her persuasion two of the instructors in Queen Alexandra's school at Sandringham came to Tenafly to introduce English textile methods.

Her most serious problem has been that of domestic dyeing. Here again her initiative is demonstrated. After many experiments she installed her own dyeing plant, no larger than a kitchenet in a New York apartment. Here she produces fascinating colors for her silks and wools.

"What pleases me most, though," she concludes, "is that the industry combines art and utility in a way that is of great value to the whole community. Weavers are paid by piecework and many women, who cannot leave home for a whole day and yet need extra money, find right at home a means to add to their comforts."

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, January 16 (United Press). — Overnight developments left the economic situation unchanged and stocks continued the rally in progress at the previous close.

General Electric featured the industrials selling at 200 up 4 points from the low touched on the week's reaction. Steel Common was within fractional distance of the best price on the movement, while further recovery was scored by American and Continental Can, and other industrial leaders.

The rails were quiet. The foreign exchanges opened at higher, and French francs later climbed to $.0461 1-2 up $.0014 1-2.

Sterling weakened after opening higher, and lire also was down.

Stocks gave unmistakable evidence through the first hour of great improvement in the technical position as a result of the consecutive setback earlier in the week.

Brisk rebounds took place in Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker, and other industrial leaders. Continental Can. came back nearly 3 points from yesterday's low of 53 1-2. Evidently the sharp run up to 59 in the previous session had invited a bear attack, which resulted in a 5-point drop in the afternoon dealings.

Insiders were the principal buyers on the way down, and the outcome of the incident was a sizable increase in the short interest.

Pan-Americans failed to rally proportionately to the general list owing to the fact that the Mexican rebels are now in control of Mexican Petroleum pipe lines and the refineries. This means the loss of the principal revenue of the company, and makes the dividend outlook for its parent corporation, Pan-American, more uncertain.

Sterling went lower as the morning wore on the 11.30 quotation being $4.25 3-16 og 5-16.

Francs were again better at $.0462 up $.0015.

Lire was still off.

It is officially reported from South Lorrain that the strike on the 8th level of the Keeley Mines exceeds anything encountered on the 6th and 7th levels. Dimensions are greater and values range from 3,000 to 15,000 ounces per ton.

TEN COMMANDMENTS.

1. Handle the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are pleasures.
2. Don't be afraid of criticism—criticise yourself often.
3. Be glad and rejoice in the other fellow's success—study his methods.
4. Don't be misled by dislikes. Acid ruins the finest fabrics.
5. Be enthusiastic—it is contagious.
6. Do not have the notion that success means simply money ,making.
7. Be fair, and do at least one decent act every day in the year.
8. Honor the Chief. There must be a head to everything.
9. Have confidence, and make yourself it.
10. Harmonize your work. Let sunshine radiate and penetrate.

THE NEILL TROPHY GAMES HERE TODAY

Twenty-Six Rinks Took the Ice This Morning

Peterborough and district curlers got away to a good start this morning in the competition for the Neill trophy, with the largest number of entries in the history of the club. Twenty-six rinks took the ice, from all surrounding towns and villages and from the city club.

The ice was good in the forenoon but towards mid-afternoon it softened considerably and doubt was expressed as to whether there would be curling to-night.

The object of the competition, as stated by the late Robert Neill, in presenting the trophy, is to enourage the smaller towns and bring them into competition with one another.

The results up to 3.30 were:

Preliminary Round.

J. Connal, Peterborough, 7, versus G. B. Boucher, Peterborough, 5.

J .Finlay, Norwood, 4, versus Ira Moore, Peterborough, 9.

J. E. Allen, Millbrook, 14, versus Robert Hicks, Peterborough, 8.

J. Kelly, Hastings, 6, versus W. R. Widdess, Peterborough, 10.

J. Ridpath, Lakefield, 14; versus G. Copping, Peterboro, 3.

J. Steele, Millbrook, 5; versus W. J. Oke, Peterboro, 13.

G. B. Stevenson, Hastings, 10; versus E. L. Bowes, Peterboro, 9.

W. J. Kemp, Norwood, 12; versus S. T. Medd, Peterboro, 8.

J. F. Strickland Lakefield, 9; versus R. F. Downie, Peterboro, 5.

D. H. Charlton, Lakefield, 9; versus J. N. Bacon, Peterboro, 6.

First Round

R. M. Waddell, Peterboro, 12; versus R. Edmunds, Millbrook 3.

A. W. Archibald Peterboro, 11; versus G. Howson, Keene, 5.

W. D. Campbell, Peterboro, 13; versus G. S. Taylor, Keene 7.

On a good sheet of ice last evening the local curlers succeeded in running off 12 games. The closest game of the evening was the one between T. L. Bowes and G. B. Boucher, both having a score of 8 shots. W. R. Widdiss' quartette also won a close game from W. Campbell by one shot. The high rink of the night was J. W. Archibald's who had a score of 20 and from a rink skipped by R. L. Dobbin by 19 shots.

The following is the personnel of the rinks and results.

The St. Catharines "Standard," in its Friday last issue, contains a reference to a local vocal artiste in its report of the rendition in St. Paul's street church were of 'Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah", in which several solos were taken by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park. The report says:

"Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park of Peterborough, more than maintained the great impression made on her former visit to this city. Mrs. Park, in addition to her beautiful voice, has a wonderful personality which is felt in her singing. There was a great breadth and dignity in the interpretation of all her solos."

Other artists taking part in the oratorio were Mrs. Florence Fenton Box of Toronto, Mr. Frank Oldfield, and Mr. Alfred Heather, the eminent British tenor.

The friends of Mr. Bill Williams will be pleased to learn that he is returning home from Toronto after his accident last June.

A party of Scotsmen numbering 16, held a sleigh drive on Saturday afternoon to Lakefield, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McPhail at tea. A very enjoyable evening was spent, with dancing, games and Scotch songs, Mr. R. Gilmour supplying the music for dancing. A feature of the evening was the bottle manipulation by Mr. D. McPhail.

The Misses Mary Medd and Mary Mulholland have returned to Toronto to resume their studies at Bishop Strachan School.

Have Your Eyes Been Examined This Year?
No? Then don't put it off another day. These short, dark days necessitate the greater use of artificial lights. Your Eyes are then put to more strain. Neglect now may mean poor vision in later years. We are always ready to give accurate advice.

STOP that cough before it begins—take SCOTT'S EMULSION

The man who made two blades of grass grow where one grew before had nothing on the chap who made socket do double duty.

—Mr. Electro-serve

'TIS about the handiest little electrical convenience we have in stock. If we could get them in carload lots, we'd be tempted to make the buy. For the curling iron and the lamp as well. For the electric iron with a light also aglow. Electricity is the wizard-worker.
